VAN VALKENBURG'S RESTAURANT.

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price, so much so that you will say to yourself well I did not know before that people could get such dishes for so small a figure and up here in the country. I have found the place to get my lunch from now out. The prices are what catches me.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURG,
Proprietor of the Restaurant.

Butter.

When bread [illegible]
And every [illegible]
The gastric [illegible]
To sing the praises of golden butter.

Not only in the winter morn,
When buckwheat cakes do smoke and splutter.
Nor on autumnal ears of corn
That bathe themselves in golden butter!

But slipping on through history's page,
Where other unctious claims and clutter,
And dipping down from age to age
Behold the stains of golden butter!

When Jason left the shores of Greece,
Commander of the Argo cutter,
He went to find the famous fleece
That Phrixus took from golden butter.

When miners gathered at the dam,
Above the mill of John A. Sutter,
He found his old hydraulic ram
Transformed into golden butter.

And at our great Centennial rout
A western woman deftly cut her
Clear way to fame by carving out
A lovely girl in golden butter.

Let oleo, and other shams
Slide back into their native gutter,
While dairy-maids as high-tide clams,
Are happy in the golden butter.

With biscuit light and tea-pot bright
The storms without may roar and mutter,
But we sit calm at candle-light,
And revel in the golden butter.

In peaceful days or days of strife,
When bane or bliss is too, too utter,
We'll grease the jarring wheels of life
With pretty pats of golden butter.

In days of rain or days of drouth,
With flowing style or futile stutter,
While melts it not within our mouth,
We'll sing the praise of golden butter.

Rotation.

The famous system of rotation, now extended quite generally throughout England and Scotland, with occasional modifications is as follows: The first year, clover and mixed grass seed; the second year wheat; the third year turnips or rutabagas; the fourth year, barley; and then the same course again. An innovation on this is to add another grain crop, oats, to the shift, making a five years' course; and so efficient has this course been that it has been calculated that the grain crops have increased one-fourth.

California Climate.

Roses bloom in Sacramento at Christmas. In March, ninety-six miles above it, messengers on snow shoes carry the mail across Summit Valley over the tops of the telegraph poles, and in two-story houses the windows are shut tight by snow and they burn lights up-stairs and down night and day for two weeks. When this great body of snow melts and the short rivers, varying from 70 to 200 miles, are overfilled, there are great freshets. Yet perhaps 100 miles the other way a drouth will be prevailing. In Sacramento the themometer stands in July at 95 degs. In San Francisco, 70 miles away, ladies will be out in their seal-skins, and the fuchsias and passion flowers and camelias will swing and thrash in a wind that seems to come from Alaska.

DRUGGIST'S TESTIMONY.

H. F. McCarthy, druggist, Ottawa, Ont., states that he was afflicted with chronic bronchitis for some years, and was completely cured by the use of Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

More Vigilance Required.

The President of the third national bank of St Louis declares that no safeguards can be devised that will prevent a bank cashier or teller from stealing, if he chooses to do it. He is convinced of this by the defalcation of Obey Owen, his own receiving teller, who was a steady thief for ten years, and was only found out when the aggregate of his robberies reached about $150,000. Owen's method was to enter deposits properly in the depositor's books, make out the ticket by which the bank ought to have checked his cash, and then put both ticket and money in his pocket. Thus the only evidence that the money had been paid was the depositor's book. When the depositor's account began to run low, Owen would correct it by depleting some other one. All this required a great deal of vigilance and skill, for the directors were in the habit of making close and unexpected examinations, and it was one of these that finally caught the teller.

One voice all over the land goes up from mothers, that says. "My daughters are so feeble and sad, with no strength, all out of breath and life at the least exertion. What can we do for them?" The answer is simple and full of hope. One to four weeks' use of Hop Bitters will make them healthy, rosy, sprightly and cheerful. 7w4

A Loving Wife's Terrible Death.

The most distressing death of the Monticello (Miss.) cyclone was that of Mrs. Carroll, because of the manner in which it was brought about. Hearing the storm approaching, Mrs. Carroll, with her baby in her arms, rushed to her husband, Dr. Carroll, who threw his arms about her neck. At the same moment the wind blew the timbers of the house down upon them and crushed them to the floor, the mother with the infant in her arms, the husband with his arm around his wife's neck, and there he choked her to death. The falling timbers did not seem to hurt her, but locked the doctor's arm so closely about her neck that he could not move it. He was conscious that he was killing her, but all his efforts to throw off the timbers were futile. Assistance came in two hours—too late! The spirit of his beautiful and loving wife had taken its flight—she was in death's cold embrace, and the husband felt that he was in a measure the cause of her death. For days he was almost a raving maniac. The babe was also killed.

Disease is [illegible] within: its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. President Arthur's Wife.

Mrs. Arthur's room in her beautiful New York mansion, in which she died, has never been disturbed; her needle is still threaded and sticking in a bit of delicate embroidery in her work-basket undisturbed; nor will the husband allow any one to change the room in its furniture arrangements. There is the little rocker beside the standard work-basket, and the little neglige crocheted slippers. There stands her desk, with the ink dried on her pearl-handled pen, which she had hastily put aside from some interruption, never to use again on earth. Her favored books are placed in a tiny case; with a marker in one of them just as she left it. On the table are placed each morning, by orders from the president, a bunch of her favorite flowers. Even her favorite perfumes are in the toilet bottles at her dressing case, and in the wardrobe hang her dresses. This room is bright and sunny, her former maid keeping it neat and arranging the flowers in the vases, and attending the canaries in the window, but never altering the place of the furniture, etc. This room is a room where the president takes much comfort in reading and meditation, and they who know say that the bit of needlework has been many times wet with tears by the husband.

For the Ladies.

Striped grenadines are always in style.

The use of velvet with grenadines is a present fancy.

The hunting jacket is the favorite design for traveling.

Large hats for summer are in the shape brought out in early spring, and are usually trimmed with plumes.

Pale Nile green tinted, lavender shaded and salmon colored grenadines, once so popular are revived again.

For handsome afternoon toilets and dress occasions at watering places light-colored grenadines are again in favor.

In regard to the trimming of the foot of dress skirts the Bazaar says the simplest borders are considered the most stylish.

The latest importations of flowers include the flower horse-shoes worn as bonnets with and without crown piece.

It is said that the reign of embroidery has only just begun, and that it will be used next winter in great profusion for trimming woolen dresses.

A pretty style of dress adornment is given in clusters of tucks, sleeves and waists; lengthwise tucks are used.

Crape is largely used in the trimmings for the newest hats. The leading colors are copper, terra cotta, cadet blue, a new orange brown, moss green and the pale, dull tints of pink, blue and yellow.

The most elegant black grenadine dresses are made of the plain sewing silk grenadine without figures, and are nearly covered with flounces of real lace, either of the silk Spanish lace, or else black thread lace.

The soft silk shades that have yellow in them, such as shrimp and salmon, are among the most elegant colors used in millinery, and are noticeable in every richly dressed assembly as forming the trimming of black, white and ecru bonnets.

The first Suit.

James Berry Bensel.

A little old pair of pants, good lack!
Embroidered red in running vines;
With buttons of brass both front and back;
To match the trousers a tiny sack,
All buttons and fancy lines.

A little white shirt with tucks and lace
That went with the trousers too—
I laughed till the tears ran down my face
To think of me in so small a space,
And how like a gourd I grew.

It is nearly twenty years ago
That I wore this baby suit,
So long that to-day I do not know
If pride in my childish face did show
As I touched the silk-worked fruit.

Nearly—ah me! all of twenty years!
And it makes me feel so sad,
That truly my eyes are filled with tears
At thought of trials and hopes and fears
Which came to that little lad.

Poor little fellow I wish that he Might have known what he knows to-day!
But, dear little boy, he couldn't see
That ever a cloud on high might be—
Perhaps 'twas the better way.

For none could tell if the years to come
Would saddened or joyful be,
Nor whether his weary feet would roam
From the good and true he learned at home,
And so it seems good to me.

For the boy of him died out one day,
A man grew up in the place,
A very good man I dare not say,
The boy was better—so fold away
The clothes with their ruffled lace.

At thought of the trials and hopes and fears
Oh, I feel, indeed, full sad,
And truly my eyes are filled with tears,
When I think a score of thrifty years
Is gone with the little lad.

SEVERED ACHING LIMBS.

Persons who claim to suffer from Positions of buried Members.

The feet of Josiah West, who met with a terrible accident on the railroad a few days ago, were the other day taken by his wife to Fremont N. H., for burial. When the unfortunate man regained consciousness at the hospital the morning following the loss of his limbs he complained that his toes pained him a great deal, that they seemed badly cramped and he requested that some one move them for him. At that time the feet were tied in a bag and the hospital people did not know where they were to be found. It seems simply incredible that the position or condition of a severed member of a person's body should effect in the least the sensibilities of the owner; but suffice it to say that the undertaker with whom the writer conversed affirms that he personally knows of numerous cases where persons who have lost a limb declare that they felt pain from an awkward position which the member was in.

He cited an instance of a man who lost an arm in this city last fall. After being amputated, it was sent to the undertaker's for burial. It was placed in a box, the back of the hand being down, remaining in this position for several hours. The owner of the severed member, during that time, experienced a pain in the arm, which grew so unbearable that at last he asked a friend to go to the undertaker's and see about the limb. This was at 5:45 in the afternoon. The friend was busy and did not start off for half an hour, and during that time the pain had ceased, and the wounded man said he need not go. He went, however, and found that the undertaker had just finished caring for the arm; that it had been placed in an easy and natural position in the box. The time when the arm was changed from the awkward position to the latter coincided exactly with the time when the owner had felt the pain leave him. When the friend reported to the unfortunate man, he (the latter) said he knew just how the arm was placed, that he could feel its position and correctly describe the same.

Another case cited by the undertaker was about a man who lost an arm above the elbow. The member was given to the undertaker and buried. The man subsequently went to Lawrence to live. About a year after the accident he paid the undertaker a visit and told him his arm for a long time had pained him a great deal, that the fingers seemed cramped and that he wanted to see the buried member. Accordingly it was dug up and examined, and so strange to say, found to have the fingers tightly turned up towards the palm, as the man said they felt to him. The fingers were straightened and the arm consigned again to the ground, and no more trouble was experienced from it.

A MINISTERIAL STATEMENT.

Rev. C. A. Harvey, D. D., is the popular financial secretary of Howard university, and is specially fitted to judge of merit and demerit. In a recent letter from Washington to a friend he said: "I have for two years past been acquainted with the remedy known as Warner's Safe Kidney & Liver Cure, and with its remarkable curative efficiency in obstinate and so called incurable cases of Bright's disease in this city. In some of these cases which seemed to be in the last stages and which had been given up by practitioners of both schools, the speedy change wrought by this remedy seems a little less than miraculous. I am convinced that for Bright's disease in all its stages, including the first symptoms, which seem so slight but are [illegible]

COMMENCEMENT DAYS.

A Fultonian at Williams College.

WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS., July 5th.
Editor Fulton Times:

The wet weather detracted from the ordinary enjoyment of Williamstown weather and verdure. Yet everything was attractive inside and quite pleasant by times outside. The college is in a prosperous condition. This being president Carter's first year, he presented Saturday morning, a report of the condition of the college, financially, and otherwise. In the past year $55,000 has been given to the college; $51,000 paid and $4,000 pledged, to establish the new Garfield Memorial professorship fund, besides a gift of a $100,000 dormitory from ex-governor Morgan of New York. The treasurer's report showed the total receipts of the year to be $145,550.50, disbursements $129,210.95. The total college securities amount to $985,527.60, Specially appropriated funds to $944,125.64. Competition for the graves prize Saturday evening Sunday morning Rev. Dr. E. D. Coe of New York delivered an eloquent discourse before the Mills Young Men's Christian association on common sense in religion. In the afternoon the baccalaureate was delivered by Pres. Carter. This was a scholarly and highly finished discourse and after the sermon a prayer meeting was held at Mission Park conducted by Rev. Dr. Prime of New York in the absence of Dr. Hopkins who was at the bedside of his dying daughter. In opening the prayer meeting Dr. Prime referred to Dr. Hopkins, who had conducted these prayer meetings for years. Other speakers were Rev. Pixley, an African missionary, Rev. Stockings, a Persian missionary, both Williams' alumni, and Rev. Peakes, of Chicago, who, although not, technically, he said, a foreign missionary he was in reality a missionary as he labored in a city with 30,000 christians and 600,000 people. In the evening the alumni prayer meeting was held in the college chapel conducted by Prof Perry. The trustees have voted to give the professorship of ancient languages to Prof. Hewitt of Chicago who has been studying abroad and is a graduate of Yale. This professorship is a new one made to meet the increased demand for classical teaching and will be endowed with the Garfield fund.

Monday was practically an intermission day in the commencement exercises. The college orchestra gave a concert. In the evening Hon. A. D. White, president of Cornell University, spoke on "Lessons in Medieval Art."

On Tuesday the Alumni meeting in the college chapel was very interesting and had a large audience. J. M. Barker of Pittsfield was elected to take President Garfield's place on the board or trustees and about $3000 additional was subscribed to the Garfield professorship fund on the spot. A memorial window has been placed in the college chapel in memory of James Abram Garfield by Cyrus W. Field, said to have cost $5000. It is beautiful indeed. About the last thing in the alumni meeting was the presentation of this window. I thought of the song that N. H. Gilbert, your worthy P. M. sometimes sings: "'Tis sweet to be remembered." At twelve o'clock Dr. Hopkins' Garfield memorial address was read by Dr. Prime of New York. The illness of Dr. Hopkins' daughter prevented his delivery of the discourse. The class day exercises were quite interesting. I. J. Geer delivered the oration and E. G. Benedict of New York read the poem. M. J. Nelligan of South Lee delivered the ivy oration, as the ivy was planted by the front of the Memorial Hall. The prize rhetorical speaking came off Tuesday evening. On Wednesday the college conferred the degree of L. L. D. on Prof. William Porter of Beloit college and Eugene Schuyler, American minister to Austria. Wednesday eve. commencement exercises were held, degrees conferred and prizes announced. The valedictorian is F. F. Gunn of Fort Edward, N. Y. and the salutatorian is Thos. S. Fagan of Troy, N. Y. Fifteen graduates delivered orations and five dissertations. The senior class statistics show that the original number was sixty-two, of whom fifty-four have remained through the course. Of the present number 44 39 receive diplomas. In athletics they have taken 2[illegible] prizes in all; two being won [illegible] at Harvard. In scholarship twenty-six prizes have been secured. The new electives chosen by them are English literature, 33; German, 13; French, 8; chemistry, 8; Greek, 10; Latin, 3; national history, 15; astronomy, 3; calculus, [illegible]. There are nineteen smokers, most preferring cigarettes; thirty are card players. The religious preferences of the class are as follows: congregationalists, 21; presbyterians, 8; baptists, 4; episcopalians, 4; Roman catholics, 2; methodist, 1; 29 are republicans, 4 are independent republicans and two democrats. Twenty-two are members of the Y. M. C. A.; thirty-six of debating societies and twenty-three belong to secret societies. The average age of the class is [illegible] years 5 mos. and 8 days. Sixteen are from Mass., thirteen from New York, four from Vermont, three from Ohio, two from Illinois and one each from Indiana, Connecticut, Iowa, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Eleven have chosen the law; eight, business; six, the ministry; three, teaching; two, medicine; one, science and one manufacturing. W.

THE "PRACTICAL" DIFFERENCE BETWEEN POETRY AND PHILOSOPHY.

It sounds very poetic to say "man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn" but why not apply the principle to the more practical side of the subject, and render the question thus: "Swayne's Ointment on account of stopping the itching caused by the Piles has made countless thousands well and happy." There would be sound logic in this poets are never cheerful, are they? 7w4

For The Ladies.

Trained dresses are worn only for full dress.

The hair continues to be worn low in the neck.

Wings are no longer in favor for trimming hats.

The leading dress bonnet for this summer is white.

Children's hats have wide brims rolled up a trifle all round.

Velvet pansies in clusters are much in use for bonnet trimming.

Lilacs are much in favor in Paris, and are used for entire bonnets.

A fancy for mid-summer pokes is to dispense with strings altogether.

Wreaths of roses without foliage are pretty for young ladies' round hats.

The English poke is much in favor with those who prefer pokes to round hats.

Colored silver breastpins are fashionable for traveling and morning toilets.

Black hose are in great demand, as well as those of dark green and nun's gray.

Breast feathers with the head attached are stylish for trimming straw and velvet turbans.

Carnation flowers of the fashionable salmon shades are used on black and white bonnets.

Large round hats with straight brims are preferred to pokes for shade hats in the country.

The pleated dress of turkey red calico is a favorite for children's country and seaside wear.

Demi-long plumes and short thick tips are very useful for the present styles of trimming.

Some of the daintiest and lightest of straw hats have the crowns entirely covered with velvet.

Ostrich plumes are very full—that is they are doubled and tripled in order to make them very full.

Crinkled silk China crape and white silk muslin are favorite scraps for fine straw hats and small bonnets.

[Rome Sentinel.

E. Asenith Hall of Binghamton, N. Y. writes: "I suffered for several months with a dull pain through left lung and shoulders. I lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up all day. My mother procured some Burdock Blood Bitters; I took them as directed, and have felt no pain since first week after using them and am now quite well."

Old-Time Church-Sleeping.

It is no more than two hundred years ago that the Rev. Mr. Samuel Whitting was minister in Lynn, Mass. At that time one Obadiah Turner kept a journal and wrote therein as follows: "Allen Brydges hath been chose to wake up ye sleepers in meeting, and being much proud of his place must need have a fox tail fixed to ye end of a long staff wherewith he may brush the faces of them who will have their naps in time of sermon; likewise a sharp thorn therewith he may prick such as may be most sound. On ye last Lord his day as he trotted about ye meeting house, he did spy Mr. Tomlins sleeping with very much comfort, his head kept steady by being in ye corner and his hand grasping ye rail. And soe spying, Allen did quickly thrust his staff behind Dame Bolland and give him a grevious prick on the hand; whereupon Mr. Tomlins did spring up much above ye floor, and with great force strike his head upon ye wall, and also to the surprise of all, prophanlie exclaim in a loud voice: 'Cuss ye woodchuck!' he dreaming, as it seemed, that a woodchuck had bit his hand. On coming to know where he was, and ye great scandal he had committed, he seemed much abashed, but did not speak; and I think he did not againe go to sleep in meeting. Ye women may sometimes sleep and none know it by reason of their enormous bonnets. Mr. Whitting doth pleasantlie say that from the pulpit he doth seem to be preaching to stacks of straw with men jolting here and there among them."

Preaching to Invisible Audiences.

Eight clergymen preached simultaneously in the Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia last Sunday to invisible audiences. The prison is conducted on the principle of solitary confinement. Each prisoner has his own solitary cell. These cells open on eight corriders, radiating from an octagonal centre. The preachers stood at the outer end of the corridors, and could be heard by the occupants of the cells in their several sections. A group of officers and reporters in the middle of the prison experienced the novel sensation of listening to eight sermons at once.

"How do you manage," said a lady to her friend, "to appear so happy all the time?" "I always have Parker's Ginger Tonic handy," was the reply, "and thus keep myself and family in good health and spirits. See Adv.

IN the senate Saturday Messrs. Plumb and Logan opposed Mr. Beck's amendment to the pension bill requiring the publication in the county papers of the names of persons drawing pensions therein and it was defeated. The result will cost the country $10,000,000 this year, as such publication would prevent in a large measure the fraudulent claims of many who are drawing pensions.

THE doctors have had a spirited battle over Guiteau's brain; but that was about points of professional etiquette and precedence, concerning which physicians seem to be quite as particular as the lords and ladies of a titled aristocracy. They agree that the brain exhibits no such abnormal features as would indicate that the man was insane. But the public are not yet to be relieved from the discussion on the subject, as the assassin's cerebral remains have yet to undergo a microscopic examination.

IT is somewhat bewildering to the mind of a worldly pleasure seeker to find where the churches draw the line between legitimate and illegitimate amusements when the newspapers tell that the proceeds of the gate-money and the purses of the Brighton Beach races of June 26 will be donated to a church on the island, and an account of a church festival in Iowa is given where the ladies of the congregation were enshrouded in sheets, and sold to the highest bidder, who when he received his goods was expected to furnish her with ice cream and strawberries. This is novel; and yet the thought will intrude that the amount of real, living Christianity in a church that will resort to such methods of raising money must be small indeed.

[Christian Union.

FROM a memorandum recently compiled by the commissioner of pensions it appears that the actual amount paid for pensions on account of the late war to March 1st 1882 is $500,781,950. It is estimated that there are now on the roll the names of 250,000 pensioners of the late war. This does not include 30,000 (estimated) service pensions on account of the war of 1812. Estimating the disbursements for May and June, the total paid for pensions during the current fiscal year will not vary much from $65,000,000. On April 1, 1882, there were on file 217,162 pending claims, which, if allowed, would be entitled to arrears estimated at $214,990,900. There are 53,169 pending claims which were filed subsequent to the limitation imposed by the Arrears Act. If the two classes just referred to should be at once added to the roll, it would increase the annual value of pensions $24,000,500, which added to the present annual value, would make $54,800,000.

The camp meeting of the Clyde and Syracuse districts of the Free Methodist church will be held in Southwick's grove, near Wolcott, commencing the 16th of August and continuing one week.

Sandy Creek butchers are cutting prices, according to the News, and steak has fallen from 18 to 12 cents. Fulton butchers find no time to cut prices, they are hunting for a favorable spot on a Volney steer to cut "fine western beef" from.

Ryan & Robinson's circus struck hard luck at Hamilton, Ont. Some of the performers left and joined Coup's circus, a man named Heuston killed a driver and escaped, and the clown, Pete Conklin, left for another circus. Before this time the show has probably ceased to exist.

The total number of quarts of berries shipped this season, including Fulton, was 572,868, and at a fair estimate these berries have brought into Oswego county at least $50,000. Taken altogether the season of 1882 has been a successful one, and the growers have but little reason to complain. [Oswego Express.

The present appearance of the apple crop in in this vicinity indicates a failure. The trees are infested with lice that seem to destroy the leaves of the tree and the fruit withers up and falls to the ground. The farmers are somewhat alarmed as to the effect the lice may produce upon the life of the trees.

Lewis H. Redfield of Syracuse, the oldest printer of New York state and probably in the United States died at his home Wednesday, aged 90 years. He was buried in Oakwood cemetery Syracuse where he caused to be erected years ago a monument on which was iscribed: "Lewis H. Redfield, printer. A worn form gone to be recast more beautiful and perfect. Born, November 26, 1793, died ——."

The Syracuse Journal says: One of the most enjoyable picnic excursions ever held in the vicinity of Syracuse was that of the Centenary M. E. church and Sunday school to Lake Como. The grounds are by far the pleasantest in this section of country for assemblages of this kind, and being in charge of the genial superintendent, Mr. D. H. Gilbert of Oswego Falls, nothing is lacking for the comfort and happiness of all.

Clarence Keller of Central Square, Oswego county, astounded the sportsmen at the pigeon shoot in Syracuse. He never before shot at birds from a trap, but Wednesday he killed 10 straight birds at single rises. In shooting off the ties Keller killed five straight birds. He also killed five straight on the next shoot off, and on the next killed four, but was beaten one bird by Elliot of Syracuse. This is considered wonderful shooting for a boy.

Thursday morning Pulaski suffered another loss by fire. C. C. Wood had his store in a temporary building pending the erection of a new store, he being burned out in the big fire last fall. His stock was dry goods and was quickly consumed. Mrs. E. D. Forman's millinery store was also consumed, but goods saved. Wood's loss was $8,300 on stock and $3,000 on building, partially insured. The fire was supposed to have been of incendiary origin. Thieve carried goods from the burning building one or two of which were apprehended.

In locking up the prisoners at Auburn Saturday evening two twenty year men were found to be missing. They were found Sunday noon secreted under the floor of the pattern shop. During the search in the sewers a chest of tools was found comprising a jimmy, hatchet, saws, hammer, cold-chisels and "jack." A seven-barreled revolver and a dark lantern were also found. How they were smuggled into the prison is a profound mystery. It is thought other convicts were engaged in a daring plot at wholesale escape, which has thus been frustrated.

About ten o'clock Sunday night Mrs. J. H. Jewell, of Syracuse, just before retiring took a lighted lamp and entered the pantry to get a drink of tea. While lifting the tea pot the cover fell upon the lamp and broke it. The oil took fire and covered her from head to foot and in a moment was wrapped in flames. Rushing into an adjoining room she aroused the rest of the family by her screams. Her sister-in-law endeavored unsuccessfully to smother the flames with a quilt. The attention of two passers by was also attracted by her cries. They reached the house just as the last garment was burned from her. Her body was blackened and burned to a crisp. She lingered till seven o'clock yesterday morning when death came to her relief.

Nothing succeeds like success. Gauged by this rule, Cobb's Little Podophylin Pill is wonderfully successful, for its sales this year have been enormous. The country is "pilled" full of them. Only 25 cents per bottle. For sale by R. E. Phillips.

The War in Egypt.

One week ago to-day the bombardment of Alexandria was commenced with vigor by the British with very feeble response from the Arabi's troops. At noon a flag of truce was hoisted by the Egyptians, which proved to be but a ruse to enable them to leave the city.

On Thursday morning it was found that Arabi Bey with his troops had withdrawn from the city, leaving it to be burned and sacked by the mob of infuriated Arabs and criminals. A general massacre of the Europeans and Christians remaining in the city then took place. About one hundred persons escaped from the massacre and made their way to the water's edge and were received by the British.

The city was burned, pillaged and nearly obliterated from the face of the earth. The British troops landed and restored order. The Khedive entered the city but later embarked upon one of the British vesels.

Arabi is now safely intrenched near the city, engaged in throwing up breastworks and acting in a defiant manner. A battle between Aribi's forces and the British is imminent.

The people of Egypt appear to be preparing for a great war. All strong men are leaving their families, and old men, children and women are moving toward the borders. The Arabs are flocking to the ranks as fighters and great numbers have joined Arabi's forces at Damietta. At Damietta the forces of Arabi seem to be well disciplined and provided for fighting; troops are regularly marshaled and may be seen drilling frequently. Strong earthworks are being erected and great preparations are being made for a military movement of some kind. It is believed the movement will be offensive.

Increased Cost of Living.

The New York Public has an article showing the advance in prices during the past year. Comparing the prices in the middle of June last year and this, it appears that the advance in grain has been more than one-fifth; in meats, nearly one-third; in dairy products, more than one-half; in sugar the advance has been rather more than twenty-five per cent.; $74.31 being required, June 13, 1882, to purchase the goods that could have been purchased June 14, '81, for $59.70. Since November, 1878, the advance in grain has been more than one-half, in meats, nearly one-half; in dairy products, a little less; in sugar a very small advance. Altogether, the advance in the price of food has been fifty per cent. What in November, 1878 cost $49.54 now costs $74.33. Prices of clothing, metals and lumber have also advanced, but in smaller percentages. Aggregating all these classes of articles, it is shown that what now costs $144.53 cost only $108.76 in November, 1879. Prices at that time were much lower than they were before the war. No material increase in wages over the price paid in 1879 is announced.

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, July 17.—Cheese to-day has given the most satisfactory reports of the season, both as to price and amount of transactions. The only question, among salesmen as well as buyers, is whether it has not been a little overdone. That does not seem likely, however, as the situation was intrinsically strong. The receipts of cheese this year in New York, as compared with last, are very moderate, and the demand is a healthy one. So long as this state of things continues, there will be no reason to look for any serious decline. The stock of early cheese that went into market was so small, that it was thoroughly cleaned up from week to week, and none of it was left to glut the market. The cheese now going forward is probably as good as any to store away for next winter, and the cheese being made at the present time is said by good judges to be equally fine. Everything conspires therefore to make a sound and healthy summer market, and the indications are that it will continue so.

Transactions for to day are as follows: 517 boxes, 2 lots, at 10⅝c; 20 lots, 2,039 boxes at 10¾c; 32 lots, 3836 boxes at 10⅞c; 10 lots, 1,558 boxes at 11c; 3 lots, 560 boxes at 11⅛c; and 237 boxes at private terms.

Sales 8746 boxes; consignments, 2834 boxes; total 11,580 boxes. Ruling price, 10⅞c. One year ago the transactions were 10,031 boxes with a leading price of 10¾c. Two years ago the price was 9¾c, and three years ago it was 6c.

LITTLE FALLS, July, 17—We have had a bounding market to day, prices springing upward till they finally showed an advance of nearly one cent a pound over last week's figures. It is not necessary to say this was not anticipated, and it is a question upon which there is a wide difference of opinion whether these figures can be maintained. The top price was regarded as 11c, till late, when sales began to be made at 11¼c. and one followed another until we found fifteen lots at this figure. As shipments are now going forward take about the flush of the season, dairymen have reason to feel in very good spirits over the prices now paid. Since the erection of a new cheese freight house it is more difficult than ever to locate the Little Falls cheese market. Following are the transactions of the day:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
1	57	10 cents
6	329	10½ "
17	913	10¾ "
99	7374	11 "

AT FULTON.

Twenty factories were represented Monday evening with 2068 boxes, which sold at from 10½ to 10⅝c., one factory reaching 10¾c. The price a year ago was 10¼c.; two years ago, 9¾c.; three years ago 6¼c.; four years ago 7¾c.

THE IMPENDING FATE.

An Interesting Chapter from the Life of a Prominent Bostonian.

(Boston Globe.)

The readers of this paper were more or less amazed at a most remarkable statement from one of our leading citizens which appeared in yesterday's issue. So unusual were the circumstances connected with it, and so much comment did it occasion on the street and in social circles, that a representative of this paper was commissioned to investigate its details and verify facts. The article referred to was a statement made by Mr. B. F. Larrabee, of the New York and Boston Dispatch Express company, whose office is on Arch street. Mr. Larrabee was found by the newspaper man in his private office, and on being questioned said:

"Well, sir, logically, I have been dead, but really I am as you can see me. A little over a year ago I was taken sick. My trouble was not severe at first and I thought it was the result of a severe cold. Somehow I felt unaccountably tired at times although I took an abundance of sleep. Then, again, I had dull and strange pains in various parts of the body. My appetite was good one day and I had none the next and my head pained me more or less much of the time. A while afterwards I noticed much that was peculiar about the fluids that I was passing, and that a sediment, scum and a strange accumulation appeared in it. Still I did not realize that these things meant anything serious and I allowed the illness to run along until the 28th day of October I fell prostrate while walking along Fremont street. I was carried home and did not go out of the house until the middle of December. I then went down town and attempted to attend to my business until the 13th of last January; when I was taken with a very severe relapse. My symptoms were terrible. I was fearfully bloated; I suffered severe pains in all parts of my body and it was almost impossible to get my breath. For six days I never laid down and never slept. I was constantly attended by my regular physicians. Dr. Johnson and Dr. Bowditch also came to see me nearly every day. There was no doubt that I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys in its worst form and last stages, accompanied by other diseases of the heart and liver. In spite, however, of the skill of the physicians I kept steadily growing worse and finally they tapped my side in the vicinity of the heart, taking away forty-six ounces of water. This relieved me for the time, but I soon became as bad as before. Then the doctor gave me up entirely, declared I could not live more than twenty-four hours and my daughter who was residing at Paris, was telegraphed for. Still I lingered along for several day, far more dead than alive, but never giving up hope. One night—it was on the 20th of April, I very well remember—my attendant, who was reading the paper to me, began an article which described my disease and sufferings exactly. It told how some severe cases of Bright's disease had been cured, and so clearly and sensibly did it state the case, that I determined to obtain the means of cure which it described. So I sent my man to the drug store, procured a bottle of the medicine, unknown to my physicians and friends, and took the first dose at 10 o'clock. At that time I was suffering intensely. I could not sleep; I had the short breaths and could scarcely get any air into my lungs. I was terribly bloated from head to foot, and the motion of my heart was irregular and painful. The next morning I was able to breeth freely; the pain began to leave me and the bloating decreased. I continued to take the medicine and today, sir, I am as well as I ever was in my life, and wholly owing to the wonderful, almost miraculous power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I do not know what this medicine is made of, or anything else about it, but I know it saved my life when I was given up by the doctors and had really been dead for weeks; that it has kept me in perfect health ever since and has cured many of my friends to whom I have recommended it. There are a number of very remarkable cases in Lynn and Salem, as well as in this city, that it has cured. My recovery is so remarkable that it has excited much attention, and physicians as well as others have investigated it thoroughly. I am glad they have, for I feel the results of so wonderful a cure should be known to the thousands in all parts of the land who are suffering from troubles of the kidneys, liver or heart, in some of their many dangerous forms.

The representative of the press thanked Mr. Larrabee for his very frank and clear statement, and was about to leave the office when a gentleman stepped up to him and inquired if he were seeking information about Mr. Lararabee's sickness and recovery. The scribe replied that he was, whereupon the gentleman said:

"And so am I, and I have come all the way from Chicago for that very purpose. Kidney troubles seem to be [illegible]ingly increasing all over the country, and I have a very near relative who was afflicted as much as Mr. Larrabee was. I have been to see the physicians of whom Mr. Larrabee speaks, and I tell you, sir, it is simply wonderful."

"What did they say asked the man of news."

"Say! why, sir, they fully confirm everything Mr. Larrabee has stated. I went to see Dr. D. A. Johnson, at 20 Worschester street. He was absent when I called, and so I stepped into the Commonwealth hotel, where Mr. Larrabee was living at the time of his sickness. Messrs. Brugh & Carter are the proprietors, and I asked them about Mr. Larrabee's case. Mr. Brugh pointed to the electric annunciator and said, why, for weeks and weeks every time the bell rang I said: That means the death of Mr. Larrabee. No one around the hotel ever dreamed that he would recover and when the doctors would come down from his room they would shake their heads and say there was no hope. The arrangements for the funeral were made and his recovery was simply a miracle.

I then called on Dr. Johnson who said that Mr. Larrabee's case was a very remarkable one. He was his family physician and expected his death every hour for a number of weeks and never called to see him during the time, but he was prepared for it. The doctor said the recovery was due to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and if he had friends, male or female, troubled with albumen or any other kidney troubles he should certainly advise them to use this remedy. Dr Johnson said kidney difficulties are more common than most people think and that many symptoms which are supposed to be other diseases arise from the kidneys. He said that ladies [illegible] are especially subject to [illegible] troubles which require [illegible]

Well, I then came down and called on Dr H. Ingersoll Bowditch on Boylston street. The old doctor was inclined to be reticent but fully confirmed all I had previously learned. He had attended Mr Larrabee and supposed him beyond all hope, and he was afterwards restored as he said by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

I next went to see Dr Melville E. Webb, at the hotel Cluny, for you see I was determined to be thorough in the matter. I found Dr Webb a most clear headed and well-informed gentleman, and he said:

"I know of Mr Larrabee's case from having thoroughly investigated it as a medical director of a life insurance company, and it was one of the most remarkable cases I have ever met. Mr Larrabee had all the manifestations of a complication of diseases, and in their [illegible] with his head upon a hassock, struggled for breath. It was the night when he was so bad and when all his medical advisors had long given him up that he began using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The next morning at 10 o'clock he was able to breath freely and has been ever since. I subjected him to the most thorough examination possible, after his recovery, and I can't find out about him. His kidneys, liver, lungs, and heart are perfectly well and sound. I can only add that, from what I have seen, I would unhesitatingly recommend this remedy."

The conclusion from the statements above made which come to the newspaper man as well as the general public, must be two-fold. First that a modern miracle of healing has been performed in our midst, and that, too, by the simplest means and one which is within the reach of every one. It should be remembered that Bright's disease is not usually a sudden complaint. Its beginnings are slight and its growth slow. The symptoms by which it may be detected are different in different persons, no two people usually having the same. This fact was manifested in the case of Mr Larrabee, as he had no idea of the terrible complaint which had attacked him until it became fixed upon him. Secondly, testimonials of such high character and so outspoken in tone, conclusively prove the value of the remedy and its superiornature to the proprietary articles with which the public have been flooded. "The greater includes the less," and the remedy which has been proven so valuable and has saved a life after it has been brought down to death's door, must unquestionably be certain in all minor troubles which are so disastrous unless taken in time.

The New Road to Phoenix.

The Syracuse Standard says it is proposed to push the construction of the Syracuse & Phœnix railroad with all possible speed. Ample material has been secured and a large force of men are busy preparing for the rails the line of road leading out of the city. Yesterday two gentlemen from New York city prominently identified with the enterprise took a carriage and drove over almost the entire line of the road, on a tour of inspection. Returning to the city last evening, both gentlemen expressed themselves as highly gratified with the proposed route.

A New Organ.

Another grand success has been scored by the methodist congregation at Gilbert's Mills in the recent purchase from Prof. F. Kenyon Jones of New York city, who is visiting in Fulton at his father's, of a magnificent chapel organ, manufactured by James Clough, Esq., formerly of Fulton, and now a wealthy resident of Detroit, Mich. Uncle Harvey Carrier of Gilberts Mills, who presented the organ to the congregation together with Mr. Parker of the same place, waited for Prof. Jones to buy 'it for him. The grand old man said that "he wasn't agoing to have any one get that organ but Fred Jones, as he knew Fred could not only select a superior instrument but he always told the truth."

Those who wish to attend and will leave their names with Messrs N. H. Gilbert, Jefferson Bailey or William Hetherington will be entitled to reduced rates.

Forming a Society.

Wednesday evening there was a meeting in Howe's hall for the purpose of completing the organization for a Congregational society in that village. Messrs J. M. Wells, B. R. Howe and Dr. W. M. Wells were elected deacons; Miss Jane Broadwell clerk; Miss Hattie Edgarton, treasurer, and Mesdames Jewitt, Redman and Howe church committee. The society was unanimous in tendering a call to Rev. A. E. Kinmouth of Seneca Falls which was accepted. His salary for the first year was announced as $900. Installation services will be held in Howe's hall to-morrow evening at 7:30 to which the public are invited.

Tendering His Resignation.

Rev. A. U. Hutchins handed the trustees of the Universalist society the following communication a few days ago:

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH FULTON,

BRETHREN:—

Feeling that I cannot succeed as pastor of this society, in advancing its spiritual and material interests any further; and not wishing in any manner, to stand in the way of the success of this society, I feel it my bounden duty to resign, without specification. I therefore hereby tender my resignation as pastor of the 1st Universalist church in Fulton to take effect the last Sunday of this present month, or as soon thereafter as may be best for all concerned. Fraternally,

A. U. HUTCHINS.

A society meeting was called Thursday evening when he was requested to withdraw his resignation, a committee of five being appointed to await upon Mr. Hutchins and inform him of the wish of the society.

Sunday, at the conclusion of the morning sermon, Rev. Hutchins said: "I have concluded to withdraw my resignation and let the future decide the wisdom of my action."

Fred. D. VanWagenen, jr., was married last Thursday at 10 a. m., at Falley Seminary to Miss Eleanor Gilmour, daughter of Rev. James Gilmour. The ceremony was private only a small party of immediate friends being present. Rev. J. S. Riggs of the Presbyterian church executed the ceremony. Miss Gilmour is a most estimable lady and her legion of friends heartily wish her a pleasant future. Mr. VanWagenen is a recent graduate of Union College, Schenectady, and a young man of superior attainments. They are enjoying a brief trip east but will return and take up their residence in Fulton. Mr. VanWagenen will enter the law office of G. S. Piper.

The Oswego Times pays a handsome compliment to Miss Alice Barry on the occasion of her debut in Oswego:

> But the people were even more interested in Miss Barry's debut than the playing of Remenyi and Fuchs; for she was one of themselves, and it was the public beginning of her professional career. There cannot be a doubt that their verdict was favorable, and that Miss Barry realized their highest expectations. Her comprehension of Delsartian principles and careful training in Delsartian methods were apparent in her clear cut enunciation and graceful manner and gestures. Miss Barry's debut was a rarely brilliant success.

The Syracuse, Phœnix & Oswego Railroad.

The Phœnix Register of last week says a large gang of men broke ground in the second ward of Syracuse yesterday morning, on the road bed of the Syracuse, Phœnix & Oswego railway. The intention is to carry out the original design of forming a connection with the Syracuse, Chenango & New York railroad. A junction will be formed at Ash and Lock streets with the Chenango road, after which the rails will be laid to city limits and beyond without delay. No iron was put down yesterday, but considerable distance of grading was done. A canal boat loaded with ties and rail, is expected to-day. The work is in charge of Division Engineer Moore, of Oneida, and his assistant, Mr. Peck, and the men are under Foreman Wright. A gentleman whose information on the subject is indubitable informed the Standard that the Syracuse & Phœnix road is to be finished at last.

"The necessary capital," the gentleman said, "is all provided. As fast as the work can be done it will be pushed, the monied men behind the scheme having no fear that that they will get a full return for their investment."

Annual Grove Meeting.

The annual grove meeting of Spiritualists will be held at Pendergast's grove, West Phœnix, on Sunday, the 30th inst. The management have secured Rev. W. Woolson, a trance speaker of North Bay, and others to address the meeting.

Trouble Never Ceases.

We have been informed upon going to press that Geo. L. Smith has made an affidavit for the purpose of procuring a warrant for the arrest of O. L. Danforth and Mrs. A. S. Morse, on a charge of conspiracy. There being no justice in town at present no warrant has yet been procured.

Free Methodist Camp Meeting.

Arrangements will soon be commenced for the annual camp meeting of the Clyde and Syracuse districts of the Free Methodist church which will be held in Southwick's grove in the vicinity of Wolcott. The camp meeting will commence on Wednesday, August 16th, and will continue one week. Southwick's grove is a beautiful place to camp, and as these meetings are addressed by the prominent ministers of the Free Methodist denomination they are always largely attended.

Shotgun Accident.

Johnny Sullivan, aged 9, was wounded by the accidental discharge of a shotgun last Thursday evening in Oswego Falls. He in company with a lad named McKenna took his father's old shot gun and started out a short distance from the village where he amused himself shooting small birds. The irresistible attraction of the gun drew about McKenna a crowd of youngsters who watched the sport with great delight. In some way, not at present explainable, the gun was discharged into the crowd, the charge taking effect in the thigh and groin of little Sullivan. The boy was carried to his home a short distance away and Drs Wells and Hall were summoned. They did all in their power to alleviate the little fellow's sufferings, but he still lies in a precarious condition.

On Wednesday evening the M. E. Literary Society met at the church for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The following were duly elected:

President—Miss Ella Lasher.
Vice-presidents—Miss Loma Stay. A. Bennett,
Sec'y—Miss Melva Hamilton,
Treas.—F. E. Goodjon,
Executive com.—Mrs. G. V. Emens, Mrs. John Robinson. Miss Marie Highriter, Mr. E. R. Redhead, A. Bennett.

The Presbyterian society have decided to discontinue Sunday service until the first Sunday in September to allow the pastor a season of rest and recuperation. The Fulton correspondent to the Oswego Times says: "The gentlemen is a close student, and most indefatigable worker, and greatly needs this season of rest and change. His sermons are at all times models of deep, earnest thought and careful preparation, and he handles the truth of God in such a clever, forcible and convincing manner, that it is impossible to listen to him without deep convictions and strengthened purposes. Mr. Riggs will spend some weeks at Block Island."

Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., states that for fifteen months she was troubled with a disease in the ear, causing entire deafness. In ten minutes after using Thomas Eclectric Oil she found relief, and in a short time she was entirely cured and her hearing restored.

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass., says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

VILLAGE OF FULTON.

Trustees Proceedings.

FULTON, July 18, 1882.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

Present, the president, Trustee Herrick, Hart, LaLonde, and Cavanaugh.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The finance committee reported the following bills correct and orders were drawn for the amounts.

T. A. Paddock, for paving	260 62
John White, gas for jail	6 33
" " street lamps	100 00
" " repairing lamps	2 11
M. A. Howe board of health	2 00
B. J. Kimball, assessor	60 00
S. B. Mead, treas'. fire dept.	300 00

The street commissioner was instructed to ask the people on First street to refrain from washing ice on the new pavement.

The president and street committee were instructed to settle with the contractor for paving when finished.

The following Ordinance passed:

BE IT ORDAINED, That the owners of the following described premises be and they are hereby required to build a new side walk opposite and adjacent the premises hereinafter specifically described and owned or occupied by the following named persons respectively viz:

West side of First street,
S. N. Kenyon, lot 43 and 44 block 30.
North side of Rochester street
Across block 53 lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6.

Resolved, That the several sidewalks heretofore specified be built and repaired of sound two-inch hemlock plank laid lengthwise on 3 by 4 stringers, well secured with earth to make a firm foundation; that no new walks are built less than five feet in width, that the outer line of those that are re-laid be evenly laid, and in the line of those already built.

On motion the clerk was directed to immediately after the publication of the aforesaid ordinance, serve the several persons affected thereby with printed copies thereof, in the manner required by the charter of the village, and to make and file proof of such service.

Adjourned to meet Aug. 1st, 1882, at 7½ p. m.
L. H. PATTERSON, clerk.

STONES IN THE KIDNEYS

AND BLADDER EXPELLED—LONG SUFFERING OF ONE OF TROY'S—BEST PEOPLE—A LUCKY MAN.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful;

TROY, N. Y. April, 8, 1882.

Dr D. Kennedy Rondout N. Y.,

DEAR SIR:—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the brick-dust sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accumulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send yo the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfullness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible a disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other sufferers.

Yours Truly,

JAMES ANDREWS.

No 10 Marshal St, Ida Hill.

When we consider that the medicine which did this service for Mr. Andrews cost only one dollar a bottle, it would seem that persons in like fashion can afford the expense of testing its virtues. Get it of your druggist, or address Dr. David Kennedy Rondout, N. Y. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

VAN VALKENBURG'S

RESTAURANT,

—:o:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price, so much so that you will say to yourself well I did not know before that people could get such dishes for so small a figure and up here in the country. I have found the place to get my lunch from now out. The prices are what catches me.

People Will Talk.

You may get through the world, but 'twill be slow,
If you listen to all that is said as you go;
You'll be worried and fretted and kept in a stew.
For meddlesome tongues must have something to do,
For people will talk.

If quiet and modest you'll have it presumed
That your humble position is only assumed—
You're a wolf in sheep's clothing, or else you're a fool;
But don't get excited, keep perfectly cool—
For people will talk.

And then if you show the least boldness of heart,
Or a slight inclination to take your own part,
They will call you an upstart, conceited and vain;
But keep ahead; don't stop to explain—
For people will talk.

If threadbare your dress, or old-fashioned your hat,
Some one will surely take notice of that,
And hint rather strong that you can't pay your way
But don't get excited whatever they say—
For people will talk.

If you dress in fashion, don't think to escape
For they criticise them in a different shape;
You're ahead of your means, or your tailor's unpaid;
But mind your own business there's naught to be made—
For people will talk.

Now, the best way to do is to do as you please;
For your mind if you have one will then be at ease,
Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse,
But don't think to stop them. It ain't any use—
For people will talk.

Peerless, by name! Peerless as a remedy for that crying evil, worms. Use no other, for there is nothing can equal the perless Worm Specific. Only 25 and 50 cents. For sale by R. E. Phillips.

NOT SO FATAL.

New View of Heart Diseases.

When an individual is reported to have died of disease of the heart, we are in the habit of regarding it as an inevitable event, as something which could not be foreseen or prevented, and it is too much the habit when any one falls down dead, to report the heart as the cause; this silences all inquiry or investigation, and saves the trouble and inconvenience of a post-mortem. A true report would have a tendency to save many lives. It is through a report of the disease of the heart that many an opium eater is led into the grave that covers at once his folly and his crime; the brandy-drinker, too, quietly slides around the corner thus, and is heard no more; in short, this report of disease of the heart is the mantle of charity which the polite coroner and sympathetic physician throws around the graves of generous people. At the scientific congress at Strasburg it was reported that of sixty-six persons who had suddenly died, an immediate and faithful post-mortem showed that only two persons had any heart affection whatever—one sudden death only in thirty-three from disease of the heart. Nine out of sixty die of apoplexy—one out of every seven—while forty-six, more than two out of three, died of lung affection, half of them from congestion of the lungs, that is, the lungs were so full of blood that they could not work; there was not room enough to get in to support life. It is, then, of practical interest to know some of the causes of congestion of the lungs, these are cold feet, tight shoes, tight clothing, costive bowels, sitting still until chilled through after having warmed up by hard labor or a long, hasty walk.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

Time over and again Thomas Eclectric Oil has proved a salutary friend to the distressed. As a reliable curative for croup in children, sore throat and bronchial affections, and as a positive external remedy for pain. It is a never failing antidote.

Henry on Hereafter.

Henry Ward Beecher in his Sunday sermon said when people ask me if I believe that Heaven is a locality, or a place fenced in from all trespassers, I reply in the negative. Heaven is boundless as the universe. If you ask me if I think there is a hell—that is, a locality or a pit from which no inmate can escape—I once more make a negative reply. Do I believe that there is no punishment beyond this earth life? I say there is no such place of endless torment, but I do think there must be a certain form or degree of punishment that will extend for a limit into eternity This punishment will be the remorse of sin committed. We shall be a great while in the other life before we cease to be sorry for the misdeeds of our earthly career. But ultimately peace and happiness will come to the souls of all.

EVILS TO BE AVOIDED.

Over eating is in one sense as productive of evil as intemperance in drinking. Avoid both; and keep the blood purified with Burdock Blood Bitters, and you will be rewarded with robust health and an invigorated system. Price $1.00

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

Popular Epitaphs and Obituaries.

A witty French author once wrote: "There is no subject so sad, serious or solemn, that may not be treated in such a manner as will cause the most sedate, sober, splenetic to smile."

At first thought, one might consider the above assertion self-contradictory, but it contains more than a grain of truth. Certainly death is "sad, serious, solemn;" but many "tributes of respect" to the memory of the deceased, are well calculated to provoke a smile from him whose eyes they meet.

In a Maine paper the conclusion of an obituary is.

> Mr. Thomas will long be remembered as an honest Christian gentleman, and the public will be glad to know that the grocery business is to be continued at his old stand, by the partner of the late deceased.

The death of a prominent citizen is thus noticed by a western sheet:

> He was the father of eleven sons, five of whom married five sisters. At his funeral, two weeks ago last Sabbath, two horses were stung to death by bees, and another came near losing his life by the same.

Several years since, an editor in Georgia said of "a brother of the quill:"

> He was a genial man and a kind friend. We shall miss him very much. But our loss is his gain as he has gone to a better world. Persons who have taken his paper (now suspended) will find ours equally good.

From an obituary in the San Francisco News-Letter, we quote:

> B——r is dead His death was untimely; he should have died twenty years ago. Ever foremost in every good work out of which anything could be made, he was a model of generosity, and weighed at the time of his death one hundred and ninety odd pounds. He was one whose close friendship was a luxury that only the affluent could afford. It shall be our proudest boast that we enjoyed it at ess than half the usual rates.

The cemetry at LaPointe, Michigan, furnishes the following:

> This stone was erected to the memory of J—— D——, who was shot as a mark of esteem by his surviving relatives.

From a burial ground in Maine, we obtain this:

> Sacred to the memory of James H. Random, who died Aug. the 6th, 1800. His widow mourns as one who can be consoled, and, possessing every qualification for a good wife lives at —— street, in this village.

On the tombstone of a young lady who was assassinated by a jealous lover, in New Boston, N. H., we found:

Thus fell this lovely blooming daughter,
By the revengeful hand of malicious Henry,
When on her way to school he met her,
And with a six self-cocked pistol shot her.

Among the curious inscriptions that may be deciphered in an old church yard near Nashua, N. H. none is more unique than the subjoined:

Memento Mori.
Here lyes ye Body of Mr. Thomas Lund who departed this life
Sept ye 5th 1724
In ye 42d year of his age
This man and seven more that lies in this grave was all slew in a day by The Indians.

Rockville, Mass. gives us:

In memory of Jane Bront,
Who kicked up her heels and away she went.

An epitaph in a New Jersey cemetery reads:

Weep, stranger, for a father spilled
From a stage coach and thereby killed;
His name was John Sykes, a maker of sassengers,
Slain with three other outside passengers,

From Texas we have:

Here lies my poor wife,
A sad slattern and shrew;
If I said I regretted her
I should lie, too.

The subsequent specimens of "graveyard literature" were copied from tomb stones in Great Britain:

In Doncaster, England:

Here lies 2 brothers by misfortin serounded—
One died of his wounds and the other was drownded.

In Durham, England:

Beneath these stones repose the bones
Of Theodosius Grimm;
He took his beer from year to year,
And then his bier took him.

In Biddeford, England:

The wedding day appointed was
The wedding clothes provided;
But ere the day did come, alas!
He sickened and and he die did.

In Bauff, Scotland:

Here I lie
Killed by a sky-
Rocket in the eye,
In the year forty Anno Domini.

Look out, backslider whar, you walkin' ?
Make a misstep sho you bo'n.
I tell you what it's no use talkin',
If you slip up, child, you gone.
De road is full er stumps and stubble,
Ruts and sink-holes ebrywhar'
I spec' dey'll gib you heap er trouble,
'F you don't stop yo' foolin' dar
It's dark ez pitch an' mighty cloudy,
Spec' de debbil's walkin' 'roun'
Fus' thing you know he'd tell you "howdy"—
Lif' his hoof an' stomp de groun'
Man, can't you see a sto'm a brewin' ?
Hear the awful thunder peal !
Look! Blazen' light'nin 'threatenin' ruin—
Oh, backslider, how you feel ?
Drap on yo' knees an' go to prayin',
Ax the Lawd to he'p you out.
Chile, tell him you's a lam' a strayin'—
Done got los' an' stublin' 'bout,

ONE FEARFUL NIGHT.

"We came down earlier than usual to the shore that season," said my friend, "and took rooms at a cottage, not liking the bustle of a large hotel. We were occupying the cottage jointly with another family, consisting of a gentleman, his wife and a little daughter about six years old. Our landlady was a pleasant Quaker, of middle age, and all the appointments of her room were neat and comfortable. We were the first on the ground and we would have the nice little room to ourselves for two weeks, when our fellow-boarders were to arrive."

"I hope they are pleasant people," said my wife, as she sat at the tea table on the evening before the day on which Mrs. Rawlins expected them. "You said there name was Clare?" turning to our landlady.

"Yes."

"Who are they?"

"People of standing, I believe," was the quiet answer.

"Were they ever here before?"

Mrs. Rawlings said—"No."

"I feel a little nervous about our fellow boarders," said my wife, when we were alone. "If they should prove agreeable, we shall have a very cozy time; but if disagreeable, only annoyance. Two families thrown together as closely as ours will be, need, for comfort to themselves, affinity of taste and temperament.

"We shall make the best of what comes," I answered. "No doubt they will prove agreeable enough."

We were on the porch next day, waiting for the new arrivals, when the omnibus from the depot drove up.

Mr. Clare was a man of about thirty-five. He had one of those fine, but marked faces, which once seen you never forget. It was frank but strong in feature—with a grave sweet mouth—firmly set, for all its sweetness. His eyes were large and gentle, and just a little sad, I thought, as I looked at him for the first time.

As he lifted his wife from the omnibus—she was small and light—with almost lover like gentleness, I felt my heart going out toward the man, and drew a deep breath of relief.

"The right kind of people," said I, "as they passed into the cottage and left me alone with my wife on the porch. "Did you get a good look at Mrs. Clare? I did not."

"Yes."

"Well, what did the look tell you?"

"She's lovely."

"And Mr. Clare—what do you think of him?"

"He's a splendid looking man," answered my wife, with an emphasis on one word in the sentence that left the impression of no doubt in her mind.

"Did you notice his mouth?"

"Yes."

"It was strong, yet sweet, like a woman's"

A slight veil of thought dropped down over my wife's face. She did not answer for some minutes; then said in a kind of absent way, as if she were turning over some doubt in her mind—"Yes, the mouth was gentle and firm—but has lines of suffering."

"You think so?"

"They were very plain to my eyes.

And now, looking through my wife's eyes they were very plain to me.

We met Mr. and Mrs. Clare at the dinner table, and found them all we could desire—quiet, refined and just social enough to make intercourse pleasant. The lady was charming, though you could not call her beautiful. She was petite in figure, with a soft oval face, and brown eyes that were lustrous yet tender. I noticed, as she sat beside her husband at the table, she leaned toward him. Afterward, I always noticed the same attitude, always when they were together, sitting or standing. And she had a way of looking into his face that was peculiar, [illegible]

Mr. Clare was very gentle toward his wife, and it was plain to see, was very fond of her. Nay, fond is too weak a word. He loved her with a pure and deep affection.

I had my claret at the table, and offered my bottle to our new guests. But they declined, with what seemed to me almost cold politeness.

"It is cooling to the blood," I remarked as I lifted a glass of richly colored wine to my lips.

"It may cool the blood in some veins but it burns like fire in others," replied Mr. Clare after a moment or two of silence.

I said nothing in answer to this, and the subject was dropped. I found Mr. Clare a man of large culture, simple habits, and fine conversational powers. We were much together, and mutually enjoyed each other's society.

A week went by pleasantly enough—bathing, walking, and driving on the beach, sitting in the fresh sea breeze, and watching the surf as it came seething in upon the shore, or gazing out upon the great immeasurable ocean—so the time passed almost like a dream.

Every day I took my claret, but Mr. Clare drank water.

"I wish you would try a glass of wine," said I, as we sat at the dinner table one day, about a week after the arrival of our new friends, and I pushed my bottle toward him.

"Thank you," Mr. Clare answered gravely and decidedly. "But I am better without wine."

"Are you quite sure of that?" I queried. "Pure wine gives life to the blood. It is spurious stuff that sets the veins on fire."

I noticed that Mrs. Clare leaned just a little closer to her husband, and looked sideways up into his face, in that peculiar way I have mentioned.

A faint but quickly fading smile rested on Mr. Clare's lips as he replied: "there may be idiosyncracies of blood that will not bear even pure wine. I have heard of such."

"Have you," I answered curiously.

"Yes," he answered after a moment's thought; then added—"About a year ago I saw a curious statement that impressed me strongly. It was made by a physician of some note, and recorded in a medical journal. It was to the effect, ascertained by dissections, that a too free use of stimulating drinks tended to enlarge the blood globules, as well as those of the brain and other organs, so that they stood open mouthed, as it were, inflamed, athirst always, and eager to drink. The physician to whom I have reference, after clearly ascertaining the existence of this morbid change, had an opportunity to dissect the brain of a man who, after being a drunkard for many years, reformed, and lived soberly until he died. To his astonishment, he found that the unnaturally enlarged globules of the blood and brain had not shrunk to the proper size. Though they did not exhibit the inflammation of the drunkard's brain, they were enlarged, and ready, it seemed, on the instant, to absorb the fumes of alcohol, and resume their old diseased condition."

A low, half stifled sigh touched my ears. I glanced into the face of Mrs. Clare, and saw that her eyes had the set look of one who is gazing intently on some mental picture. It was not a cheerful picture on which her soft eyes were fixed; I needed no words to tell me that.

"Curious," I remarked, as Mr. Clare ceased speaking.

"I was struck," he resumed "with the impressions made by the discovery of the physician's mind. He thought he saw in this morbid state of the brain, the physical part or the reason why a man who has once been a drunkard can never again, as long as he lives, safely take one drop of alcoholic liquor. He thought he saw why a glass of wine put the man back instantly to where he was when he drank all the time. He saw the citadel free from the enemy, but undefended, incapable of defense, and its doors wide open; so that there was no safety, except in keeping the foe at a distance, away beyond the outermost wall."

I thought I detected a slight shiver in Clare's voice, as with some warmth of manner as he closed the last sentence.

"I never understood the pathology of this thing before," said I, "the physical reason why there was no safety for the drunkard except in total abstinence. We may have the secret here. But I cannot understand why pure wine should inflame the blood, when every globule is in its normal state."

"There are such things as hereditary conditions," answered Mr. Clare. "Is not the drunkard as likely to transmit the enlarged and thirsty blood and brain globules to his children, as a consumptive his tubercular diathesis?"

I was half startled by the conclusive directness of the query."

"The law of transmission," he went on "acts in no partial way. Whatever we do of habit, whether physical or mental, goes down potentially to our children. It is an estate of which no one can rob them. We bless or curse them in our daily lives."

There was a shiver in his voice now. My ear felt it almost painfully.

"Were you always so abstemious?" I asked two or three days afterward, as my glass of claret brought back the wine question.

"No," he answered, somewhat gravely, "In my younger days I drank occasionally. But wine was always too heating for my blood."

"Perhaps," said I, "the article was not always pure. It has long been difficult to get the genuine stuff."

"It was always pure in my father's house," he replied.

"Then you are familiar with the best brands," I remarked.

"Certainly."

"[illegible] the flavor of good wine," [illegible]

"Few know it better," he answered quietly.

I lifted the half emptied class of claret that stood near my plate, hold it to the light and then sipped a few drops, saying as I did so, "I think that is all right. It should be, for it came directly from the importers, and I paid him his own price under the guarantee of genuineness. I am afraid of all doctored stuff. Do me the favor," and I poured a glass half full, "just to let a few drops fall over your tongue, and give me your opinion of its quality."

For an instant there was hesitation. I looked at him, and saw a quick change on his face. His wife leaned closer, and laid her hand very softly on his arm. Then he took the glass I held toward him, raised it to his mouth, and sipped a few drops of the fruity wine. My eyes were on his face, watching for the connoisseur's look of pleasure. The expression I saw was more than that. It had in it a quick thrill. Removing the glass from his lips, he held it poised for a moment, then lifting it again, drained the contents at a single draught.

I shall never forget the sudden pallor and look of despair that struck into Mrs. Clare's face.

"Pure wine, without question," said Clare in a low changed voice, as he kept tasting the flavor on his tongue. Pure wine, sir! You are very fortunate in getting so good an article."

I noticed that he turned himself a little away from his wife, still holding the glass in his hand, and reaching it, I thought, a little forward, as if inviting me to fill it.

"Thank you! I am glad to know it," I returned, my voice betraying the change in my feelings.

Mr. Clare set the glass down quickly, and went on with his dinner, bending low to his plate. The meal was finished in silence and embarrassment. I ventured to look once or twice at Mrs. Clare, who was only pretending to eat. Her face was pale and anxious. The change in her husband's countenance was as marked as the change in hers. All the old sweetness had faded from her lips, that now touched each other in a harder pressure; and the gentleness had now gone out of his eyes.

He arose without speaking, and left the table, Mrs. Clare following. Our chamber adjoined theirs, and thither, after leaving the dining room, I went with my wife.

"Did you see Mrs. Clare's face when her husband drank that glass of wine?" she asked, looking at me very soberly.

"Yes, and I would give half that I am worth to recall the thoughtless. But it never for an instant, crossed my mind that there might be danger."

At this moment we heard through a partition that separated our chambers, the voice of Mr. Clare pitched to an unusual tone.

"Come, lie down and get your usual nap," we heard Mrs. Clare say coaxingly.

"I'm going to walk on the beach, I tell you!" was roughly answered. "I can't sleep."

"Then I will walk with you" was the firm but kind reply.

"Not if I wish to go alone, madam! And I do."

We heard no more. Everything was silent in the room for some minutes. Then the door was opened, and the sound of heavy feet was on the stairs. A low cry, like a despairing wail, thrilled upon the ear. Afterwards all was still as death in the adjoining chamber.

"You had better go after him," said my wife, turning on me a pale face.

"It will be of little use, I fear," was my reply, though acting on her suggestion, I went out quickly.

I looked up and down the street, as I stepped from the cottage, but Clare was not in sight. At the next corner, going toward the sea, was a drinking saloon. I went in but did not find him. Then I hurried down to the beach, thinking he might have gone to walk there as he said. To my relief, I saw him sitting alone, in one of the rude arbors covered with dead leaves, that were scattered along the shore.

"Ah! Good afternoon!" I spoke familiarly. "Enjoying this delicious breeze?"

He looked at me with a countenance so altered, that I scarcely recognized a feature; stared scowling for a little while; then with a fierce impulse in his voice flung out the imprecation:

"Curse you!"

I staggered back as though he had struck me. I was not surprised alone—I was appalled.

"If you had put a pistol to my head, you could not a have done me a worse service!" he added, in a voice that was passionate with despair.

I sat down beside him and took his hand, but he flung mine away, glaring at me with hate and loathing.

"Just leave me!" he cried. "You've done your cursed work. Leave me!"

All my efforts were in vain—and Heaven knows I tried faithfully to soothe him, and so get down into his confidence that I could help him in his awakened appetite.

Finding that I would not leave him, he arose and strode rapidly up the beach, I following near enough to keep him in sight; but he turned into one of the streets that came down to the beach and I lost track of him.

Nearly an hour afterward, I found him at the bar of one of the hotels, with a glass in his hand, drinking. I went up to him, and was about to speak, when he bent toward me with so evil a light in his eyes, that I felt for the instant afraid. Lifting a warning finger, he said, in a low, [illegible] voice—"Keep on your own side, sir! I owe you no good will—and I'm dangerous!" He stood, bending forward, gazing steadily at me, without changing a muscle of his face, or varying its expression in the smallest degree.

I turned slowly and went away, [illegible]

Mr. Clare [illegible]

room. I sat out upon the porch until nearly ten o'clock, waiting for his return.

"Isn't that him?" asked my wife, who, troubled as I was, sat on the porch with me.

A man, walking unevenly, came into the light of the nearest lamp, took hold of the post and steadied himself for a moment, and then moved on toward the cottage. Yes, it was Clare. He came forward, planting his steps carefully, stumbled a little as he ascended the porch, but recovered himself, and, without speaking, came in and went up to his chamber, making but little noise on the way.

We soon followed, anxious and heavy-hearted, and sat down in our room, with no thought of retiring. The sounds that came from the next room were not intelligible nor satisfactory. Some one was moving about uneasily, and either putting things right or changing the old order. This went on steadily for perhaps a quarter of an hour, without a voice being heard. Then we were startled by a low, quick cry of fear, and knew the voice to be that of Mrs. Clare. A dead silence followed. We listened in painful suspense.

"I've a mind to do it," we heard Mr. Clare say, and following the sentence came the clear click of a pistol lock.

The next few minutes seemed an age, as we waited for the deadly report, afraid to stir or call, lest our interference should work the terrible catastrophe we sought to avert.

"Shoot if you will!" It was the clear, steady voice of Mrs. Clare. "I am ready."

All was hushed as death again, and we sat, scarcely breathing, in an agony of dread. What would I not have given to know just how it was in that chamber, so that I might determine whether it were safe to interfere. But the impenetrable walls hid everything, and left us in doubt and irresolution.

Silence! silence for nearly a quarter of an hour. Then the old sounds began again, and the uneasy movements and disturbance went on.

"I'll throw you from the window if you do that again!" There was something savage in the voice of Clare as he said this, in a loud, unguarded voice.

Then we heard a struggle. I could bear it no longer, but ran out into the hall, and tried to enter their room; but the door was fastened. I rattled the lock, and struck the door loudly two or three times.

"What's wanted?" was growled from within. I would never have recognized the voice as that of Mr. Clare.

"Open the door," I said.

A hand was laid upon the lock, inside, and the key began turning in the wards.

"Don't, for Heaven's sake!" I heard, in a low cry of terror, from Mrs. Clare.

This was followed by a wicked imprecation followed by a struggle, a heavy fall upon the floor, a groan, and a silence deep as death.

I threw myself against the door, but the lock and hinges were strong, and did not yield. I was about repeating the effort, when I found myself standing face to face with Clare, his eyes wild and fierce, like the eyes of a madman, and his countenance fearfully distorted. He held a pistol in his hand, pointing it directly at my head. He did not speak but looked the personification of murder. I was paralyzed by this apparition, and we stood like two statutes, for I cannot say how long—a second or a minute—when Clare seemed to vanish like a spectre, and the shut door was again between us,

I went back into my room and sat down, weak and trembling, great beads of sweat rolling from my forehead.

"Hark!" said my wife, and we both listened anxiously. The noise that came from our neighbors' room was like that of a body dragged across the floor and then lifted upon the bed. It was the last sound that reached our ears. For over an hour we sat listening with strained senses. Not the slightest movement was apparent.

"They are asleep," said my wife, in a husky whisper. It was after midnight.

"The sleep to one of them may have no waking in this world," was my troubled answer.

My wife shuddered.

"Cost what it will, I must have the secret of that room!" I exclaimed, starting up under the sudden spur of keen self-accusation. "I am a dastard to sit here and leave a poor weak woman to the mercy of a drunken maniac!"

I would listen to no remonstrance on the part of my wife, but went out quickly. How was I to enter the room? I stood close to the door, canvassing, in thought, the ways and means of passing the barrier that intervened, when, to my surprise, I saw that it was slightly ajar, not having been fastened by Clare when he shut it in my face. Softly I pushed it open, stepping noiselessly into the room. A lamp still burned on the mantle. The sight that met my eyes, so unlooked for and so touching I shall never forget.

Mrs. Clare was lying on the bed, her face turned toward the light. She was very [illegible] having [illegible] the ma[illegible]es of death. But I saw that [illegible] sleeping. Oh! the sadness, the [illegible] that rested on [illegible] and mouth, the lines about [illegible] mouth! I felt the tears [illegible] my eyes.

[illegible] a chair beside the bed, was Mr. Clare [illegible]. One arm was drawn [illegible] and [illegible] the neck of his wife, and [illegible] cheek [illegible] closely to her face, that [illegible] so hidden in shadow that I could not get its full expression.

I stood only for a moment—just long enough to comprehend the scene—[illegible]

On the next morning Mr. [illegible] Clare [illegible] Clare had [illegible] face was [illegible] closer than before. His face was that of a man who had suffered a terrible humiliation. He neither looked at nor spoke to any one. But I noticed as he drank his coffee and eat, or pretended to eat, a piece of toast, that his bearing was firm, like that of a man self-possessed and in earnest.

They went up to the city by the next train I did not see them when they left the cottage, purposely keeping out of the way. Only once since then have I crossed their path, though the thought of them long remained a heavy burden on my heart. It was a year afterward. I met them in the park, walking together, she leaning on his arm, the sweetness and love I had once seen resting on her countenance, and the manly strength and gentleness of his face as marked as when I first saw him at the sea-shore.

They did not observe me, and I passed on, glad to be unobserved, and with a lighter heart, as I said fervently—"Thank God!"

"He who cures the ills of flesh" quote the sage, "is even greater than he who conquers in war." Certain it is then, that Dr. Swayne has earned the laurel of greatness. His Ointment for skin disease has been the means of releasing thousands from the indescribable horrors of that complaint. For The Ladies.

Feather fans are very fashionable.

Velvet ribbon comes in again as a dress trimming.

Strings of narrow chine ribbon are the novelty on newly imported bonnets.

Nearly all shoulder capes have a thick ruche of lace or material around the neck

Rough-and-ready straw hats are favorites for country wear with misses and large girls.

The newest mantles for summer are of ficelle lace over Canton crape or thin silk of the same shade.

Balbriggan stockings abound in various tints of red, old gold, amber and blue in all the new shades.

The simple English styles, with round or habit basques, are preferred by most ladies for traveling suits.

Very small linen collars and a simple brooch—merely a collar button—are worn with travelling costumes.

India pongee washes so well that it is now used for buffet covers, tidies, doyleys, and for long scarfs to throw across tables.

Young ladies who follow the extreme English styles have redingotes made without any fullness in the back in the way of pleatings.

Dark blue bonnets with salmon-colored flowers are worn by blondes, while the strawberry red bonnets are becoming to all complexions.

THE FULTON TIMES

Wednesday, July 26th, 1882.

THE receipts of the government are one and a half million dollars a day.

YELLOW FEVER has made its appearance in New York. It was imported on vessels from Havana.

ONE of the murderers of Lord Cavendish and under secretary Burke in Dublin has been arrested in Venezuela and is on his way to England. The proof against him is said to be positive.

LAST week the Orangemen and Catholic Irishmen of Boston united in a picnic, the first instance of the kind in this country. This is an evidence of progression, and is much better than continual warring.

ALL negotiations looking toward a settlement between the stalwarts and independents of Pennsylvania have been given up and the war is to be waged to the end. On all hands it is conceded that Pattison, the democratic candidate for Governor, will be elected.

WITHIN the past ten years the citizens of Jamestown, Chatauqua county, in one way and another, have contributed more than $40,000 to the establishment of manufactories in that village; and the result is a doubling of its population, and a great increase of its business prosperity.

The trouble in Egypt has gained prominence so rapidly that many people are asking the cause of it. For the benefit of those who have no time or conveniences for reading the news each day we have reproduced an article on the fourth page of to-day's issue setting forth the causes leading to the present war.

AFFAIRS in Egypt have not changed much during the past week. The British troops occupy Ramleh, having taken the position from Arabi without considerable loss of life on either side. British troops are being sent to Egypt in large numbers. A collision is looked for in a few days, that will be decisive.

THERE is one Southern State that will slip out from under Democratic control, and that one is Tennessee. There is a fight raging there over the State debt and it has resulted in putting three ostensible Democrats in the field for Governor which will insure the election to Governor Hawkins, the Republican candidate.

FANNIE PARNELL, second sister of Parnell, leader of the Irish Land League, died at Old Ironsides near Bordentown, Friday. She took a carriage ride the same morning and returned in apparently usual heath. She was seized with a sinking spell soon after and died. Physicians pronounced the malady paralysis of the heart.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS has been nominated by the democrats of Georgia for governor. Mr. Stephens was vice-president of the Southern Confederacy and his position is in strange contrast with that of his presidential associate Jefferson Davis. Mr. Davis is forever disqualified from holding office, even being denied the privilges of common citizenship.

GENERAL Newton M. Curtis treasurer of the republican state committee has been fined $1,000 under the political assessment law for levying and receiving assessments for political purposes. Monday Chief Justice Waite signed a writ of habeas corpus returnable before the U. S. court the second Monday in October. The case excites poiticians as it is the first conviction under the political assessment statute.

A YOUNG doctor who found himself in a Dakota village without a dollar to pay a heavy board bill, concocted a plan by which a wandering tramp played the part of a small-pox patient, and the doctor vaccinated the entire population of the town with some innocuous acid at $2.00 each. The swindle was discovered too late for the enterprising physician as he and his bogus patient skipped out with $300 each.

THE Pittsburgh doctor is the pink of professional courtesy and standeth upon the code of ethics with Roman firmness. When a lad broke his arm in the city last week three doctors successively declined to set it because their doing so would be discourteous to the family physician, who was out of town. The boy suffered a great deal of pain, but professional courtesy was triumphantly vindicated.

THE Greenback convention at Albany, Wednesday, nominated the following ticket: For governor, Epenetus Howe, of Tompkins county; for lieutenant governor, James Allen, of Kings; for chief Justice, L. J. McFarlane, of Niagara; for representative at large, Leonard G. McDonald, of Warren. Dr. J. B. Todd of Parish, was made a member of the committee on resolutions and Wm. F. Ingell of Volney, was made a member of the state committee.

THE modest sum, $11,500,000, asked for by the British government to enable it to commence an invasion of Egypt, makes it obvious that the people of Great Britain will have to dance before the row is ended. When Arabi first started out he he was a rebel, but to-day he is the chosen leader of the faithful and the khedive is denounced as a traitor. If a religious war is not the upshot of England's attack on Alexandria there if nothing in the signs of the times, and if the trouble becomes fanned by fanaticism, such as the Mussulman is capable of arousing, England will have a task on her hands that her bravest citizens may well quail before.

PETITIONS from nearly every village in the United States have been laid before President Arthur praying for the pardon of Sergeant Mason, who is undergoing an eight year sentence in the Albany penitentiary, for firing at Guiteau. The President does not seem disposed to insult the majesty of the law or insult justice by acting hastily in the matter. Judge Advocate General Swaim is anxious that he be pardoned and argues that: "Guiteau being in a reclining position on his cot, the evidence shows that a substantial brick wall intervened between him and the line of fire. He was, therefore, in absolute security from any effort Mason might have made to shoot him at the time."

An Mason plainly and boasts of the intent [illegible] General Swaim's argument [illegible]

NEIGHBORING NEWS.

Syracuse is enjoying a building boom that is unprecedented in her history.

Samuel Alliger has been appointed post-master at Hastings, Oswego county.

Augustus Diefendorf died in Syracuse Monday. He was a former resident of Fulton.

The will of Mrs. Charlotte H. Granger of Syracuse gives to Minnie Brower of Hannibal, N. Y., $250.

The common council of Syracuse have been invited to attend the Belden Guard picnic on the Oswego Falls fair ground to-morrow.

The veterans of Baldwinsville established a Grand Army post in that village Monday evening. It was named in honor of the late Major Moses Summers of Syracuse.

The Lakeside Press (Cleveland,) has turned the crank of its poetical machine around just once:

"How doth the busy farmer now
Improve each shining hour?
By sprinkling bugs with Paris green,
And drinking cider sour."

The Granby Sunday school Union will be held at the western portion of the Merritt district, in the new school house, sometimes called Joppa, Aug. 6th at 2 p. m. Rev. Mr. Coon, of Hannibal will be one of the speakers. A good time is expected.

In the case of Munson Cook, sr., of Philadelphia, Jefferson county, against whom complaint was made on account of watering milk, all but one of the patrons of the factory have offered to call it settled on Cook's paying $1,000. The one standing out is a relative.

A farmer states that he uses only coal gas to prevent the ravages of the potato beetle. He puts a gallon of tar in a tub over which he pours boiling water, which is allowed to settle and cool. This is sprinkled over the vine with an ordinary sprinkler. A gallon of tar will suffice for several acres of potatoes.

As James Hickey, an employee in the Oswego and Syracuse railroad freight yard in Syracuse, was shoving along an empty freight car Monday forenoon a train backed down upon him, crushing him so badly that he died in an hour. He was thirty years of age and had but recently come from Ireland and has no friends in this country.

The annual cattle show and fair of the state agricultural society will be held at Utica, commencing September 25th and continuing one week. The entries close on the 26th of August. It is desirable that the entries should be made at as early a day as possible, and those who propose to exhibit, should send, forthwith, for blanks, and be particular to state the articles they have to exhibit.

To those who are inclined to regard the present activity in the construction of the Syracuse, Phœnix & Oswego railway as only spasmodic," says the Phœnix Register, "we can offer the assurance that capitalists from New York have examined the route and expressed themselves well pleased with the prospects, since which time we are assured $250,000 have been placed in one of the Syracuse banks to be employed in the construction of the road."

Mr. William Patrick has received the distressing intelligence that the entire growing crop of his brother in Nebraska was destroyed by a recent hail storm which passed. He had one hundred and fifty acres, much of it nearly ready for harvest and in one short hour it was so cut up and the ground so plowed by the hail that it was almost impossible to tell where it was sown. Everything upon his farm for the support of animal life was destroyed. This is the third successive year that this calamity has befallen him. [Phœnix Register.

At the Oswego races Thursday there were not as many entries as was anticipated, still the affair was voted a success. In the first race for horses that had never beaten 2:50, there were three entries: Sarah, by M. E. Cornell; Frank White, by Chas. Pratt and Belle Shinkle by Mr. Howe. The purse was $60; $30 to first, $20 to 2d, and $10 to 3d. Sarah took first in three straight heats; time: 3:15, 3:15½, 3:15; Belle Shinkle second, and Frank White third. In the second, the 2:34 race, there were also three entries: Daniel, entered by A. Cooper, and Kittie Bradley, entered by G. S. Hosmer. The purse was $125; $70 to first, $30 to second; $15 to third and $10 to fourth. Kittie Bradley took first in three straight heats: 2:45, 2:45½, 2:45; Daniel second, and Sunset third. In the third race, free for all, there were oniy two entries, O. J. Jennings' Stephanus and Jack Feek's King Almont, and the managers were at liberty to declare the race off, but decided to let them trot. The purse was $200; $100 to first $50 to second, $30 to third and $20 to fourth. King Almont took first in three straight heats; time 2:32, 2:31 and 2:30.

The Liederkranz of Oswego had a jolly time on the fairground yesterday.

Rev. A. U. Hutchins will visit Phœnix to-morrow evening to organize the Ladies Aid Society of the first Universalist parish of that village.

Mrs. Henry Wells of Sand Hill sent to THE TIMES this morning a cactus, of unknown variety, a single stalk containing enough bright flowers to decorate the office. Thanks.

The Ministry of the Beautiful.

We reproduce from the Cortland News a portion of an oration delivered at the commencement exercises of Cortland Normal School by Miss Lottie A. Royce of Fulton. The sentiments are beautiful and are expressed in a manner that indicates not only profound thought but thorough scholarly attainments:

A mysterious, wonderful, gradual and enduring transformation has taken place in the history of mankind. Religion, discoveries, inventions, intellectual achievements are some of the mighty influences aiding in national development. Another element of civilization, whose influence extends into the eternity, and which shapes the eternal as well as the external life of man is the infinite power of beauty. The coming of the flowers typify man's resurrection. The ceaseless flow of the waters symbolizes the tides of eternity. The hills and mountains call forth in awe and admiration all that is noble in man's nature. Through the beauties of nature man is led to a forgetfulness of self, and he turns instinctively to a power above and beyond the beautiful. Art is second only to nature as an avenue through which beauty speaks to the heart of man. All have felt the power of music. It is the language of Heaven. Earth's highest beauty is found in the fully developed character. The very thought of each human soul makes a ripple that reaches even to the borders of eternity. The beautiful in human character becomes a great moulding force in the world's progress. Strip from common things all that gives them delicacy, symmetry, brilliancy, all that makes them bright and suggestive, and we realize how much beauty does to promote happiness.

Sad Drowning Affair.

We learn by the Peoria Journal of the drowning of a thirteen year old son of Thomas J. Finkle. Mr. Finkle was for several years head miller in the Genesee Mills in this village and the family have many friends who sympathize with them in their sad bereavement:

"A sad accident occurred near Chillicothe yesterday afternoon, resulting in the death, by drowning, of James Finkle, the thirteen year old son of T. J. Finkle, residing at 1601 North Adams street. The boy and an elder sister accompanied the Plymouth mission excursion, on the Water Lily and barge, to Chillicothe. On arrival at a grove, within a mile of the above city, the party debarked and held a picnic. Half a dozen of boys went down to a sand bank, some distance from the grove, to bathe. One of the boys, named Frank Bunch, appeared to be in danger of drowning, and young Finkle went to his assistance, and probably stepped off abruptly into deeper water. In any event, he disappeared from the surface, and his young companions, paralyzed with fear, could neither render assistance nor procure it. The pleasures of the occasion were overshadowed with the pall of death, and at four o'clock the body was placed on the boat and the party returned homeward, arriving at Peoria about 7 o'clock. On arrival the body was placed in an undertaker's wagon, and conveyed to the family residence. The blow fell with crushing weight on the family of the deceased and their grief is almost uncontrolable.

A Musical Mention.

The Utica Observer contains the following announcement of a piano recital in which Miss Mabel Straight formerly of Fulton takes a leading part:

This evening at the Household Art Rooms will occur an instrumental and vocal musical entertainment of superior excellence, the proceeds of which will be donated to the Faxton Home for Aged Men. An excellent programme has been arranged in which Professor F. L. Curtis and Miss C. Mabel Straight, of Syracuse, and Miss Hannah Williams, of Utica, will take part. It is only recently that Professor Curtis delighted a large and critical audience at Mrs. Platt's Seminary, with a fine piano recital, while Miss Straight stands high in the musical circles of Syracuse, as Miss Williams does in Utica.

A HARMONY MEETING.

The Lions and the Lambs lie Down Together.

Monday morning the two opposing republican committees of this assembly district met in Oswego to act upon the report of the sub-committees appointed to prepare a plan for harmony. The following plan was adopted—substantially as proposed—and was signed by all the members present:

Resolved, That both republican committees join in the call, the convention to be called to order by either chairman, who shall simply call to order and receive nominations from the convention.

Both committees to recommend town and ward committees (when more than one exists) to unite in calls for caucus and to make officers of caucus as evenly as possible from wings heretofore opposed. Also delegates to each convention and ward and town committees in like manner.

Both committees recommend and agree to use their utmost endeavors to make nominations for offices of member of congress and assembly from opposite wings and divide state delegates evenly and not to proscribe or oppose any one for action heretofore taken by him in regard to last year's differences; but to work together in all things evenly and honestly for the common good of the whole party.

Another resolution was adopted which authorized the two chairmen to call the conventions and sign the names of the full committees.

EMPLOYMENT FOR LADIES.—The Queen City Suspender Company, of Cincinnati, are now manufacturing and introducing their new Stocking Supporters for Ladies and children, and their unequaled Skirt Suspenders for Ladies. None should be without them; our leading physicians recommend them, and are loud in their praise. These goods are manufactured by ladies who have made the wants of ladies and children a study, and they ask us to refer them to some reliable and energetic lady to introduce them in this county, and we certainly think that an earnest solicitation in every household would meet with a ready response, and that a determined woman could make a handsome salary and have the exclusive agency for this county. We advise some lady who is in need of employment to send to the company her name and address, and mention this paper. Address Queen City Suspender Company, No. 179 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"DRAGGING PAINS."

Dr R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR—My wife had suffered form "female weaknesses" for nearly three years. At times she could hardly move she she had such dragging pains. We often saw your 'Favorite Prescription' advertised, but supposed like most of patent medicines, it didn't amount to anything, but at last concluded to try a bottle, which she did. It made her sick at first, but it began to show its effect in a marked improvement, and two bottles cured her. Yours etc.

The above is the title of a book, now in press, containing more than one hundred of the original humorous sketches written by the "Sifters," Sweet & Knox and published in "Texas Siftings," together with some sketches never before published. The book will be profusely illustrated and will be sold at 50 cents a copy.

HARPERS'

Harper's magzine for August is a brilliant number The frontispiece is a dainty cut "Upon Mistress Susanna Southwell." There could be no more agreeable reading matter than "Some Western Resorts" by J. A. Butler, "The Cruise of the Nameless" by Barnett Phillips and "Some Worthies of Old Norwich," by Alice R. Hobbins. Mr. Lathrop contributes his fourth paper on "Spanish Vistas," In this he introduces the reader to Andalusia and the splendors of the Alhambra. In "The First Americans," T. W. Higginson commences a series of papers on American history which promises to be very valuable and interesting.

ECLECTIC.

The August number of the Eclectic comes promptly to hand, and its ample pages are filled to over flowing with its usual variety of good things. The editor manages to find something adapted to the taste of all classes of readers and there are few magazines who maintain so high a standard as the Eclectic amid such a variety of matter. The August number has the following table of contents: "The Faiths of the World;" "An Attempt to Reach Merv, or Six Weeks in Scrubbs;" "Peel and Cobden," by Prof. Goldwin Smith; "Thought-Reading by Prof. Barrett, Edmund Gurney, and Frederick W. H. Myers; "Elephants," by Dr Andrew Wilson F. R. S. E.; "The leaf in the Book," by Anastasius Grun; "Serjeant Ballantyne's Experiences; "A French Assize; "A very common minded Trouble, by Dr J. Mortimer Granville; "The dying heroes," from the German of Uhland, and several more highly interesting literary productions. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street New York. Terms, $5 per year; single copy 45 cents; Trial subscription for three months, $1.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

In the North American Review for August, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher of "Progress of Religious Thought," pointing out the many influences, social educational and scientific, which are by degrees transforming the whole structure of dogmatic belief and teaching. T. V. Powderly, the official head of the Knights of Labor, the strongest union of workingmen in the United States, contributes a temperate article on the "Organization of Labor." The well known British military correspondent, writes of the "United States Army," dwelling more particularly on those features of our army management which appear to him to be the most worthy of imitation by the military governments of Europe. "Woman's Work and Woman's Wages," by Charles W. Elliot, is a forcible statement of one of the most urgent problems of the time. The author sees no advantage to be derived from the employment of woman in man's work, whether of brain or of hand; such employment, he insists, only reduces men's wages and does not really add to the total resources of the whole working class. In a highly interesting essay on the "Ethics of Gambling," O. B. Frothington analyzes the passion for play with rare ingenuity. The review is sold by booksellers generally.

The State Greenbackers.

In the State Greenback-Labor convention held in Albany last Wednesday, the following were

THE RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED:

Resolved, That the national greenback labor party of the state of New York reaffirms the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago, June 9, 1880.

Resolved, That all railroad and telegraph companies doing business under laws of the state and which have forfeited their charter and privileges as common carriers, by the failure to provide suitable and speedy facilities for transacting business, should immediately be taken possession of by the state and operated for the benefit of the people; that all persons employed by such corporations should be liberally, justly and promptly paid for their services, and any interruption of business resulting from a failure on their part to pay their operatives such rates should deprive such corporations of their charters and privileges; that stocks and bonds of all railroad and telegraph companies should be limited to the actual cost of construction and equipment that any burden imposed on commerce or travel to pay interest or dividends in excess of that amount is a violation of the fundamental law of public use, which permits legislative sanction authorizing the construction of railroads and telegraphs; that no discriminating rates between individuals or communities should be allowed; that the books of the companies representing such property should be open to public inspection and that commissioners should be elected by the people to carry out these provisions.

Resolved, That the penal code laws enacted by the legislature are the result of foreign and corporate influence over that body; that they violate every principle for which our free government was established. We demand the repeal of all sections affecting the rights, privileges or liberty of any person not proven guilty of crime under the common law.

Resolved, That the prison system of the state is an outrage on civilization by bringing honest labor in competition with prison labor, and degrading the prisoners into a condition worse than any imposed by Russia on its Siberian exiles. Therefore, we demand that the prisoners in the state be removed to mineral lands in the northern part of the state; that hereafter no mechanical business shall be done therein, and that all sums earned by the prisoners in excess of their support should be paid to their families, or be paid to them at the end of their term of service.

Resolved, That the incorporate capital which now holds absolute control over the money, highways, public lands and legislation of the state and country be restricted in its power to the purchase or control of large tracts of lands, and as this is a question of special interest to farmers as a matter of protection to them, we demand that the land owned by individuals or corporations, in excess of what is required for their personal use or for the transaction of their business be taxed so as to render its ownership valueless.

Resolved, That civil service reform demands the election, so far as practicable instead of the appointment of public officers, from supreme judges to postmasters, and when so elected all such officers should be held criminally responsible to their constituents for the faithful discharge of their public duties.

Resolved, That we are for local self-government for all communities, and that the act to protect primary elections and the conventions of political parties and to punish offences committed thereat should be amended so as to cover the whole state.

Resolved, That the thirteen "specific demands," enumerated at Science Hall in the Central Labor Union of New York city, are in accord with the theories and principles advocated by the national greenback-labor party and that we endorse them as a part of our state platform.

Resolved, That the national greenback-labor party is the original anti-monopoly party on money, on transportation, on land and on labor, and it again invites all honest advocates of reform on these questions to unite with them in carrying them to a successful issue at the polls.

"THREW AWAY HER SUPPORTER."

DR. PIERCE:—A neighbor of ours was suffering from "female weakness" which the doctors told her could not be cured without a supporter. After considerable persuasion my wife induced her to try your "favorite prescription." After using one bottle she threw away the supporter and did a large washing, which she had not done before in two years.

Don't forget the Oswego Falls Land League Picnic on the fair ground Saturday. Games, amusements, music and a good time for all who attend. Admission 10 cents, carriages free. The foot race promises to be hotly contested.

THE TIMES of last week contained an account of a suit brought by James McCausey against F. J. Switzer to recover the value of a satchel McCausey left in Switzer's store and some one unknown had called for. The case was called Thursday before Justice Parker and a jury. Mr. Switzer was acquitted.

H. D. Wells was out in Hannibal trouting last week and saw a huge watersnake seize a trout and make for the shore with it, for the purpose of killing and eating it. Mr. Wells says the streams are being depleted of trout by watersnakes and thinks if farmers and those interested in the preservation of these gamey fish would give the snakes a little attention they would soon be exterminated. In the spring when they crawl out in great numbers to sun themselves he says they could be easily put out of the way.

SUITS AND COUNTER-SUITS.

Lively Times for the Legal Fraternity—Supreme Writs Plenty as Sunshine—New Batch of [illegible]

Thursday Mrs. Abbie Morse and O. L. Danforth were arrested by deputy sheriff Hulett upon complaint of Geo. L. Smith on a charge of conspiracy and taken before Justice W. W. Palmer of South Granby, who had come to Oswego Falls to conduct the examination. Mrs. Morse and Mr. Danforth were represented by lawyers Melvin F. and Wm. C. Stephens and the plaintiff by lawyers H. C. Howe and S. B. Mead.

Counsel for defendants raised the point that the warrants were not issued in conformity with the requirements of the new code of criminal procedure. Justice Palmer considered the point well taken and discharged the prisoners.

New warrants were issued immediately and the parties re-arrested. They were held in their own recognizance until to-morrow, the justice in the mean time looking up the law as to jurisdiction and merits of the case, second question raised by counsel for defendants. At the second examination G. S. Piper, Esq. had become associated with counsel for defendants.

Yesterday counsel for Mrs. Morse and Mr. Danforth were notified by letter by the presiding justice, W. W. Palmer, of the discharge of the clients for want of jurisdiction or on the merits of the case, which point, not stated. Mr. Smith this morning had not decided what his future course would be in regard to the case.

Saturday Mrs. Morse instituted proceedings against Geo. L. Smith, N. N. Stranahan, private detective L. A. Baker of Syracuse and Justice John E. Parker, of Oswego Falls for false imprisonment, laying damages at $2,000, or $500 for each defendant. Papers have been served on all of the above parties, excepting Parker

It is rumored this morning that Parker will cause Mrs. Morse to be arrested for perjury. There is music in the air.

Gone to England.

Mr. D. Ramsden, superintendent of the Oswego Falls factories, left Monday for New York city, and set sail for England to-day in the steamship Servia of the Cunard line.

Mr. Ramsden has been in America thirteen years and has been home but once. He goes to enjoy the air of a mid-summer voyage and revisit the scenes of bygone days. He will be absent about two months. Bon voyage.

Harmony has been restored in this district, in the republican fold, and it was brought before the party and discussed by the Oswego Times and Express. Anti-Monopoly Meeting.

General Samuel F. Cary, of Ohio, will address the citizens of Fulton and vicinity upon the subject of anti-monopoly Friday evening next, July 28th, at Nichols Hall.

We bespeak for him a large audience, assured that all who take the trouble to attend will be both interested and instructed, whether convinced as to the particular object in which he is enlisted or otherwise. It can do no one harm to listen to a thoughtful, candid presentation of any theme, and certainly that in question involves matters of importance to every citizen. Ladies are respectfully invited to attend the meeting.

Some Crack Shots.

The annual picnic of the Leatherstocking Club of Oswego was held at Fair Haven Monday. Fulton gentlemen were present and they each returned with a prize. In the first pigeon shoot, ten birds, 21 yards rise John Sharp took 2d money, killing nine, in the second shoot, 21 yards, ten birds, John Sharp took first money, the only contestant killing all of his birds; in third shoot, 21 yards, five birds; A. Emerick took first money, and in shooting off ties of three W. S. Taft took third money. The Fulton participants each took a prize and demonstrated the fact that they are good marksmen.

OBITUARY.

DIED—At his home in Volney July 21, of typhoid fever, Willie Littlefield, aged 15 years. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Littlefield, and his loss is keenly felt by his parents and remaining sister. His death produced a great shock in the community where he was known, few supposing him to be dangerously ill. He was confined to his bed but ten days. He was a young man held in high esteem by those who knew him. He was unostentatious hence those who knew him best loved him most. The funeral took place the Sunday following at the home of his parents and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Z. F. Griffin of Gilberts Mills. Six young men of about his age, and schoolmates, acted as bearers. The floral offering consisted of a cross and crown of beautiful white flowers. The remains were interred in the cemetery at South Granby near where his grandparents settled fifty years ago. The following verses were written by one of his schoolmates, Miss Emma Smith:

Why was he taken when we were left,
  Is not a question for us to ask.
Still it comes with force to hearts bereft
  To feel 'tis best is a weary task.
But with some the race is quickly run,
  Their sheaves all gathered, their work all done
And while it is morning they enter in
  To the rest prepared for the free from sin.

Earth's fairest flowers are gathered when
  The young buds in beauty first unfold.
So, buds for Heaven are, just the same,
  Gathered in freshness and taken to God.
But the buds up yonder never fade
  But bloom in the glory Christ has made.
And earth's fairest flowers most bright and rare
  The Father of all has gathered there.

Just why for him the summons was sent
  We cannot tell; but it was God's plan;
And with this thought we must be content,
  For God's ways are not the ways of man.
He needed this bud to make complete
  The wreath of flowers round the Mercy Seat.
And knowing that he is at home with God
  We can bend, submissive, and kiss the rod.

A NEW SOCIETY.

Congregational Society Organized at Oswego Falls—A Favorable Outlook.

In conformity with a previous announcement of several persons to form a congregational society in Oswego Falls and take measures for erecting a house of worship, a council composed of representatives of the following places were present in Howe's hall, Oswego Falls Thursday afternoon.

Rev J A Biddle	Oswego
Delegate A H Failing	"
Rev Mr Franklin	Lysander
Delegate T T Hart	"
Rev A T Sell	Cortland
Rev W R Stone	Volney
Delegate H L Crane	"
Rev T H Griffith	Phœnix
Delegate W J Dougall	"
Delegate C W Hughes	Camden
Rev W A Robinson	Homer
Delegate J W Fenner	"
Rev P Lindsley	Seneca Falls
Delegate H W Knight	"
" Peter Burns	Syracuse
Rev C C Cregan	"

Rev C C Cregan was made moderator and Rev H T Sell, Scribe.

The first business before the meeting was the organization of the church. A committee composed of the following named persons appeared before the council to answer questions on behalf of the proposed church, viz:

Rev. A E Kinmouth, L Johnson, Jane Broadwell, H Wells, Mrs. B R Howe, E. Jewett.

The council questioned the committee as to the wants of the community for a church, its ability to support one, the prospects for a church edifice, etc.,

Rev. E. A. Kinmouth, who had previously been chosen pastor, stated the need of a church in that village and said there were already forty persons ready to become members. He also stated that a lot had been given for building purposes and some $5000 subscribed; that meetings have been held for some months in Howe's hall with a good attendance and he believed a church would work great good in the community and in a reasonable length of time become self supporting. The council then passed the following:

Resolved, That we organize at once this church to be known as the First Congregational Church of Oswego Falls. The council then examined Rev Kinmouth for installation. The examination was highly satisfactory and the meeting adjourned until evening when Rev. A. E. Kinmouth was duly installed as pastor.

Rev. Mr. Creegan said he noticed the new society was composed of members from the Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal churches and he trusted it would be a strong and peaceful union.

Rev. J. S. Riggs made a few appropiate and very pleasant remarks. He was pleased to note that the Presbyterian church contributed towards membership in the new society. He hoped for aid and example from the new church and that they would be strong and united.

Disgusting Journalism.

The Patriot resorted to an old trick last week, a species of journalism that has placed them in a position where they are bereft of influence or credence. In speaking of Miss Augusta Easton who has been an instructor in the intermediate department of school No. 1 and is about to go to Iowa to fill a position of teacher, they say:

"Whatever of good character the school has had during the past year she has given it,"

The above is a thrust at Prof. Simpson. It is well known that the good character of a school is owing to its principal, not to an instructor in a primary department, and the Patriot stepping beyond the pale of justice and truth to give vent to venom is patent. Any citizen is liable to be misrepresented and abused by this Patriot if they dare to disagree with it.

Miss Easton has been a tireless worker and is held in high esteem by her old pupils in No. 1, and also deprecates the act of the Patriot in placing her before the public as an usurper.

But a few days ago Prof. Boothby paid Prof. Simpson in the presence of THE TIMES one of the grandest compliments as instructor and disciplinarian a man could receive, and Chancellor Sims of Syracuse University gave him a personal recommend to a neighboring school that any man may point to with pride.

But the Fulton Patriot, by the way, THE LARGEST PAPER IN OSWEGO COUNTY, and we might add, with the smallest circulation, is going to injure and lie about a man because "We don't like him." We ask the people if this isn't a contemptible spirit to possess and parade?

Under Prof. Simpson's principalship the attendance of pupils in his room increased during one term from SEVENTEEN to SIXTY-FIVE. Who was responsible for the character of this room?

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, July 24.—The market to-day has been a puzzle all around. Many salesmen expected a decline of ½c. from last week, and would probably have been satisfied with that, while others did not seem to think there ought to be any decline at all. Buyers stood between the two, and according to their own confession paid more than they were warranted in doing, considering the state of things in New York. The fact that nearly 30,000 boxes were carried over last week was somewhat discouraging, as it shows that accumulation had already begun. The experience of last year has made buyers on both sides of the water beware how they tamper with hot weather cheese at any such prices as are ruling at present. We know that two of the best combinations in the western part of the state were offered to shippers to-day, by a buyer, for 11¼c., which is just what they cost him last week when he was holding the same cheese for 11¾c. This shows a material modification in the views of the holders, when they are willing to come down ½c. At the same time, cows have shrunken fully ten per cent. during the last week, and makers do not expect to see as large receipts after this week.

Transactions for the day were as follows: 3 lots, 426 boxes at 10½c: 8 lots, 892 boxes, at 10⅝c.; 55 lots, 5,648 boxes, at 10¾c. Sales 7,752 boxes; commissions 1699 boxes; total 9,451 boxes. Ruling price 10¾c. One year ago to-day transactions amounted to 10,280 boxes at 10¼ and 11¼c. with a leading price of 11c. Two years ago prices were 9¼ and 10½c. and three years ago 5 and 5⅝c,

LITTLE FALLS, July 24.—Last week's boom is ended and to-day prices are full ¼c. lower than then quoted. It was claimed that there were not so many settled for at 11¼c. to-day as had been reported last week, and we made thoro' inquiry in regard to the matter. We find that several salesmen who expected 11¼c., settled at 11c. upon the failure of the New York market to respond to the expectation of buyers. To-day's market was strong, and it is generally believed that prices were as high as could be expected. Buyers had a close business last week and salesmen did not seem disposed to force prices, and it was generally conceded that 10¾c. was a good fair price for fine goods. Factories keep closely sold up and the amount of chese back is small. Following are the transactions:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
3	155	10 cents
3	122	10⅜ "
29	1336	10½ "
86	6858	10¾ "
2	166	10⅞ "
1	100	11 "
2	169	p. t.
19	1354	commis.
144	11,290
Farm dairies	$10
Total	12,890

AT FULTON.

Monday evening twenty-two factories were represented with 1,968 boxes, which sold 10⅛ and 10⅝c.; a year ago 2,668 boxes offered and sold at 10⅜c.; two years ago the price was 10½c., three years ago 8¼c.

Home and Tuition	44 00
Board and Tuition (short week)	26 00

Other branches at Moderate Rates.

Boarding and Day School for Ladies and Gentlemen.

Next term of 13 weeks begins on Monday Sept. 5th. The branches taught will be those usually taught in a first class boarding school. There will be a corps of well qualified teachers so as to give the best instruction. Common and Higher English Bookkeeping, Classics, French, German and Music will form part of the course. Five day boarders at special rates.

☞ The school is designed for those wishing to make rapid progress in their classes. To this end the classes are small, so that each pupil may have individual attention. No student is required to wait on another but passes from one class to another as as soon as qualified. Small schools, select in their character, are a great advantage to timid and backward pupils. The charges are low for the advantages offered. Boarders are received into the family of the Principal at moderate charges. Apply to

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass. says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more

STONES IN THE KIDNEYS

AND BLADDER EXPELLED—LONG SUFFERING OF ONE OF TROY'S—BEST PEOPLE —A LUCKY MAN.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful;

TROY, N. Y. April, 8, 1882.

Dr D. Kennedy Rondout N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the brick-dust sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accumulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send you the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfulness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible a disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other sufferers.

Yours Truly,
JAMES ANDREWS.
No 10 Marshal St, Ida Hill.

When we consider that the medicine which did this service for Mr. Andrews cost only one dollar a bottle, it would seem that persons in like fashion can afford the expense of testing its virtues. Get it of your druggist, or address Dr. David Kennedy Rondout, N. Y. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S

RESTAURANT.

—:o:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price, so much so that you will say to yourself well I did not know before that people could get such dishes for so small a figure and up here in the country. I have found the place to get my lunch from now out. The prices are what catches me.

CAUSE OF THE WAR.

Dissensions in Political Parties That Brought Egypt Trouble.

Probably eighty Americans out of a hundred know as little of the origin and the causes leading to the present crisis in Egypt as about the history of Timbuctoo.

The Egyptian trouble has many details; but the main facts are few. The chieftain Arabi Bey, is the leader of a political party. The party call themselves the Nationalists. They want to have the government freed from the control of foreigners. "Egypt for the Egyptians" is their cry. The reason why foreigners run the government now is because they have advanced hundreds of millions of dollars to the Egyptian governments in times past, have taken pay in bonds, and not having secured principal or interest for many years, they have been given secondary securities in land grants, railroad concessions, the right to control taxation and customs duties through agents of their own who set aside fixed sums for the bondholders, etc. The civil service is thus overrun with these creditor classes, who are mainly English and French, and the debtor class, who are the people of Egypt, have little to say, hard tribute to pay and very small benefit to get for themselves. The Egyptian bondholders are so many and influential as to force the English and French governments to make common cause with them. Both governments, in fact, are large stockholders in the Suez canal themselves.

The condition of the Egyptians is that of slaves taxed to pay bonds, which were issued by Khedives appointed by the Sultan, and the proceeds of which the ruling classes squandered on their vices and favorites. The position of England and France is that of protecting their citizens and themselves. The Suez canal must be controlled by England to secure her inside route to India. These facts enfold the Sultan amid conflicting interests. In 1841, Turkey gave qualified independence to the Khedive. He could issue bonds and make improvement, without recourse to the premits of the Porte but he remained politically vassal to him. The present Khedive has the same rights. If the Sultan sides against Arabi Bey, the Egyptians will throw off the Turkish yoke. If he sides with Arabi Bey, England and France will parcel out Egypt among themselves. The Khedive is a mere pawn played by Arabi Bey, and the Sultan is a mere pawn played by Bismarck, who, with the Czar, has an understanding with the Porte which neither France or England has got at.

These complications will enable Americans to see the mixed nature of the case. Egypt is in a condition of slavery and injustice; at the same time she is incapable of self-government. England and France are the instruments of the injustice, yet they are the instruments of civilization in Egypt, and England is the costodain of civilization beyond it. There is not a great chance for any of the rights which war should promote, to be promoted by this war. It is limited to the allies and to Egypt, the allies will win, though not after possibly great reverses. If it takes in Turkey, it will be more likely than not to unite her to Russia in spite of their immemorial feuds, for both will have a common cause in paralizing England in the East. Then Germany would see France and Russia fighting, and their weakening is her gain. This view of the case would render any predictation, except that of a general, long, bloody and deplorable war, impossible, with Turkey preserved as the necessary ulcer of Europe, and Bismark content to see every one of Germany's rivals grappling one another by the throat.

It is to be hoped the matter can be an Egyptian question, an not be made a European one, On that alone depend the poor chances which the Egyptians have of getting, by the moral opinion of the world, a modicum of these rights from their conquerors which the people cannot get for themselves and they could not use to profit, if they had them, except by the aid of masters. The abilities of Arabi Bey, who is the Khedive's war minister and master, form the unknown quantity of the situation. Some think him great. Others think him only an army fillibuster. Sarguine Americans regard the Egyptians as capable of self-government, but the best authorities are against that theory. The pretense Arabi Bey makes of American support comes from the assurance of Fenian emisaaries who are operating as far as Alexandria. If he relies on their reported assurances, the problem of his capacity has already settled itself in the negative. A character of some American interest, is General S. Stone, the Khedive's chief of staff, an adventurer who commanded our troops in the massacre at Ball's Bluff, early in the rebellion. His ability as a soldier ought not to be rated high, but he has carried his wars to a market where foreign talent has had a high price. Any failure of his will be saddled on the the defective character of the Egyptian forces—and that pretext will probably be unjust, for they have proved their efficiency, while Gen. Stone has not done so.

A WORLD OF GOOD.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere, people falk it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters, as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old-fashion bone set tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters [Nunda News. 10w2

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

A Level Headed Bishop.

The Roman Catholic bishop of Brooklyn draws the line at horse racing. Benefits from that pastime can not be turned into the coffers of the church. At the suggestion of Father Dougherty, the proprietor of the Brighton Beach race track set aside a day to the service of the church, that is, he engaged to give his track receipts for a day to Father Dougherty for parochial purposes. The arrangement was well advertised and Father Dougherty received $2,000 as the clean profits of the day. The bishop directed the priest to return the money and suspended him from priestly functions for receiving it. The objections of the bishop were not, of course, to the money, and maybe not to the way it was earned, but to the position in which the transaction put the church. Horse racing under the patronage and for the benefit of the church would be hardly the thing for the church. Yet, it is only here and there that a word is said against the grab bag, the post office, the lottery, fortune telling, and other like devices familiar to patrons of church fairs. The lover of poetry in motion as illustrated on a race course gets something for his money. The investor at church fairs can not always say as much for himself. But in any view of the case Bishop Loughlin's action is commendable. Because all evils are not condemned is no reason why some should not be. Owners of race tracks may, however, in all probability, give of their receipts to the church without fear or hope of their being returned—if they keep still about the way the money was earned.

"Facts speak plainer than words" Proof—The doctor told me to take a blue pill, but I didn't, for I had already been poisoned twice by mercury. The druggist told me to try kidney wort, and I did. It was just the thing for my biliousness and constipation, and now I am well as ever." A. P. Sanford. Sold in both dry and liquid form.

Skoboloff's Exploits.

Lieutenant F. V. Greene, United States army, in his "Sketches of Army Life in Russia," tells many characteristic stories of General Skobeloff. "In return for the care of his troops," he says, "he demanded of them, first of all, unhesitating, unflinching, unquestioning obedience to his orders. If he ordered a man to do anything where immediate death was as certain as the sun in heaven he expected to be instantly obeyed, without so much as even a look of question or surprise. One morning that I was with him on a reconnoissance we came to a small brook; an officer of his staff with whom he had had some cause of dissatisfaction just before rode forward to try its depth. While he was cautiously feeling the bank another officer—a Cossack—rode toward it and as his horse drew back plied both spurs and the whip with all its force. The horse sprang forward into the middle of the little stream and as it was very deep tho' very narrow both horses and rider disappeared under the water.

"There,' cried Skobeloff to the other, 'that's the way I want my officers to do things.' The first officer, greatly nettled then put spurs to his horse, and then Skobeloff, seeing his purpose, yelled at him to stop, in an instant he and his horse disappeared under the water. Both men were then dragged out dripping from their cold bath. Every one laughed and Skobeloff was in the best of humor.

'Now go home and dry your clothes; you're both fine fellows. But,' turning to the first one, he said, 'after this never hesitate in what you have to do."

"His personal bravery,' said Lieutenant Greene, "might almost seem like bravado to those who did not understand his motives. He always wore a white coat, a white hat, and rode a white horse in battle, simply because other generals usually avoided these target marks. He was perpetually riding at breakneck speed over some fence or ditch, leaving half his orderlies sprawling in it. He never lost an opportunity of displaying courage. He went into battle in his cleanest uniform and fresh underclothing, covered with perfume and wearing a diamond hilted sword, in order, as he said, that he might die with his best clothes on.

☞In the diamond dyes more coloring is given for 10 cents than in any 15 or 25-cent dyes, and they give faster and more brilliant colors.

Said an Austin teacher to one of his highest pupils: "If your father gave you a basket of peaches to divide between yourself and your little brother, and there were forty peaches in the basket, after you had taken your share, what would be left?" "My little brother would be left." [Texas Siftings.

ARNOLD'S,

Whose are the clothes? that shed the dew,
Bear sun and rain and yet seem new;
And look so smooth and glossy too!
Arnold's!

ARNOLD'S,

The heat and cold, the sleet and rain,
'Gainst Arnold's clothing beats in vain;
Their color always will remain.
Arnold's!

ARNOLD'S,

Tho' shoddy and sham crumble to dust,
As all unworthy mixtures must,
The customer can always trust
Arnold's.

ARNOLD'S

When wise old Noah launched his boat,
To keep him warm while he did float,
He bought a good stout Ulster coat
At Arnold's.

The blazing sun may cease to rise,
The stars be blotted from the skies,
Our prices cause still more surprise
At Arnold's.

Abraham Lincoln's Favorite Poem.

[The death of the widow of President Abraham Lincoln recalls his favorite poem, entitled: "Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"]

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud?
Like a swift-fleeting meteor, a fast flying cloud,
A flash of the lightning, a break of the wave,
He passeth from life to his rest in the grave.

The leaves of the oak and the willow shall fade,
Be scattered around and together be laid;
And the young and the old, and the low and the high,
Shall moulder to dust, and together shall lie.

The infant a mother attended and loved;
The mother that infant's affection who proved;
The husband that mother and infant who blest—
Each, all are away to their dwellings of rest.

[The maid on whose cheek, on whose brow, in whose eye,
Shone beauty and pleasure, her triumphs are by;
And the memory of those who loved her and praised,
Are alike from the minds of the living erased.]

The hand of the king that the sceptre hath borne,
The brow of the priest that the mitre hath worn,
The eye of the sage, and the heart of the brave,
Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave.

The peasant whose lot was to sow and to reap,
The herdsman who climed with his goat up the steep
The beggar who wandered in search of his bread,
Have faded away like the grass that we tread.

[The saint who enjoyed the communion of Heaven,
The sinner who dared to remain unforgiven,
The wise and the foolish, the guilty and just,
Have quietly mingled their bones in the dust.]

So the multitude goes, like the flower or the weed,
That withers away to let others succeed:
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen;
We drink the same stream we view the same sun,
And run the same course our fathers have run.

The thoughts we are thinking our fathers would think;
From the death we are shrinking our fathers would shrink;
To the life we are clinging they also would cling;
But it speeds from us all like a bird on the wing

They loved, but the story we cannot unfold;
They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold;
They grieved, but no wail from their slumber will come;
They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb.

They died, ay, they died; we things that are now,
That walk on the turf that lies over their brow,
And make in their dwellings a transient abode,
Meet the things that they met on their pilgrimage road.

Yes, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain,
Are mingled together in sunshine and rain;
And the smile and the tear, the song and the dirge,
Still follow each other like surge upon surge.

'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health to the paleness of death,
From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud—
Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud!

ARTHUR DENT.

BY FORLORN HOPE.

"Died—Monday April 1, at eight o'clock, Mrs. Ellen Dent, aged forty-five years."

"If I had been her physician, I should have given a certificate of "death from a broken heart," said Mrs. Benton, dropping [illegible] as she spoke. "It would certainly have been the truest verdict, whatever outward manifestation was produced."

"I was told she died of acute pneumonia," said Alice. "What makes you think otherwise?"

"Because I know the truth. She certainly died of pneumonia, but that was the culmination of years of hidden grief, for the cold was caught while lying in a swoon where she had fallen, struck down by the crowning infamy of her only son. Ah! mother love!, who shall probe thy depths, who shall know thy boundless wealth, thy infinite forbearance, thy ready excuse for every misdeed, thy self abnegation, thy unreasoning tenderness, thy sometimes strange vagaries? Who shall understand these? Heaven born, the storms of life have no power to harm. Faults, shame, nay, crime itself, cannot destroy thy vitality. Thy existence can only cease with the last pulsation that gave thee birth!

I can recollect distinctly the time of Ellen Althorp's marriage. She was several years my senior, but I was old enough to retain a very vivid impression of a wedding that caused such a commotion in our circle. It was the talk of our coterie for weeks before it came off. The ladies discussed the dainty outfit. Laces, rich silks and costly jewels were duly reviewed and pronounced faultless by the Mrs. Grundys of the day. The gentlemen called Arthur Dent a "lucky dog;" a man who held the winning card in the game of life, having secured the prize in the matrimonial market. And certainly fair were their prospects for a bright and prosperous career.

Ellen was a fine, intelligent girl, a rich man's daughter, and quite pretty enough to have made any young fellow forget her money, and woo and win her for her own sweet self. Besides Arthur's position placed him above the suspicion of marrying for money. So merrily, merrily rang the marriage chimes. No unfortunate circumstances came to mar the harmony of the day; even the most superstitious could not find an evil omen, and for once coming events cast not their shadows before them. Not a cloud marked the brilliant Southern sky on that eventful evening, and few of the bidden guests were absent. The bride was as beautiful as brides are always declared by their friends to be, and when she left for her new home many were the blessings and prophecies that followed her.

And for a while they seemed to have been fulfilled. Ellen was as happy in her new home as it was possible for her to be. If what is said be true, that a woman willingly puts on chains when she marries, hers must have been of gold and wreathed with flowers, and she wore them proudly enough. So time sped on.

My first introduction to Arthur Dent, jr., is one of the most comical recollections of my life, although after events have cast a deep shadow over the memory. It was on a balmy spring morning that I was ushered into the room where sat the young mother, dressed in the prettiest of robes de chambre.

"Oh! Penelope!" she exclaimed, as soon as I entered, "I am so glad you have come. I want you to see baby. He is just the nicest little fellow you ever saw. And so lively. Why, I actually believe he knows me already, and he is just three weeks old," and she went to the crib and gathered up a bundle of flannel, with a look of indescribable love and pride.

My notions of young babies were rather confused at best, and, with a mother's assurance of its beauty, I was totally unprepared for the diminutive, red faced, blink eyed specimen of humanity that met my gaze as, after many vain efforts it was fished out of its many wrappings.

"Isn't he beautiful, Penelope?" said Ellen, as her eyes filled with that love light that can only come to a mother, and scanning each feature to find some new beauty till then undiscovered. "Is he not lovely?" she repeated, as I still remained quiet, not trusting myself to say a word, for I had not learned, as yet, the necessity of assuring a mother that her baby is the loveliest thing yet seen, and I had common sense enough to feel that it would not do to say what I thought. However, she evidently caught my expression of undisguised wonder and disgust, but she colored deeply and said, "You don't seem to think him pretty, Penelope, but," she continued, in a tone that implied a sympathy for my ignorance and want of discernment, "you don't know anything about babies. But you may depend upon it, he is as near perfection as babies ever are," and she almost smothered the subject of this encomium with kisses, as an amende honorable undoubtedly for my lack of appreciation.

And such was her creed through life. Arthur, jr., could never do anything wrong. To her, he was without a blemish, mentally or physically. On him she poured the wealth of a heart capable of the most boundless affection. Other children came to claim a share of her love, but none ever reached the penetralia where was enshrined the image of her first born. He was her idol, and an idol of clay. Early he developed traits of character that should have caused her to tremble for her future, but in her eyes they were nothing but excusable piccadilloes. Not that he was totally devoid of characteristics both noble and lovable, for he was a bright, impulsive little fellow, who, perhaps, under different training, might have become a useful member of society. Her hopes, her fears, her thoughts by day and in the small hours of the night were of him and for him.

I shall never forget the impious prayer she uttered in my presence. Disease had entered that home, and three little forms lay tossing in the arms of the fever fiend. Arthur had sickened first, and already the death angel seemed hovering over the little sufferers. Mr. Dent and I sat mute beside the couch, powerless in that awful presence, feeling our nothingness. Not so the mother. With a cry of agony she threw herself on her knees, and raising her clasped hands she exclaimed: "Oh, God spare me, spare me this blow! Take all, but leave me this, my darling, my first born!"

Shocked beyond measure at the impiety of the words, I thought her mind was dazed by her sufferings, and tried to soothe her and bring her to better thoughts; rudely repulsing me she said: "I am not mad; I mean it. Let him take all, everything, but let me keep my Arthur, my blessed child. I ask for nothing more. Let Him grant it."

Her prayer was heard. In three days two little bodies were borne from that silent home and Arthur was fast recovering. Few were the tears the mother shed over the inanimate forms of her younger children, who lay so calm, so marble like, so beautiful, covered by the white blossoms strewed by the father's loving hand. To Mr. Dent the loss was very severe, for his children were alike very dear to him. Already that impious prayer began to bear its bitter fruit, for from these death beds sprang a feeling of distrust and hard, bitter thoughts between man and wife, that till then were unknown in the household.

Even toward Arthur, Mr. Dent's manner became harsh and exacting. No fault was too slight to be reprehended. Between the unlimited indulgence of one parent and excessive severity of of the other, the worst traits of the boy were fostered—a perfect tyrant with his mother, an accomplished hypocrite with his father. And so he grew up.

When older, his mother catered to his worst passions by furnishing the means by which he caroused in secret. If Mr. Dent was astonished he said nothing, for it had always been his practice to allow his wife to spend her revenue as she thought best, and she allowed no questions, well knowing that any knowledge of Arthur's demands would bring down his bitterest opposition. The consequence was, that from being a generous, open hearted man, Mr. Dent began to stint his family, in the vain hope of cutting short his son's supply of money; but he had not reflected that a woman capable of sacrificing all her children for the sake of one, was not likely to be dismayed at a little pinching and contriving for his sake. From being a close man through a desire of saving his son, he became a mean one from habit.

At seventeen Arthur was as accomplished a scamp as ever was a disgrace to his friends; but so well had he profited by the practice of dissimulation toward his father, that the public were divided as to his merits and demerits. At that time his father insisted upon his engaging in some business, and the better to watch his movements, took him as clerk in the bank of which he was president. Here the boy's engaging manners soon won him a prominent place among the other clerks, and fear of his father kept his vices in check for some time.

But there came a rude awakening. One evening, two years after the first entrance into the bank it was discovered that he had absconded, taking with him eighty thousand dollars. A most insolent note was the first information Mr. Dent received of the disgrace that had befallen him. It was from his son and assured him that he, Arthur, was well aware that if he waited until mother and father should take a trip to the next world, he should even have more than what he was now approaching, but that, having no guarantee of the time that exit would take place, he had concluded that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush," etc.

With a cry of rage and agony, the prematurely old man fell, struck with appoplexy. He was carried home, when, reviving during the night, he took immediate steps to reimburse the amount taken, and dispatched messengers to bring back the absent fugitive. He expired that night with no words of forgiveness for his son. Arthur was brought back, but showed no repentance. On the contrary he evidently felt relieved from the restraint his father had always exercised, and he now plunged openly into the wildest of excesses. No gambling house but he was a welcome habitue—no place of debauchery that knew him not. Previous to his father's death, Arthur's demands for money had always taken the form of entreaty, tears, prayers and every other mockery calculated to secure his mother's silence was resorted to. But now all necessity for concealment was at an end, and he found it irksome to sue. He demanded and was obeyed; for the poor woman had learned the lesson long ago. Piece after piece of real estate found its way to the auctioneer's hammer, to satisfy his ever growing wants; and curses both deep and loud were hurled at her devoted head if her tyrant was not quickly obeyed. His name became a by-word synonymous with infamy; his associates were of the vilest; and many a night saw him an inmate of the county jail, as participator in some drunken brawl, yet his mother had a ready excuse for every misdeed, feigning to be deceived and hoping to deceive others.

At last, a short time ago, the last available dollar was given him. The poor woman had reserved nothing but a few pieces of silver that had belonged to her at the time of her marriage. She was in absolute want, and gone heroically to work to eke out a scanty living with her needle. One day Arthur came in and insolently demanded the silver that he might sell it. He was prepared to meet expostulation, but not an absolute refusal. He threatened; she remained firm; when, exasperated by a resistance he was in no mood to brook, He felled her with one blow, and taking the silver, left the room.

Mrs. Dent had been failing in health for years, a victim to the broken hopes of her life, and this was the last blow to her devoted heart. She was found hours after by some friends, and on reviving the bitterness of her heart found utterance. She lingered two weeks, a prey to the acutest anguish and remorse, and yet dying left messages of love and forgiveness to that monster of ingratitude, Arthur Dent.

The political parties appear to be suffering from an attack of gripes. This is the only case of indigestion that Cobb's Little Podophyllin Pills will not relieve. 25 cents per bottle.

To Foretell the Weather.

If the sun sets in crimson clouds and rises brilliant, or if the stars are numerous and bright, we know in a general way that we may reckon on a duration of fine weather.

Dews and white morning fogs are symptoms of clear days.

A dark and vapory sun and a sickly looking moon with blunt horns, and a circle around her or pallid, big and noncintillating stars, are all signs of approaching rain.

If the sun comes up pale and then turns red, or if the moon is large and ruddy, with sharp black horns we may count on wind.

The chickweed is called "the poor man's barometer" because it shuts up its flowers when wet wheather is approaching.

The aurora borealis, when very bright, forebodes stormy, moist, unsettled weather.

A haze around the sun indicates rain; it is caused by fine rain or mist in the upper regions of the atmosphere.

A halo around the sun has often been followed by heavy rains.

A halo around the moon is also an indication of rain. The larger the halo the nearer the wet spell.

Lack of dew is another rain sign.

Sharp white frosts in autumn and winter [illegible] sign of rain.

Previous to rain the flies bite sharper and stick to us closer, and bees remain in the hive.

The Suez Canal.

(From the Oswego Express)

The war in Egypt has called special attention to everything in that part of the world that is liable to be affected by it. Egypt is only nominally under Turkish control. It is virtually independent, except that it pays an annual tribute to Turkey. The territory under the rule of the khedive contains about 658,000 square miles and a population of about 7,000,000, once and a half the population of state of New York. On the east, Egypt is bounded by the Red Sea; on the north by the Mediterranean sea. The two are only separated by a narrow strip of land about seventy-five miles wide, in a straight line at its narrowest point which also joins Africa with Asia. This narrow strip of land is called the Isthmus of Suez. By crossing this narrow neck of land you are at once transferred from the Mediterranean sea connected with the Atlantic Ocean into the Red Sea which opens directly into the Pacific Ocean. Until within a few years the commerce of that part of the world was only transferred from one ocean to the other by a trip around Africa at its southernmost point, and turning the Cape of Good Hope. But in 1854, M. DeLesseps the indefatigable French Engineer, who now is at work upon a canal across the isthmus of Darien—proposed a canal for the largest class of vessels across Suez. This canal saves vessels from London to India about 6,000 miles each trip. The canal was opened to the public in 1869 and since then has been in constant use. On the Mediterranean side it begins at a town called Pord Said. This town was built up by the canal. It had no existence prior to 1862. It now contains between 10,000 and 15,000 inhabitants. Of course the population is largely made up of the officers of the canal company and the men in their employ. The water of the Mediterranean was at this point very shallow and an entire new harbor had to be constructed. There were no stone in the vicinity suitable for the work, and they were made artificially on the spot, out of hydraulic cement, moulded into form and after drying them sufficiently were used for the harbor. These blocks of stone weigh about twenty tons each. One of the piers extends into the sea about 7,000 feet, or nearly a mile and a half—the other about 6,000 feet, and are 4,600 feet apart at the shore and 2,300 feet at the terminus in the sea. The lighthouse at the end of the piers is 180 feet high and lighted by electricity. A similar harbor was constructed at Suez in the Red Sea. The canal from Said goes first for 20 miles through Menzalah Lake—a low swampy place. On each side artificial embankments fifteen feet high had to be constructed. The canal through this lake is 112 feet wide at the surface and 26 feet deep. Then comes a strip of land eleven miles in length and from fifteen to thirty feet higher than the sea level. Through this the canal was dug in cuttings in some places over fifty feet deep. This brought them to Aba Ballah Lake, after which they came to another strip of land eleven miles wide, through which cuttings were made from thirty to eighty feet deep. This brought them to Temsah lake—three miles across. At this point the town of Ismalia stands, and the central point of the canal. Here the river Nile was tapped by a side canal, constructed for the purpose of supplying people living or doing business on the canal with fresh water. This for part of the way will accommodate small vessels and a portion is only a large iron pipe. From Temsah lake to Scrapeum is eight miles of land lying about fifty feet above sea level, and requiring a cutting of over sixty feet in some places, all sand. On this point occurs the deepest cutting of the line—nearly ninety feet. Then comes the bitter lakes, where for several miles more embankment had to be built. Then comes thirteen miles to Suez through a stony plateau of cutting, varying from thirty to sixty feet. The canal is about one hundred miles long, of which about seventy-five miles are actual canal, and about twenty-five miles are through lakes and "lagoons." The work was mainly built by English and French capital, and cost $75,000,000 dollars. The company consists of 400,000 shares, of which the British government own one hundred and seventy—not quite a controling interest, but still the largest shareholder. The company pay annually to Egypt a stipulated sum for the privileges granted. France next to England is the second largest shareholder. In view of the threats of Arabi Pasha against this work, so largely owned by England and France, it will readily be seen why they take so deep an interest in the contest going on there between the regular government and a rebellion against it. The earnings of the canal are something over $5,000 a day and arises from tolls collected from vessels using it in proportion to their tonnage.

ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night-sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is scrofulous disease of the lungs:—therefore use the great antiscrofula, or blood purifier and strength-restorer—Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. A Romance of Castle Garden.

Castle Garden, the leading place of all immigrants at New York, is among other things a great employment bureau. A farmer from Germantown, Pa., came Wednesday to Castle Garden in search of a young married couple to take into his service. His name was Amos Miller and he was of a jolly and benevolent temperament. He was willing to give $25 a month and to board a man and his wife who would accompany him to his home. Unfortunately there happened at the time to be no couples at the Garden who were desirous of obtaining such a situation as he offered. Not to be discouraged, however, he set about finding two single young persons of opposite sex who might not be averse to uniting their lives and luck. He first accosted a number of men who looked like honest, amiable fellows, and among them discovered one whose fancy was taken by the picture which he held up to him of a cosy, rustic home and a good natured young wife to keep it, all to be acquired by a single and very simple transaction. This negotiation settled, he sought for a damsel to match the willing swain, and it was not long before he succeeded in obtaining from such a one her shy consent to change her social condition. He immediately brought the future husband and wife together in spite of their sudden confusion and assumed reluctance. Once presented to each other, they found no difficulty whatever in making an acquaintance, through the medium of their native tongue, the German. She was Rosina Haeffner, 19 years of age, and he was Adam Horner, 25. The Rev Mr. Berkemeier was summoned, and in the employment office he united them by the time honored tie that man is solemnly forbidden to sunder. A matron and an officer attached to the department of emigration served as bridesmaid and best man. The couple embraced with hearty satisfaction and went away leaving smiling faces behind them.

He Was Waited For.

A Chicago man who lives on the top flat, came wandering home and found he had forgotten his night-key. Howling through the tube to his flat he demanded, in what he assumed to be a disgusting tone: "Is Mrs Jones there?"

"Yes," she replied.

"Is Mr. Jones there?" asked the husband.

"It isn't time for him yet," replied Mrs Jones. He doesn't come home till daylight."

"The devil he don't," muttered Jones. "I say," he continued aloud, "can't I come up and wait for him?"

"Not to-night; some other night. There is some one here now who has been waiting for him since dark!"

"Great Scott!" muttered Jones, glancing at his watch, "and it is now 4 o'clock. Look here! I don't care anything about Jones; I want to see the man who is waiting!"

"That's just the way I feel about it," replied Mrs. Jones, sweetly. "Now go away like a good man and don't disturb me!"

Then Jones began to hammer on the door and howl, until one of the neighbors came down and hauled him in by the collar.

"Where's that man?" he demanded of his wife. "Where's that man who was waiting for me?"

"What man?" asked Mrs. Jones, rubbing her eyes and looking up innocently. "I said there was some one waiting for you, and it's me, and if you think I'm not enough, you want to stand around there just a few minutes longer by the watch!"

And Jones blessed God that it was not so, and rent his garments from his system, and landed himself into bed, saying: "The wise man hath a froward tongue, but Joneseth goes no more unto the walking-match without his night-key."

THE FULTON TIMES

Wednesday, Aug. 2, 1882.

THE president has vetoed the river and harbor bill.

THE democratic state committee will meet in Saratoga next Tuesday.

THE Egyptian question becomes more complicated every day and the end is impossible of solution.

EGYPT is not in a very good condition, financially, to endure a prolonged war. Her debt is $750,000,000 bearing interest at seven per cent.

SHIRT Collar Spinola of the Tammany Wigwam says that if Tilden is nominated for Governor by the Democracy, and Tammany is not admitted to the convention, the ticket will be smashed by 150,000 majority.

A COTEMPORARY declares that there were 9,000 saloons in New York city. If placed side by side in a line they would extend a distance of forty-five miles. What an agreeable forty-five miles that would be for some people to travel.

KANSAS and Iowa having enacted a stringent prohibition amendments to their constitutions, Nebraska thinks it would be a good thing for that state and proposes to submit it to the people. The western people take the lead in some important measures.

INTERESTED parties should make a note of the fact that a law of the United States makes it a grave criminal offense to fill up the holes in a punched coin; and passing it off as the "clear quill." The penalty is only $3,000, or imprisonment for five years, or both.

THE Oswego Palladium insists that as a result of the Place-Sloan republican deal in Oswego county, N. W. Nutting is to be a candidate for congress and DeWitt Littlejohn is to be returned to the assembly. The Palladium as a prophet is not without honor in its own locality.

THE commission appointed by the President to revise the tariff are in session at Long Branch and are enjoying themselves. They receive $10 per diem and stationery, messengers, clerks, etc., etc., and will probably be until snow flies framing anything like an intelligent revision.

PLATE swimming is a new kind of swimming with the aid of plates adjusted to the hands and feet, that enables one to attain a speed far beyond that of professionals. They consist of thin plates of veneer, fastened together in such a manner as to combine lightness and strength.

THE tolls collected on the canals in Buffalo in the month of July were $27,836, a decrease of $27,704 compared with July of last year: from the opening to Aug. 1st, $127,955, a decrease of $93,105. The boats cleared in July were 745, a decrease of 356, from the opening to August 1st, 2,802, a decrease of 9.

IN view of the approach of the time for voting on the amendment making the Erie Canal free, our Canadian neighbors are discussing the advisability of doing the same thing by their own waterways, and also to offer other inducements to secure for themselves a monopoly of the shipping trade of the northwest.

THERE are yet to come the full revelations of the horrors of the struggle in Egypt. A war of religious fanaticism, based on a religion of lust, with the hate grown from ages of oppression, must be attended by such atrocities as have rarely been equaled. Rumors of them we hear, but the full story will make civilization blush for very shame.

THE dumb animals were among the sufferers by last week's heat. In one car load of ninety-six sheep arriving at Jersey City, only forty-three were found alive. Steers and lambs were so overcome that many were sold at a nominal price to butchers, and others could not be disposed of at all. With meat already dear, such seasons of heat as last week decrease the available supply.

THE total amount of freight carried last week by the state canals was 191,950 tons, as against 218,960 tons during the corresponding period last year. Of wheat 5972 tons were carried. The quantity of corn carried was only 1426 a remarkable falling off from the same week in 1881, when it was 34,624. The weekly tolls have decreased $11,335, being this year $15,385, and last year having been $25,770.

THERE is now trouble for the cadets at West Point, Whittaker, colored, has been disposed of for mutilating his own ears Flipper, colored, is out of the army for dishonesty, but a Florida congressman has nominated a colored boy for West Point. He is a bright boy, a ripe scholar and received his appointment by competitive examination. He is colored and it is quite clear he will have a stormy and disagreeable life until he is turned out on some trumped up charge.

THE present mania so lavishly indulged in by many who would ape the air of genteel people in doffing hats to ladies is often carried to ridiculous lengths. To see a man seated on a box, puffing a cigar, raise his hat to a lady is an effront to the ethics of politeness and an insult to the lady. There is another class who bunglingly raise their tile as a matter of necessity, they are acquainted with the lady, and a frantic grab at the hat is cheaper than a gentlemanly salutation. Lord Chesterfield was never guilty of saluting a lady with the hand nearest her face, thereby causing her to step one side or be knocked down, nor is Lord Chesterfield's manner emulated to any great extent in some localities.

DROWNED IN OSWEGO.

Martin Herrick of Bundys Crossing finds a Watery Grave—His Body Not Recovered.

Monday an accident occurred near the mouth of the harbor in Oswego in which several Fulton men came near losing their lives.

The Oswego Express says: The scow "Tip-Top" brought a load of stone from Bundys Crossing for the improvements in progress in the new harbor for the D. L. & W. railroad. The scow was taken in tow here by the tug "Lyons" for the purpose of conveying it to the new harbor. There was considerable sea running in at the time, and the scow being heavily laden, worked badly. On the scow were four men named respectively John Richardson, Joseph Aker, Artemas Burcham, and a son-in-law of the latter, a young man about 23 years of age, named Martin Herrick of Bundys Crossing. After passing the lighthouse Captain Scott, of the "Lyons" saw there was danger of the scow swamping and asked the men on board of her if it would not be advisable to turn back. Herrick dissented to the proposition and the tug continued her course. Suddenly the bottom of the scow dropped out. Herrick, at the moment was at the pump and he sank with the cargo. The other men by clinging to the hawser and portions of the wreck were speedily picked up. Herrick never came to the surface. The deceased was a married man and leaves a wife and one child. The opinion prevails with some that he is pinioned to the bottom by the stone, and in such an event the recovery of the body will depend entirely upon the measures adopted to secure it.

The boat belonged to Mr. L. T. Richardson of Fulton and was purchased by him about two weeks ago. He estimates his loss at about $250.

Facts Taken from School Register At No. 1.

The term just preceding Mr. Simpson's principalship 29 pupils were registered in the senior department. At the commencement of his first term seven of the above number entered Miss Easton's room and one moved out of district leaving 21 for him to open school with. Instead of this number, however, the term opened with 49 and steadily increased during his principalihip to 65, for which increased attendance the district received $39.76 increase of public money. Not one pupil was promoted from any of the rooms below into his department.

NEIGHBORING NEWS.

The editor of the Central Square News is laid up with a broken leg.

J. E. Sperry of Parish has been nominated by the Greenbackers for congress.

William Tibbitts who resided at Centreville, this county, died Monday from the effects of an overdose of hard cider.

From the Oswego Times we learn that the latest Chicago directory contains the names of upwards of 6000 people formerly residents of Oswego.

William H. Shute, a Syracuse letter carrier has been apprehended for purloining valuable letters entrusted to him for delivery. Held to await the action of the grand jury.

The Oswego Palladium announces that Jay E. McGuire formerly school commissioner in this county, is now in Brennan, Texas, where he has just been elected to a similar office.

Cleveland is to have a knitting factory. It will employ about forty girls and is to be conducted by N. Leonard. G. N. Potter of Constantia will locate a bank in that village and be ready for business August 10.

Mr. Gardner, of New Haven, Oswego county, was mowing with his team, Tuesday, and on going down hill one of the pole straps broke, letting the cutter bar against one of the horses and cutting one hind leg off.

The police commissioners of Syracuse have recommended an increase of salary for the police of that city. The salary of the chief is to be increased from $1200 to $1500; patrolmen from $720 to $840, and others in like ratio.

Mr. A. G. Cook was recently offered $25,000 for "Black Prince" by a gentleman from Syracuse, on condition that he shall trot a half mile in 1:07. This is the time precisely that the horse made at Watertown. [Oswego Times.

The Oswego Express says: Saturday evening when Barnum's advertising car was about leaving the city several airs were played upon the steam piano. Telephonic communication was established between the Central office and Fulton, and the sounds were heard in that place very distinctly as the car moved out.

Potato buyers in the vicinity of Cortland are offering to contract the coming crop at 50 cents per bushel and quite a number of farmers are negotiating at that price. As potatoes, according to present indications are not yielding the crop the fine appearance of the vines would indicate, this may bee too low an offer.

The notorious Dr. Mary Walker was the centre of a gaping crowd at the Central depot last evening. She wore a beaver hat and a full suit of male clothing, and seemed to pay very little attention to the uncomplimentary remarks which must have fallen upon her ear. She was on her way to her former home in Mexico, Oswego county to visit friends. [Syracuse Herald.

A family in a neighboring city used for toilet purposes, a five-cent sponge purchased from a pedler, and became afflicted with a peculiar affection of the eyes. It has been discovered that these sponges are picked up in the streets after having been used in New York hospitals, and are then bleached and disinfected with chloride of lime. Untold danger [illegible] these cheap sponges.

A special dispatch to the Syracuse Journal from Clayton, N. Y., says a proposition is made there to run Hon. Thos. G. Alvord, "Old Salt" for member of assembly from that district, which embraces the northern part of Jefferson county. It says his residence is there as he spends each year from June until October at his residence on Governor's Island in the St. Lawrence river. This change would undoubtedly please some of the aspirants for Alvord's place in the first district of Onondaga county.

The Oswego Palladium of Friday tells this wonderful story:—About two weeks ago a daughter of Mr. Wm. Hindhough, aged about twenty months, fell from a chair backwards, and in her struggle on the floor swallowed something which she had in her mouth, and which was supposed to be a hair pin, from the information that could be obtained. The child has been in a precarious state ever since, suffering excruciating pain. The conditions became so serious that Dr. Eddy, the attending physician decided that an operation was necessary if the child's life was to be saved at all, and this morning performed it, with the assistance of Dr. Clark. To the astonishment of the operating physicians and all concerned, the foreign substance was found to be, not a hair pin, but a steel hat pin a little over five inches long and having a large jet head, and which was found in the stomach and very successfully removed. A slight proturberance appeared on the left side just above the lower rib. This was cut into and the point of the pin was revealed. There are hopes for the recovery of the child.

North Hannibal has a school war. Miss Hattie Farnham is the principal of the district school in that place, and Miss Ella Metcalf has been the assistant. For some time past each wanted her own way in conducting the school, which caused an unpleasant feeling to exist between them. One day last week the principal detained a pupil after the school closed in the afternoon to complete a lesson which she failed to do in school hours. The assistant against the positive orders of the principal gave the pupil permission to go home. Miss Farnham informed Mr. George Farnham, the trustee, of the difficulty, who, upon learning the state of affairs of the school, dismissed the assistant, giving her to understand that her services were no longer needed in that school. But she was not to be got rid of in that manner. Miss Farnham opened the school with a new assistant but Miss Metcalf opened an opposition school in a vacant wagon shop. The Hannibal News says: "How long this state of affairs will exist is a question that can only be settled by the people of that district. At present the inhabitants are about equally divided, and much bitterness exists, with indications of a prolonged quarrel."

AN OHIO CLERGYMAN

Wages War Against a Druggist and is Sued for Damages.

The arrest of Rev. Mr. Brand, of Oberlin, Ohio, on a charge of libeling a citizen from the pulpit is a remarkable feature of the anti-whisky war in that village last winter. The friends of temperance were very aggressive and succeeded in closing all the saloons and barrooms. They undertook to shut up the drug store kept by Frank E. Bronson. He insisted that his business was legitimate and refused to close it. Watch was maintained by the temperance crusaders, and the names of every person entering Bronson's place were taken down. Efforts were made of one kind and another to drive patrons away, and persuasion and threats were expended on the proprietor; but all to no purpose. Bronson kept his store open. Rev. Mr. Brand at last took the matter up in a Sunday discourse. He preached about and at and on and to Bronson; accused him of selling liquor, of enticing men and youths to drink, of insulting women and holding open the way to ruin for everybody of Oberlin who would walk therein. Addressing the druggist as "thou corrupter of youth," the clergyman thundered at him that he would not take his "death for all the pleasures of his guilty life a thousand fold." He said "images of terror would rise before him, and "ghastly deeds" would stretch their "skinny hands" to push him forward. "Agony would tender its fiery cup to his parched lips." "Remorse would feel for" his "heart and rend it apart." The diatribe was concluded in these words:

> "Good men shall breathe freer at thy death and utter thanksgiving when thou art gone. Men shall place thy grave stone as a monument and a testimony that a plague is stayed; and as borne on the blast thy guilty spirit whistles toward the gates of hell, the hideous shrieks of those whom thou hast destroyed shall pierce thee—hell's first welcome."

The sermon was a great success—as a sensation. But as a sermon even some of the temperance people thought it a trifle too warm—for February. Mr. Bronson at once sought the courts. The reverend gentleman did not have the courage of his impudence, and no sooner heard that a warrant was out for him than he gave leg bail and left for parts unknown. A few days ago, thinking the affair had blown over, he returned to Oberlin. He found out his mistake as soon as he got there. He was promptly arrested and held to defend himself in a suit for $30,000 alleged damages, and is likely to discover that, for any practical good to the temperance cause or himself, his fiery sketch of Bronson's death and passage over the Styx was too previous, if not entirely overdrawn.

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, July 31.—The decline in New York did not seem to make any difference in the Utica market to-day. The fact is, cheese was not so plentiful as it might have been, nor was the usual number of salesmen at the board. Buyers seemed ready to take all that was offered at the prices they were willing to pay, and those prices were rather better than was anticipated. The market really displayed a good deal of strength and must be considered a very satisfactory one. There were no special influences brought to bear, nor did there appear to be much competition, but cheese sold on its actual merits as an article of consumption, in comparison with meat and other foods. Transactions of the day were as follows: 3 lots, 202 boxes, at 10¼c.; 271 boxes 10⅜c.; 11 lots, 987 boxes, 10½c.; lots, 4,791 boxes, at 10⅝c.; 50 boxes at 10¾c.; 227 small cheese at 10⅞c.; and 2 lots, 350 boxes, at private terms. Sales 6,878 boxes; commissions, 2,367; total 9,245 boxes. Ruling price 10⅝c. A year ago the transactions were 9,000 boxes. The "leading" price at that time was 10¾c., but the ruling price, as we understand it this season, was only 10⅝c., the same as to-day. Two years ago the range of prices was 9½ to 10½c., and three years ago it was 6¾ to 7⅝c.

LITTLE FALLS, July 31, 1882.—The market has not ruled quite so brisk as for a few weeks past. Some buyers stood back and would not pay last week's figures and others only did it to quite a a limited extent. A striking peculiarity of the markets is the large number of conditional sales. The sales quoted at private trade were mostly of this character, buyers promising 10½c., and one-fourth cent more is the New York market would warrant them in paying it. There are large numbers of factories selling every week in this way, and it renders more difficult than ever before to give a strictly accurate report. Factories have, almost without exception, sold off very closely. From considerable inquiry we find that the date to which they have sold, on the average, is about July 1, not including this week's trade. Cows are shrinking largely in milk, but not any more, and some say less, than last year. The following exhibits the trade of the day:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
4	261	10¾ cents
2	160	10¾ "
83	6,157	10½ "
2	145	10⅝ "

A Noted Women.

The item in regard to the failue of "Yours for health, Lydia E. Pinkham," of Lynn, Mass., which has been floating through the papers, we are glad to learn is false in every respect, as we found on inquiring at Hubbard's international newspaper agency of this city. The Lynn Bee said a few days since: "The Lydia E. Pinkham Compound business is not financially embarrassed as reported, but is being conducted on a much larger scale than ever, doing a large and growing business and paying one hundred cents on a dollar." Mr. Hubbard has whole charge of the advertising of this and other similar large houses, and informs us that he has inserted her advertisements on yearly contracts in over 8,000 newspapers last year so that she is to-day the best known woman in America. In addition to this fact she is a live, earnest woman of over sixty, and doing a great deal of good in the world, as many of the best families in this city can testify. Her advertisements though worded plainly are not equivocal in any sense and her remedy is one of the few of great merit before the public.

Edward Terrill Arrested for the Crime—An Examination

[illegible]

Tammany Hall, [illegible] a saloon owned [illegible] John Carroll, was Saturday evening the alleged scene of the most brutal crime committed in this vicinity for many years. Thomas Burns, a man well known in this locality, became involved in a discussion in this saloon and a row ensued in which he evidently got the worst of it. He was assisted home by his brother and a physician summoned when the announcement was made that his injuries were likely to prove fatal, several of his ribs being broken, and one driven into his right lung.

There were several men young and old in the saloon and Edward Terrill was arrested Sunday by officers Burke and Dexter on a warrant issued by Police Justice Betts and lodged in jail in Oswego Falls. Monday at 9 a. m., he was examined before Betts and below are the main facts in evidence. Justice Betts was assisted in the examination by G. S. Piper, Esq., and Terrill was represented by H. C. Howe Esq.

The first witness was John Carroll, proprietor of Tammany Hall. He testified substantially as follows:

BEGINNING OF THE FRACAS.

There are two rooms in my saloon, Tom Burns came in about 8 o'clock with Michael Fitzgerald and John Kinney; Terrill came in about 9:45 with John Dwyer and went in room where Burns was; Terrill said Patsey Burns a brother of Tom had insulted him; I told Patsey not to insult him again; he answered "I did not;" Patsey told Terrill he did not insult him; Terrill said "That is all right, that ends it." Tom Burns then spoke up and said, "Terrill I can lick you, I have got a boy fifteen years old that can lick you!" Terrill says, You can't do it; Burns took off his coat and laid it on the bar saying, "I will go and get him." Tom went out and returned in a minute and said to his brother Patsey "Don't you make any apology to Terrill for nothing." Tom commenced to move towards Terrill; Terrill said "Tom Burns keep away from me;" Burns kept advancing toward Terrill; two or three men were near by; Burns made a pass at Terrill and then grabbed him; Mike Nealas tried to part them and was pushed aside by Terrill; Burns came up again; I pushed him away; did not see any one kick him; Burns put on his coat and went home and so did Terrill.

Cross-Examined—It was 10:15 o'clock when they left and Burns bore no marks.

PATRICK BURNS

Brother of deceased was the next witness called. He was in Tammany Hall when Tom came in. Heard Terrill in front room talking and asked Carroll if he was talking about me; heard him say he could lick all of the Burns' in Oswego Falls; Carroll said Terrill told him I called him a sucker; I denied it Terrill said he did not mean me; Tom went out in front room; did not hear any talk between him and Terrill; I went home with Tom.

Cross Examined—I went with Tom to Hagan's corner; John Kinney went home with him; he walked alone I did not help him.

PATRICK CASEY

dropped into "Tammany Hall" about twenty minutes to ten and heard Tom Burns sing a song and had a glass of beer with him; Terrill came in and kept quiet; heard noise outside; Tom had his coat off; Terrill told him to keep away; Next saw Burns on the floor five or six feet from Terrill; he got up and leaned against bar and said "Never mind if I can't lick you I have a boy that can." Did not see any one struck.

Cross Examined—Did not see any stone; was there about fifteen minutes; row lasted about two minutes.

MICHAEL NEALAS

was in the saloon at 10:15 o'clock; Casey and I had some beer; Terrill went behind the bar and said some one had called him a sucker; Patsey Burns spoke to Carroll; Tom said to Patsey "You need not apologize, I will see to him;" Tom Burns took off his coat and said: "Terrill I can lick you." He advanced toward Terrill and made a pass at him; Terrill made a pass at him and Burns fell down; I tried to make peace; Terrill shoved me aside and I fell on top of Burns; Burns got up and went for Terrill once or twice and fell down again; Terrill kicked at him once; Burns was down when Terrill kicked at him; Burns was full length on floor; he got up and leaned against bar and said to Terrill "You will pay for this, I have a son that can lick you." I went home.

Cross examined—Did not see a stone in Burns' hand; Burns struck at Terrill first; Terrill's hand was clinched.

JOHN KINNEY

heard Terrill say he would not allow any man to call him a sucker; I went home with Tom Burns and left him at his stoop; his wife came out of the house and was with him; had to help him from Hagan's corner home; would not say that he could not walk without assistance.

JAMES DWYER

accompanied Terrill to "Tammany Hall;" Patsey Burns had a conversation with Terrill; Tom said, "Patsey, you need not talk to him;" Tom took off his coat and laid it on the bar and said "Terrill, I have got a boy 15 years old that can lick you;" Tom went out and returned and started for Terrill; Terrill told him to keep away; Tom struck at Terrill and he pushed him against the bar; Tom made a pass at him and went down; Nealas grabbed Terrill and pushed him on Tom. Tom was on his back; Tom says: "You will pay for this, I have got a boy 15 years old that can lick you if I can't; Terrill then went out and Burns remained.

Cross examined—Saw stone in Burns' hand as large as my fist.

OSCAR PARKER

saw Burns getting up off the floor.

The examination was then adjourned until Monday at 9 a. m., the prisoner Terrill being admitted to bail in the sum of $250, Timothy Sullivan of Oswego Falls becoming his bondsman. The only testimony taken Monday was that of the attending physician

DR. WILLIS M. WELLS.

I was called about 8 o'clock Sunday morning to see Burns; found him with a contused wound over the right eye; found bruise on cheek and scratches on face; was suffering great pain; appeared bloated over trunk and face; found ribs broken on right side; have seen him this morning and is no worse.

Cross examined—Have treated Burns for the last year for phthisic; saw him Saturday on the fair ground; did not know he had been drinking; saw a slight discoloration below the broken ribs; I think 6th, 7th and 8th were broken; broke from about 8 to 10 inches from the backbone. He might have wanted assistance to get home. These injuries might all have been caused by falling; he might have walked home alone without assistance.

Adjourned until Monday, Aug. 7, at 9 o'clock to await the result of Burns' injuries. Terrill admitted to bail again in $250, the court accepting former surety.

BURNS DIES.

About eleven o'clock yesterday Burns' condition became alarming and he grew worse until 4 p. m., when he died. His deposition was taken and in it he charged Terrill with assaulting him.

E. Parker issued a warrant for the arrest of Edward Terrill charging him with the murder of Thos. Burns. The warrant was given to deputy Sheriff Hulett who proceeded to Terrill's residence and informed him of his errand. Terrill evinced no sign that would indicate the proceeding to be of a terrible character but coolly and composedly accompanied the officer before Parker. He was confined in the Oswego Falls jail and District Attorney N. B. Smith of Pulaski immediately notified to be present and conduct the examination.

EDWARD TERRILL

is a young man about 22 years of age, five feet seven inches in height, and weighs 175 pounds. He is a well-built, compact fellow, and is rather a good looking young man, and his face does not bear the impress of a hardened or dissipated character. He is an employee in the Oswego Falls factory—a wool-sorter—and his fellow workmen are unanimous in speaking of his good qualities. He is the main support of a widowed mother. He formerly lived in Oswego, moving to Fulton about four years ago.

THOMAS BURNS,

the deceased, was born in Ireland in 1827, and came to this country in 1852. For nearly thirty years he has been a resident of Fulton and Oswego Falls, following the avocation of gardner. He was a hard worker and had a nice home. Late years he has been suffering from a complication of diseases, and was by no means a strong or rugged man. He leaves a wife and three sons—two of whom have nearly attained man's estate. Funeral will be held at 3 p. m. to-morrow from the church of the Immaculate Conception.

THE BODY

was viewed this morning at Burn's home by Coroner Hall and a jury composed of the following gentleman: Foreman—P W Hyde, George Kellogg, John N Sharp, M A Stewart, John H Woodin, Thomas D. Lewis, William E Taylor, Dr I C Curtis G W Morton and D C Skaden. After viewing the remains the inquest was adjourned until 7 o'clock this evening, to meet in the police court room and hear evidence.

Thursday	13
Friday	22
Total	82

The aggregate time consumed in fishing was about ten hours. If there is any fisherman in Oswego county that has a better record we have not seen it mentioned.

Sunday Fire.

The house, barn and and outhouses of George Bailey were burned Sunday afternoon during the absence of the family. They were located on South First street, near the corporation line. At 1:30 p. m., Mr. and Mrs Bailey left the house and returned about 4 p. m., to find the house and contents completely destroyed. Mr. Bailey is a hard working, industrious man and is employed in the Oswego Falls factory. He had just completed paying for his home and the loss is severely felt. The origin of the fire is unknown and there was not any insurance carried on either house or contents the full loss of which is estimated at about $550. His fellow employees in the factory have subscribed $200 towards replacing a portion of his loss.

[illegible] FRIDAY.

Anti-Monopoly and Free Canal Meeting—Monopolists Arraigned—Free Canal Amendment Strongly Endorsed.

The anti-monopoly meeting held in Nichol's hall Friday evening was well attended. The meeting was called to order by E. H. Chapman and D. W. Gardner made permanent chairman. Mr. Gardner said the people had come together to hear discussed a matter that affected the interest of the whole community and then introduced Gen. S. F. Carey who addressed the people on the subject of "Anti-Monopoly and Free Canals."

Gen. Carey is a forcible speaker, eloquent, and ready with words from the fact of using the same speech daily. His arraignment of the monopolists Gould and Vanderbilt and the strong denunciation of their ilk in essaying to consolidate the wealth of the country, and his lucid and honest expose of railroad abuses was in consonance with the views of his auditors if applause and quiet attention are to be allowed as criterions. He told a number of amusing stories and by way of diversion paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Lincoln, and referred to Ireland in a well rounded, patriotic period.

He claims the canals act as a menace between the producers and the laboring classes and the great corporations that seek its overthrow. He cited the fact that under existing laws no more money would be expended for the maintenance of the canals than was received therefrom the previous year. The railroads proposed to carry freight for almost nothing during the summer to reduce the canal receipts so in case an enormous break occured "the receipts for the previous year" would be insufficient to repair damage and as the law prevented other money being used, "down would go the canals." It would impose no extra burden upon the people to maintain the canals free but be of incalculable benefit to the people as against corporations and monopolists.

No new ideas were advanced, beyond those already known to intelligent, reading men, but it is safe to say that the proposed amendment will receive a large vote in the affirmative in this vicinity.

At the conclusion of the meeting an "Anti-Monopoly League" was formed some fifty people signing a petition setting forth the doctrine advanced by that party.

Boy Wanted—I want a smart boy to learn upholstering and to do general work about my store. One not afraid to work. J. C. Lano.

OBITUARY.

Miss Kittie V. Buck, only daughter of Harvey Buck, died at her home on Emory street Friday morning of typhoid pneumonia, after a sickness of about two weeks aged 16 years. It is a sad and distressing blow to her family and one that grieves her multitude of acquaintances among whom Kittie was a supreme favorite. Funeral services were held at the family residence Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., conducted by Rev. Dr. E. C. Bruce of the M. E. church. The Good Templars, of which order she was an honored member, attended the funeral in a body and escorted the remains to Mt. Adnah; also her former schoolmates to the number of about twenty-five were in attendance. The closing ceremonies at the grave were conducted by Rev. L. Golden, chaplain of the Good Templars.

Stephen R. Warner, son of Mr. William Warner of this village and brother of Miss Sarah L. Warner, died at his home in East Saginaw, Mich., June 19, aged 47. He was a former resident of this village and was a printer. About thirty years ago he entered the office of the Phoenix Gazette and remained about two years then coming to Fulton in the employ of George E. Williams on the Fulton Gazette. Here he remained until 1864, in which year he married Miss Marian Gould. He worked in Oswego and Pulaski until 1867 when he removed to East Saginaw and remained until his death. He died of consumption. The Bay City Call, in a notice of the deceased says: "He was an honor to the craft, and one of the fine old school craftsmen, whose pride in the profession elicited the respect of every employer for whom he ever stuck a type or juggled a form."

For the Thousand Islands.

Tickets to the Thousand Islands and return from Oswego can be purchased of R. E. Phillips in Fulton. There is a varied programme of entertainments at Thousand Island Park during the summer. This place during the seven years since it was opened to the public, has come to be so well known that it needs no special description now. The thousands of people that visit it annually will attest the advantages of its location, the beauty of its scenery, the healthfulness of its atmosphere, and the attractiveness and excellencies of its general surroundings. If you go to the Thousand Islands purchase your ticket of R. E. Phillips.

We're Lost! We're Lost!

A communication from Redfield to the Oswego Express relates the following:

Two young fishermen from Fulton gained a little extra experience on the 14th inst. After whipping the streams for trout throughout the day the shades of evening found them wet, tired, hungry and lost. They made arrangements for passing the night and then shouted in chorus, "We're lost!" A party working on the wood job near by heard them rescued them, took them to the tent, made them coffee, treated them like good Samaritans generally, and sent them on their way rejoicing.

Employment for Ladies.—The Queen City Suspender Company, of Cincinnati, are now manufacturing and introducing their new Stocking Supporters for Ladies and children, and their unequaled Skirt Suspenders for Ladies. None should be without them; our leading physicians recommend them, and are loud in their praise. These goods are manufactured by ladies who have made the wants of ladies and children a study, and they ask us to refer them to some reliable and energetic lady to introduce them in this county, and we certainly think that an earnest solicitation in every household would meet with a ready response, and that a determined woman could make a handsome salary and have the exclusive agency for this county. We advise some lady who is in need of employment to send to the company her name and address, and mention this paper. Address Queen City Suspender Company No. 179 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass, says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

The King of the Body is the brain; the stomach its main support; the nerves the messengers; the bowels, the kidneys and the pores its safeguards. Indigestion creates a violent revolt among these attaches of the regal organ, and to bring them back to their duty, there is nothing like the regulating, purifying, invigorating, another operation of Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient. It renovates the system and restores to health both the body and the mind.

AND BLADDER EXPELLED—LONG SUFFERING OF ONE OF TROY'S [illegible]—A LUCKY MAN.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful;

TROY, N. Y. April, 8, 1882.

Dr D. Kennedy Rondout N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the brick-dust sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accumulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send yo the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfullness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible a disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other sufferers.

Yours Truly,
JAMES ANDREWS.
No 10 Marshal St, Ida Hill.

When we consider that the medicine which did this service for Mr. Andrews cost only one dollar a bottle, it would seem that persons in like fashion can afford the expense of testing its virtues. Get it of your druggist, or address Dr. David Kennedy Rondout, N. Y. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR
WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO'S
A NEW DISCOVERY.
☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.
☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.
It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.
☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.
☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.
☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S
RESTAURANT.
—:o:—
A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price, as much so that you will say to yourself: well I did not know before that people could get such dishes for so small a figure and up here in the country. I have found the place to get my lunch from now on. [illegible] what [illegible]

Ballad of A Coquette.

She wears a [illegible] bonnet,
Gold curls made [illegible];
Her dresses [illegible];
Her hat observes the stylish set;
She has a poodle for a pet,
And drives a dashing drag and pony;
I know it, though we've never met—
I've seen her picture by Sarony.

Her phrases all are fraught with slang.
The very latest she can get;
She sings the songs that patience sang,
Can whistle airs from "Olivette,"
And, in the waltz, perhaps, might let
You squeeze her hand with gems all stony;
I know it though we never met—
I've seen her picture by Sarony.

Her heart has never felt love's pang,
Nor known a momentary fret.
Want never wounds her with its fang;
She likes to run papa in debt;
She'll smoke a slender cigarette
Sub rosa with a favored crony:
I know it, though we've never met—
I've seen her picture by Sarony.

ENVOY.

Princes, beware this gay coquette!
She has no thought of matrimony:
I know it though we've never met—
I've seen her picture by Sarony.

The Suez Canal.

When Napoleon sent his engineers to take the levels across the Isthmus of Suez in order to determine the practicability of digging a canal through the sand for commercial purposes, they made out that the surface of the Gulf of Suez was thirty feet higher than the Mediterranean, and so the project was for the time given up. The blunder in the survey was not discovered until 1840, when new schemes began to be agitated erecting a ship channel that would shorten the voyage from Europe to India and the East by almost the entire distance around the continent of Africa.

In 1854 M. de Lesseps formed a canal company and obtained a grant from the Viceroy of Egypt for ninety-nine years. The scheme was looked upon with suspicion by British engineers and British capitalists, and the inception and prosecution of the enterprise were largely due to the French. In 1859 the work was begun, and ten years later the Red Sea and the Mediterranean met in the Bitter Lakes. The total length of the canal is not far from 100 miles, about seventy-five miles of the course being formed by excavation and twenty-five miles lying through the shallow lakes of the isthmus, which, in many places, required deepening. The ordinary width of the canal is 325 feet at the bottom, the depth of the water being twenty-six feet. There are no locks throughout its course, and its termini are Suez, at the entrance to the Gulf of Suez on the south, from which point there are railroads to Cairo and Alexandria, and a "fresh-water canal" to the Nile, and Port Said at the margin of the Mediterranean on the north. The building of an artificial harbor at each terminus, with the necessary protections, was reckoned a greater undertaking than the excavation of the canal itself.

The work was formally opened on the 17th day of November, 1869, and on the 25th it was publicly announced that Lord Beaconsfield had purchased from Ismail Pasha, who had become viceroy of Egypt under the title of Khedive, 176,602 out of the 400,000 shares of £20 each. The sum paid was £5,080,000, and the commission to the Rothschilds and other expenses of the transaction amounted to about £100,000 more. By the terms of transfer the Government receives interest at five per cent. on the shares till the year 1894, after which it is to receive the full dividends. There are three members of the Board of Directors representing the interest of the British Government, one of whom is a resident director in Paris, where he has hitherto acted in perfect accord with the French majority in the directory.

A WORLD OF GOOD.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere, people falk it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters, as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old-fashion bone set tea, that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right, try Hop Bitters [Nunda News. 10w2

Growth of Farming in the United States.

A census bulletin just issued shows that the number of farms in the United States has increased from 2,660,000 in 1870 to 4,000,000 in 1780, or at the rate of fifty-one per cent. Compared with the increase of population, which was about thirty per cent. during the same period, the agricultural development of the past ten years proves to have been rapid and extensive. The most striking increase in the number of farms has taken place in the South and North-western and Pacific States. The increase is shown to be 102 per cent. in Alabama, ninety-one in Arkansas, 129 in Florida, ninety-eight in Georgia, seventy in Louisiana, fifty in Mississippi, sixty-eight in North Carolina, eighty-one in South Carolina, sixty in Virginia and 185 in Texas. These figures are at once significant and encouraging. They indicate the social and industrial change that has taken place in the South since the war and shows the extent to which its once great plantations have been cut up into small farms. In Iowa there has been an increase of fifty-nine per cent. in the number of farms, in Minnesota ninety-nine, in Nebraska 415, in Oregon 114 and in California fifty-one. The greatest multiplication has taken place in the Territories, the rate of increase ranging from seventy-eight per cent. in Montana to upward of 900 per cent. in Dakota. The marked growth of farming shown by the census returns in the Territories and the Western States is obviously due to the rapid settlement of this part of the country by immigrants and others.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.
95 per Cent.
For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

"WHAT ALEXANDER MIGHT HAVE DONE."

The late Czar of Russia was eminently a great man, as his action in liberating thirty-six million serfs from slavery qualified him to be. Yet with all his greatness, Alexander left it to Dr. Swayne to liberate the world from the annoyance and pain of scores of skin diseases, hundreds, thousands it has cured, and then remember it is economical, effective, reliable and pure, and if you will only try it you will have a cure.

FOR THE LADIES.

Lovely Costumes Made in New York.

Your correspondent has just seen some notable toilettes. A dress made for a southern brunette was gold-colored satin made in princess fashion and draped with silk tulle dotted with small flowers. At the foot of the dress was a wide box-pleated flounce, and fine plisses of satin adorned the long train. The sleeves were of lace and interwoven with gold threads. Most exquisite was a costume made for a debutante from Charleston, S. C., who contemplates spending her first season at White Sulphur. The dress is a short satin of the richest kind and is profusely trimmed with pearl lace and passementerie. The sleeveless corsage is bordered with a quilting of white satin. With this costume will be worn cream-colored stockings and cream satin shoes embroidered in pearl-designs. The shoes alone cost $28 and the stockings almost double that amount.

"Now, this," said the modiste, "is a dress of rare beauty and elegance," and from a satin-lined box she brought forth an evening toilette of the most exquisite shade conceivable of Neapolitan shell-tinted satin, with an overdress of the rarest point lace, the latter alone being valued at $500. Edging the skirt were three rows of very fine knife pleatings and the graceful train was ornamented with satin puffings and large satin bows to match.

"Now, can you imagine anything lovelier?" said our informant, when displaying a robe of silver-blue satin, fairly glistening with blue jet and pearl crystal garnitures. The panels of the dress were painted in the most delicate designs. The long, flowing sleeves were lined with white satin and finished with point applique lace; the corsage, cut square in front and black, was bordered with narrow bands of "blanc de perle" satin.

A MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE.

I am a Baptist Minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness and Thomas Eclectric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtherie, and "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured them," and if taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the Oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the Oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the Oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week; I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

Amusing Blunders.

Blunders on public occasions are often as mortifying as they are amusing. For instance:

At a military dinner in Ireland, the following was on the toast-list: "May the man who has lost one eye in the glorious service of his beloved country never see distress with the other." But the person whose duty it was to read the toast accidentally omitted the word "distress," which completely changed the sentiment, and caused no end of merriment by the blunder.

Another instance may be quoted, if only to show how careful people should be in expressing themselves on public occasions:

A church in South London had been erected, when a dinner was given at the conclusion of which the health of [illegible] "more fitted for the scaffold than for public speaking." [illegible]

'MID THE DRIFTWOOD.

A Legend of the Mississippi River.

BY W. E. WILLIAMS.

On the Mississippi's margin, where the cliffs rise bold and steep—
Where the red birds song is mingled with the murmur of the deep;
Is a rudely fashioned casket, nestling on a narrow ledge.
Jutting from a rugged headland high above the water's edge.

There in solitude and stillness lies a sleeper cold and dead;
Where but sunlight and the moonbeams guard the lonely little bed,
Up among the mossy boulders, where no sexton ever goes—
Where the sodden, wasting driftwood to the grave-grass and the rose.

In the summer, trailing ivies that have found a place to cling
Up above, in clefts and cannies, pending downward sway and swing,
Curtain like before the portals, with the winds that come and go,
Bringing lullabys from wavelets on the river down below.

And it seems as if the sunbeams push the emerald leaves aside
Every morning, when a boatman, drifting downward with the tide,
Casts his anchor in the river, shades his eyes to see if still,
Winds and waves have left the slumberer and the coffin on the hill.

Locks of silver fringe his forehead, but his eyes reflect a glow
Of the youth that Old Time ripened in the years of long ago;
While the voice that told this story of the dead one up above,
Told a tale of second childhood, and an old man's clinging love;

"Fifty years," he sighed, "have floated down the stream and out to sea,
Ladened with their joys and sorrows, since my new-made wife and me
Halted on the river's margin, full of hope, and rich alone.
In the love that makes a palace of a cot—if its your own.

"Every summer found the clearing stretching farther from our door;
Every winter better guarded 'gainst the winds that swept the shore;
And if ever folks were happy, me and Becky were, I know,
For the things that came to vex us, left us brighter when they'd go.

"Ah! but joy's a dazzling cloudlet, that is sure to make us blind
To the mocking shapes of sorrow ever lurking close behind;
But its light has long since vanished, and I'm groping in the gloom,
For the hand outstretched to guide me to the path beyond the tomb.

"Twelve bright years—then came the darkness; then the river broke its chain;
Hungry waves swept o'er the clearing, gathering up the garnered grain;
Creeping on they crossed the threshold, snuffing out the firelight's glow,
That so long had been a beacon to the straying friend or foe.

"Still the waters moaned and murmured, every current asking more;
Every fresh tide beating harder 'gainst the little cottage door;
Till the raging billows conquered, and with hoarsely muttered groan,
Swept the cot and we who loved it, out toward the vague unknown.

Still they writhed, and whirled, and twisted—broke the hand clasp, choked the sigh
And the demons of the night-wind brought Becky's last good bye;
And that wail from out the darkness told me love was but a thread
That could never lift my darling from among the silent dead.

* * * * * * *

"On yon ledge the boatmen found me at the calming of the tide,
And they found a baby nestling in the driftwood by my side;
Felt a feeble little heart throb—found the shadow of a breath;
Saw a stir of tiny fingers, brushing of the clouds of death.

"Not a sign from whence she drifted; not a word to tell what breast
Had been robbed and left forsaken by its little nestling guest;
But the more she seemed forsaken, all the more she seemed to be Like one bringing Becky's spirit from the waters back to me—

"For a glad, familiar sunlight trembled in the bright blue eyes,
Beaming like a benediction from the azure of the skies;
And the voice that whispered 'Pa-pa,' seemed the echo of a knell
Coming to me through the darkness, grieving o'er a last farewell.

"So I called the wee one Becky—for no other name would seem
Just the one to give a color to my homely little dream;
And, when she had learned to lisp it, something told me I was right—
Told me she had come to brighten up the darkness of my night.

"Step by step the little toddler led me towards the quiet glade
Where contentment buds and blossoms in a soft, forgetful shade;
Then the ringing laugh of childhood called the ghost that held me fast,
Floated with it off to dreamland, and my soul was calm at last.

* * * * * * *

"Call it God, Fate, Man or Devil—call it by what name you may,
But a something—dead to pity—turned my idol into clay;
Stole the breath that whispered comfort; chilled the hand whose touch was love;
Hushed the laughter that the angels tuned their harps with up above.

"And within the little casket, on her cheek I left a pledge
That I'd put her where I found her in the driftwood on the ledge;
For you know the winds and waters only lent her, and some day,
Coming back, they'll find her waiting, and they'll take their child away.

"So I sit and watch the portals of the ivy-curtained tomb,
Waiting for the golden twilight that is creeping through the gloom—
Waiting for the rush of waters that will bear me down the stream,
To the Becky of my cottage and the baby of my dream."

That's the story of the sleeper on the narrow little ledge—
That's the legend of the grave yard on the Mississippi's edge—
Up among the mossy boulders, where no sexton ever goes,
Where the sodden, wasting driftwood is the grave grass and the rose.

A WOMAN'S VICTORY.

When they reached the depot, Mr. Mann and his wife gazed with unspeakable disappointment at the receding train which was just pulling away from the bridge switch at the rate of a thousand miles a minute. The first impulse was to run after it, but as the train was out of sight and whistling for Sagetown before they could act on the impulse, they remained in the carriage and disconsolately turned the horses' heads homeward.

"It all comes of having to wait on a woman to get ready," Mr. Mann broke in very grimly.

"I was ready before you was," replied his wife.

"Great heavens!" cried Mr. Mann, in irrepressible impatience, jerking the horses' jaws out of place, "just listen to that; and I sat out in the buggy yelling for you to come along until the whole neighborhood heard me!"

"Yes," acquiesced Mrs. Mann, with provoking placidity which no one but a woman can assume; "and every time I started down stairs you sent me back for something you had forgotten."

Mr. Mann groaned. "This is too much to bear, when everybody knows that if I was going to Europe I would just rush into the house, put on a clean shirt, grab up my gripsack, and fly, while you would want at least six months for preliminary preparations, and dawdle around the whole day of starting until every train left town."

Well, the upshot of the matter was that the Manns put off their visit to Aurora until the next week, and it was agreed that each one should get ready and go down to the train and go, and the one who failed to get ready should be left. The day of the match came around in due time. The train was to go at 10:30, and Mr. Mann, after attending to his business, went home at 9:45.

"Now then," he shouted, "only three-quarters of an hour until train time. Fly around; a fair field and no favors, you know."

And away they flew. Mr. Mann bulged into this room, and rushed into that one, and dived into one closet after another with inconceivable rapidity, chuckling under his breath all the time, to think how cheap Mrs. Mann would feel when he started off alone. He stopped on his way up stairs to pull of his heavy boots to save time. For the same reason he pulled off his coat, as he ran through the dining-room, and hung it on the corner of the silver-closet. Then he jerked off his vest as he rushed through the hall and tossed it on a hook on the hat rack, and by the time he reached his room he was ready to plunge into his clean clothes. He pulled out a bureau drawer and began to paw at the things like a Scotch terrior after a rat.

"Eleanor," he shrieked, "where are my shirts?"

"In your bureau drawer," calmly and deliberately coaxing a refractory crimp into place.

"Well, by thunder, they ain't!" shouted Mr. Mann, a little annoyed. "I've emptied every last thing in it that I ever saw before."

Mrs. Mann stepped back a few paces, held her head on one side, and, after satisfying herself that the crimp would do, and stay where she put it, replied:

"These things scattered around on the floor are all mine. Probably you havn't been looking in your own drawer."

"I don't see," testily said the husband, "why you couldn't have put my things out for me, when you had nothing else to do all the morning."

"Because," she said, settling herself into an additional article of raiment, with awful deliberation, "nobody put mine out for me. A fair field and no favors, my dear."

Mr. Mann plunged into his shirt like a mad bull at a red flag.

"Foul!" he shouted in malicious triumph, "No button on the neck."

"Because," said she, sweetly, after a deliberate stare at the fidgeting, impatient man, during which she buttoned her dress and put eleven pins where they would do the most good, "because you have got the shirt on wrong side out."

When Mr. Mann slid out of that shirt he began to sweat. He dropped the shirt three times before he got it on, and while it was over his head he heard the clock strike ten. When his head came through he saw his wife coaxing the ends and bows of her necktie.

"Where's my shirt-studs?" he cried.

His wife went out into another room and presently came back with her gloves and hat, and saw him emptying all the boxes he could find in and about the bureau. Then said:

"In the shirt you took off."

The lady put on her gloves while he hunted up and down for his cuff-buttons.

"Eleanor" he snarled, at last, "I believe you must know where those cuff-buttons are."

"I havn't seen them," said the lady, setting her hat. "Didn't you lay them on the window-sill, in the sitting-room, last night?"

Her husband remembered, and he went down stairs on the run. He stepped on one of his boots and was immediately landed in the hall at the foot of the stairs with neatness and despatch, attended in the transmission with more bumps than he could count with a Webb's adder, and landing with a bang like the Hell Gate explosion.

"Are you nearly ready, Algernon?" asked the wife of his family, sweetly, leaning over the baluster.

The unhappy man groaned.

"Can't you throw down that other boot?" he asked.

His wife pityingly kicked it at him.

"My valise?" he inquired, as he tugged away at the boot.

"Up in your dressing-room," she answered.

"Packed?"

"I [illegible]—unless you packed it [illegible]" with her hand on the door-knob. "I had barely time to pack my own."

She was passing out of the gate when the door opened and he shouted:

"Where in the name of goodness did you put my vest? It has all my money in it."

"You threw it on the hat-rack," she called back. "Good-bye, dear."

"Eleanor! Eleanor! Eleanor Mann! Did you wear off my coat?"

She paused and turned, after signaling the street car man to stay, and cried:

"You threw it on the silver-closet."

And the street car engulfed her graceful figure, and she was seen no more. But the neighbors say that they heard Mr. Mann charging up and down the house, rushing out at the front door every now and then and shrieking up the desorted street after the unconscious Mrs. Mann, to know where his hat was, and where she put the valise key, and if she had any clean socks and undershirts, and that there wasn't a linen collar in the house. And when he went away, at last, he left the kitchen door, side door, all the down stairs windows and the front gate wide open. And the loungers around the depot recently were somewhat amused just as the train was pulling out of sight, down in the yards, to see a flushed, perspiring man, with his hat on sideways, his vest buttoned two buttons too high, his cuffs unbuttoned and necktie flying, and grip-sack flapping open and shut like a demented shutter on a March night, and a door-key in his hand, dashing wildly across the platform, and halt in the middle of the track, glaring in dejected, impotent, wrathful mortification at the departing train, and shaking his fist at a pretty woman, who was throwing kisses at him from the rear platform of the rear platform of the last car.

AN OPEN LETTER.

Some Outspoken Statements of Great Value from Parties of the Highest Standing.

When the people of America become so thoroughly aroused, and on a subject of such serious importance as the preservation of their lives and health, it is but natural that the ones who have been largely instrumental in the origin of the movement should speak frankly and directly to the people most interested. It is for this reason that we thus come before the public and make the following revelations. Every careful observer who has sought to keep pace with the march of events has noted the alarming increase of certain peculiar physical troubles within the past few years. These troubles have come at certain unexpected moments and in a most treacherous way. They have manifested themselves in innumerable forms, but they have always had the same cause. They have not afflicted the minor parts of the body but have gone direct to the strongholds of the system and their work has usually been as prompt as it is fatal. Their treacherous and deceptive nature has often prevented a careful analysis of what causes them, and, as a result, intense suffering and final disaster have usually ensued. The real cause, however, has been a derangement of the kidneys and all of these trouble are, in fact, the first symptoms of the terrible Bright's disease, which has cast its dark shadow over many homes in thn land and is now increasing wonderfully and continually. It is now conceded by the ablest physicians in every land and by eminent scientists the world over, that this disease is the result of blood poisoning. This poisoning is brought about by the wasting of unhealthy kidneys that permit the poison to remain in the blood, instead of throwing it from the system. But it is equally evident to all who have studied into the effects and have become conversant with the facts, that a disordered state of the kidneys and liver produces most of the common complaints and pains which inflict the human race, and they can be traced to this source lust as certainly as can Bright's disease. To purify a stream we must go to its source and to cure a disease we must remove the cause. It being true therefore, that nine-tenths of all human ailments are caused by diseased kidneys or liver, the only certain way to cure these troubles is by treating the organs which cause them. How intimately the kidneys are associated with the entire system may be understood from the fact that over 1000 ounces of blood pass through them every hour, being more than 200 gallons or nearly one ton in the course of twenty-four hours. This vast mass of living fluid is sent to every part of the body, and if the kidneys are diseased the impurities that are in the blood are not removed, and hence pass through the veins, carrying disease in some one of its many terrible forms. The horrors which accompany most of the diseases caused by disordered kidneys and liver cannot be described in print, while the dangers surrounding them are even greater than the agony. And yet a person may be troubled for months without knowing the cause of the diseases that have attacked him. Some of the symptoms of the first stages, any one of which indicates disordered kidneys or liver or these: pains in the back, and around the loins, severe headaches, dizziness, inflamed eyes, a coated tongue and a dry mouth, loss of appetite, chilly sensations, indigestion, (the stomach is never in order when the kidneys or liver are deranged) a dryness of the skin, nervousness, night sweats, muscular debility, despondency, a tired feeling, especially at night, puffing or bloating under the eyes, etc. If any of the following things are noticed about the fluids passed from the system, it shows that the kidneys or liver are out of order: a red deposit, a scum upon the surface, an unusual thickness or thinness, a very dark or a very light color, a burning sensation in passing, an unusual odor, a retention or a frequent desire to void and an inability to do so.

The above are a few of the hundreds of symptoms which indicate the beginning of aggravated cases of kidney or liver difficulties, and they require instant attention. If these symptoms are not checked at once, they are almost certain to result in some of the many terrible diseases of the kidneys. But [illegible] the disease may be they are as nothing compared to the [illegible] the entire system is reduced and debilitated. For weeks before death comes the sufferer looks forward to it as a blessed relief, and anything that can bring temporary relief is gladly hailed. Then it is that bloating begins; the face becomes puny and pallid; the breath can only be caught in gasps, speech is impossible and muscular action is suspended. The patient finally sinks in a state to every thing except the pains which are racking him, and death comes by certain and slow degrees. There can be but one conclusion which all readers of care and judgement will draw from these facts, which is the necessity of treating the disease in time and by that means which has proven the best and most efficient.

It has been our privelege to treat more cases and effect more cures of the terrible disease than has ever been known before in the history of the world. The wonderful sales which our remedies have attained is due wholly to the fact that they have cured the ones who have used them. The power and value of any remedy must rest wholly on a basis of worth, and here is just where our Safe Kidney & Liver Cure has found its wonderful success and power. But in this connection comes one important fact. It has always been true that articles of merit are subject to imitations. No one seeks to counterfeit the bills of a worthless bank. The productions of a cracked inventor or a witless writer are never copied. It is just so with a healing remedy. If it possess no merit it will not be subjected to imitations. If, however, it has power and value, imitations will spring up on every side. While it is a tribute to the medicine that it has imitations, still, in justice to those who are suffering, we feel that all should be warned against them.

There is but one known remedy that has ever been able to cure serious kidney troubles or control these organs when once deranged and that remedy is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. There are nostroms on the market claiming to be just as efficient and some of which claim to be the same. The test of merit, however, is in what has been accomplished, and we therefore say unhesitatingly, that for all disease of the kidneys, liver, and urinary organs Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure stands alone, not only in point of excellence, but in the wonderful results it has achieved. In order to avoid the purchase of spurious and injurious medicines, observe these facts:

Our remedy is put up dark amber glass bottles, with the Safe (our trade-mark) blown on the back. A private proprietary six-cent internal revenue stamp is affixed to the neck and covers the top of the cork and is of a light brown color. In the middle thereof is a Safe in outline, and on it the picture of a negro gathering herbs. If this stamp is not found on every bottle of the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, or if there is any evidence that it has been tampered with, and if a safe is not blown on the back of the bottle reject the bottle at once, and insist on having a genuine one.

We are led to publish the foregoing in order that the public may know and realize just where we stand. We have always sought to keep our personality from obtruding on the public, knowing full well that the value of the remedy was the essential thing, but the unexampled use which has been made of the medicine, and the volumes of letters we are constantly receiving demand a personal statement from us. We are justly gratified at the confidence which has been shown us, and thankful for the myriads of cures our remedy has performed, and we pledge ourselves for the future as we have endeavored in the past, to furnish the best and only valuable remedy that can control and cure all the many and terrible troubles arising from disorders of these great organs.

Sincerely,
H. H. WARNER & Co.

THE FULTON TIMES

Wednesday, Aug. 9 1882.

CONGRESS adjourned yesterday until the first Monday in December.

THE Utica Herald is facetious when it says medals of the "306" pattern bring only thirteen cents as "junk".

ARABI is not to be pronounced as Arabi nor as Arabee, but as Arabi, with the accent on the middle syllable.

THE republican state committee met in New York Wednesday, and appointed the state convention to be held at Sartoga Springs, September 20th.

THE evening Post thinks the reason why the circus business is on the decline is "owing to the fact that a great deal of the talent which once found its way into the clown's business now goes into journalism."

THE extent of the manufacture of oleomargarine will doubtless surprise the ordinary reader, and perhaps the average housekeeper. Upward of $5,000,000 worth was made in 1880 by four establishments in New York city alone.

ALL eyes are turned towards Egypt. During the past week the British have had one or two minor engagements with Arabi's troops without serious loss to either side. Matters appear more and more complicated with each succeeding day.

A DISPATCH from the interior of the state says the rain may save the corn and potato crop which were suffering from drouth. The storm of yesterday was universal in the state. In many localities great damage is reported from lightning.

THE Albany Express says: Conkling has some friends in this state, and they are all "stayers." They spell Faith with with a large F. Hope with a large H, and charity with a small c. They are in good health and will lead a winning fight, The recruiting office is opened.

THE return of many of the striking freight handlers asking for work at old prices must carry a lesson to a certain turbulent always dissatisfied class. Conference and good conduct will in the long run do more for the advance of wages than be accomplished by a strike.

THE Democratic State Committee met in Saratoga yesterday and decided to call the State convention at Syracuse, Sept. 21; also decided that in New York city caucuses be called by the county Democracy and all Democrats be admitted; also each assembly district in the state be entitled to three delegates and such delegates shall be chosen in caucus and not appointed by any faction.

THE colored man appears to be having considerable trouble in the New England States. Not long since hotel accommodations were refused to Congressman Smalls in Boston and on Thursday a negro preacher was refused admission to the Adams house at Providence, R. I. If this had only occurred in South Carolina what a grand text it would have been for republican campaign speakers.

THE democratic candidate for governor is likely to be chosen from among the following named gentlemen: Roswell P. Flower, Allen Campbell, Samuel J. Tilden, New York; Erastus Corning, Albany; Grover Cleveland, Buffalo; Waldo Hutchins, Yonkers or Lucius Robinson, Elmira. The republican candidates are A. B. Cornell, James Wadsworth, John A. Starin and Roscoe Conkling,

THERE is the best promise of exceptionally rich harvests of grain in the Northwest. It is estimated that the yield will be greater than in any previous year, not only as to wheat, but oats, barley, and corn; while the potato crop will be enormous. It is not to be denied, in the presence of these indications, that the prosperity of the Republic is to be best served by the development of agricultural resources.

FOR several days the canvass in Pennsylvania has been lost sight of, but it must not be thought it is not going on, for it is, and that most warmly too. The independents do not weaken in their determination to beat Cameron, and the latter stands up to accept all the blows which are sent. The democrats in the meantime are keeping shady and chuckling over the fight which promises to give thsm the state.

THE Lowville Journal says Northern New York will probably vote pretty solidly against the amendment making the canals free. The people do not relish the idea of raising from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 every year by tax to support the canals, as a consequence of abolishing tolls." The advocates of free canals must be up and doing as forces are at work in the northern counties to defeat the amendment using arguments as the above and making the people believe that free canals are beneficial alone to those towns and cities through which they pass.

A REPORT has been spread that the horrible disease known as plica polonica made its appearance in London, brought over by the traders in false hair from Poland. The disease is one of the most horrible kind, incurable, and rendering its victim an object as hideous to behold as the leper of the east. The hair, instead of dividing into fine and silky threads, conglomerates into thick matter with only one thick root which bleeds on being cut, so that no relief can be obtained except by cauterization of the whole mass. The report has caused a greater scare than any produced by Fenians.

ALTHOUGH vetoed by the president the river and harbor appropriation bill was passed by congress over his head. The Oswego Times says:

"No man who voted for the river and harbor bill on its final passage can defend his vote. He knew that much of it was a big steal from the public treasury and this fact was conclusive against it, however many proper and needed appropriations there may have been. It was not only immoral to vote for it, but, as the president pointed out, it was an unconstitutional bill. No congressman could have been ignorant of the real character of the bill, or of his vote upon it; and however fair the record and honorable the name of any one of its supporters may have been in the past they are now sadly blotched." The bill appropriated $19,000,000. Con-

THE coronation of the Czar is now fixed for some day in September, providing the Nihilists do not remove that portion of his anatomy a crown rests upon before. They are active with bombs and dynamite.

OVER five thousand operatives of the Harmony Mills have been on a strike for fifteen weeks protesting against working under the wages paid them. Monday the mills started up with 70 employees; an increased number were in yesterday and the telegraph announces this morning that the strike is virtually at an end. Help is being brought from neighboring milling towns also.

NEIGHBORING NEWS.

Barnum and Jumbo in Oswego one week from Saturday.

Judge Churchill granted six divorces in Syracuse last Saturday.

Oswego has formed a company for introducing the electric light.

Syracuse milk dealers have advanced price to six cents per quart.

Woodruff's store in Mexico was burglarized Friday night. Nothing of value stolen.

The Oswego County Agricultural Society will hold its annual fair at Mexico, Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

Rev Henry Kendall, D. D., of New York will preach in the Congregational church at Bristol Hill next Sunday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. D. H. Trimble of Palermo is sadly afflicted with softening of the brain. Her friends entertain but little hope for her ultimate recovery.

George Lamm, a young man aged 17 years, unmarried, was killed by a falling limb near Parish Monday while cutting wood. The felled timber struck him on the head inflicting a wound from which he died in half an hour.

The M. E. camp meeting for the Oswego district commences at Dempster Grove, New Haven, on the 22d of August. Trains will be run on the Midland railroad for the accommodation of those wishing to attend at one-third rates and on other roads at half fare.

John Myers committed suicide in Oakwood cemetery Syracuse Saturday afternoon by shooting himself in the head. When discovered by the gate-keeper he was dead. He was a German, unmarried, employed in a salt yard at Geddes, was addicted to drink and had been in this country seven years.

Saturday morning a distressing and fatal accident happened to Augustus Cass of South New Haven. Mr. Cass was in the barn on a load of hay and fell in a deep mow where a hay fork which was standing upright, pierced his abdomen inflicting a terrible wound. There can be little hope of his recovery.

The Syracuse Standard says the track of the Syracuse, Phenix and Oswego railroad is being properly ballasted where the rails were recently laid in the city and that Monday Col. Moore, the engineer in charge, went over the line and paid the men their month's salaries. The understanding is that the line is to be carried forward to Oswego.

George Hawkins of Oswego must be a queer specimen of a man. Being disturbed by his wife's attempts to sing her restless child to sleep, went to the police station for an officer to arrest her on the charge of intoxication! Officers went to the house, and, finding her sober, declined to arrest her. Hawkins the next morning admitted at the police court that his charge was false.

PARISH—Haying is nearly finished and the crop is much better than it was anticipated. Wheat is being harvested. Corn and potatoes are suffering on account of the drouth. There will be but very little fruit—Mr. E. Sill has been appointed postmaster at Hastings. We suppose it was brought about through civil service reform as Mr. Sill is a democrat and has been deputy for some time and is also competent—Harvey Brown resides near us, has had a stroke of apoplexy and is now getting better. He is a son of Rev. C. Brown, a well known methodist clergyman of Oswego county forty years ago, and is noted in the history of the Fulton Universalist church—Perry N. Allen of Hastings Center died last Friday aged 73 years and eight months. He belonged to quite an historic family of Oswego county. He was born at Collosse, son of Deacon Perry Allen, one of the first Baptist deacons in the county, and for many years a magistrate.

OCCASIONAL.

Hon. Azariah Wart of this place is mentioned as a candidate for member of congress on the democrat ticket in this district. [Sandy Creek News.

A mention is as good as a nomination; that is, it will get a democrat in this district as near Washington.

Granby Centre.

Mrs. L. Austin, jr., of New York has been visiting friends a few days here and in Fulton.

The funeral of Floyd, a son of Mrs. C. Hall, was largely attended at his residence Sunday, Aug. 6th.

Last Saturday Mr. Jacob Fitch of Granby Centre, cradled 4¾ acres of oats in four hours and four minutes, commencing at one o'clock p. m. It took four binders to keep up with him. Our informant thinks the time unprecedented.

Mr. T. T. Slafter has been spending several days at his sister's, Mrs. Clark Chandler on his return from a pleasure and visiting trip north and east. The specimens he brought from the ocean, Mt. Washington and other noted places together with many pleasing descriptions greatly increased the pleasure of his visit among his friends. He returns to his home in Flint, Michigan, after a short stay near Buffalo.

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 7—The market today has been something of a surprise to salesmen, who naturally looked for a slight decline, on the basis of the New York market. But there were influences at work which showed that the cheese was wanted, and factorymen were not sorry to see hot weather cheese going off so well. The benefit of competition is seen in to-day's transactions, as the stock could easily have been bought at 10½c., if that had been the price at which buyers fixed their limit. So far as we can learn the shrinkage of milk is very general, and ranges from 20 to 25 per cent. off from the flush. Transactions were as follows: 209 boxes at 10⅜c; 12 lots, 1,084 boxes, at 10⅝c.; 28 lots, 2,888 boxes, at 10¾c.; 29 lots, 3,285 boxes, at 10⅞c.; two lots, 175 boxes, at p. t. Sales, 7,642 boxes; commissions, 2,198 total, 9,840. Ruling price, 10⅞c. It was rumored that two or three salesmen were guaranteed ⅛c. above the ruling, which would give them 11c. Last year the cheese were held back this week, and transactions were only 6,247 boxes, mostly at 9¾c.

LITTLE FALLS, Aug. 7—There has been much sparring upon this market to-day, especially upon white cheese. It was readily admitted that colored cheese was fairly ¼c. below white stock, and the best factories of white were in great demand. This pushed prices up and nearly or quite all of the sales above 10¾c. were white cheese. The market was very strong at prices quoted and dairymen were in the best of mood and confident that prices are to go no lower than now obtained. The production is continually lessening, and is much less than former seasons at this date. Feed is short and pastures are parched and dry, and if rain does not come soon herds must suffer to a much greater extent. Following are the transactions:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
1	102	10 cents
1	25	10¼ "
41	3,086	10⅜ "
55	3,338	10¾ "

"DRAGGING PAINS."

Dr R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR—My wife had suffered form "female weaknesses" for nearly three years. At times she could hardly move she she had such dragging pains. We often saw your 'Favorite Prescription' advertised, but supposed like most of patent medicines, it didn't amount to any thing, but at last concluded to try a bottle, which she did. It made her sick at first, but it began to show its effect in a marked improvement, and two bottles cured her. Yours etc.,

"WHAT ALEXANDER MIGHT HAVE DONE."

The late Czar of Russia was eminently a great man, as his action in liberating thirty-six million serfs from slavery qualified him to be. Yet with all his greatness, Alexander left it to Dr. Swayne to liberate the world from the annoyance and pain of scores of skin diseases, hundreds, thousands it has cured, and then remember it is economical, effective, reliable and pure, and if you will only try it you will have a cure. 12w4

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Billiousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

Stores where the best skill is employed are always "selling below cost," "closing out," etc., and they use many other well known devices for shoving off upon a too credulous public the "hard stock" on hand. Sometimes hundreds of suits are rendered almost worthless on account of cut. The armhole is too small, the back is too narrow, the sleeves are small and too short, the fronts are ill-shaped; and, in short, the patterns are failures.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF FULTON.

Mrs. Almon Barnes suffered a slight shock of paralysis last Tuesday.

Mr. George Prossor of Lyons, N. Y., is spending his annual vacation in Fulton.

M. D. VanBuren left Monday evening for Toronto for a three weeks' business trip.

Notice change in the "Famous" Opera House clothing advertisement of Syracuse.

THE TIMES is for sale each week at Ney's news room and at Howe & Dexter's, Oswego Falls.

The Universalist excursion to Sea Breeze last Wednesday was a financial success, $152.62 being cleared.

Hon. A. Howe, wife and daughter, left Monday evening for Block Island, R. I., for a six weeks' sojourn.

Mrs. Fred A. Gage and Mrs. Dr. W. A. Hall are at Long Branch, N. J., where they will remain a few weeks.

Geo. Hill has secured employment in the shoe department at Sing Sing prison and left for that city Thursday.

Parties going out of town for a few weeks can have THE TIMES mailed regularly by leaving word at this office.

Mrs. J. W. Pratt, Mrs. Dr. W. L. Woodbury, and Esther Scribner of Oswego are enjoying a few days at Chittenango Springs.

G. C. Bartley will lead the temperance prayer meeting next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The public are cordially invited.

The union picnic of the Methodist and Baptist societies to Fair Haven was largely attended. The expenses exceeded the receipts $15.00.

O. J. Jennings' "Stephanus" has entered for the Ogdensburg races and will also take part in the Toronto meeting August 14 and 15.

Work on the Stephens opera house is progressing rapidly and with a continuation of the present weather it will be enclosed in about two weeks.

Mr. C. W. Wadsworth of Peekskill, N. Y., many years ago a member of the jewelry firm of Morrill & Wadsworth, is in town looking after his property.

Secretary Rice has receive a response from his invitation to James G. Blaine to deliver an address at the Oswego Falls fair. The ex-premeir will be unable to attend. His letters to Robt. G. Ingersoll and Benjamin F. Butler have met with no response.

Uncle Norman Shepard dropped into THE TIMES office yesterday and remarked: "To-day I am 81 years of age; it is my 82 birthday and it is the 8th day of August 1882 at 8 o'clock a. m." Notwithstanding the crowd of eights Mr. Shepherd is remarkably active.

Mrs. T. Keeler, Mrs. Wm. Patterson and her daughters, Hattie and Helen, Mrs. Chas Smith and Miss Ada Keeler, of Fulton, Mrs. Brown and daughter Mabel, of Homer, and Henry Keeler, of Galveston, Texas, were guests of Mrs M. D. Smith Monday, says the Phœnix Register.

D. L. Simmons, of Clyde, N.Y., was in town last week and closed a contract with Rev. Patrick Kearney for a monument surmounted with an exquisitely wrought cross, to be placed in the Catholic cemetery to the memories of Fathers James and Bernard P. Smith. The structure will be of the finest St. Johnsbury granite and will cost complete a trifle over seven hundred dollars. He also sold the executors of the late Henry Lake one of the same material to be erected in Mt. Adnah, at a cost of about five hundred dollars.

The Kansas City Times reports that its book-keeper suffered very severely, and for a long time, with rheumatism. He tried St. Jacob's Oil and was cured by one bottle of it.

Real merit and low prices are rapidly bringing into public favor the celebrated Remington Sewing machines. Call and see them before buying.

Terrell Admitted to Bail in the sum of Two Thousand Dollars,

When we went to press last week Edward Terrell was being examined before justice of the peace John E. Parker in lower Oswego Falls. District Attorney Smith conducted the examination for the people and H. C. Howe, Esq. appeared for the prisoner. The testimony elicited was nearly a repetition of that produced in THE TIMES last week, the same witnesses being sworn.

The examination was concluded Thursday afternoon at the conclusion of which H. C. Howe made a motion for the discharge of Terrell on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to hold him. Mr. Howe then made a motion that Terrell be held for manslaughter in the fourth degree which was opposed as before and sustained by the court. Terrell was held on the charge as set forth in the warrant with the murder of Thomas Burns and was remanded by the court without bail to be confined in the county jail at Oswego to await the action of the grand jury.

He was taken to Oswego, accompanied by his counsel, who appeared before Judge Churchill and offered to give bail the district attorney opposing. After reviewing the evidence bail was placed at $2,000. Monday he was released John H. Cavanaugh and James McDonough of Fulton and Timothy and Thomas Sullivan of Oswego Falls becoming his bondsmen. Terrell is now at his home in Oswego Falls.

Wednesday afternoon a post mortem examination of Burns' body was made by Drs. E. Frank Marsh of Fulton and and W. M. Wells of Oswego Falls. The result of their examination has not been made public.

The coroner's inquest will be held this evening in police court room, this village commencing at 7 o'clock.

The Good Templars.

At a regular meeting of Fulton Lodge No. 424 I. O. of G. T., held Monday evening the following were elected as

OFFICERS:

W. C. T.—F. E. Stone,
W. V. T.—Mrs. R. B. McCully,
W. S.—Frank Connell,
W. A. S.—Mrs. A. Emerick,
W. F. S.—N. R. Cole,

W. C.—Rev. E. C. Bruce,
W. M.—John Knapp,
W. D. M.—Miss Alma Haven,
W. I. G.—Mrs. W. Haynes,
W. O. G.—M. Cooter,
P. W. C. T.—R. B. McCully,
R. H. S.—Miss Blanche Foster,
L. H. S.—Mrs. H. S. Gardner,
L. D.—G. C. Bartley.

The lodge now numbers about one hundred and ten members and is in a prosperous condition.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At a regular meeting of Fulton Lodge No. 424, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

We, the officers and members of Fulton Lodge No. 424, offer the following as a tribute of respect to our departed sister.

WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father in his wisdom has seen fit to remove our sister Kittie Buck from our Lodge to that Temple not made with hands, therefore.

Resolved, That we recognize in her death the call of that voice she loved and which we must all obey. Regreting the early death of one who was willing to aid us in our temperance work, and who would evidently have had an influence for good among those who loved her so dearly.

Resolved, That while we miss her pleasant face, and earnest sympathy we will ever cherish her memory and strive to imitate her virtues.

Resolved, That as an outward expression of our sorrow we will drape our lodge room, charter, and badges with emblems of mourning for 30 days, and that these resolutions be published in the village papers, a copy presented to the friends of deceased, and that they be recorded on the minutes of our Lodge.

MRS. I. DARROW,
MRS. R. B. MCCULLY, } COM.
MRS. A. EMERICK,

Miss Frankie Delano, of Ilion, N. Y., is a guest of her uncle A. D. Palmer.

Work has begun on the foundation of the Congregational church in Oswego Falls.

Rev. E. A. Kinmouth, of Seneca Falls, has removed his family to Oswego Falls, where he will have charge of the new Congregational society.

To see a five-year-old boy mount a bicycle and propel it with accuracy is something unusual. Elmer, son of E. W. Ross, is only five years old, and he rides with as much ease and grace as many older wheelmen.

Gregory White, aged 82, a resident of Bowens Corners, fell from a load of cheese, at the D L & W depot yesterday and sustained severe internal injuries. He was removed to his home and is reported somewhat better this a. m.

Levi Abbey had a misunderstanding with Billy Brown in Oswego Falls a few days since and Billy knocked three of Levi's teeth out. Levi says he has instituted a suit against his assailant for damages for disfiguring his person.

Madam Marantelle was injured this morning while riding on the fair ground. Her horse slipped, throwing her off. She was taken to the Lewis House and Dr. Hall summoned. Her injuries are not thought to be serious. The race at the fair ground Saturday will begin at the hour named.

Superintendent VanRensalaer and engineers D. E. Whitford and R. R. Stewart of Syracuse, are making a tour of inspection along the Oswego canal in the yacht "Ada Gates." They remained at the Lewis House last night and proceeded to Oswego this morning accompanied by Supt. O. J. Jennings. They are much pleased with the manner in which Supt Jennings keeps his section.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT CURED.

B. Turner, Rochester, N Y, writes "I have been for over a year subject to serious disorder of the kidneys and often unable to attend to business; I procured your Burdock Blood Bitters and was relieved before half a bottle was used. I intend to continue, as I feel confident that they will entirely cure me." Price $1.

Melvin Crombie, an employee in the Oswego custom house, spent the Sabbath in Fulton.

First M. E. Sunday school of Oswego will picnic on the Oswego Falls fair ground to-morrow.

Judge McCoon, of New York, has been spending a few days in this vicinity with Horace N. Gilbert.

Miss Alice Chubb has accepted a position as matron of the county house and entered upon her duties Friday.

R. D. VanBuren and family of Oswego were in town Sunday. Mr. VanBuren is employed in Kingsford's store.

Mr. Brown of Nassua, N. P., is in Fulton. He assisted the Universalist choir Sunday and possesses a fine tenor voice.

R. J. Carson and wife of Auburn are in town for a few days. They are the guests of Mrs. Carson's sister, Mrs. Geo. Terry.

Prentice Yeomans received word last Wednesday of the death of his father in Tecumseh, Mich., and left Thursday to attend his funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Conger gave a party Friday evening at their residence on First street in honor of their guest Miss Mabel Smith of Brooklyn.

Miss Ella Roberts and Charles Dashner of Oswego Falls were joined in marriage Saturday evening by Rev. E. Moyses of Zion church, at the Rectory.

☞ Next week Saturday M. M. Williams the druggist will tender to all who purchase 22 cents worth of anything in his line a beautiful plaque. 12w2

S. B. Mead and J. F. Willard have arrived home from their bicycle tour. They came from Boston by rail and spent a couple of days sight seeing in New York,

John Bacchus of Oswego Falls has joined the O. D. A. cricket club of Syracuse. The Herald says he is a fine wicket keeper and in every way a decided acquisition.

The Oswego Express has reached the end of its first year and is healthy and wideawake. People in this section are beginning to appreciate a morning paper and the Express fills the bill admirably.

Matthew Elder, of Fort Edward, N. Y., brother of James Elder is in town. He is an excellent musician and with James and Henry have at times made the Tucker block resound with popular melodies.

Plans and specifications for a new building at the Oswego Falls factory are about ready to be submitted to builders. A gentleman connected with the mill informs us it will be a four story brick building 150x80 feet. It will be erected between the old dye house and weave sheds.

The firemen's convention at Rochester will be a grand affair. Friday the 18th inst will occur the parade in which 75 companies and 65 bands participate. An excursion will leave Fulton at 7 a. m., that day for the scene of action. Round trip tickets $1.75. For sale by Messrs N. H. Gilbert and Jefferson Bailey.

The prospects for a telephone line between this village and Mexico are flattering. The citizens of Mexico are handling the matter with commendable zeal and as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are enrolled the work of constructing the line will be commenced Manager Boardmon of the Fulton telephone office thinks the line will be built.

A meeting was held in Whitaker's hall Monday evening to form a league of the Knights of Labor. A number were present and considerable activity was displayed in arranging affairs. Another meeting will be held in some place next Monday evening to listen to reports of committees and elect officers. Every workingman is respectfully requested to be present.

Joseph Dempsey, Daniel Morairity and John Miller have been added to the inspectors of custom in Oswego. We suppose the sight of the barge "business" with 50,000 bushels of wheat caused a scare in the custom house and in order to have the house in readiness an additional force is secured. There are two or three Fulton men to be announced in a few days or there will be some lively kicking. What do these men inspect?

*We are persuaded that the ancient Hermes with all the subtle art and natural resources of the Alchemists, was a very poor doctor compared with Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass. Hermes may have been after all only a clever practitioner of the Black Art; but we know there is no humbug in the pharmaceutical chemistry of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Fine Question.

Editor FULTON TIMES:

I am a member of a temperance society and would like to go hop-picking. As hops are used in the manufacture of beer, would I be violating my trust as a temperance worker in assisting in their harvest? ANTI-BEER.

Generous Move.

The Oswego Falls Manufacturing Co will give their employees an excursion on Saturday, August 26. Where they will go is not really decided, but probably Sea Breeze will be the place. This is a generous move on the part of the company and is an indication that their operatives' comfort and enjoyment is not entirely overlooked.

A Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the board of trustees was held this morning at Pooler & Wilson's coal office. President Wilson and Trustees Cavanaugh, Herrick, Johnson and Patterson were present. The new bridge was inspected, accepted and the Groton Bridge Co paid $1,200. Travel will be resumed across the lower bridge this afternoon.

The Work of Lightning.

John D. Draper's barn at Bowens Corners was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon a little after 2 o'clock and entirely consumed together with twenty tons of hay, six acres of unthrashed wheat, two pair sleighs and a large number of farming utensils. This barn was built two years ago and was one of the best in the county. The lightning struck a gilded weather vane on the cupola and in an instant the whole building was in flames. The loss is estimated at about $3,000 with an insurance of $1,000.

Small, But Noisy Arrivals.

Frank Watson is a father. An eight pound boy.

Carte Blanchard has an addition to his family. A girl.

Edward Vinton of Oswego Falls moves along with a stately tread. It's a girl.

Frank Wilson, bookkeeper at Draper's, is smiling over the arrival of an eight pound son.

Mrs. John Vogelgsang presented her husband with a precious lump of humanity last week. A ten pound boy.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hubbard are receiving congratulations on the appearance of a little eight pound boy a few days since.

Almost a Tragedy.

Friday, John Johnson and a man named Sutton were riding along in the vicinity of lock No 1 when a dog belonging to Michael Carey ran out and barked at them. Our informant says they left the buggy and stoned the dog. Carey's son, aged about 26, came out with a gun and ordered the men off, when words ensued. Carey raised the gun and struck Johnson a murderous blow over the head with the stock, splitting open his skull and rendering him insensible. Dr Hamill of Phœnix was summoned and removed some slivers from his head and cared for the wound. We understand Mr Johnson was out yesterday. No arrests.

The building of a Protestant Methodist church in Oswego Falls has been abandoned.

Monday at 5 p. m. the thermometer registered 95° in the shade, Tuesday at the same hour 69.

A. Bristol has purchased the building occupied by him as a music store of Carlon church. Consideration $6,500.

NOTICE—Those indebted to me will please call and settle. I wish to close up my business. MISS A. SAUNDERSON. 12

Mrs. James VanBuren has our thanks for a bountiful supply of sweet corn. It is the first of the season, large and first-class.

A neighboring paper says if we do not have rain, and plenty of it, potatoes will be luxuries sold in strawberry boxes.

Brick laying will commence on the Harvey block, corner First street and Broadway next week. W. S. Taft has the job.

We are glad to learn that there is but little sickness in our village. This may be rough on the doctors, but as citizens we are gainers.

A poem on the first page is from the pen of Mr. W. E. Williams. It is being copied extensively in many of the leading magazines and journals of the country. Read it.

Mrs. E. Parke Coby nee Clarice Conger is home from Paris where she has been a successful student in the studio of an eminent artist. She will leave for the sea shore in a few days.

We are asked to call the attention of the Board of Trustees to the stone walk laid across Broadway at the corner of First street. It is laid too low and is out of sight in the mud and dust.

The republican county committee met in Oswego yesterday and all were present but Mr. Munger of Sandy Creek. The county convention will be held in Mexico September 27, commencing at 11 a. m.

The announcement appearing in neighboring papers that Edward Terrill was married to Miss Julia Sullivan last Monday evening is false. We are asked by Miss Sullivan to contradict it and request papers that announced it to be kind enough to make note of this.

At an adjourned special term of the supreme court held in Syracuse Saturday, Judge Churchill presiding, John L. Mosher was granted a decree of divorce from Emily Mosher. The parties live in Fulton and were married May 12th, 188, by Rev. A. W. Hawks of the F. M. church. They lived together only four days. S. B. Mead, Esq., procured the divorce.

A camp meeting of the Free Methodists in the district will be held at Wolcott commencing next Wednesday and continuing until the 22d inst. Parties visiting the grounds who take passage to Oswego over the Syracuse division of the D. L. & W. railroad and from there on the Lake Shore road will receive on the camp ground a certificate returning them free.

Mr. William G. Gage is a candidate for representative in congress says the Pulaski Democrat. We understand the gentleman characterizes this as an error. It does not obliterate the fact that Mr. Gage would mak a good representative. He is an honest, conscientious citizen; a red hot half breed; has the courage of his convictions and would not lend himself to further disreputable schemes. He has always labored faithfully for the success of the party in this section. Why not reward him?

A LEAP INTO POPULAR FAVOR.

It is not always that the world acknowledges what is right and best; but Burdock Blood Bitters, by universal acquiesence, have been awarded the premium for cleansing the blood, curing indigestion, constipation, regulating the bowels and toning up weak nerves. Price $1.

Body Recovered.

The body of Martin Herrick, of Bundys Crossing, who was drowned in Oswego harbor last week at the sinking of the stone boat "Tip Top" was discovered Friday evening floating in the lake about two miles west of the city. Coroner Kelsey was notified and an inquest was held, the jury rendering a verdict that deceased came to his death by drowning but under what circumstances they were unable to say. The body was removed to Bundys Crossing Saturday and immediately interred, funeral services being held Sunday. He leaves a wife and one child.

A one legged man carrying a sack of flour, his wife wheeling a baby in a cab, his father-in-law carrying a codfish, all drunk but the baby, cab and codfish, were a sight about fifty people stood in front of the post office and witnessed one day last week.

F D VanWagenen, jr, to-day comes out with an announcement to the public. The gentleman is fortunate in entering this business at a time when real estate changes are so numerous, and the people are to be congratulated in having one of their many wants supplied. Persons wishing to buy or sell real estate will do well to consult him. Office at G. S Piper's in Kenyon block.

The following regarding a former Fultonian will be read with interest by his friends: Last week Dr. Elmer J. Bissell, son of Presiding Elder Bissell, of this village received official notice of his appointment as Clinical Assistant to the Chair of Surgery in the Homœopathic Department of the University of Michigan. Yesterday he was informed of his election to the position of First Assistant to the Resident Physician and Surgeon of the State Homœopathic Hospital at Ann Arbor. He will enter upon his duties sometime in September.

EMPLOYMENT FOR LADIES.—The Queen City Suspender Company, of Cincinnati, are now manufacturing and introducing their new Stocking Supporters for Ladies and children, and their unequaled Skirt Suspenders for Ladies. None should be without them; our leading physicians recommend them, and are loud in their praise. These goods are manufactured by ladies who have made the wants of ladies and children a study, and they ask us to refer them to some reliable and energetic lady to introduce them in this county, and we certainly think that an earnest solicitation in every household would meet with a ready response, and that a determined woman could make a handsome salary and have the exclusive agency for this county. We advise some lady who is in need of employment to send to the company her name and address, and mention this paper. Address Queen City Suspender Company No. 179 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass, says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

AND BLADDER EXPELLED—LONG SUFFERING OF ONE OF TROY'S—BEST PEOPLE—A LUCKY MAN.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful;

TROY, N. Y. April, 8, 1882.

Dr D. Kennedy Rondout N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the brick-dust sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accumulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send yo the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfullness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible a disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other sufferers.

Yours Truly,
JAMES ANDREWS.
No 10 Marshal St, Ida Hill.

When we consider that the medicine which did this service for Mr. Andrews cost only one dollar a bottle, it would seem that persons in like fashion can afford the expense of testing its virtues. Get it of your druggist, or address Dr. David Kennedy Rondout, N. Y. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S

RESTAURANT.

—:o:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price, so much so that you will [illegible]

NO MORE PICNICS.

The Trouble a Soda Fountain Caused.

"We ain't havin' any more picnics, in our section now," sighed a Suffolk Co. farmer, as the cashier made up his bill for advertising his seed potatoes and handed him his change. "We had one but they are not talking about any more."

"What seems to be the trouble?" asked the cashier.

"The fust one was not kalkerlated to make 'em popular," replied the old man, buckling up his pocketbook. "I don't think you could raise $7 toward another in the whole township."

"Didn't it come off in good shape?" inquired the cashier.

"It went off, and that was chiefly the trouble," was the response. "You see the picnic was to raise some money to pay the interest on the mortgage, and the balance to go toward the heathen. The women turned loose and made pie, and we men got some lemons and buckets, and if we'd stopped there it would have been all right. Lemonade and pie was good enough for anybody, but some smart Elicks thought we ought to have soda water, and like a choice assortment of darned fools we all chipped in for one of them copper fountains."

"That's a pretty good idea" commented the cashier.

"Think so, eh?" replied the farmer dryly. "The idea was good enough, but the fountain made trouble. The way we fixed it was to let the nozzle of the contrivance stick up through the table and squirt during the frugal meal. Thought it would be a pleasant sight and enliven the proceedings."

"Did it?"

"It did. There's a great many factions in our country, but they agree that the fountain enlivened the proceedings. You know we all sat around the table on benches, and we men carved the pies while the women dipped the lemonade. We was all to be helped before we turned the fountain loose and then we was to catch the soda in glassss as it came out."

"Did you catch any?"

"We did. We didn't catch much in the glasses, but we got the soda; that is, a good deal of it. Some of it got away. Why, sir, just as soon as the parson turned the spiggot you should have seen the picnic! Fizz! Whoop! And there we was!"

"Where were you?"

"Well we were scattered. The table has been heard of twice, and some letters from Connecticut think it looked as though it was falling. Pie! You should have seen them pies! One big apple pie with a top and bottom attachment and scolloped edge, went through that picnic like a circular saw! You ought to see the timber fall around there. A custard ditto went clean through old Aunt Betty Bigelow and smashed against a barn with a report like a sham battle! Pie! Friend, we carry sheet iron umbrellas in our section now!"

"Any one hurt?" asked the cashier.

"Not to mention. We haven't got 'em all down out of the trees yet, but those we have saved seem to be all right with the exception of an edge or a joint knocked off here or there. I don't know that any one was killed, though half the picnic is yet to be heard from. But the point I want to gain is, that we ain't having no more of them things."

"That's where you're all wrong," suggested the cashier. "That very experience was just what you wanted."

"How?" demanded the farmer.

"You were trying to raise a church debt, as I understand it. Now why don't you open another soda fountain right under the debt?"

That settled it, and if a tornado is ever reported from down Suffolk county way that cashier will have something to answer for.

The Ithica (N. Y.) Ithican observes: Our druggists report that St. Jacobs Oil goes off like hot cakes.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

PLUCKY TILLIE TRIMBLE.

She Hugs a Burglar and Screams Till Assistance Arrives.

Miss Tillie Trimble, of Brooklyn, who is 19 years of age, is a very plucky girl. On Monday afternoon, while in charge of the house, desiring to go out on an errand, she carefully locked the doors, and on her return was surprised to find that the front door had been broken open. As she passed into the parlor she saw a man ransacking a bureau. Quietly she stole into the basement, sent a servant for an officer, and then ran nimbly up stairs. Gliding softly behind the stranger she threw her arms around his neck, shouting in the meantime to give further alarm. The man did all he could to throw he off, but without success, and, having dragged her to the stairway leading to the basement, was endeavouring to throw her over the balusters, when Officer Cassidy arrived. Miss Tillie then released her grip. The burglar made another attempt at liberty by dashing for the staircase and trying to trip up Cassidy, but the policeman was too quick for him. The fellow fought wildly, but was brought into submission by a rap from the officer's club, and the "nippers" having been placed around his wrist, he was marched to the Butler street police-station. Here he refused to give his name, and told the old story of being "hard up" and having to steal to procure food. Captain Leavy, while talking with the prisoner saw that he was making an effort to hide something which he had taken from his pocket. He seized the thief's hand and drew from it two skeleton keys which had picklocks on each end. On being further searched several articles of jewelry belonging to Miss Trimble were found in his pocket. These evidences of his guilt having been discovered the prisoner was committed.

THE NATION'S CHARACTERISTICS.

Shrewdness and incredulity are the predominant characteristics of the American people. They will take no stock in an article unless it is meritorious. When Dr. Swayne launched his Ointment for the Piles, that itch so intensely at night, on a sea of human suffering, the physicians laughed, but the people tried it all the same and manifested their approbation in a National endorsement. Now the allopaths and homæopaths are laughing the other way. This world is full of reverses.

A Cool Theft.

Gleason Youngs, a farmer living near Corunna, Mich., was awakened about midnight a few nights ago by a loud knocking on his door. He got up and opened the door, when two strangers said they had bought a hog in the next town and were taking to market, but it had got untied and jumped out of their wagon, and they would take it as a great kindness if Mr. Youngs would help them catch it. Mr. Youngs dressed, called up his hired man, and went out and helped those strangers load that pig into their wagon. Next morning he found the door of his pig pen broken off and his own pig gone, and it gradually permeated his being, like a grease spot spreading over a rag carpet, that he had helped these seductive strangers to get away with it.

Childless.

Oh, why are my arms so empty,
When all the world is filled
With the joy my heart is craving—
A craving never stilled!

From the neighbors' doors and windows
Wee faces peep and shine
Like stars that stud the heavens,
But never one from mine.

I would that my rooms were cumbered
With children's broken toys,
And the air were rife with music
Of laughing girls and boys.

Instead of the weary stillness
That comes so near to pain,
Till I marvel at the women
Who count such loss a gain.

I think my life would be purer,
And less allied to sin,
If my longing arms could open
And take my children in;

That many a care and trouble
Would find a speedy rest,
If love would send their shining heads
To pillow on my breast;

And notes of painful discord,
That breath themselves in sighs,
Would be changed to songs of joyful praise
In singing lullabies.

Well! God forgive the murmurings,
And teach me to be still,
Content to know, whate'er my lot,
'Tis ordered by His will.

And if the boon I crave for now
To me is never given,
'Twill be that by some other means
He makes me meet for Heaven.

IN SALT LAKE CITY.

AMERICA'S GARDEN SPOT.

A Breezy Letter from Utah—Wonderful Fertility of the Soil. A Land Improved by Mormons.

BELLEVUE, IDAHO TY. }
August 3, 1882. }

EDITOR FULTON TIMES:

Having heard through the press and otherwise for many years much concerning the peculiar beliefs and questionable practices of the followers of Joe Smith and Brigham Young, that when once in Utah, I felt curious to learn more of this remarkable people whose history has been so checkered with adventures and replete with incidents from the beginning up to the present.

I was cheerfully shown through the Tabernacle, an oblique, cone shaped building nearly two hundred feet long, with massive doors and an immense organ emitting a noise to be heard two miles distant, and it is said to be capable of seating ten thousand people. The building is wonderful for its susceptibility as a conductor of sound, the faintest whisper uttered at one end can be distinctly heard at the other. But the mysteries of the endowment house were far too sacred for profane eyes like mine.

While going through the tabernacle an incident occurred pointedly illustrative of the superstitious reverence with which a part of the Mormon people hold Brigham Young. Directly in front of the pulpit may be seen a single row of seats much more luxuriously cushioned than others. When we came here my guide suddenly stopped and pointing toward them said in low reverential tones, "There's where prophet Youngs and his wives sat." Ah! it was Deity himself that he was approaching then.

In many places you see the familiar sign Z. C. M. I. which signifies Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institute. These co-operative stores, as they are commonly called, are as the name implies, church institutions, under the control of trustees appointed for that purpose at the annual conference, and really one cannot find fault with the prices asked or the quality of the goods sold. I found the Mormons to be an honest, a generous and a very hospitable people, attached to their religion with a loyalty of devotion and an order of enthusiasm that the tortures of the Inquisition itself could not destroy; combining most of the good an bad qualities of the people of ancient times, after whom there religion is fashioned than any sect I am acquainted with. The church machinery for the purpose of keeping wealth under its control is systematized to an extent that is perfection simplified. To be a bishop among the Latter Day Saints, it is generally believed to be a fat billet in any church, but here, why! there's millions in it. As I looked at the fat, sleek, cunning clergy, I could not but think of the anecdote that is recorded in the history of old Rome. "One day while two members of a certain school of thinkers were [illegible] remark to the other, "I don't see how we two can look each other in the face in public without laughing."

But the Mormons made Utah, and [illegible] a sterile sandy desert covered with sage brush, within the memory of many still living, we find the heart of America, the gem of paradise, the palace of the world, the veritable Garden of Eden, in the beautiful villages, the snug stone farm houses, the unusually productive garden lands, and the superb and grand scenery in and around Salt Lake valley. Extensive cotton and woolen mills, machine shops, schools, academies and institutions of learning have been and are being built. Four temples in different parts of the country are in process of construction and evidently the Mormons are increasing in both wealth and numbers.

Polygamy is not as is generally supposed an original tenet of the Mormon faith but was added by Brigham when he became the head of the church.

Cache (Cash) valley situated in the northwestern corner of the territory is fifteen miles in width by forty in length and contains a population of over forty thousand; it has quite a number of towns, the largest of which is Logan, a village of 2500 inhabitants. The average acreage in yield of the farms in Cache county was in excess of any other in the entire country.

Mormonism has without doubt improved the condition of thousands. Many of the converts have been taken from abodes of poverty in the overcrowded cities of Europe and have here been placed above want. There seems to be a disposition in the east to present the darkest side of Mormonism to the public view, and to studiously avoid any mention of its brighter features. This is neither fair nor commendable. Truth should never be sacrificed to prejudice. A new convert without necessary means to make a start in life receives a loan out of the titheing office. This he is expected to repay. If however he is from any cause, unable to do so at the end of a specified period of years, (fifteen, I think) the debt is cancelled and the farm or other property becomes his in any event. This must be admitted to be a very humane idea, and one that might be acted upon with credit by others besides Mormons. When we reflect that this people have been persecuted and driven at every step of their career, that their founder, Joe Smith, was foully murdered for causes now acknowledged to have been entirely groundless, that their houses and churches were burned, and they themselves were forced into exile. Taking up their long march across the plains with ox teams, at a time when they were swarming with Indians, marking nearly every mile of the way with the lone graves of their dead, it surely must be remembered that this question is not so one sided as many seem to imagine.

Here all the hardier grains and fruits of the north come to their greatest perfection and nearly every cereal and fruit known to the torrid zone is cultivated successfully as well. With skies as blue and fields as green as Italy's own, with climatic influences not to be excelled, with soil willing to give up to the touch of industry every product of the wintry north and tropical south, nature has surely been lavish with her blessings and sparing with her curses in dealing with Utah.

Fish Yarns.

Judging from the remarkable yarns now afloat there are often curious circumstances connected with the catching of fish on the American coast. In July of 1873, John Como, one of the crew of the schooner Magic, caught a small halibut on the banks, and cut his initials on its back. He then threw the fish overboard. In 1874 he shipped in the schooner Mary E. Daniels, and while hauling his trawl on the Grand Banks he discovered the identical halibut he had marked eights months before. The initials were very plain, although the fish had grown considerably. In February, 1876, a plain gold ring was found in the paunch of a fish dressed at the Gloucester fish company's wharf. In March, 1877, one of the crew of the schooner Rebecca Bartlett hauled up a codfish on Georges and in the paunch was found a wallet containing an old letter and a horse car ticket but no money. The writing on the ticket had become so indistinct that it could not be read.

Mr. J. Marsh, Bank of Toronto, Ont., writes: "Biliousness and dyspepsia seem to have grown up with me; having been a sufferer for years, I have tried many remedies, but with no lasting result until I used your Burdock Blood Bitters. They have been truly a blessing to me, and I cannot speak too highly of them.

Couldn't Fetch it.

A farmer belonging to a certain religious denomination in Illinois called upon his clergyman a few days ago to ask the good man if he really believed that prayer was answered.

"Of course I do, was the reply.

'Well I dunno, was the doubtful observation.

'Have you anything on your mind, Brother Parsons?

'I have.'

'Have you prayed in all earnestness?'

'I have.'

'Another?'

'Yes—every day and twice a day.'

'And that prayer has not been answered?'

'No.'

'Well perhaps I had better pray for you, [illegible] shall I ask for in your name?'

STEAMBOAT'S BIRTHDAY.

The Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of Fulton's Triumph.

[N. Y. Evening Telegram.]

Just three-quarters of a century ago, the 7th of August, Robert Fulton, of New York city, presented to the world what has been fitly called the greatest invention of modern times—the steamboat. It was on the morning of the 7th of August, 1807, that the ship Clermont, fitted up with paddle-wheels and an engine—one of the very few in the country—lay in the North river, nearly opposite what is now Fulton street, awaiting, amid the jjeering of the crowds on the shore the signal to show the world the triumph of the master-mind that conceived it.

It is now a familiar story, how a few minutes after the boat got under way some disarrangement of the machinery caused her to stop, how the shouts of the multitude which had begun to subside into exclamations of amazement, broke forth with redoubled vigor; how how even the most faithful and sanguine friends of the great inventor then lost heart and begged him to give up the enterprise, but how he, knowing as he did, every nut and bolt in the whole machinery, saw that the disarrangement was trivial, and repairing it with his own hands, in a few minutes proceeded on his wondrous journey.

He arrived at Livingston Manor at 1 o'clock that same night, and started thence early in the morning reached Albany at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, accomplishing the whole distance at an average speed of five miles per hour. The return trip occupied about thirty hours. In size the Clermont was about equal to a large steam yacht of to-day. The news of Fulton's accomplishment reached New York before he did, and on his arrival he found an ovation awaiting him. Never was there a greater turning of public opinion in a single day. Before he was looked upon as a lunatic, jeered at in the streets and derided by the newspapers. From that day he was a popular man in the strongest sense of the word.

At the time of the great triumph Peter Cooper was an apprentice boy, Thurlow Weed was a cabin-boy on a Hudson river sloop, and Chas. O'Connor was a prattling child of three years.

The approach of the seventy-fifth anniversary has awakened considerable interest among the business men of the city, and steps are being taken to properly celebrate the occasion. Committees have been appointed by the Maritime and Produce Exchanges and the Board of Trade to take active measures toward causing the day to be generally observed by those whose business interests directly connect them with steam navigation. A movement is also on foot to erect a suitable monument to the memory of the great inventor, whose ashes now lie neglected in an obscure vault at the south-west corner of Trinity church.

Concerning this movement, the venerable Thurlow Weed said to a Telegram reporter that there were few things in which he took a deeper or more personal interest. Said he: "I have long deemed such a recognition of Fulton's genius of the greatest importance and I have time and again declared it to be a reproach to the city of New York, and to the country, that so great a contributor to the cause of progress should be without monumental honors. I made an earnest appeal twenty-five years ago for the consummation of this very project and I added a codicil to my will at the time setting aside $1,000 for it, but the matter became so dead that I crossed it out about five years ago. I am delighted, however, to learn that the movement is again on foot, and if I am called upon I shall certainly contribute my share."

Mr. Weed then described his feelings of wonder and awe when he first saw the Clermont steaming up the river with its unboxed paddle wheels scattering the water in every direction and the burning pine brands being belched forth from its smoke-stack to a height of twenty feet or more and then fall hissing into the river. He also told of the man who thought to prove the superiority of muscle over steam by substituting negro power and a crank for steam power and a walking-beam, and of his inglorious defeat in a race with the steamboat. With these and a host of other interesting anecdotes connected with steamboats up to the time of Lafayette's visit, the genial old journalist entertained the reporter.

Mr. Peter Cooper, as is well known, is decidedly averse to monuments and cannot perceive the public economy in erecting them. As far as Fulton was concerned, though, he thought he would never be without a monument while a steamboat sailed the water. "Mr. Fulton," he said, "was much better remunerated for his achievement than most inventors, for he was granted the monopoly of steam navigation on the Hudson river for thirty years, and although the grant was declared 'unconstitutional after a while, it was not before he and his company had made a vast sum of money out of it. At the time that Mr. Fulton was building the Clermont I had invented an apparatus for using the tide force on the river to compress air, and had built a model showing how the compressed air could be used to propel ferry boats across the river. Mr. Fulton came to see my invention, but I was only a poor apprentice boy at the time and I suppose he did not think me of much account. At any rate, after merely glancing over the model which had cost me so much toil, he went off without saying a word as to its merits. I felt [illegible] time. But for all that the steamboat is a great invention, and I would be glad [illegible] its seventy-fifth anniversary celebrated."

HOURS IN A COFFIN.

Thrilling Adventures of Shoemaker Martin Strong.

[From the New York Times.]

"Seven hours in a coffin added ten years to my life," was the singular remark made to your correspondent on Thursday last, which resulted this morning in the unfolding of a most remarkable tale of adventure. Martin Strong, a shoemaker, living—or rather dying—at his brother's house on Twelfth street, told for the first time of a horrible experience through which he passed in the summer of 1868, when he was pronounced dead by his physician, and came within an ace of being buried alive. Strong had suffered for several years with an affection of the spine. He has been unable to attend to his business for several years, because of his ailment, and now appears to be on the verge of the grave. "I will tell you all that I remember," said the shoemaker, as he gulped down a half tumblerful of brandy and water, "but I object to having anything published in a newspaper, and I don't thank my old doctor for sending you here. In the month of June, 1868, I was taken violently ill with a terrible pain at the base of the brain, and a chillness all the way down the spinal column. I then lived in a room on South street, and had a shop on Ridge avenue. About the middle of June I took to bed and called in Dr. Harker (who died a few years ago, by the way), and afterward Dr. Cummings, now living, I believe, near Camden. Neither of them appeared to know what ailed me. I became delirious, and remained in that state from the 28th of June to the Fourth of July. I remember distinctly of awakening on that morning and hearing the noise of fireworks. In the afternoon the queer feeling in my backbone increased, and by sundown I felt as though I was paralyzed from my neck down. I remained in that state until 9 o'clock the next morning, and then the chilly feeling began extending all over my body. I lost all power of motion, and could not even open my mouth or eyes. Still I heard everything going about me. Dr. Cummings held my pulse, and I heard him tell my brother that I would probably live until noon.

"At 11 o'clock—for I heard the clock strike—a shiver seemed to go through me, and my brother lifted my head. I heard the doctor say: "He's going now I think.' I could not utter a sound nor move a muscle. Then I felt the doctor unbutton my night shirt and place his ear above my heart. He raised his head in a moment and said: 'He's gone.' My God, how I did try to move at this moment, but it was no use; I couldn't even wink. My body must have been cold, to give the idea of death, but I did not feel cold, except in the region of my spine. My supposed dead body was covered with a sheet and placed in the middle of the bed. My brother then locked up the house and went out. Now what happened almost immediately afterward is so strange and incredible that I must ask you to believe it on my word alone, because I would not insult your intelligence by such a statement unless it were true. I lay there thinking of the awful agony I would endure should they bury me alive. I seemed to live a lifetime, and the mental torture was as terrible as you can imagine. My brother had been gone about ten minutes, I should judge, when suddenly I felt a new sensation. My back seemed as though it was being pricked by hundreds of needles, and I felt a warmth creeping down my backbone. This simple action brought back the suspended functions of life, and the next instant I had thrown the sheet off and was on my feet. I was still weak, and sat down in a chair to think. Then I knelt down and offered up a prayer of thankfulness. These feelings were now succeeded by the jolliest humor imaginable. I felt so good that I could scarcely keep myself from opening the window and shouting for joy, but I restrained myself and sat still. Then it occurred to me that it would be a harmless joke to surprise my brother, the doctor, and the world in general, by suddenly rising out of my coffin, if I could maintain my equanimity long enough for them to put me in. The more I thought of the scheme, the more I liked it, and actually laughed aloud as I imagined the horror stricken countenances of the people at seeing a dead man rise up and speak. My brother might return at any moment, so to carry out the plan successfully I laid down again and had the sheet ready to draw over my face the moment I heard him come in. I suppose I remained in that position for twenty minutes or more when the front door opened and shut and I heard foot steps ascending the stairs. I waited until he had nearly reached the top and then attempted to draw up the sheet which covered me to the waist. Great Heaven! I could not move a finger. Like a flash the same old chilly feeling came upon me, and I was to all intents and purposes, a dead man again. My ghastly joke nearly resulted in horrible fate. My brother, the moment he entered the room, went to a closet and took out a Bible. 'When he sees the disarranged sheet,' I thought, 'he will suspect something and take means to awaken me.' But he didn't seem to notice anything, and covered my face again, and then sitting down, began to read. If the agony before my revival was horrible, this was superlative. My brain seemed on fire from the intensity of thinking. At five o'clock in the afternoon the door bell rang, and my brother answered it. My horror was complete when I heard my brother [illegible] 'I want the funeral to take place in the evening, so it [illegible] [illegible] brought up a plain walnut coffin. I was washed, dressed and placed in the coffin without being able to twitch an eyebrow in remonstrance. I shall never forget that night. It was an eternity. I heard the statehouse clock strike the midnight hour and all the weird stories about ghosts and the dead chased through my almost frantic brain. It would fill a book to tell how I suffered. On the following morning at nine o'clock my brother and a few friends assembled in the front down stairs room. I was in the coffin up stairs, when again did that feeling come over me as on the day before. Again I sighed and came back again to life, just as my brother entered the room. He seemed to take in the situation at a glance, and closing the door after him locked it. Of course he embraced me, and then in his eccentric way, went out and told my half dozen shoemaker friends that there would be no funeral, that I was not dead, and that he had summoned them merely to test their friendship. Knowing his oddities the men believed him and went away. The undertaker was sent for and the doctor. While they were not pledged to secrecy it was generally understood that nothing was to be said for my brother's sake, who detests publicity in any form, so if you insist on saying anything in the paper stick it away in some corner. Dr. Cummings corroborated the strange story fully, and the undertaker, while he refused to talk about it at all, would not deny it directly. The strangest part of the whole affair is the fact that it has never been brought to light before.

"WHAT ALEXANDER MIGHT HAVE DONE."

The late Czar of Russia was eminently a great man, as his action in liberating thirty-six million serfs from slavery qualified him to be. Yet with all his greatness, Alexander left it to Dr Swayne to liberate the world from the annoyance and pain of scores of skin diseases, hundreds, thousands it has cured, and then remember it is economical, effective, reliable and pure, and if you will only try it you will have a cure. 12w4

A Cheap Oration.

There is yet living in Central Michigan a lawyer who, some fifteen or sixteen years ago was waited upon by a committee from a small village for the purpose of engaging him to deliver a Fourth of July oration. When they asked his price he said that he considered twenty-five dollars cheap enough.

"Mercy on me!" exclaimed the chairman, "but we can't pay no such price as that! That must be a regular Henry Clay oration."

"Well, yes. I think it will compare favorably with anything Henry ever got off."

"O, but we can't stand it it—we must have a cheaper one."

"How cheap?"

"Not over five dollars. We'll give you five dollars, your dinner and all the lemonade you can drink for the cheapest oration in your head."

"I'll do it! replied the lawyer, and the money was paid him on the spot.

He was on hand the glorious day, and by and by the procession moved to the grove, the orator took the stand and was introduced, and without any fooling around he walked to the front and said:

"Fellow-countrymen: We whipped England twice and Mexico once. We are a free people. This is the glorious Fourth. Give'em 'Hail Columbia' and go in for a good time—the end."

He had given them a five dollar oration and every soul in the crowd except one old woman was perfectly satisfied. She followed the orator around until she had cornered him, and the expressed her disgust by saying:

"Seems to me that if you had really desired to please the crowd you wouldn't have chopped that off without a single word about Noah's ark or the battle of Bunker Hill?"

THE FULTON TIMES.

Wednesday, Aug. 16, 1882.

THURLOW WEED wants the republican to nominate Collector Robertson for governor.

ACCORDING to a recent law any soldier who lost an arm in the Union army is entitled to a pension of $37 per month.

A RUMOR is rife in New York that Walter Malley and Blanche Douglass will be joined in marriage in September.

NO FEWER than fifty-seven of the seventy-six members of the United States senators are lawyers, and 195 of the 293 representatives.

BY a law which has just taken effect, it is illegal to sell kerosene oil that will not stand flash test at 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Heretofore the test has been 80 degrees.

A PATENT medicine manufacturer has received the following testimonial: "Dear sir, your pills are the best I ever saw. My mother-in-law is growing worse. Send me four boxes."

IT IS twenty-five years since Pennsylvania had a democratic governor, and if the Independents do not yield or the Cameron faction either, continuous republican rule will be broken this fall.

EX-SENATOR KERNAN, a careful political observer predicts the election of the democratic state ticket. The senator is a democrat and has made like predictions which proved him to be a poor prophet.

THE bodies of Lieut. Delong and comrades who perished in a vain attempt to find a passage to the North Pole will be brought to this country for interment, congress having made an appropriation for that purpose.

MR. R. T. BENNETT, democratic candidate for congressman at large in North Carolina, is around publicly advocating the pensioning of confederate soldiers by the government. Mr. Bennett would reap as bountiful a harvest peddling peanuts in a graveyard.

U. S. SENATOR HILL of Georgia is dying at his home in Atlanta. He has been sinking the past twenty-four hours. It is possible he may linger a day or two. He is afflicted with a disease of the throat.

THE State Firemen's Convention which is in session at Rochester will continue until Friday. The losses by fire in this state last year amounted to $15,919,000. How this tremendous drain upon the country can be lessened is a topic that may well engage the attention of such a convention.

THE superintendent of the Harmony mills at Cohoes reports that the mills are running with an increase of hands over last week and will be kept in operation if there are but five operatives in each mill. He claims that the wages offered are equal to those of Lowell, Fall River and other manufacturing centres, and for some particular work the rate is five to ten per cent. higher. The strikers are receiving aid from every direction.

THE New York Star says "we presume Tammany will immediately issue their call for a State convention, to nominate candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Congressman-at-large and a Court of Appeals Judge, whom they can trust, and whom the honest, independent people of the state can have confidence in and support with enthusiasm."

This does not look as though the democracy was harmonized.

THE first caucus held in the state to elect delegates to the republican state convention was held in Horse Heads, Chemung county, Saturday. One of the four delegates is postmaster at Elmira, and another is a revenue officer. The following resolution was adopted:

"That the delegates this day chosen to the state convention, or any substitutes who may be appointed by and act for them, are hereby instructed to vote and use their influence in favor of the renomination of Alonzo B. Cornell for governor."

THIS village was named in honor of Robert Fulton, the first man to use steam as a means of propulsion. On the first page of to-day's issue will be found some interesting facts in his life. His grave lies unmarked by anything of an usual character in Trinity churchyard in New York, although several futile attempts have been made to raise by contribution means enough to erect him a monument commensurate with his wonderful achievement. We have heard it suggested that permission be obtained to remove the body from Trinity churchyard to Mt. Adnah and a monument be erected out of the common funds of the village.

A WESTERN congressman who voted for the river and harbor bill explained his action in the following language: "People who have been paying taxes to fill the general coffer have come to the conclusion that they have need of some of the money themselves, and they propose to have it. The East has been getting it all along, and now the West wants some. The truth of the matter is that we have raised a great national cow with her fore feet on this side of the Alleghanies and her hind quarters on the other side. The people of the West have been feeding her, and the people of the East milking her, and now we propose to turn the animal around."

THE Utica Herald says two interesting statements come from Montreal. One is that the women of Three Rivers, a town of about 4,000 inhabitants not far from Montreal, are just beginning to adopt the fashion of wearing frizzes and banged hair. The other is that the Roman Catholic bishop of Three Rivers has issued a pastoral forbidding the women of his flock under pain of excommunication to follow the aforesaid fashion. These bits of information awaken two emotions, one of incredulity that a fashion so dear to the feminine heart should be so long in reaching any parish of the western continent; the other of thankfulness that some person in authority deems it his duty to do what he can to apply the brakes to the hair craze. The attitude of Bishop LaFleche is said to meet the approbation of Bishop Fabre, of Montreal, who is expected to issue a similar one in his strong Catholic diocese. In other dioceses dancing has been forbidden. Now, exactly what life will be worth in [illegible] without bangs [illegible] in this waltzing, [illegible] we have not [illegible]

Death of Partner in the Firm of W. S. Nelson & Co.

Jessie Hoyt died in New York city Monday aged 68 years. Mr. Hoyt was one of the most widely known of grain and flour merchants in the city and had a national reputation as a builder of railroads and elevators. He was a partner in the Genessee Flour Mill and Stave Mill of W. S. Nelson & Co. in this village.

In 1851 he invested largely in Western lands principally in the Saginaw Valley, Michigan, and was the first to develop the great salt interests of that locality and he became active in building railroads that would enhance their value. Among these roads was the Flint and Pere Marquette, of which he was President at the time of his death; the Winona and St Peter, the Milwaukee and Northern, and others, which, except the first, have since been absorbed by the great trunk lines of the Northwest, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St Paul, and the Chicago and Northwestern. Up to his death he was a director of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, the Merchants' Exchange National Bank, and the Home and the Commercial Insurance Companies. At one time he was largely interested in and an officer of the New York Elevated Railroad. His fortune is estimated at several millions. He leaves a wife and one daughter.

For Owners of Dogs.

Some one has arrived at the following conclusion on dogs, and as it is being published in many papers we reproduce it:

If anyone is attacked on the highway by a dog, the party has a right to kill the dog, and the owner can be held accountable for any injury inflicted by the animal. Even on the premises of the owner of the dog, should a party be attacked and injured, after endeavoring to protect himself, the owner can be made responsible for the damages inflicted, provided it can be shown that at the time he was in pursuit of business or a friendly visit. If a dog, by barking at passing horses or vehicles, occasions any damage, its owner is liable for loss sustained. Thus the law affords ample protection for the loss or injury caused by dogs.

Spiritualists and Free Thinkers.

The Spiritualists and Free Thinkers of the western division of Oswego county will hold their annual meeting on the fair ground, at Oswego Falls, Sunday August 27. First services at half past eleven. Miss E. Anna Hinman, of Winsted, Conn, has been engaged to deliver the addresses. To meet the expenses of the meeting and to distribute it equally among the hearers a small fee will be taken at the gate. Bring lunch and camp chairs for the noon hour.

By order of com,

A Fine Question Answered.

Editor FULTON TIMES:

I am a member of a temperance society and would like to go hop-picking. As hops are used in the manufacture of beer, would I be violating my trust as a temperance worker in assisting in their harvest? ANTI-BEER.

"Yes, 'anti,' hops are used in the manufacture of beer, and you had better let them alone. So is water. Paste this in your hat and read it carefully when you go to take a bath. When you are about to harvest your corn remember all bourbon whiskey is made from that grain. Rye, wheat and barley is all used to make booze. Don't touch them at all. Let them stand and rot. Go to Iowa, 'anti.'

NEIGHBORING NEWS.

There was a frost in some portions of Onondaga county Monday night.

The tenth annual exhibition of Phoenix Union Agricultural society occurs Sept. 26, 27 and 28.

It is estimated the democratic state convention will be worth $30,000 to Syracuse.

A new post office has been established at Lycoming, Oswego county, Ezra Bently postmaster.

The 19th, 20th, 21st, 22d and 23d of August are the dates of the convention of farmers of New York state to be held in Syracuse.

The Parish Sun advocates the construction of a town pump to answer the double purpose of fire extinguisher and street sprinkler. A good idea.

Edward Ryan, a well known Oswego character, died suddenly, in that city, Sunday. He had been a hard drinker, and his death is said to have been caused by long continued debauchery.

One hundred and twenty-five years ago Monday, Oswego, held by the British, was surrendered to the French under Montcalm. Colonel Mercer, the British commander was killed.

Owen McCall of Skaneateles, was killed Tuesday morning by the caving in of a gravel bed. Both of his arms were broken and the head crushed. When taken out he was dead. He leaves an invalid wife and four children.

John H. Tilton, of Oneida, committed suicide Sunday by hanging himself. He was discovered by his wife and her brother, R. Ruby, when they returned from church. He has been sick for three years, and had become weary of life.

The editor of the Parish Sun has been robbed. He says on Saturday night last our hen coop was visited and two of our pet hens taken. We would rather have given several times their value than have parted with them. The parties are known and they may hear more of it hereafter. H. S. Witherell had a turkey gobbler taken at the same time.

The colored people of Syracuse and throughout the state are greatly interested in a movement now being made for a proper observance of the thirty first anniversary of the rescue of Jerry the colored man, in Syracuse, on the first of October, 1851. The Palmer Guards lead in the undertaking and have appointed a large committee to make arrangements on an extensive scale. Organization of colored people throughout the state will be invited to go there and join a procession, to be composed of military, fire and hose companies, benevolent organizations and societies, glee clubs and bands of music, etc. etc. The celebration will take place on Monday, Oct. 2, 1882.

A Dissatisfied Tax Payer.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

I have been trying to sell Mr. Church some real estate. He says he would buy if I would warrant the assessment would not be advanced more than two-thirds of what he paid for it. He also says he had intended to buy and sell real estate, and make it a business instead of dealing in bonds and mortgages, but could not make calculation what to pay under the present rule of assessing.

Mr. Church bought the old Shaw drug store of Willard Johnson for $6,000 and Nichols hall block of Henry Nichols for $14,000. They were assessed at $12,000. In two months after Church bought it the same assessors advanced it to $17,500 that is $5,500 advance. At four per cent would be $220 advance on taxes. Church says he has had some talk of buying the Townsend and Cornell block, price $17,000. I think it is the cheapest property for sale that I know of.

The Bee Hive will rent for $800, Bailey for $500, Cornell, $300, the two upper stories $600. He says he would buy it if the assessment could be kept where it is, or two-thirds of what he pays for it. Church says he would sell the Nichols hall block for what it cost him. Nichols hall block, assessment $12,000, price $14,000, rent $1,500; Lewis house assessment $22,000, price $36,000, rent $3,400; Townsend and Cornell block assessment $11,000, price $17,000, rent $1,700; Patterson block assessmement $3500, price $7,000, rent $750; Dexter block, five stores assessment $8,500, price $18,000, rent 1,800. I do not think Patterson, Lewis, Bradshaw or Dexter want Church to pay any part of their taxes, two-thirds is the rule in almost every other place that I have heard from. The farms I do not think are assessed for more than one-half their value. Why should the village pay the farmers taxes?

I would like to know on what grounds the assessors reduce the Citizen's Bank stock to 90 cents, when the stock is worth $1.30, they have 30 per cent surplus. They can close up the bank and pay $1.30, there is no bank stock for sale.

It is plain to me that there is something wrong in the system of assessing. The idea of taxing the best located stores on First street at their full value because they pay the best and are the most desirable. I think it is wrong, for just as much as you advance the taxes the rent will advance, that will force the merchant to charge more for goods. I am in favor the lowest amount of taxes possible on the stores, that would keep the rent down and help the merchant to compete with Syracuse, and build up a trade here. If it was not for the high rent there would be no going to Syracuse to trade. TAX PAYER.

—Stephen Rathbun, aged 25, clerk in the office of the Geneva woolen mill, Providence, R. I., discharged on suspicion of stealing appeared at the office on Saturday morning disguised and applied for work. While the clerk was absent he went to the rear office where there was $5,000 ready to pay help, seized $4,000 and attempted to escape. He was caught after two shots were fired at him.

—In a neat white cottage among vineyards on the Put-in-Bay Island, Lake Erie, there is now living John Brown, Jr., the eldest son of John Brown, the famous Abolitionist. The son is a man of 60 years of age, strong and vigorous looking, with long silvery hair. Residing with him is Owen Brown, a younger son, who was with his father when the latter made his attack on Harper's Ferry. A daughter of John Brown, named Ruth Thompson, lives near by, and another son, Jason Brown is still in California.

Harper's Magazine for September opens with a beautiful frontispiece, entitled "A Sunday morning in Surrey," form a picture by Alfred Parsons. The same artist with equal charms, illustrates Mrs. Lillie's papers, "Surray, the first of which appears in this Number. English country scenery has never been so actrively presented as in this delightful paper. From the rual beauty of an English county we turn to a quaint description of one of our most characteristic coast towns—York, in Maine, near Portsmouth—beautifully illustrated by W. F. Halsall and E. H. Garrett. The fifth and last paper of Mr. Lathrop's "Spanish Vistas" describes the coast towns from Maralaga to Barcelona—a series of Mediterranean Ports and Gardens," full of picturesque bits of which the writer and the artist have made the most. Mr. Reinhart's illustrations for this paper—as for the entire series—have never been surpassed. "The Weilbertreue" (Faithful wives) is the title of a very interesting account of Weinsberg, in Suabia. The writer, Elsie Allen, paints two graphic historical pictures of which Weidsburg is the centre—Konrad's Siege of the Castle and Peasants' War—and gives and interesting sketch of the poet Justinus Kerner. The third part of Cononel Higginson's American History is devoted to the discoveries made by the Northmen. The paper is illustrated with eight engravings.

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Nobody could find fault with the market, to-day, unless he was a confirmed "bear," or a buyer who wanted to get cheese at such a rate that he could make a big margin on it. The facts concerning the make are so evident that the advance is only a natural sequence following them. One factory that was making 18 cheese at this time last year is now making but 12; and this is the result of the recent hot weather and drouth. Others are off in greater or less proportions, but all are enough short to demonstrate the fact that there is going to be no great surplus of cheese this season. Last year at this time stock was rapidly accumulating in cold storage in New York. To-day the market is clear, and waiting for stock to arrive. Indeed, fine stock is scarce, and there is no difficulty in disposing of it. Under these circumstances several of our salesmen who have shipped pretty close to the hoop heretofore, held off to-day, and either did not ship at all, or sent only four or five days' make. This is the reason why our sales are about a thousand boxes short of last week. Transactions for the day were as follows: 190 boxes, at 10½c.; 10 lots, 1,019 boxes, at 11c.; 3 lots, 491 boxes, at 11⅛c.; 45 lots, 4,653 boxes, at 11¼c.; 2 lots, 197 boxes, at 11⅜c.; Sales 6,510 boxes; commissions, 2,400; total, 8,910 boxes. Ruling price 11¼c. Transactions of last year, 11,122 boxes, at 10½c. to 11c. Leading price 10¾c. In 1880 prices were 11¼ to 11⅝c., and in 1879 they were 3 to 5½c.

LITTLE FALLS, Aug. 14—Another boom to-day and a strong feeling everywhere. Factorymen have acquired high notions since last Monday, and a few put on a bold face and asked 11¾c. and 12c. for their cheese, and would not sell for less, and so went home without selling. For the first week in some time factories held back some of their cheese, but generally shipped some. It was claimed that several more lots than those reported sold at over 11½c and we learn of two or three factories being offered at 11⅝ and 11¾c which refused to sell. Factorymen claim that cows are shrinking greatly in milk, and with very poor prospect for "after-feed," they are strong in the belief that the production is to be so much lessened as to add greatly to values during the balance of the season:

The following are the sales:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
4	240	10½ cents
6	310	10¾ "
12	588	11 "
50	3,686	11¼ "
48	3,785	11⅜ "
4	311	11¼ "
8	450	commis.
132	9,370
Farm dairies	989
Total	10,350

AT FULTON.

Nineteen factories are represented with 1520 boxes of cheese which was sold, except three factories at 10¾ to 11 cents. The price one year ago was 10¾ cts; two years ago, 11 cts; three years ago, 5 cts; four years ago, 8 cts.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST

In the Burns—Terrell Homicide Completed—Terrell Held to be Responsible for Burns' Death.

The coroner's inquest on the body of Thomas Burns, whose death has been chronicled in THE TIMES met in police court room in this village last Wednesday evening to listen to evidence. The jury was composed of the following gentlemen: Porter W. Hyde, foreman, M. A. Stewart, G. W. Morton, D. C. Skadden, John N. Sharp, George Kellogg, Dr. Ira C. Curtis, Wm. E. Taylor Thomas D. Lewis and John Woodin.

H. C. Howe, Esq., was present and informed the coroner thot he appeared in behalf of Edward Terrell as counsel. The coroner denied him the privilege, stating that this inquest was being held to ascertain if a crime had been committed and not to examine any suspected person and therefore under the code counsel for any such suspected person are not permitted to take any part in the investigation. Mr. Howe expressed a desire to take evidence, which was also denied him, the coroner informing him he could take notes if he chose.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Mrs Catherine Burns, widow of deceased was sworn. The salient points of her testimony were: I saw him last before he was hurt about three in the afternoon. He was as well as usual. He had worked nearly every day this summer. I next saw him on the stoop about midnight; heard a knock and grunting at the door; deceased lay on his breast and John Kinney sat in a chair; I asked what the matter was and deceased said "Ed Terrell has been kicking me;" kept repeating that; Kinney went home; called my oldest boy and helped him to bed; he was in great pain; called Dr. Wells at 5 a. m., and he came about 6 o'clock a. m.

THOMAS BURNS,

Son of the deceased, aged 22 years was the next witness. His testimony was substantially the same as that of his mother, corroborating her in all important points.

DR. WILLIS M. WELLS

Said he was called to see deceased, and repeated the evidence published in this paper week before last. He said that by direction of coroner he held a post mortem examination of deceased Aug. 2, 18 hours after death; was assisted by Dr. E. Frank Marsh, of Fulton. We first opened the chest; found the right pleural cavity distended to its full extent; right lung collapsed; pleural cavity distended with air; about three ounces of bloody serum in right pleural cavity; found the ribs on right side, from 4th to 9th inclusive, broken; from 4th to 6th, inclusive, were broken about three inches from the sternum; the 7th and 8th about four inches from the sternum; the 9th was broken near the angle of the ribs; the right lung somewhat congested; the liver was normal; stomach partly filled with half-digested food and normal in appearance; heart normal; other organs in usually healty condition; from the post mortem examination should say cause of death was external violence; there was a contusion opposite each break in the ribs, I think.

Inquest adjourned to meet the next evening, (Thursday,) at 7 p. m.

THURSDAY EVENING

Dr. E. Frank Marsh was the first witness called, and repeated to the jury the discoveries he made at post mortem examination. His evidence was a repetition of the previous witness. Dr. Marsh was asked a few questions by the jury, and gave very clear and intelligent answers.

MARION BECKWITH

Is 51 years of age, and lives upon the same lot that Carroll's saloon is situated. She heard a disturbance in Carroll's saloon about 11 o'clock on the night of July 29th. I heard singing and saw that there was a large crowd, and I was afraid to go to bed; saw two men go into the saloon, and the singing stopped; I heard angry loud words and great swearing; heard some person say I can lick you; saw a man go out and pick up something; don't know who the man was; then I heard a fearful crash in the building; heard glass breaking; then there was a great rush; heard a voice inside say "you cannot kill me with a knife or a stone;" heard a man crying bitterly and saying he was killed; then heard men come out gradually; heard three men talking at the lamp-post on the corner of First street; heard one man say "I am sorry it happened, I would not have had it happen for twenty-five dollars; heard another say "I am not sorry for what I gave him, he insulted me on the street, he pushed me off the sidewalk;" heard a man say "I would not be called a sucker if he was forty years older;" heard a man say "there will be law about it, you will go up;" then the other man said he "did not give a d——n, if he wen up there would be more than he go up."

JOHN KINNEY

was in the saloon on the night of the row; helped Burns home; Burns told me his ribs were broken; left him on stoop with his wife; heard him tell his wife that he had had a fight with Terrell and that Terrell had broken his ribs.

Adjourned until Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

FRIDAY EVENING

Thomas Greenwood was the first witness called. He said he was not in the saloon on the night of the row and knew nothing concerning the assault.

THERESA TOBIN

took the stand and said she resided in Oswego Falls across the street from Carroll's saloon; heard a row in the saloon about 10:30 on the evening of July 29; saw a man come out of saloon and look on the ground and pick up something. The remainder of Miss Tobin's testimony was substantially the same as Miss Beckwith's.

ALEXANDER MCINTOSH

was called and testified he heard noise in Carroll's saloon; went to saloon and looked in; saw James Dwyer, Tom Burns, Jack Clegg and John Kinney inside; Ed. Terrill was walking around and said he could lick any man in Fulton; Tom Burns was lying on floor; as I entered he got up and said "That's all right Terrill;" Saw Kinney start home with Burns.

JOHN CAMERON

testified he was with McIntosh and his evidence was substantially the same as previous witness. Adjourned to Saturday at 10 a. m.

SATURDAY MORNING

Edward Terrell was called and sworn. he testified: My name is Edward Terrill; reside in Oswego Falls, am 23 years of age; am wool sorter in factory; have lived here five years; came from Oswego; I knew Thos. Burns, deceased.

Question, by Coroner—"Where were you during the day of July 29th last?"

Answer—"I decline to answer on the ground that I am under bail on a charge of injuring deceased, and upon advice of counsel and my own judgment I decline to answer."

Q. By Coroner—"Were you in John Carroll's saloon on the evening of July 29th last, and if so, state what part you took in the row that resulted in the injuries to Thomas Burns?"

A—"I refuse to answer."

Terrill was dismissed.

PATRICK BURNS

was called and testified he was in Carroll's saloon on the night of July 29 with [illegible] 4 or 5 of [illegible] Terrell [illegible] Terrell was acting so; Carroll said Terrell claimed deceased or I had called him a sucker; asked Terrill if he had antipathy against him; said no but had against deceased; next saw deceased out of doors and helped him home; on way home he said Edward Terrell kicked him in the side and he felt so bad he did not think he could get home. Next saw deceased at his home about 10 a. m., July 30; he was in bed; his wife asked him if he did not know his brother Pat; he reached up to pull me down to kiss me; I kissed him and asked him who beat him so; he said something about James Dwyer striking or kicking him in the eye; he said Ed. Terrill kicked him in the side; said he thought he would never get over it and pulled me down and kissed me good bye.

Question, By Juror Stewart—"Did you hear the fight in the front room while you were in back room?"

Ans.—"I heard stamping and making a good deal of noise but did not know it was a fight."

Q.—"Did you see any blood on deceased's face when he stood by the bar?"

A.—No, I saw no blood; but saw his eye was partly closed and looked as if it had been used pretty bad. I saw his shirt was torn."

Q.—"Was Terrell in his shirt sleeves when you went in the front room?"

A.—"I don't think he was."

Q.—"Did you see deceased go after a stone?"

A.—"No, sir, I saw no stone on the floor."

THOMAS BAILEY

was then called and said he was in Carroll's saloon sitting on a beer barrel talking about a race; was in back room when fight was going on; saw nothing and did not know anybody had been hurt until a day or two after.

Adjourned until Monday evening, August 14, at 7 o'clock.

MONDAY EVENING

Thomas Sullivan swore he heard Michael Nealis tell Andrew Murphy that he saw Ed Terrill knock Burns down and kick him.

By Juror Curtis—"Did he say he knocked him down and he got right up?"

A.—"No, he said he knocked him down and then kicked him."

JOHN CLEGG

being duly sworn said: Was at Carroll's saloon on the night of July 29; saw man in the road; he picked up something that looked like a stone; did not see any row.

By Juror Kellogg—"Did you speak to Burns when he picked it up?"

A—"I did. I asked him what he was going to do with it and he said none of my business."

WRIGHT MOTTRAM

was in the back room; heard noise in front room; but saw no one hurt. Adjourned until Tuesday evening.

MICHAEL NEALIS

was sworn. He was in Carroll's saloon the night of July 29; was in the back room with deceased and others when Terrell and Dwyer came in; next heard Terrell in front room saying some Burns had called him a sucker; next I noticed Thomas Burns get up and say Patsey, don't you apologize to him, I will see to him; there was quite a commotion; Burns took off his coat and went out the front door; no one was in the room but Terrell, Dwyer and Carroll; Burns came in and went toward Terrell; Terrell said "go way;" Burns made a pass at Terrill but don't think he hit him; Terrell then struck Burns and knocked him down; tried to stop the row and Terrill pushed me over Burns; Burns got up and Terrell knocked him down again struck him in face or head; saw Terrill kick at him when he was down; next I saw Burns lying on floor on his back; Burns got up and leaning against the bar told Terrill that he would pay for this; when Terrill kicked deceased, deceased was lying on his back on the floor doing nothing; did not see Terrill kick ai him but once.

By Juror Sharp—"When you fell over deceased did you step on him?"

A—"No, sir; my heels came in contact with him about midway of his body."

By Juror Kellogg—"Was there any one friendly to deceased there but you?"

A—"I saw no one interfere but me."

By Juror Hyde—"Was there any one else in front room when this was going on?"

A—"Yes, sir; John Carroll, James Dwyer, Patrick Burns, John Kinney; and Patrick Casey saw them there after deceased fell."

By Juror Lewis—"Did you hear Terrell say anything on the way home?"

A—Terrell said; I can't help it. I said Terrell, you ought not to interfere with the old man; he said it would be a nice looking thing for me to get hit in the eye with a stone and go to work in the morning; said Burns struck him on knuckles with stone; showed me peeled knuckles; Carroll said in presence of Terrell I am afraid Burns will have law about this; Terrell said I can't help it.

THE VERDICT.

STATE OF NEW YORK, } ss.
Oswego County, }

At an Inquest indented and taken this 2d day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two and continued from time to time until this 15th day of Aug 1882, for the people of the state of New York, in the town of Volney in said county, before William A. Hall one of the coroners of said county, on view of the body of Thomas Burns then and there lying dead upon the oath of Porter W. Hyde, George Kellogg, Ira C. Curtis, Dewitt C. Skadden, John N. Sharp, Geo. W. Morton, Michael A. Stewart, William E. Taylor, John H. Woodin, Thomas D. Lewis good and lawful men of this county, who being sworn and charged to inquire how and after what manner said Thomas Burns came to his death, do say, upon oath aforesaid, that he came to his death from injuries occasioned at John Carroll's Saloon on Pine street, Oswego Falls, N. Y., on evening of July 29th, 1882, by means of which he came to his death August 1st, 1882. The injuries were occasioned by criminal means and we find that Edward Tyrell was guilty thereof in so far as by such inquisition we have been able to ascertain.

A Pertinent Question.

To the Editor FULTON TIMES:

Is the public park to be made a horse pasture? I would also like to ask why property owners do not cut the weeds in front of their property? P

Barnum and Jumbo

Will be in Oswego Saturday, and the Midland company will sell tickets to Oswego and return, including ticket to the circus and menagerie, for eighty-five cents. A special train will leave Oswego at the conclusion of the evening performance. This makes the trip cheap and convenient for Fulton people.

Knights of Labor.

This society held a meeting Monday evening in Whitaker's hall and took the initiatory step for the formation of a league in Fulton. A president, vice-president, secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer and statistician were elected. Another meeting will be held August 21, in Whitaker's hall, and every working man in this vicinity is invited to attend.

Bagging a Burglar.

John London, a resident of the "Flats," was arrested in Scriba Saturday by Officer Ney for burglarizing the residence of Wallace Coe—the Deacon Seymour place, north of Fulton—about July 12. Mr. Coe and family were absent boating, and the value of the goods taken is about $100. A merino dress and a few more articles were found at London's residence He was examined before Justice Parker Monday. He claimed a man named Geo. Taylor gave him the goods. Taylor and his wife are in Michigan. London was held as an accessory after the fact, and in default of $500 bail is in jail to await the action of the grand jury. Officer Ney worked the case up.

Miss Peck's Injuries.

On the evening of May 9th as Miss Della Peck was crossing the upper bridge, and started from the south to the north foot bridge, her foot was run over by a wagon going at a furious rate, which was in charge of P. F. Murray, of Syracuse, agent for Kearney's brewery. Murray made no explanation nor apology and passed on as though unconscious of his act. Miss Peck proved to be quite badly injured, to such an extent, however, that she was unable to return to her work in the factory.

The next time Mr. Murray came to Fulton he was informed of the condition of the young lady and requested to make the matter satisfactory. This he refused to do and was sued before A. Rice, Esq. Trial was held Aug. 1, damages being asked equal to one month's wages of the young lady, the attending physician's fees and costs of suit. Miss Peck was represented by W. C. Stephens, Esq., and Mr. Murray by A. L. Johnson, Esq., of Syracuse. Justice Rice rendered a verdict Monday awarding Miss Peck damages in the sum of $33.98 and $5.00 costs.

The Cattle Plague in Weedsport.

Farmers in the vicinity of Weedsport are greatly exercised over a disease that has appeared among the cattle resembling Texan fever or pneumonia. It broke out among cattle bought in the west by butchers, no native cattle having yet been affected. The plague, which resembles the rinderpest, develops very rapidly. The cattle are up and well one day, but the next are as weak as calves a day old, and 24 hours later are as dead as beef in a butcher shop. Dizziness seems to be the first indication of sickness, after which general weakness of the legs, glassiness of the eyes, and irregularity of the bowels are observed. The poor beasts will stagger for half a day, then lie down and die in what is apparently horrible agony. They froth at the mouth, and their nostrils exude a slimy substance of unnatural color. The disease seems to spread in the air, for cattle that have not been close together are fatally afflicted. It is supposed the cattle have been poisoned and no occasion exists for undue uneasiness among cattle owners or farmers.

Howard Allen, living at the Upper Landing, had a cow die this morning that developed all the symptoms enumerated in the cases at Weedsport, excepting that immediately prior to dying the cow appeard to be uncontrollably wild. Yesterday the cow was apparently well.

POPULARITY.

Thomas' Eclectric Oil has obtained great popularity, from its intrinsic value as a reliable medicine, in curing hoarseness, and all irritations of the throat, diseases of the chest, etc, etc. For these it is an incomparable pulmonic.

Go to your druggist for Mrs. Freeman's New National Dyes. For brightness and durability of color, are unequaled. Color from 2 to 5 pounds. Directions in English and German. Price 15 cents. 6y1

ICE CREAM.

Hereafter ice cream will be 50 cents per quart instead of 40. The continued high price of the ingredients renders this step necessary. First class cream at all times by the dish, quart or gallon.

Highway commissioner Gilhooley of Granby is procuring the lumber to make repairs on the river bridges. The foot walk on the north side of the lower bridge will be relaid and the driveway of the upper bridge will also be entirely new.

While John Boardman was in Mexico on business Thursday he was taken with a severe hemorrhage of the lungs or throat. He came to his home in this village and suffered another one Friday. They did not prove as serious as former attacks and he is attending to business again.

Mr. P. F. Conger and wife have returned home from an extended trip throughout the great Northwest. Mr. Conger is profuse in his declarations of the beauty, resources and fertility of that vast and undeveloped country. He went as far as Bismark, Dakota.

N. N. Strahahan, son of Smith Stranahan of Granby, and Fred G. Spencer, son of Henry V. Spencer will enter Columbia law school September 20, and remain there one year. This is one of the best preparatory schools in the U. S., and these young men are bright, hard workers and are bound to come to the front.

Friday's Oswego Times says:

Mrs. Anna Morse of Fulton called at the Times office this morning and said that the report had gained currency in this city and Fulton that she had withdrawn her suits for slander against George Smith, N. Stranahan and detective Baker and wishes to say that the statement is not true, and she does not propose to withdraw the suit until she has been vindicated.

Sunday evening, a little boy aged six years named Bertie Lewis, living in the "stone house" fell into the canal near deep lock. Mr. Abner Pooler was near by and reached in a stick to the lad who grabbed it and thereby saved himself. When taken from the water he was unconscious. Mr. Pooler stood him on his head, emptied the water out of him, rubbed him and finally succeeded in resuscitating him.

Two or three Fulton gentlemen are looking the ground over and making arrangements for a grand bicycle tournament on the Oswego Falls fair ground, to be held in early September. It will be free for all and many pleasing novelties will be introduced. A feature of the exhibition will be a bicyclist racing for a purse, against a horse with a good record for time.

The church of the Immaculate Conception will hold a picnic on the Oswego Falls Fair Ground Thursday. August 23. There will be a diversity of amusements and all who attend may be assured of an excellent time. Boat races, foor races, hurling match and a score of athletic games will be arranged for. No pains have been spared to make this the event of the season. Everybody is invited to attend and the admission is placed at twenty cents so that all may share in the enjoyment.

The directors of the Oswego Falls agricultural society have secured for their fair, which occurs Sept. 19, 20, and 21, four imported Norman Percheron stallions of Howard White's stock farm in Syracuse. They have also arranged for a herd of Holstein cattle. These animals will not compete for prizes, but are simply exhibited to make the fair as attractive as possible and to get out more stock. The society are making special efforts to make this more of an agricultral exhibition in the way of a stock exhibition than previous fairs.

BADLY BITTEN.

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass, says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confied to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

STONES IN THE KIDNEYS

AND BLADDER EXPELLED—LONG SUFFERING OF ONE OF TROY'S—BEST PEOPLE—A LUCKY MAN.

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr. Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful;

TROY, N. Y. April, 8, 1882.

Dr D. Kennedy Rondout N. Y.

DEAR SIR:—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the brick-dust sediment. For about a year past this sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity, but has accumulated, causing me untold pain. Having heard of "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" I tried it in my case, and after using about one and one-half bottles, I voided a stone from the bladder, of an oval shape, 7-16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface. I send yo the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed. since then I have felt no pain. I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfullness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible a disease. You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so, for the benefit of other sufferers.

Yours Truly,
JAMES ANDREWS.

No 10 Marshal St, Ida Hill.

When we consider that the medicine which did this service for Mr. Andrews cost only one dollar a bottle, it would seem that persons in like fashion can afford the expense of testing its virtues. Get it of your druggist, or address Dr. David Kennedy Rondout, N. Y. "Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" for sale by all druggists.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞ If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S

RESTAURANT.

—:o:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovey, Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee, and other things and all very cheap. Call and get some of his lunches and you will be more than pleased at the price so much so that you will say to yourself well I [illegible]

It May Be Your Turn Next.

Judge not too harshly, oh. my friend!
Of him your fellow man,
But draw the veil of charity
About him if you can.
He once was called an honest man,
Before some trial vexed—
He stepped from out the narrow way—
It may be your turn next.

Fainting upon the great highway
A suffering soul doth lie;
Go staunch his wounds and quench his thirst
Nor pass him idly by.
God will not brook the swift excuse,
The thoughtless vain pretext,
A fellow mortal bites the dust—
It may be your turn next.

You heard one day a single word
Against a person's name;
Oh, bear it not from door to door
To further hurt his fame;
If you're the man you claim to be,
Remember then the text,
To speak no evil true or false—
It may be your turn next.

The world is bad enough, we own,
And may need still more light;
Yet, with true love to all, may be
Led in the cause of right.
Help up the sinful and the weak,
The soul by care perplexed,
Well knowing that to drink the gall,
It may be your turn next.

The huge, drastic, griping, sickening pills are fast being superseded by Dr. Pierce's "Purgative Pellets." Sold by druggists.

LOVELY WOMAN.

Opinions of Eminent Men on the Fairer Half of Creation.

Confucius—Woman is the masterpiece.

Herder—Woman is the crown of creation.

La Fontaine—Foxes are all tail and women are all tongue.

Voltaire—Women teach us repose, civility and dignity.

John Quincy Adams—All that I am my mother made me.

Boucicault—I wish Adam had died with all his ribs in his body.

Richter—No man can either live piously or die righteous without a wife.

N. P. Willis—The sweetest thing in life is the unclouded welcome of a wife.

Victor Hugo—Women detest the serpent through a professional jealousy.

Voltaire—All the reasonings of men are not worth one sentiment of women.

Beecher—Women are a new race, recreated since the world received Christianity.

Leopold Schefer—But one thing on earth is better than the wife—that is the mother.

Shakespeare—For where is any author in the world that teaches such beauty as eyes?

Michlet—Woman is the Sunday of man; not his repose only, but his joy the salt of his life.

Margaret Fuller Ossoli—Woman is born for love, and it is impossible to turn her from seeking it.

Mary Wolstonecraft—As a sex women are habitually indolent, and everything tends to make them so.

Ben Johnson—A woman, the more curious she is about her face, is commonly the more careless about her house.

Louis Deysnoyers—A woman may be ugly, ill-shaped, wicked, ignorant, silly and stupid, but hardly ever ridiculous.

Lord Langdale—If the whole world were put into one scale, and my mother into the other, the world would kick the beam.

Douglass Jerrold—What women would do if they could not cry, nobody knows! What poor defenseless creatures they would be!

Malherbe—There are only two beautiful things in the world—women and roses; and only two sweet things—women and melons.

Southey—There are three things a wise man will not trust—the wind, the sunshine of an April day and a woman's plighted faith.

Swift—The love of flattery in most men proceeds from the mean opinion they have of themselves; in women from the contrary.

Lady Montague—It goes far toward reconciling me to being a woman when I reflect that I am thus in no danger of marrying one.

Swift—The reason why so few marriages are happy is because young ladies spend their time in making nets, not in making cages.

Alphonso Karr—A woman who writes commits two sins: She increases the number of books and decreases the number of women.

Charles Buxton—Juliet was a fool to kill herself, for in three months she'd have married again, and been glad to be quit of Romeo.

Bishop Signori—Do not allow your daughter to be taught letters by a man, though he be St. Paul or St. Francis of Assissi. The saints are in heaven!

Chesterfield—Women are much more alike than men; they have, in truth, but two passions, vanity and love, these are their universal characteristics.

THE NATION'S CHARACTERISTICS.

Shrewdness and incredulity are the predominant characteristics of the American people. They will take no stock in an article unless it is meritorious. When Dr. Swayne launched his Ointment for the Piles, that itch so intensely at night, on a sea of human suffering, the physicians laughed, but the people tried it all the same and manifested their approbation in a National endorsement. Now the allopaths and homœopaths are laughing the other way. This world is full of reverses. 12w4

—A large nose is a sign of character, and color denotes whether the character is good or bad.

What is it to be a man? Well, it is a good deal like work to be a man, and that is the chief reason why men, real men, are so few.

[New Haven Register.

"When did George Washington die?" asked an Austin teacher of a large boy. "Is he dead?" was the astonished reply. "Why, it is not more than six months ago that they were celebrating his birthday, and now he is dead. It's a bad year on children. I reckon his folks let him eat something that didn't agree with him."

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

A Tough Story.

The bullet with which Charles S. Burton was shot at Salt Lake, close on three years ago, was recovered the other day, the lead falling into his mouth. The bullet struck him in the back of the head, about an inch from the ear and going through a thick bone at the base of the head, passed and lodged near the upper part of the nostrils. He bled for some time and gradually recovered, though he has been troubled ever since. On Friday morning last the bullet, which was encysted, fell into his mouth and he was correspondingly happy. The escape was a decidedly narrow one.

Rapid Growth of Denver.

Although Denver has sprung from a population of 6,000 to 60,000 in the last decade, it is now growing at a much faster rate than ever before. To this fact the present building boom and real estate activity are ample evidence. In 1879 the volume of the business as represented in warranty deeds was $2,082,887; in 1880 the amount increased to $4,228,500; while last year the aggregate was $5,034,078. This figure gives only the aggregate value of sales by warranty deeds. If the bona fide sales covered by quit claims are included the actual sales will represent fully $6,000,000. In '79 the average price in real estate sales was $1,500, while in '80 and '81 the consideration rose to $2,000, showing a general increase of 33 1-3 per. cent in values. Building was brisk last year. Buildings were erected and additions made to the number of 1,253, costing $4,739,139, or an average of over $3,388 for each—a sum which indicates good buildings and substantial improvements.

A Scared Husband.

Marital affection is a beautiful thing, and every fresh exhibition of its tenderness and loyalty affects us to tears. A wife—possibly an old wife—on a certain occasion fell over board. The husband rushed frantically about the deck, literally tearing his hair out by the handfull and crying in the most beseeching tones, "For heaven's sake save her she is my wife." The noble sailors thought of their own sweethearts and ran all risk and at last brought the poor woman into the cabin of the swooning husband. The look of gratitude he gave them fully repaid them for their efforts. Then, recovering his equilibrium, he thurst his hand into his wife's wet pocket, pulled out a somewhat plethoric purse, and, with infinite relief, said; "There, old woman, the next time you tumble overboard just leave that purse behind, will you? You scared me most to death?"

MOSES.

BY ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

They lived on T street and there were four of them. Sarah was a young lady; and Leah was almost one, she thought, for she would be sixteen in two months. Hepzibah was the baby and just three, and they all wished she would not grow any older. Moses was thirteen, and the three girls thought him, after their father, the most precious person in the world. Certainly he was of far more consequence than any number of girls. Their mother had died when Hepzibah was born; but their father was so good and kind they loved him as if he were father and mother in one.

Moses did not go to school till he was ten, and he would not have gone then if his mother had lived, for she had taught him at home, and her teachings had been so careful and thorough that he went into classes too advanced for most boys of his age; and he was always the one who answered the side questions that the other boys only stared at. There was never in the world another mother such as his was, Moses thought; for, not only was she wiser and better than other women, but she was more beautiful, though very like the picture in uncle Levi's shop, which he called "my gem of gems" and which he would not sell for piles and piles of money. She was more beautiful. Even Sarah, who was a joy to look upon, was not so beautiful; and yet, for a sister, Moses thought one must be stone blind not to find her perfect. Leah was not even pretty, but she was smart. Even Uncle Levi, who rarely praised any one, said she was, and delighted to hear her speak or read, with Sarah to sing between times. Elias Jacobson and his fat wife and all the finest people on T street said there was not a place in the city where one could pass so pleasant an evening as in Isaac Rolf's parlor, and Moses was very proud of his family, and, in a modest way, of himself.

He aspired to help his father. It was all very well for girls to be handsome and sing and speak; but having one's name on a big sign in red and gold letters would be far better. "Rolf & Son"—that was what was going to be over the shop door as soon as Moses was twenty-one. But, since Sarah brushed out his black curls and tied on his best blue neck-tie, and said with loving pride "Our Moses is going to be a man, for he is going to school," everything had seemed to have a twist in it and all joy a bitter flavor. Still, a boy cannot be utterly unhappy who has three such sisters and such a father as Moses had.

It was a very cold day. Uncle Levi had given him a fine, new sled, and as there was a half-holiday in school room No. 6, as soon as Moses could eat his dinner and tie on his red tippet, he was on the street looking for a hitch.

Perhaps the boys do not know what a hitch is. They do not if they live in a country where there are long hills, down which the boys and girls can coast. But Moses lived in a great city, that is as flat as a pancake, and there the boys tie six or seven sleds together and hitch them to a steady old horse, or ask the privelege of tying their sleds to the runners of the cutters or sleighs of the passers by. The last is called "asking for a hitch" or "asking for a tie," a request which is rarely refused.

Moses ran as fast as he could from the business streets, till he came to one of the beautiful avenues where rich people lived; and there he rode up and down to his heart's content for an hour, when he came upon a group of his schoolmates.

"Hey, Jewy," called out one, "you'd better toddle home and learn the clothes business. There don't any of your persuasion live around here."

Moses's black eyes darted angry lightning at the speaker, who was a tall, slim, red haired boy named Jack Fosgate.

"I say you, toddle!" he continued, disdainfully. "I live on this avenue, and as long as I don't trouble T street, why—"

"I shall go where I like," shouted Moses, "and do you mind your own affairs."

"Oh, you keep quiet, Jack," said a chubby little fellow who seemed all one freckle. "Jewy's got as good a right here as we have. Besides," he added, in a lower tone, "he isn't to blame you know."

"Let him keep on T street with the rest of the onion smelling Jews," tried Jack, staggering [illegible]. "What does he want [illegible]

[illegible] of the taunt of his tormentor [illegible] like a burning hot knife. [illegible]

scious of everything save a fierce desire for movement, till, glancing up, he found himself in front of his father's shop door. Before it, on the pavement stood a row of droll, wooden figures representing young men and boys, and which at a distance looked like a very sedate and well dressed family. Uncle Levi always spoke of them as the Wood family, which was an excellent name for them. On the broad, red shades, that were half unrolled, to keep out the afternoon sun, was painted in gold letters "Isaac Rol," and over the door was printed in gold and black, "Isaac Rolf."

Moses had always been proud to look at that name but to-day it filled him with dumb misery. Clearly to be a Jew and live on T street was a calamity though he had never seen it in that light before. He thrust his chubby face into the door, and was greeted by a damp, nauseous odor of stale air, woolen cloth, onions and soap suds, all raised to a temperature of seventy-five degrees. He nearly knocked over one of the Wood family in his hasty retreat.

"Oh! Moses," cried Leah, who had just come up. "We are going to have a delightful evening. Eisenfels, the painter, is coming. He is going to paint Sarah in the picture he will send to Paris next year. Hepzibah will be in it too. He can find no child so beautiful. Think of it! As for the supper, I shall attend to it myself; and it shall be delicious, and you, brother, can add your part to the happiness by dancing that funny hornpipe that Alec Sanderel taught you."

"So he's coming to the Jewy's," said Moses, thrusting his hands deep in his pockets; "for after all that is what our father is. A jew. I suppose the odors of John's kitchen will seem to him peculiar to T street and—"

"Stop!" said Leah sternly. "How can you speak so of our father, brother? John is a trial, but where else can he live save behind the shop? And what employer would have him save our father? Eisenfelds does not despise us: if he did he would not break our bread." And turning quickly, the girl disappeared in a narrow doorway, that opened at one side of the shop and led to the family living rooms, in the second story.

After a moment's hesitation Moses slowly lifted the latch and entered the shop. It seemed like going into a forest of coats and pantaloons, for a great number of these garments hung from rods that were suspended above the counters, at a height which brought the things just high enough to touch your face. Ready-made clothing was piled everywhere; for Isaac Rolf did a large wholesale business in connection with his retail trade. Out of the forest a mellow voice called: "Moses, is that you, my son, Moses?" And presently, a slender man, past middle age, thrust his head out from behind a very big coat. "'Tis well you have come," he said, "for there is a bundle waiting to be delivered on Brierly avenue and John is not here. Ah, no! He never is. I sometimes think he has the soul of a snail. I will have you take the bundle directly on your sled."

Moses looked at his father curiously. Isaac Rolf was a remarkably handsome man, of a refined oriental type. At first a stranger might have taken him for a native of the south of Europe; but that he was a Hebrew became evident after a closer inspection of him, and as if to emphasize his nationality, tiny golden hoops twinkled in his shapely ears.

"Father," said Moses, when the bundle had been securely strapped on his sled, "why do the boys call me Jewy?"

The old man sighed and retreated for a moment behind a great coat.

"Because you are a Hebrew, my son," he said, reappearing. "I am a Hebrew, and so was your angel mother. Would you prefer to have been born of other parents, if you could choose such a thing?"

"Never!" cried Moses. I don't think. I only don't like to be bullyragged every time I stir because I am a Jew, that's all."

"So they bullyrag you, as you call it," and Isaac laughed scornfully. "Well, let them. You are a Jew, since I am one. But Isaac Rolf's word is as good as his bond, men say in the city; and as for Rachel, your mother, (God of Abraham, I thank thee!) never man had such a wife as she. If you are brave and true, I think you can bear to be called Jewy. After all, the world has honored some Jews."

Moses trudged along mechanically toward Brierly avenue. He did not notice it was the street he had just left. His heart ached a little but the sound of his father's voice was in his ears, and as he passed out of the shop door, he had heard Sarah singing, in her high, clear soprano, a little German song about the spring, that he particularly liked. It was clear to his mind that he had the best father and dearest sisters in the world.

"So, Jewy, you thought [illegible] thrashing me, did you," began a taunting voice just behind him. "Take that for your impudence," and Jack Fosgate, for it was he slapped Moses full in the mouth.

Moses reeled against the fence, the blood trickling from an ugly cut in his lip, for Jack had struck hard; but he recovered himself in a moment and rush[illegible] Jack, [illegible] death. Workmen were busy with a frozen gas main just ahead and a deep ditch yawned almost quite across the road. The weight of Moses' body was slight, but it told, and for a few precious moments he kept his hold as if his hand had the strength of a vice, when he was dimly conscious of falling—miles it seemed to him.

For a long three hours he lay in a stupor, and the kind old doctor, working over him almost despaired. "Some part of the brain is injured; but my dear Mr Rolf, I hope for the best," was all he could say.

When, at last, Moses began to be conscious, it seemed to him he was slowly rising up from the depths of a very deep well, so difficult was it for him to breathe. It was a beautiful room, but unlike any apartment he had ever seen, and he was dazed at the strangeness. A white haired man bent over him and, just beside him was the red head and freckled face of Jack Fosgate, who cried, with a sob: "Oh, father, he's going to live. How glad I am, Jewy!"

Moses' black eyes began to shine. "Let us hope for the best now," said the old doctor, hustling everybody out of the room. "Jack, you may thank your schoolmate for saving your sister's life when his legs are set and he breathes easier. Take your daughters into the drawing room, Mr. Rolf. Absolute quiet is very necessary to the patient."

Moses lay in the beautiful room for months, for Dr. Fosgate would not let any one but himself attend the boy who had saved the life of his little daughter, beloved perhaps with more tenderness because her mother had died at her birth. Sarah and Leah took turns in assisting him; and every day some one from T street rang the doctor's bell, much to the amazement of the footman, for the doctor's practice was among the most aristocratic and exclusive families in the city.

It was early spring when Moses returned to T street. Dr. Fosgate took him there himself, behind the black horses that had run away; and Jack was there, to help carry him up stairs, and in the parlor which had been brightened up for his return, was Uncle Levi, looking as grand as one of the patriarchs waiting to receive him.

The long days of summer came, and yet Moses lay in his easy chair. The bones in his legs had grown together, but he could not walk, save in a strange, uncertain fashion and by looking at his feet. His big, black eyes did not see clearly as they had a year before, and the doctors who came to see him went away shaking their heads and murmuring something about "locomotor ataxia." Every day Jack brought him the loveliest flowers he could buy, and T street—well there was nothing that a boy likes that was not sent to Moses from T street. Isaac forsook the forest of ready-made coats down stairs to spend hours reading boys' books to his son or in playing simple games with him, and, if a sick shut up boy can be happy, Moses was.

One day Jack brought him a basket of lilies, whose perfume filled the room, and a most entrancing book of pictures; and, though it was a holiday and Jack had a new pony, he sat by Moses and read the explanation and description of each one of the pictures.

"I say, Moses," he began when he had closed the book, "as we're alone, I'd like to say something, if you won't be mad."

"Well," said Moses, languidly, "go at it."

"I don't just know how," said Jack, hesitating; "but you know father's always been awfully down on—Jews. That is, he used to be. And all I was going to say was, I don't see any use in folks having notions about folks that they don't know anything about."

"As Jews, for instance," commented Moses.

Jack nodded. "But, after all, you're different, you know."

Moses glanced about the room, full of gifts from T Street, and his heart grew warm with loving pride. "I don't know anything of the sort," he said, quietly; "But I [illegible] there's a pick in us, just as there [illegible] of the folks."

"Well," answered Jack, bending over him, "I shall never forget what I've learned [illegible] Moses, or what [illegible] you, if I live to be a thousand."

Moses laid his thin palm on Jack's red head. "May the Lord of Abraham bless you, and make His face to shine upon you," he said, solemnly, but slowly and with difficulty.

Moses never spoke intelligibly after that and when the snow again lay white upon the ground they buried him beside his mother in the Hebrew cemetery.

"Well Jack," said Doctor Fosgate, that evening, as he hugged his little daughter in his arms, "Moses was a rare fellow, a rare fellow; and I don't think I ever realized till to-day that our Lord was a Jew."

"WHAT ALEXANDER MIGHT HAVE DONE."

The late Czar of Russia was eminently a great man, as his action in liberating thirty-six million serfs from slavery qualified him to be. Yet with all his greatness, Alexander left it to Dr Swayne to liberate the world from the annoyance and pain of scores of skin diseases, hundreds, thousands it has cured, and then remember it is economical, effective, reliable and pure, and if you will only try it you will have a cure. 12w4

DENVER BY NIGHT.

Some of the Sights and Sounds of a Western Hades.

Denver, like all other cities of any pretentions, abounds in sinks of iniquity, and affords plenty of scope for the practical work of the missionary, for the theories of the mouthing moralist and for the exercise of the policeman's club. She is not, however an extremely wicked city, but it does well enough in that line, and as time goes on may become worse if not reined in and checked by her guardians. She has all the moral ailments, lots of pawnbrokers, mock-auction shops, gamblers and saloon-keepers, policy men and overpaid officials. She has her complement of lawyers, and all the concomitants which are requisite in the composition of a metropolitan and a cosmopolitan city. The most troublesome elements are her saloons, "club houses," mock-auction shops and gamblers. With some few exceptions, the first two are dives of the lowest type. The auction shops ought to be suppressed in the interest of the greenhorn, while the gamblers who, though, it must be said, are not as flaring in their deportment as in some other cities, are infernal scourges, and could well be dispensed with. It seems to be no difficult matter for any one in spite of the high price of license and other obstacles to obtain a license on liquor. This class of business can be, and is, conducted by many men on a respectable basis, and compliancy with ordinance provisions cheerfully yielded, but the majority are simply hell-holes where vice is rampant in its every form, and despite police action, they flourish like "green bay trees." Let any man take a stroll, if he risk his cranium and wallet, any Saturday, particularly along Wazee, Blake, portions of Fifteenth or Holiday or Larimer, or dip into the region of Five Points, and judge for himself as to how much clerical and missionary influence would be requisite to effect conversion of the dilapidated and besotted sinners who haunt those choice localities. If he escape the clutches of the slugger, the chances are in favor of his losing mental balance from the agonizing strains of dreadful music which peal from the brass horns, trombones, rheumatic pianos and other contrivances brought into requisition in the dens he passes, to make life a burden and the night hideous. This, added to the howls, yells, cat-calls, and other monstrous vocal efforts of the depraved debauchees, customers of the devils incarnate who preside over the tap and till of the infernos, afford an entertainment which would furnish a modern Dante plenty of material for another fanciful sketch of hell and its interior arrangements. The cracked songs, stale jokes and hoarse vociferations of the mock-auction man, the appreciative yells of laughter which greet the coarse sallies of these knaves, whose language is often of the vilest; the derisive yells of some passing inebriate, the shouts of numerous street fakirs, added to the unearthly sounds which proceed from the palaces of lust and Bacchus, all contribute to impress the beholder with a lasting idea of the metropolitan pretentions of the Queen City, and the efficiency of its police and the binding effect of the ordinances of the city upon its inhabitants.

A Talent for Conversation.

A talent for conversation has an extraordinary value for common, every day life. Let any one who has this gift enter into a social circle anywhere. How every one's face brightens at his entrance! How soon he sets all the little wheels in motion, encouraging the timid, calling out unostentatiously the resources of the reserved and shy, subsidizing the facile, and making everybody glad and happy!

To converse well is not to engross the conversation. It is not to do all the talking. It is not necessary to talk with very great brilliancy. A man may talk with such surpassing power and splendor as to awe the rest of the company into silence or excite their envy, and so produce a chill where his aim should be to produce heat and sunshine.

He should seek the art of making others feel quite at home with him, no matter how great may be his attainments or reputation, or how small may be theirs, they find it insensibly just as natural and pleasant talking to him as hearing him talk.

The talent for conversation, indeed more than anything else in life, requires tact and discretion. It requires one to have much varied knowledge, and to have it at instant and absolute disposal, so that he can find just as much or as little as the occasion demands.

Bob Burdette at Home.

Home is more to woman than to man. It is her temple. She is its goddess, its priestess—but oftener its janitor. A man doesn't look so longingly back at the old home though it never cost him a cent, bought all his clothes and sent him to college. A man likes his home when he gets acquainted with it, because there his stupidity passes for the profoundest wisdom. His jokes are all laughed at (though it needs a glossary to get at their meaning) if he only indicates the laughing place. When a man dies he is wept for at home, but the cold world moves along as if nothing had happened; fond lovers come to his grave-yard even, wear his tombstone smooth sitting on it, contract bad poetry and worse rheumatism, and burden the air with labial confectionary. I have heard that there were skeletons in many homes. They never get there unless they are brought.

VISIBLE IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Noah Bates, Elmira, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I had an attack of billious fever, and never fully recovered. My digestive organs were weakened, and I would be completely prostrated for days. After using two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters the improvement was so visible that I was astonished. I can now, though 61 years of age, do a fair and reasonable day's work." Price $1.

"Do you take this woman for your wedded wife, etc.?" "Yezzer." "Do you take this man for your wedded husband, etc.?" "Nix for Shtay." "By the authority vested in me I pronounce you man and wife," is the way they marry in Dansville, sometimes.

Did you ever see a woman mail a letter? She will undertake to drop it into the box, then she draws it back and scans the directions; tries the stamp to see if it is on fast; scrutinizes the gummed side and runs her finger over it once or twice; then gives it one or two sudden jerks, which sends it rapidly into the box. She then peeps in to see if it went through.

THE FULTON TIMES.

Wednesday, Aug. 23, 1882.

The British Parliament has adjourned until October 24th.

The anti-monopolists have called a state convention to be held at Saratoga Sept. 12.

A monster labor convention is called to nominate a state ticket at Buffalo, Sept. 12th.

New York will have a large hop yield. It is estimated at 365 pounds to the acre, and a total of 93,000 bales for the State yield.

The Greenbackers of Massachusetts have nominated Benjamin F. Butler for governor. The democrats may possibly endorse him in which event he would undoubtedly be elected.

Republican delegates to the State convention have been chosen from three counties. Chemung and Columbia send nine delegates in favor of Cornell, and Putnam sends two for Wadsworth.

It is reported that there will be less than half a crop of broom corn this season. This will be sad news to the woman who delights in meeting her husband when he returns from his daily toil with a well-made broom.

A bill recently passed the House of Representatives, and is likely to become a law, provides for the issuing of a "postal note" at a charge of three cents for transmission through the mails of sums of less than $5; that a money order shall not be issued for more than $100, and that the fees are placed at low and reasonable figures.

The news from Egypt this morning is largely in favor of the British. There is little room to doubt that Arabi's forces are greatly demoralized. Troops are pouring into Egypt from England daily and the various European powers are on the verge of a wrangle. Before many days something decisive will be arrived at.

A national prohibition convention will be held in Chicago, Aug. 23, and a state prohibition convention will be held in Rochester September 20. It is thought the Chicago convention will be the largest of the kind ever held in this country, if not in the world. The prohibitionists are encouraged by recent successes, and are unusually active.

First boom is for Roswell P. Flower for democratic governor. The first assembly district of Jefferson Co., instructed its delegates to support him. The Flower boom was biggest when first begun. The democratic nominee for governor will either be Abram S. Hewitt of New York or Grover Cleveland of Buffalo, according to the tone of the leading democratic journals.

Circulars are being sent to soldiers in different sections of the country by western parties stating that for the sum of $10, a hundred and sixty acres of good land will be secured without the formality of occupying it for four years—less the time of service in the army, as provided by law. The Land Commissioner at Washington states that the law remains unchanged, and that the circulars are for the purpose of deception. Soldiers will therefore take warning.

Benjamin Harvey Hill, United States Senator from Georgia, died at his home in Atlanta, Wednesday, of a cancerous affection of the throat and tongue aged 49 years. He was born in Georgia; was a distinguished lawyer; during the war a member of Jefferson Davis' cabinet and a leading spirit in confederate circles. He was a representative in the Lower House for several years and in 1877 was elected Senator. Funeral was held Saturday business being entirely suspended.

Some remarkable, as well as numerous suicides have occurred within the past week. Among them is that of the young Chicago reporter who killed himself because he could not make money enough to live in style; that of the man who killed himself because he couldn't get a wife; and another because he had five or six. A singular suicide of a young lady occurred in Indiana caused by her fear lest she should die of consumption; but the most remarkable of all is the man in Brockton, Mass., who cut his throat Monday because his wife spent his week's wages for a silk dress.

In Choctaw county, Ala., on the 15th inst., a bundle of papers disclosing a well organized plot among the negroes to kill the entire white population of that county, was found near one of their rendezvous and laid before a solicitor. On Wednesday a quiet meeting of the citizens of Mt Sterling and Butler was called at Butler to consider the best mode of suppressing the intended outbreak and massacre. The ringleaders were arrested and one of them hung, the remainder being in jail to await investigation. It was a fortunate discovery. Sunday night, Sept 17 had been appointed as the date for carrying the scheme into execution.

That some persons who do the loudest talking have the least to talk about.

That it is generally easier to get along with a knave than with a fool.

That people of the least importance generally desire to attract the most attention.

That it is better to be poor and contented than it is to be rich and discontented.

That if people were as ready to praise as to find fault the world would be happier.

That if people were duly thankful for their real blessings they would have little to grumble about.

A poor family of four persons at Jennings corners was very anxious to attend Barnum's circus in Oswego, Saturday. Saturday the family walked 22 miles to Oswego and saw Jumbo.

The boiler of Timerson & Blanchard's steam threshing machine exploded at Ira last Wednesday morning, injuring three men named Bennett, Brown and Cooper rather seriously, but they will recover. It was Timerson's threshing machine boiler that exploded at Martville about two years ago and killed a man and hurt severalothers badly.

A team of horses belonging to Prosper Tracy, attached to a reaper, took fright and ran away, Thursday. The machine was in gear and as they went through the standing grain the bundles filled the air. They passed into the road where the horses became separated and one of them thrown, the other coming on to the village. They were secured without material injury to themselves, but the machine was badly broken and damaged.

A coal train brakeman named Edward Blanchard, 19 years of age, unmarried, and a resident of Norwich, was trying to board his train at Pennelville Thursday morning when he was thrown under the train and three gondolas passed over him, cutting off his arm and horribly maugling his hand and side. He was taken to Cleveland where he died in about two hours. Coroner Hall held an inquest and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above.

Sandy Creek News—Owing to continued solicitation of numerous friends, Hon A. S. Warner of this town has finally decided to enter the list of aspirants for the republican nomination for member of congress, and has commenced an active canvass for the same. The Colonel is endowed with an unusual amount of energy and push, and when he undertakes anything it has to move, and we are confident that no grass will grow under his feet during the campaign. From what information we can get it is evident his chances of success are very flattering in this district, while he has many strong personal friends in the first district. His popularity in Madison county is already well known.

PROOF POSITIVE.

We have the most convincing proof that Thomas Eclectric Oil is a most effectual specific for bodily pain. In cases of rheumatism and neuralgia it gives instant relief.

Oswego, like all cities, has indiscriminating blockheads on its police force. Abner Graham of Fulton was in Oswego Monday and was arrested for drunkenness. The poor man is afflicted with paralysis and his manner of locomotion is excessively awkward. His ailment is apparent to any sober, sensible man, and arresting and lugging him before a magistrate for drunkenness was as shameful as it is unjustifiable. Recorder Getty promptly discharged Graham. Why don't the Oswego papers give us the officer's name that made the arrest?

In a Tight Place.

Mr. Long the American Minister at Alexandria, was attacked by a body of about forty of the natives Thursday. Mr Long was unarmed, but he seized a large club and backing into a corner, cried for help and made such an effective defense that none of the assailants could get near enough to him to hurt him. During the attack the natives made a great deal of noise, and the clamor attracted the attention of some of the English soldiers on duty. They at first supposed the fight was merely one of the usual native rows, but when they discovered the situation they made a descent upon the assailants, liberated Long and captured all the ringleaders. They assert that they had been lying in wait for Long for several days and nights and meant to kill him. The reason for the attack is that Long recently drove over and seriously injured several Egyptians, friends of the assailants, who were in the way of his carriage in one of the streets of Alexandria and who refused to get out of the way as quickly as he insolently ordered them. They characterised his conduct on this occasion as a high-handed and outrageous and assert that the best thing Long can do is to get out of [illegible] remains his life will surely be [illegible].

—The process of articulating Guiteau's skeleton is nearly completed at the Army Medical Museum at Washington. It is doubtful if the bones will make a good skeleton, as many are found to be porous and requiring great care to mount.

—A San Franciscan who was robbed of $400 on a Central train near Utica last week discovered the thief, captured him and the money, and handed him over to the conductor, but the vigilant train official went to sleep and the scamp lit out of the car window.

—In Dundee, Ill., Sunday, Henry Bellman, while cutting oats with a reaper, ran over his three-year-old daughter. Both of her legs were cut off and she soon bled to death. Bellman is partly crazed, and regards the accident as a judgment on him for working Sunday.

—As an excursion train on the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railway, carrying 1000 men, women and children, was returning from Alligrippa, Thursday, the engineer discovered a beam across the track just before a high trestle, and stopped the train, which was running rapidly, in time to save it from a fall of forty feet, which would have killed hundreds.

—Many years ago a fortune-teller prophesied that a young girl at Freshkill, L. I., would die when she was 30 years old. Last week, punctual to the day, she died. Just before sunrise, her mother and sister say they saw a shadow come into the room through the window and hover over the bed where Mrs. Newman lay dying. It remained only a few seconds, after which she was found to be dead.

—The widow of the late Dr. Kendall the resurrectionist, who was murdered near the Onondaga poor house some time ago, is married again. She was ingaged to a man in Michigan before she married the body snatcher, and when he became a subject for the spade, hook and dissecting knife, she told her first love that she was alone and unfettered and he sent for her. Kendall was a crank and was not turned in any to soon.

AMONG THE ISLANDS.

How to Get There—Steaming Among them—Observations from the Deck—Suggestions and Incidents.

In going to the Islands we take the R. W. & O. railroad, leaving Oswego at 12:55 p. m. arriving at Cape Vincent at 5:00, where we find the steamer "Island Belle" in readiness to take us the remainder of our trip by water, a distance of about twenty miles down the St. Lawrence. Our first stopping place is at Clayton, a town of about 3,000 inhabitants, the terminus of the Utica & Black River R. R. Nearly opposite Clayton is Governor's Island owned by T. G. Alvord, perhaps better known as "Old Salt," of Syracuse, who saluted us as we passed. Our next stop is at Round Island, a pretty island owned and controlled by the Baptists, where we find a commodious hotel, also quite a number of fine cottages. It is growing rapidly and promises to be very popular. Leaving here our journey continues for about three miles farther when we reach the Thousand Island Park and our destination at the head of Wellesley Island at 7 p. m. This is the oldest of the principal parks. It has grown very fast in the past ten years and now has between three and four hundred cottages, some of which are very artistic as well as convenient; also several hundred tents are on the park. A beautiful cottage has been built by Mr. Sweet of Dansville on the spot occupied by the "half-breeds" last season, and several others where there were none a year ago.

More cottages are contracted for next season than ever before. There is also to be found a dining hall, post-office, telegraph office, grocery, barber shop, bathing houses, etc. Three mails are received and forwarded daily. The foundation is laid for a large hotel which is expected will be completed for next season. It is very much needed and will be a valuable addition to the Park. Over two hundred pleasure and fishing boats are also to be found here, owned by the association and residents of cottages, most of which can be seen nearly every pleasant evening gliding quietly in all directions over the clear and smooth waters. There are between five and six thousand persons on the park and the season is now at his highest. Excursions are arriving from all directions nearly every day. Persons from Maine to California are found registered at the trustees' office.

Any one stopping at any of the parks should not fail to take the "forty mile trip among the islands." The trip is about fifteen miles up the river to Gananoque, where you have only twenty-five minutes to look around in, and if you are not very careful you will get left and it certainly is not a desirable place to stay in as it is very much behind the times in our own state. One thing worthy of mention is their new post-office, which is a credit to the place. We go down the river through some magnificent scenery for a number of miles, passing through the Lost Channel, Fiddler's Elbow, Echo Point and other points of interest, stopping for only a moment at Westminister park, at the foot of Wellesley island, controlled by the Presbyterians, where there is also to be found a hotel, chapel and some very fine cottages. After leaving here we find a cottage on nearly every island till we get back to our place of starting, passing through what is called "Fairy Land," which is a very appropriate name. Bonnie Castle owned by the late Dr. J. G. Holland is in the immediate vicinity. At the Bay there are two very large hotels—the Crossman and Thousand Island House, capable of accommodating a very large number of people. We now go up the river for a few miles to the park. A fine description of this trip has been written by our former townsman, Rev. G. F. Rockwell, who owns a cottage on Cherry Island near the Bay. The fishing is now very good, about a hundred pounds being considered a good day's fishing, which are mostly caught in the Canadian waters.

Volumes could be written about the grandeur of the scenery and then not begin to describe its beauty and to those desiring to spend the summer pleasantly we would advise them to spend a few weeks among the islands. Rob Roy.

GREATEST DISCOVERY SINCE 1492.

For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, laryngitis, and consumption in its early stages, nothing equals Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is also a great blood-purifier, and strength restorer or tonic, and for liver complaint and costive conditions of the bowels it has no equal. Sold by druggists.

South Scriba.

One day last week James Shelden had ten of his sheep get out of his pasture into a neighbor's corn field. The next day five of them died one could not be found the other four were sick but have recovered. Shelden took the stomach of one of the sheep to Syracuse to have it analyzed but the result of theanalysis has not been made public.

Mrs. Ira Parker, of Waterford, N. Y., is visiting her daughter Mrs Edward Potter in Scriba. They were formerly from Fulton.

Last Wednesday night as a wagon load of men were returning home from a neighbor's and the men pretty well loaded with cider, one of the men Byron Clark aged about thirty said that he would not ride in a wagon with a nigger referring to a colored occupant named Job DePew, aged seventeen; Clark saying he could whip him (DePew) and using abusive language. DePew invited Clark to get out of the wagon which he did and returned in a few minutes a badly punished man. He had no objection to "ride with a nigger" the rest of the way home. C.

Vennor says: "Still another hot wave—very hot—is likely to occur this month toward the latter part; and the entry of September will probably be sultry and thunderstormy."—This last will close the soda water season."

The Cheese Market.

[From the Utica Herald.]

Utica, Aug. 24—Last Monday was very active and strong. To-day it has been just the reverse. So dull a day has not been seen before this season, and old members of the board find difficulty in recalling its mate. Buyers agreed that they paid too much last week. Salesmen on the other hand, are strongly averse to taking less money for their cheese. They say the stock in New York is small: the make is decreasing at an unprecedented rate owing to the drought; that factories are sold up close: that judging by the pastures in central New York, and the lessening flow of milk there is no such thing possible as surplus production of cheese. The light sales show that buyers and sellers were about equally firm, and many of the latter went home without making a sale, tho' in a number of cases eleven cents was offered, and in a few rare instances 11⅛. The sales are a little more than half those of last week. Transactions of the day were: 80 boxes, 10⅝c.; 92 boxes, 10½c.; 23 lots, 2,250 boxes, 10¾c.; 17 lots, 1,368 boxes; commissions, 948; total, 4,833 boxes. Ruling price 10¾c. Corresponding date last year, 7,511 boxes sold at 10½c. Leading price, 11¼c. Commissions, 2,684 boxes. Two years ago transactions amounted to 15,764 at 11½c to 12½c.

Little Falls, Aug. 21—We have had an extremely dull market, with very light sales. Buyers paid too much on this market last week, and it was impossible to bring salesmen to see that they must take a half-cent less to-day. Buyers were ready to take liberal quantities at 11c., and would probably have taken exceptionally fine lots at 11¼c., but factorymen closed their ears to any such offers and nearly all left for home without selling. Some who expected 11½c last week accepted one-fourth cent less, upon hearing the losses buyers had suffered, particularly when the price was not positively fixed. It is generally believed that the market will recover in another week and that good full prices will henceforth prevail. Sales are

EMPLOYMENT FOR LADIES.—The Queen City Suspender Company, of Cincinnati, are now manufacturing and introducing their new Stocking Supporters for Ladies and children, and their unequaled Skirt Suspenders for Ladies. None should be without them; our leading physicians recommend them, and are loud in their praise. These goods are manufactured by ladies who have made the wants of ladies and children a study, and they ask us to refer them to some reliable and energetic lady to introduce them in this county, and we certainly think that an earnest solicitation in every household would meet with a ready response, and that a determined woman could make a handsome salary and have the exclusive agency for this county. We advise some lady who is in need of employment to send to the company her name and address, and mention this paper. Address Queen City Suspender Company No. 179 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Frog Swallowed by a Snake—This is sometimes done, but it's a big job. When a boy tries to put himself outside a big watermelon, the result is still more fearful, and frequently relief has only been found in using Cobb's Little Podophyllin Pills. For sale by R. E. Phillips.

A beautiful rain.

Hop pickers are in brisk demand.

Read "Straw Wanted" by Wm Waugh & Bro.

Peter Keller of Auburn, was in town yesterday.

Frank Baker of Syracuse was in town yesterday.

Mrs. M. B. Schenck, son and daughter and Wm. F. Ingell and wife are at the Islands.

J. F. Schindler, of Mexico, N. Y., preached at the Universalist church Sunday.

The camp meeting at Dempster grove opens to-day and several Fulton people will attend.

The interior of the church at Granby Centre is being beautifully decorated by Mr. Samuel Green.

"Farmer" Warner was in town Friday. He is a candidate for congress and is looking the ground over carefully.

Rev L. Golden will be absent in Marion, Wayne Co., next Sabbath, consequently there will be no services in the Baptist church.

Thomas Bailey and Miss Eleanor Brownell, of Oswego Falls, were united in marriage yesterday at Zion church by Rev. E. Moyses.

The Homer Republican says Miss Hattie Dada, of Fulton, N. Y., and Miss Lizzie Emons, of Syracuse, N. Y., are guests of C. W. Woodward.

Mrs E. VanWagenen will be at the Seminary on the morning of Sept. 4th, to make arrangements with those who wish to take music lessons.

Major R. E. Esmond was in Fulton Monday. "Dick" is a resident of the Republic of Colombia, South America, and is in this country on a brief business trip.

Miss Lottie Poole, formerly instructor in the primary department of District No. 1, has returned home from an extended sojourn among the Thousand Islands.

Mrs W. E. Williams of St Louis and Mrs Chas M. Sabin of Fulton are at the Thousand Islands guests of Mr Geo C. Sawyer, of Syracuse, who owns an island and has a commodious cottage.

The brick walls of the new Presbyterian church are raised very nearly to the tops of the first windows. This is excellent building weather and is being improved to its fullest extent by the society.

There is talk of forming a brass band from among the operatives in the Oswego Falls factory. There is plenty of musical ability employed in the mill and the venture would undoubtedly prove successful.

At the firemen's convention in Rochester, N. H. Gilbert was made chairman of the committee on the establishment of libraries in all fire departments, and S. B. Mead was placed on the committee on fire alarms for villages.

WANTED—a manager for the Oswego Falls co-operative society. None but first class men need apply. For further particulars apply to the secretary.
GEORGE NORTH,
Post office box 83, Oswego Falls, N. Y.

Bradway Phillips, who recently left Fulton on a prospecting tour, has settled in Clear Lake, Iowa., in a real estate and broker's office. The west needs men of Mr. Phillips' calibre and we wish him the best of success in his new home and venture.

We find the following in an Oregon paper. We congratulate:

Born at Prescott on the 2d of August, to the wife of Wm. Costello, a son. Mr. Costello is an O. R. & Co. engineer, and his many friends on the road are profuse in their congratulations at the birth of the young railroad laddie.

Rev. A. U. Hutchins preached at the Oran, Onondaga county, Union church, owned by the Universalist and Methodist societies, three times last Sunday to crowded houses. Miss Josephine Hale was very active in securing the services of Mr. Hutchins. Parties came from Syracuse, Chittenango, Fayetteville, Fabius, Kirkville, Pompey Centre and Cazenovia.

FROM EMPORIUM.

Geo. Dodge sr, a well-known citizen of Emporium, writes that one of his men (Sam Lewis) whilst working in the woods so severely sprained his ankle that he could scarcely get home, but after one or two applications of Thomas' Eclectric Oil, he was able to go to work next day.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION!

[illegible]

A [illegible] CAUGHT.

Another Man who Thought Cheese Should be Made of Water— He Comes to Grief.

N. B. Randall, of South Hannibal, who resides on the Quin Henderson farm, has been detected watering milk. Mr. Nash, the cheese maker, suspected fraud from the quantity of milk furnished as compared with that brought to the factory by his neighbors who had about the same number of cows and the same class of feed. It was tested repeatedly with the lactometer and found to contain from twenty to twenty-five per cent. of water. S. D. Gardner, president of the factory, ordered an investigation, and the proof was of a character that caused Mr. Randall to get to the front and settle for $118.00, thus keeping the affair out of the courts. Cheese cannot be made out of water in South Hannibal!

Political Notes.

Let every republican get out to the caucus Saturday in Volney and Granby.

Byron Helm will have smooth sailing for the republican nomination for assembly in the second district.

The republicans of Granby will meet in Howe's hall, Saturday of this week, Aug. 26, at 2 o'clock p. m., to elect delegates to the district, county and assembly conventions.

The republicans of the town of Volney will meet in Nichols hall Saturday of this week at 2 o'clock p. m., Aug. 26, to elect delegates to the district, county and assembly conventions.

T. B. White has been removed from his position as deputy county clerk, by Merrick Stowell. There is considerable bad blood coursing through the veins of these statesmen. They are both seeking the nomination for county clerk and are continually treading on each other's toes. From this distance it is safe to say, neither will "git thar."

Hannibal people are to be congratulated on arriving at a true status of the importance of politics. A caucus to elect delegates was called for the 18th but amended and called for the 17th, for the reason as was stated, "Saturday is circus day." A circus is paramount to politics in one town at least and Hanniballville should be changed to Jumboville.

If Judge Nutting is elected to congress, which is not improbable, a successor will have to be named. If the Judge receives the congressional nomination and immediately resigns his Judgeship, a successor will be nominated to be voted for at the ensuing election; but if he hangs on to it until the eleventh hour Governor Cornell will name his successor to fill the balance of of the term, which expires Jan 1, 1884. By the way, H. C. Howe Esq., of Fulton is a name prominently mentioned as a possible successor to the Judge. Mr. Howe is a gentleman of unquestioned legal ability.

The republicans of Hannibal held their caucus Friday to elect delegates to the district, county and assembly conventions, Following are the district delegates, instructed to use their influence to secure the congressional nomination for Hon. N. W. Nutting: E. P. Barrett, Walter Sanders, A. S. Guthrie, Levi Brackett, D. D. Metcalf, Merrit Miller.

The county delegates are J. B. Curtis, W. H. Brackett, M. V. Lund, J. Albring, E. N. Meeker, J. A. Rogers, T. Winchell. It is said they are for Stowell for county clerk. They go to the convention uninstructed.

The following named were elected assembly delegates: D. F. Acker, E. J. O'Neil, Wm. R. Wilson, W. E. Bidwell, J. E. Gillis and S. D. Gardner. Town committee: W. V. Lund, J. B. Curtis, George Rogers.

Our venerable townsman Mr. Michael Edick reached his 75th birthday last Wednesday. He is lively for a man of his advanced years. May he live to enjoy many recurrences of like occasions.

Miss Carrie Wright, daughter of D. E. Wright, has just completed her first term as teacher of the school at Mt. Pleasant. Friday the school indulged in a picnic and teacher and scholars parted with many regrets.

The church of the Immaculate Conception will hold a picnic on the Oswego Falls fair ground to-morrow. An enjoyable time is in store for all who attend. A lunch will be served on the ground. Admission 20 cents.

Chas. W. Blount is making preparations to enter the lecture field. He has a lecture entitled "California as I Saw It," carefully compiled and will make his debut in New Haven next week. Mr. Blount has seen considerable of the world and relates his experiences and observations in a very interesting manner.

Geo. J. Emeny has been awarded the contract for erecting the new building at the Oswego Falls factory. Seventy thousand feet of pine lumber will be used and 200,000 brick. The building will be completed by Nov. 1st. Mr. Emeny will personally superintend the wood work. Anthony Culkin of Oswego will have charge of the brick work and Geo. Johnston of Fulton will do the roofing.

A farmer drove in from Pennellville Saturday morning to catch a special train he learned was to run from Fulton to Oswego in time to witness the entree of Barnum's circus. He put his team out, rushed around to the Midland and purchased an excursion ticket. He made a mistake and boarded the 7:15 train going south and the first stop looked out and discovered he was back in Pennellville. He waited for the regular and went his way correctly.

Who Can Answer?

To the Editor Times:

I notice that the assessors have reduced the assessment of bank stock in Fulton from $100 to 90 cents. In Syracuse bank stock is assessed at $1.60. Can any of your many readers inform me upon what ground the reduction of bank stock was made? A POOR TAX PAYER.

For North Bay.

Arrangements for the picnic of the employees of the Oswego Falls factory are completed and will be held Saturday, Sept 2d, at North Bay. This is a delightful place on the north shore of Oneida lake and on the Midland railroad. Train will leave Midland depot at 7:30 a. m., returning leave North Bay at 5 p. m. Tickets may be purchased by any one who wishes to attend for 50 cents.

Fulton Marksmen Victorious.

At the Syracuse driving park Thursday afternoon, a Fulton team of five from the 29th separate company, defeated a like number from the 41st separate company of Syracuse. Following is the score at 200 and 500 yards, 10 shots each, and the total:

FULTON TEAM		SYRACUSE TEAM
Campbell,	39-39, 78	Butler,	38-41, 79
DeRusha,	42-36, 78	Randall,	36-31, 67
Hillick,	42-32, 74	Wilk'ns'n,	38-41, 79
Patterson,	38-32, 70	Lumbard,	30-34, 64
Mason,	33-26, 59	Totman,	29-24, 53
Total,	359	Total,	342

A return shoot between the two companies will take place in Fulton in a few days.

Local Horse Trot.

There will be a horse trot on the fair-ground Saturday. No purses are offered and the affair is to be an occasion simply of testing the relative speed of local horses. The entries for the four year old colt race are "Kittie H," by H. Hulett, "Eulolie" by T. Burden and "Shamrock" of Phœnix. The three minute race will be contested by D. H. Case's "Hattie C," M. E. Cornell's "Fannie W," "Unknown" from Phœnix and N. Miller's "Lady Jane." The contestants for the 2:40 race are M. E. Cornell's "Sarah C.," S. S. Cook's "Lady Belle" and R. A. Loonard's "Nellie Wilson. Time will be called at 2 p. m. sharp. Admission 25 cents. Ladies and carriages free.

Two Barns Burned.

A fire broke out in the barn owned by A. Hanna, Jr., on the old Sisson place at the corner of Fifth and Oneida streets Saturday morning about 8 o'clock. The barn was destroyed the insurance being $100. It was occupied by Geo Fassell who had hay, cutter, and other articles consumed amounting to $300 with an insurance of $100. The fire communicated to an adjoining barn on the lot on south corner of same block owned by Ellen Gregory, and occupied by a Mr. Cable, destroying it. In the latter barn a buggy belonging to Henry Henderson was burned valued at about $50.00. The cause of the fire is unknown. The fire department was promptly on hand and did valuable work. In the Hanna barn were the cushions saved from the Presbyterian church fire. They burned.

Going Up Higher.

Prof. Robert Simpson who recently accepted a call from Wolcott to preside over the school in that village at a salary of $1000 per year tendered his resignation Friday which was accepted by the Board of Education with many regrets. The cause of his resigning was brought about by his receiving an appointment as Principal of the Academic Department of the State Normal School at Brockport, N. Y., at a salary of $1400 per year. We congratulate him on his appointment to this important and honorable position and trust his duties will be discharged with the signal ability that characterized his career as instructor in Fulton schools. He will enter upon his duties Sept 6.

Mr Simpson speaks in the highest praise of the gentlemanly and very kind treatment by the Board of Education of Wolcott in releasing him from the principalship of their school in order that he might accept the position at Brockport.

A DELICIOUS BANQUET.

The modern epicure is too often affected with dyspepsia, indigestion or constipation after having satisfied his appetite with a delicious banquet and all the luxuries of the season. Burdock Blood Bitters are a positive cure for these and all other diseases of the stomach. Price $1.

Next to the potato bug the carpet bug is the most troublesome and destructive.

Mrs M. B. Warner of Syracuse is spending a few days with old friends in Fulton.

The next meeting of the Board of Trustees will be Tuesday evening, Sept 5.

Tax payers of Oswego Falls are very negligent in remitting the amount due the village.

Don't forget the excursion over the Midland to New York. Tickets good for ten days only $7.

Rev. Dr. Tully of Oswego was in town yesterday. The reverend gentleman has many friends in Fulton who are always ready to welcome him.

The Fulton firemen who went to Rochester to see the grand parade, brought home many mementoes in the shape of handsome badges.

The call for an anti-monopoly meeting Friday was evidently forgotten by the new converts in Fulton. Not even one man put in an appearance.

The Bell telephone exchange in this village has become a much needed necessity and persons are daily calling on Manager Boardman to subscribe.

Miss Augusta Easton leaves to-day for Keokuk, Iowa, where she will be employed as instructor in the public schools. Mrs. Dr. Jenkins returns home to-day.

M. P. Schenck left Monday for Pennsylvania and Ohio, introducing his patent cider press. Through the Eastern States, where he visited last week, he reports the apple crop very light. The crop in this state is very light also.

Geo. H. Laws has removed his lunch and sample rooms, in Buffalo, from 188 Terrace to corner Seneca and Washington streets, the old post office building. Mr. Laws is an old Fultonian and people from this vicinity visiting Buffalo will find him ready to welcome them.

At a special term of the supreme court held in Syracuse Monday we find the following among the orders granted:

Georgiana L. Livingston vs. John G. Livingston. Order of reference in action for divorce. Certified to Oswego county. Referee appointed to take evidence.

A convention of prison survivors of the rebellion has been issued from New York, inviting each local association to send delegates to a convention to be held in the 12th regiment armory in New York city Tuesday September 6. Sept. 5, the Midland will run an excursion train to New York which will make fares cheap and those who desire to attend can easily do so.

Case & Fassel have just completed at their shop in this village and erected in the Catholic cemetery a finely wrought monument in Vermont marble for Peter Cavanaugh. The base is of lime stone and the body is in the shape of a square with four raised tablets surmounted with an exquisitely chiseled cross, the whole structure being of a cottage design. It is handsome and adds materially to the city of the dead.

A reunion of the Foster family was held at the residence of Darius Foster at Mt. Pleasant yesterday in honor of Rev George Foster of Humboldt, Iowa, a former and respected citizen of Fulton. It was a pleasant and long to be remembered gathering. There were sixty-four relatives present. The days of long ago were thoroughly discussed and the many pleasant and sorrowful events in the family history related. A collation was served.

Farmers in Volney Swindled by New York and Philadelphia Commission Merchants— Who They Are.

Many of the strawberry growers in this town are vociferous in their denunciation of the treatment they have received from commission merchants in New York and Philadelphia to whom a portion of their crop was shipped. No returns of sales are made by some of the firms and in one or two instances the crates were not returned.

June 7th Peter McIntyre shipped two crates of berries to Thomas Bingham & Co., 49 and 51 Merchants' Row, West Washington Market, New York; and on July 1st received a postal saying:

"We received from you to-day two crates of berries; sold for 14 cents per quart. Yours THOS. BINGHAM & CO.

On July 3d he received a bill from them and he was allowed but 13 cents per quart for his berries, deducting $2.00 for express charges, 93 cents for commission besides retaining one cent per quart unlawfully, making McIntyre's expense $3.66 to get 73 quarts of berries on the market through this firm.

Kenney & Co. of Philadelphia have victimized more in this town than any other one firm that has come to our notice. Geo. White lost three crates by them, P. D. McIntyre, R. K. Sanford, Delos Durfee, Albert Durfee and others were swindled in various amounts. No satisfaction can be obtained by writing and it looks as though the consignments to this house would be a complete loss to the shippers.

One old gentleman who asks us not to make his name public said: "I will raise no more berries; this is my second successive season of being a victim of sharks, and I'm done."

Another gentleman suggests as a remedy and barrier against swindling commission men that the growers of this county send a man to the New York and Philadelphia markets during the season to whom all shipments might be made. By so doing a better price could be obtained and one would not be in constant fear of being the victim of unscrupulous dealers.

The Firemen's Parade.

Friday was a grand day in Rochester. By request of the mayor the leading manufactories suspended work and stores, shops and business houses closed their doors to give all an opportunity to witness the parade. For once the ever talked of and special feature of Rochester, the Power's block, was pleasantly lost sight of and the fire laddies became the attraction.

Fully 50,000 strangers were in the city and the streets along the line of march were crowded. At 3 p. m., the procession moved. It was long and noisy, being made up of forty bands and fifty gaily uniformed fire companies, drawing highly polished and elaborately constructed fire apparatus. The decoration along the line of march were profuse and significant. One that attracted much attention represented a lady standing with disheveled hair in her night dress with outstretched arms ready to receive her babe that was safe under the arm of a fireman who was descending a ladder from a burning building. The evolutions and manœuvers of the firemen were perfect and their behavior gentlemanly.

Some seventy-five Fulton people attended with No. 1 of Oswego, and Kingsford's band. It was the most orderly and best conducted excursion ever leaving Oswego.

Steamer company No. 1 and their new steamer preceded by the Kingsford band attracted general attention. The band was the best in the city and their large number, fine appearance and lively music subjected them to endless comment.

Extra Bargains in Dry Goods this week at F. E. Bacon's. 14

Ghouls at Work.

The body of Merrick Corey was taken from its grave in Pennelville cemetery Thursday night. He died six years ago of consumption. A masonic pin, a portion of his clothing and part of the vertebræ and a few small bones were all that was left in the casket. Mrs Corey widow of the deceased, lives in Phœnix, and is nearly crazed by the robbery of her husband's body. Several fresh graves in the cemetery were left undisturbed.

The discovery was first made by some little girls Thursday, but it was thought the sexton had disinterred a body. On Saturday Mr. Sears, of Pennelville, visited the cemetery, and, noticing that the grave had been opened, returned at once and notified the relatives. Mr C. F. Corey, a brother of the deceased, with Mr. A. Gregg, went to the cemetery, and, digging down, found that the casket was empty.

No clue to the perpetrators have been obtained and the robbery creates much excitement in the town of Schroeppel.

The Cattle Plague.

The disease which recently broke out among cattle at Weedsport, created alarm which was widespread, and though the fears of farmers are somewhat allayed, there are still apprehensions that it may possibly extend to many other localities. The mystery about the disease is that the books do not describe it. It is still raging furiously and one by one the cattle are dying. It is not time yet, it is thought, for the disease to appear in the neighboring herds. If it is Texan fever some days must elapse after exposure before it makes its appearance. The infection must have time to permeate the system and increase the quantity of its poison. The results of the next two weeks are anticipated with a great deal of interest. It is known that many cattle have been exposed, but whether the disease has communicated to them is a problem.

SAD ACCIDENT.

MR. OSCAR CRAIGG BLOWN UP BY A PREMATURE BLAST IN THE ROSENDALE CEMENT QUARRY—DESTRUCTION OF AN EYE—ITS SUBSEQUENT REMOVAL BY SURGICAL OPERATION.

Mr. Oscar Craigg was foreman in a cement quarry at Rosendale, Ulster Co., N. Y. By an explosion in the quarry one day he lost an eye—lost it totally. Under the impression that the matter was less serious the local physician told Mr. Craigg that his eye was not lost wholly, but could be saved by treatment. The experiment was tried and failed. Worse remained behind, for he was in danger of losing the other through sympathetic inflammation. In this strait he consulted Dr. David Kennedy of Roundout, N Y, who told him the injured eye must be taken out to save the other. To this Mr. Craigg demurred, and went home in doubt. His local physician said: "Go to New York." To New York the patient went, and one of the most eminent oculists in the country having looked at the cause, said: "You have lost one eye entirely; go back and do what you can to save the other." Briefly Mr Kennedy removed the ruined eye and treated Mr Craigg with "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" to build up his system, and the result was successful.

Dr Kennedy's great success as a surgeon is due to the use of "Favorite Remedy" in the after treatment.

Are you troubled with Dyspepsia, liver complaint, constivation or derangement of the bladder add kidney? then use Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy." It will not disappoint you. Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, for sale by all druggists. 14t4

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞ If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S

—:0:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant ! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clam Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovy, Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Pork Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, [illegible]

Birthdays.

I am content
To let the added years
That come to me,
Roll back into the past so far
That memory
Can only find along the shore
Some perfect shells, and nothing more.

I am content
That sea-weed bits of wreck
And pebbles grey
Drift out of sight into the sea;
For them to stay
Would be to cherish grief and pain
I would not, must feel again.

I am content
To know that none of life
Can never be
Lived o'er with self-same throb and thrill,
No more to me
Will former song, or book, or toy,
Fill the new measure of my joy.

I am content
To live all of to-day;
And when I dream
Let fancy revel in the light
That hope hath seen
Beyond the present, and afar—
A steadfast, sweetly, beck'ning star.

I am content—
For age upon the heart
Can never creep;
And when at last in stillest night
I seem to sleep,
A birthday comes to me in truth;
The gift it brings—immortal youth.

Difference in Phrasing in England And America.

The following peculiarities in speech in England and America are noted by observers:

An American takes a passage "on" a boat, an Englishman takes his "in" it; a "railroad" in America is a "railway" in England; the American "locomotive" is the English "engine," the former "switches off," the latter is "shunted" to a side track; our "depot" is the English "station," for they use depot only in its original sense, as a magazine where stores are deposited; we send by "mail," they by "post;" the "baggage" of an American traveler is the "luggage" of an Englishman; one "buys a ticket for the end of his journey, the other is "booked for" his destination. If we take a hack we mean a coach, but the English hack is a riding-horse. In shopping the same difference exists. An American "hardware merchant" is an English "iron monger; "dry goods" here are there known as "haberdashery;" and though we may buy "calicoes" at our "stores," we must not fail to ask for "prints" at the London "shops." Again, in dress, the Englishman wears "trousers" and "braces," the American "pantaloons" and "suspenders"; an English woman may appear in a "gown," the American wears a "dress" only a child in America puts on a "frock," but in England it is the name of a man's garment. A "levee" in England means, correctly, only morning receptions. In America it may be attended at night. The language of country life varies widely, or the same words are used with various meanings. "Lumber" in America is wood for building, and is a source of ample revenue; in England it is worthless, and is used merely for trash that is cumberous and in the way, as the dismembered relicts of old furniture in an unvisited lumber room. The plain tables and shelves of "board" here are "deal" tables and shelves in the old country. Our fields of "corn" are fields of "maize" there; and the somewhat riotous "tavern" of our cross-roads is the good old "inn" of English comfort.

☞ Feathers, ribbons, velvet can all be colored to match that new hat by using the Diamond Dyes. 10 cents for any color.

A Kentucky Elopement.

Cupid has never been known to take a vacation, even during the heated term or the much dreaded dog days. The minister, the matronly woman with marriageable daughters, the eligible young man or the coquettish young maiden may enjoy a period of rest and relaxation, but Cupid, like the cycles of the time, must go on forever. It is expected that he should be a trifle eccentric or irregular in his work during the warm weather, and he turns up in all parts of the country with all sorts of strange things there can hardly be room for surprise. Near Louisville, Kentucky, a few days ago, he caused the fair faced wife of a thrifty German to elope with a big negro. Chris Bechel was a sturdy German with his whole mind bent upon amassing a little wealth by the time the snows of age would begin to whiten his hair. He worked upon the commonsense plan of getting rich. "Live within your means and lay by something every week, no matter how trifling the sum be." The wife was also a German by birth and a German in looks—fair skin, light hair, blue eyes, a face as round as a full moon and a bunchy form too—but was anything but a German in nature and disposition. She succumbed however, to the sturdy nature of her husband and everything moved on smoothly until some months ago, when the owner of the farm introduced a large able-bodied negro, as black as the ace of spades and as ugly as the furies. The colored man's name is Gus Williams. He and Bechel were to work together and he had one room in the same house. Bechel noticed that whenever they went to hoe potatoes together his wife and the colored man would work upon the same row, but never in his honest bluntness did he suspect that anything was wrong until he awoke one morning to find that his wife, the colored man, two horses and a buggy were missing. They had eloped in the night for Woodford county.

THE NATION'S CHARACTERISTICS.

Shrewdness and incredulity are the predominant characteristics of the American people. They will take no stock in an article unless it is meritorious. When Dr. Swayne launched his Ointment for the Piles, that itch so intensely at night, an [illegible] suffering, the physicians laughed, but the people tried it all the same and manifested their approbation in a National endorsement. Now the allopaths and homoeopaths are laughing the other way. This world is full of reverses.

CURE

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

One at a Time.

Lewis Barker, well known as one of the best public speakers and wits in Maine, was a member of the Legislature. Of course he was conspicuous, so too was his large black dog. One day when "Lew" was addressing the House, in the midst of a very exciting debate (he was well under way, pouring forth his smooth-flowing but impassioned sentences), the dog also rose in the middle of the House, and looking toward the Speaker, commenced a vigorous bowwowing, completely drowning the silvery tones of his master. "Lew" stopped and called out to his dog: "Down, sir! down! I have the floor. It is against the rules for more than one Barker to address the House at one time." The dog yielded the floor, and, of course, there was tremendous laughter.

A Questionable Demonstration.

The public supposed that with the acquittal of the Malley boys for the murder of Jennie Cramer, the affair would have ended. But the jury that found them not guilty are as peculiar as the "boys" themselves, and the "crowd" at the trial which treated them like heroes instead of criminals. The members of the jury grew so fond of one another in their intercourse and common experience with the details of this revolting the crime, that they have recently been holding a reunion and festival on spot where the body of the unfortunate girl was found. They ate, they drank, they smoked, they joked, and made humorous inquries about Blanche Douglass, whom one of the jurors had lately seen with a pleasure party at a watering place enjoying herself and showing no signs of remorse or penitence. The jurors visited the wharf where Jennie Cramer is supposed to have been thrown into the sea, rode on the flying horses and thoroughly enjoyed the scenes made memorable by the trial. The same night the city band of New Haven gave a concert on the green, at which they played a march composed by Walter Malley, when a member of college. The jury resolved to meet again and may yet form themselves into a permanent society.

ONE EXPERIENCE IN MANY.

I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitiers! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The mother. 14w2

A little fellow lately asked his parents to take him to church with them. They said he must wait till he was older, "Well," was the shrewd suggestion in response, "you had better take me now, for when I get bigger I may not want to go."

 "It is a great art to do the right thing at the right time." The person subject to derangement of the kidneys or liver has a protective duty to perform in purchasing a package of Kidney-Wort. It invigorates these organs and by its cathartic and diuretic effect, cleanses the whole system of all bad humors.

But not a man assailer,
Therefore he could not whale a man,
He'd only man a whaler.

He'd sail the seas and sieze the sail,
And when he'd heave the end
He would be led to heave, and pale,
Throw up the sponge, most dead.

He'd eye his pipe and pipe his eye
When smoking was forbidden;
When wet he'd say that he was dry,
And search for liquor hidden.

Sometimes he'd see a ship sometimes
He'd only ship a sea.
The climes he saw were mostly limbs
Upon the mast to see.

Ben's hard-tack was to tack the ship;
Yet never man was sooner
Than he, when in the slip, to slip
And quick attack a schooner.

He was aboard when on the sea;
When on the shore a boarder;
Though not a boarding pirate, he
Was then a pie rate boarder.

Though Ben could not direct at sea,
At sea he could die wrecked;
His resurrection day would be
The day they resurrect her wrecked.

One day a shark went swimming by
And Ben, alas, he filled him.
No shark, they said, could make him die,
Unless the shock first killed him.

A LAY SERMON.

"Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines, for our vines have tender grapes.
Solomon's Song, 2:15.

Dearly Beloved: It is the little things in this life that make our happiness or misery. If we had to deal only with the great things we could get along. If there were only lions in the way, life would be pleasanter than it is. If we were only expected to be heroes, we could accomplish our warfare and work our mission with less trouble than now encompasses us. But alas, it is not against lions and greater dangers that the voice of inspiration warns us. It is only the "little foxes" we are to take. And the man who despises the day of small things is even as he who lifteth up his head in the air and vaunteth himself, even while he setteth his foot upon the humble bannana peel. Falleth he over a man by treading upon a dry goods box or doth he stumble over a two story house? "Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vine."

Brethren, it is easier to kill a lion than to catch a fox. It is easier to build a wagon than it is to make a watch. Great is the warrior who taketh a city, but he is better than the mighty, that is slow to anger, and better is "he that ruleth his spirit" than he that taketh a city.

Why, see, how much of human misery is based upon the merest trifles. The man because he wants something his neighbor has, and can't get it; the man who swears when he looses his collar button; the man who breaks the furniture because he can't find his hat on the rack when he left it out in the back yard; the man who wants to die when he wakes at night to hear it raining in perfect torrents and remembers that he left all the kindling wood out doors on the cistern box; the man who is unhappy because his boots are tight; the young man, or old man either, who tries to make a $40 salary support a $50 coat, and is miserable because there is a misfit somewhere; the man who is cross and savage all through house-cleaning week; the man who is always sick and miserable after the picnic; the man who is cross because it is hot, and gruff because it's cold, and irritable because it is wet what are these men but the tormented victims of "the little foxes that spoil the vines." These men have no heavy burdens, no grave trials. They are miserable because they make themselves so, and they remain miserable because they are too lazy to set a fox trap. If the old world had no heavier sorrows than these we would be so happy down here some of us wouldn't care to go to heaven. Lay this paper down right here, dearly beloved, and count up all your own trials and sorrows and tribulations; strike out all the little, petty every-day annoyances you are ashamed to call tribulations, and see how little you have to make life unhappy. Honestly, now, what trouble have you? You need not tell me; just give yourself an honest answer.

If we allowed the great wrongs of life to move us as deeply as do the petty trials; if we endured our light afflictions more patiently, and more valiantly combatted the great evils, how soon would we reform this old world! If one-half the indignation that is poured out upon [illegible] as faithless politicians who betray their trusts and barter their [illegible] place and profit there [illegible] mourning over any lack of [illegible] six boot, would only try as hard to make his sinful nature compass the virtues of a saint, the world would be fragrant with patience, and his home and neighbors would rise up and call him blessed.

We fret and chafe under the little trials, and are too complacent with the great evils. And the man who can ignore the petty vexations and save all his strength of mind and body for the great things, he is the man who leads us all.

It is true, dearly beloved, these petty annoyances make constant demands upon your strength and patience and grace. I know there are a thousand foxes to one lion, and that it is hard work to watch them all the time, but eternal vigilance is the price of a good character, and

"Evil is caused by want of thought,
As well as by want of heart"

It would be easier to be a martyr, to go down to the block, or to the stake, and have one's head cut off, or be burned to a crisp at once, and be done with it, than it is to endure eight or ten years of rheumatism. So much the more honor to the patient victims of rheumatism than to the martyrs. I know it is easier to be president of the United States, and be a good president, too, than it is to go to sleep with the earache, or with three small mosquitoes in the room, that have made up their minds to a horrible repast of human blood. I know—out of the breadth and depth of my own experience I know whereof I affirm—I know it is an easier matter to edit a newspaper, than it is to put the baby to sleep when the baby isn't feeling particularly sleepy just then. I know the little trials are the hardest, the little temptations are the strongest. The man who would scorn to steal a horse will swear a little sometimes. The man who could not be hired to forge a note will sometimes help to circulate a campaign lie; the man who will not commit murder will occasionally scold his wife; and the man who would scorn a lie under any other circumstances can't be trusted in a horse trade. It is easy for an honest man to refuse a bribe; it is hard for the same man to tell the truth about the size and number of the trout he caught. It is comparatively easy to obey the big commandments; it's the finer meshes of the little net that will entangle so many of us.

Dearly beloved, don't try to be heroes, then. Don't aim to be wingless saints. Don't aspire to the distinction of martyrdom. Try to be good, every day, honest christian men and women, and see if you have not your hands full. Don't waste your time lion hunting; the lions never hurt anybody, but "Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines; for our vines have tender grapes."

A Sea Serpent that Barked.

Charles H. Pierce, Capt. David E. Ginlet, H. E. Founce and William Vaughan of Hartford, Conn., four young men who have been camping along the shores of the bay, relate the following exciting story of their journey across from New Bedford to Wing's neck light: "We left New Bedford at 1 o'clock p. m. in the yacht Josie, accompanied by our sailing master, Capt. Walker Briggs. When two miles off the south end of Bird Island light at the entrance of Buzzard Bay, one of the company called our attention to a singular looking object about half a mile ahead and some points off our port bow. Our captain called it a sea horse. Again he thought its movements in the water did not resemble those of any fish he had ever seen.

"We soon ascertained that whatever it was, it propelling itself at a fearful rate of speed through the water, and making almost a straight line for our little craft. When within a few thousand feet of us it seemed to raise its immense body, or neck, some ten feet out of the water, and at the same time, twenty feet in the rear, its tail was seen to rise up, and at times lash the water. All at once the fish or serpent vanished from sight. For over ten minutes we sailed along, and were near the black buoy not far from Wings Neck Light, when looking back to our horror and dismay, we observed the mysterious fish making direct for our boat at a most rapid rate. When within twenty-five yards of our craft it partly disappeared, but in an instant was seen to shoot out of the water with a sort of humming or hissing sound. Then it dove again and was lost to sight. The length of this mysterious fish was twenty-five or more feet. Its body was about two feet in circumference, decreasing regularly toward the point of the tail, when it seemed but the size of a child's wrist. Its color was dark gray, but resembling that of the back of a crocodile. The belly was a bright yellow, with dark red spots scattered here and there, while its tail was covered with short, thick black hair. The head resembled that of a bulldog. Great flat-teeth [illegible] on either side of its ugly jaw, while two extremely long feelers or horns protruded just over the ears. The eyes were sharp and fiery.

It is said that a similar creature was seen in the bay two years ago. The members of the party are all trustworthy [illegible] the truth of the [illegible]

The Apple Crop.

The Rochester Union says; "A drive through the county of Monroe reveals the almost unprecedented scarcity of apples. In all towns in the county the crop is affected more or less. Early apples are almost a dead failure, and the only variety of late apples upon which any reliance can be placed is the Tompkins County King. During the week produce buyers have been riding about the county, and without exception they have returned very much discouraged. They agree in their estimate of the crop, and put it at one-third the usual amount. What are picked and brought in will be very poor indeed, and the very best will be inferior to the average apple of last year. The owner of an orchard in North Parma states that usually he gathers 3,000 bushels, but this year not more than 15 bushels will be picked. Throughout the county this is the bearing year, and the astonishingly heavy failure of the crop is due, first to the apple-louse, whose ravages have been wide-spread and very destructive, and, second, to the cold rains. There is no section in the country where a full crop will be picked. At the outset farmers and buyers expected a larger crop; afterwards they foresaw a failure; now they admit that the failure will be far more disastrous than they feared."

TOO FASTIDIOUS.

Some would-be Byrons look on with disgust
At the rhymes of Eclectric Oil "poet;"
But we have the best article known to the world,
And intend that all persons shall know it.
It cures coughs, colds, asthma and catarrh,
Bronchitis and complaints of that kind;
It does not cost much, though rheumatics it cures.
'Tis b best Oil in the world you can find.

The Ethics of Elopement.

It is not an injury to society for two unmarried people to elope, for society is entitled to early information as to who are the fools within its borders, and an elopement is proof positive regarding at least two people. A married woman may be desperately tired of a husband, nevertheless she should scrupulously avoid eloping with a man younger than herself, for a young man who will steal one married woman will not hesitate to steal another when opportunity allows. If a married man wants to elope with an unmarried woman he should be careful to select one who has no brothers, for as such a man is always a coward, common sense should teach him to have some regard for his peace of mind. A girl who elopes with a married man should select one who has no children, for under the law her lover will be responsible for the support of his children while they remainhd minors, and what chance is there for her to gratify the expensive desires peculiar to her class if the man on whom she is dependent must support a ready made family before she can legally demand money from him? We commend these few practical hints to the increasing number of people who have a taste for irregular partnerships. Compliance with them will save them, as well as the community from much deplorable annoyance.

Nature's Treasures.

There is a wealth of hidden and visible treasure all along the line of the Alabama & Great Southern railroad from Chattanooga to Birmingham, a distance of 142 miles. On the Lookout mountain side of the narrow valley through which the road runs is coal, and on the right or Sand Hill side is iron. Rich indications of this wealth may often be seen from the car window. The coal is in seams or strata from one to twelve inches in thickness, and extends into and apparently through the mountain. On the other side, the range seems to be composed of iron ore alone, the hill being as bare as though there was not even soil enough to support shrubbery sufficient to hide its bleak and naked sides. All along the very road bed ore rich enough to yield seventy-five pounds of pig metal to the hundred pounds of ore is so plentiful as to be gathered up by the wagon load, and ton, car load, or even the ship load from the very surface, without the use of the pick. Large amounts are so gathered and placed along the track, according to the convenience of farmers, miners and others living along the line. In places many car loads thus collected are gathered by trains sent from Chattanooga for the purpose. Between the schedule time of other trains these cars are filled, hauled and delivered at the blast furnaces, thus making a profitable pursuit for hundreds of people, and leaving ample room for the employment of thousands more.

The Lawyer's Boy.

Anybody who thinks that the boy employed around a lawyer's office has nothing to do but empty the paper basket, run to the postoffice, sweep the room and read the jokes of Blackstone, is grandly mistaken. A boy—that is, a prize of a boy, and one who will eventually become a great lawyer himself—has a heap on his mind, and no time for slingshots or tops. Yesterday while a Detroit lawyer was in court, with his boy in charge of the office, a newspaper man who was hunting through the Moffat block stumbled on the young attorney and was received with:

"Come right in. The paper in your case are ready to be signed."

"What case?"

"Application for divorce,"

I'm not the man."

"Ain't you? Well, you look like him. Let's see. Are you the defendant in the Jones vs. Brown case for trespass? If so I am to tell you that the case is put over until next Saturday, at the same hour in the afternoon."

"No I am not Brown."

"Well, that's all right. Let's see again? I was to tell Ryan that his case against Peters for slander would not come off this term, and to suggest that he amend his declaration. You have not given the dates whereon the defendant called you a 'reptile' and a 'sneak."

"But I am not Ryan."

"Is that so? That's so but perhaps you can't help it. Was it your wife who eloped with a man named Blake!"

"No."

"Then you are not Mr. Clem. I was to tell him that he forgot to state the particular time at which he first noticed a coldness in her demeanor. Let's see? Oh! there's that bigamy case. I was to say to the defendant that the prosecution appear to have hunted up and got hold of the testimony of a third female who claims to have married you in Toledo in 1864, and that your case looks shaky. We, will, however, do our best to pull you through as we do all our clients."

"You are off again; I am not the man."

"Dear me, that's another. Well, all right. I was to say to any new client that Mr.—— would be back in an hour. Come in and sit down and look over the city directory. We will take your case at the lowest cash price and do our level best to win it. Consult no other firm until you have given us a trial."

For the Ladies.

Many twilled silks are shown resembling heavy surahs.

Rich black fabrics have large repped balls on satin ground.

Bengaline is a soft and flexible silk mostly seen in plain colors.

Ficelle lace designs on uncut velvet are special novelties for rich dresses.

Combinations of two and even three materials promise to remain in favor for autumn and winter dresses.

Pomponette, a plush fabric, used by Parisians last year for trimming dresses and bonnets, will be largely imported for parts of costumas.

The newest silks and velvets sent out from Lyons show large spots shaded at the lower edges, balls that appear to stand out in relief, in egg, plum and pear shape.

Early fall mantles will be made of both plain velvet and of figured uncut velvet.

A great deal of moleskin velvet with thick short pile, and plush with short fleece, closer than the long shaggy pile used last winter, is imported for jackets for skirts, for parts of costumes, and for entire costumes.

Pretty morning gowns and neglige robes for lounging away summer afternoons are made of white or pink, or pale blue satins in Mother Hubbard fashion, with the yoke and sleeves of white muslin open worked Hamburg embroidery.

The new repped silks are called Victorieuse, and are shown of plain color, or with figures of satin on the repped ground, or else this is reversed so that the plums, eggs, or balls two or three inches in diameter have the wide Victorieuse reps on a satin background.

For wool goods, speckled cloths of the quality known as habit cloth or ladies' cloth are newer than the plain surfaces or Cheviots that have been so long in vogue. Both green and deepest strawberry red cloths are shown with tiny specks of white too fine to be distinguished separately, yet producing a very pleasing mottled effect.

A tasteful dress for cool days in the country has ficelle covered cashmere for the polonaise, looped with deep red velvet ribbon bows over a round skirt of heavy brocaded satin that has red for its groundwork, with grey leaves brocaded thickly upon it. This skirt is made in two deep puffs all around, and is edged with a very wide puff of plain gray satin.

The Great Wall of China.

The great wall of China was measured by Mr. Unthank, an American lately engaged on a survey for a Chinese railroad. His measurements give the height at 19 feet, and a width on top of 15 feet; every few hundred yards there is a tower 24 feet square and from 25 to 45 feet high; the foundation of the wall is of solid granite. Mr Unthank bro't with him a brick from the wall, which is supposed to have been made 200 years before the time of Christ. In building this immense stone fence to keep out the Tartars, the builders never attempted to avoid expense. For thirteen hundred miles the wall goes over plain and mountain and every foot of the foundation is in solid granite, and the rest of the structure solid masonry. In some cases the wall is built smooth up against the bank of canons or precipices where there is a sheer descent of 1,000 feet. Small streams are arched over, but in the larger streams the wall runs to the waters' edge and a tower is built on each side. On the top of the wall there are breastworks or defenses facing in and out so the defending forces can pass from one tower to the other without being exposed to an enemy from either side. To calculate the time of building or cost of this wall is beyond human skill. So far as the magnitude of the work is concerned, it passes everything in ancient and modern times of which there is any trace. The pyramids of Egypt are nothing compared with it.

"WHAT ALEXANDER MIGHT HAVE DONE."

The late Czar of Russia was eminently a great man, as his action in liberating thirty-six million serfs from slavery qualified him to be. Yet with all his greatness, Alexander left it to Dr. Swayne to liberate the world from the annoyance and pain of scores of skin diseases, hundreds, thousands it has cured, and then remember it is economical, effective, reliable and pure, and if you will only try it you will have a cure. 12w4

CONKLING refers to Governor Cornell as "That viper on the hill."

FOUR duels were fought in Georgia last week. Six of the participants were badly wounded, but no deaths have yet resulted.

IT looks now as though the resistance to the English in Egypt was to be of the most determined character. Arabi presents a solid front.

THE great strike at Cohoes is evidently at an end, and it is expected that all the operatives will resume work to-day at the old rate of wages.

OF the 5,082,878 population of our State, 1,406,751 is voting population, or males now more than 21 years of age so that there are about two votes to every seven inhabitants. The foreign population of voting age is 536,598, and the colored vote is 20,059.

RATHER level headed is the Buffalo Express when it says free thinking is not so rare in this country as to need an organization to protect it; and an organization which can find nothing worse to denounce than the churches—whatever opinion its members may hold on theology—deserves nothing but contempt.

DEMOCRATS and greenbackers of Michigan have adopted a fusion ticket. The greenbackers have the governor, commissioner of land office, superintendent of public instruction and a member of the board of education; the democrats have the lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, treasurer and auditor general.

THE harmony of the democracy of New York State is almost an assured fact. At a meeting of the Irving Hall Democracy in New York yesterday it was decided to send a full delegation to the State convention and a committee appointed to visit the other organizations with a view to harmony. The great breach in the republican party is evidence to the democrats that with a united party victory is easily within reach.

A SESSION of the Good Templars of the State was held at Ithaca, Thursday. Resolutions were unanimously adopted, recommending the friends of temperance throughout the State to carefully ascertain how candidates for Assembly and Senate, of various parties, stand upon the question of the submission of a constitutional amendment forever prohibiting the manufacture, and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage to a vote of the people; and to vote only for such candidates as will favor such submission.

CONGRESSIONAL candidates in Pennsylvania are having the following question propounded to them by the Philadelphia Times, which should be asked every candidate in this State also: "Will you faithfully labor and vote for the abolition of the internal revenue offices, which now tax the people over $5,000,000 a year?" There ought to be no man in the field who cannot answer that country is supporting too many officials is patent and now is an excellent time to weed them out.

THE New York Tribune and World are owned and controlled by the prince of monopolists, Jay Gould, and are laconically referred to by the press of the country as the "Gould Papers." The Tribune is alleged to be a Republican journal and the World Democrat. Mr. Gould's political attitude may be regarded as being curious by some and we reproduce his exact words as to his political standing related by him when on the witness stand in the Erie railroad investigation.—"I am a Democrat in democratic counties, a Republican in republican counties but an Erie man at all times!"

THE honor of the "code" has again been vindicated in Virginia. A young man named Garland deliberately murdered another young man named Addison, his crime being that he was engaged to marry a young lady Garland loved and essayed to captivate. The young lady wrote Garland a short letter discouraging his importunities, Addison enclosing a note endorsing it, adding a few pointed sentences. Addison was challenged to fight a duel, accepted, and was killed. Garland was arrested for murder and indicted in the first degree. After a trial of one week the jury rendered a verdict in fifteen minutes of "not guilty." Virginia may be famous for somethings, but meting out justice to murderers is not among them. Virginia has not moved fast enough in the new channels of enlightenment to leave behind her old ideas about chivalry, as identified with the pistol.

SINCE Poulton murdered an inmate in the Utica insane asylum a few months ago, and the asylum authorities kept the affair from the public, until exposed by the Syracuse Herald, considerable attention has been attracted toward the management of the institution. Last week James B. Silkman, who was confined in the Utica asylum three months, was discharged on the ground that he was sane, will bring the matter before the legislature. He says the inmates are treated like prisoners, given miserable food, forced to do manual labor and not allowed to see friends or correspond with them. A lawyer of Troy whom he asserts was sane was put in the "bull-yard" and subjected to shocking indignities. He asserts there are eleven men confined in the asylum who are not afflicted with insanity in the least. He also charges that the sanitary accommodations are beastly.

Phoenix is going to have a new engine house.

Martha Ouderkirk quarrelled with her lover in Oswego Saturday night, and attempted suicide by taking laudanum.

Lizzie Fisher, aged 15, of Scriba, who took poison about two weeks ago because her mother scolded her died Saturday.

The corrected census of New York state shows the population of Oswego county is 77,911, of which 77,646 are white and 265 colored.

The Syracuse Standard says the Phoenix railroad is progressing finely and those in charge say that work will not be suspended until the last rail is laid.

No clue has been obtained as to the whereabouts of the body of Merrick Cory, recently stolen from the Pennellville cemetery, nor can the cause of the theft be divined.

James McFarland, an Oswego grocer, has been missing since the 22 inst. He had about $400 in his possession when last seen, and fears are entertained that he has been harshly dealt with.

The ninth annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this State is to be held in Oswego, September 6-8. Many prominent temperance advocates are to be present and deliver addresses.

Gilbert E. Parsons, an Oswego lawyer, has prepared and will forward to Gov. Cornell charges of malfeasance in office against County Clerk Stowell, and will ask the Governor to remove him. Mr. Parsons' specific charge is that Stowell has taken illegal fees.

W. Slauson, an aged Palermo farmer, had his pockets picked in the Central depot in Syracuse Monday night of $70. He was on his way to Battle Creek, Mich., having sold his farm in Palermo. He returned to Palermo yesterday to obtain funds to try his hand again at traveling.

The Old Settlers annual meeting was held at Mexico Thursday. The membership numbers 126. The secretary, F. W. Squires, reports there is now in Oswego county 171 persons over 70 years old, and twenty between the ages of 92 and 109 years. The oldest person in the county is Mrs. Wattie Clark of Oswego town whose age is 109 years and 10 months.

Robert Furman and Arthur Hall, two fast young men of Syracuse, sons of wealthy parents, went to Albany, Monday on a spree. Tuesday both were in a disreputable house, quite drunk, and Furman shot a girl through the shoulder, afterwards shooting himself in the left breast, from the effects of which he died. Furman was only 24 years old.

When the train bearing Barnum's immense show arrived at the S. & B. depot Sunday afternoon, says the Syracuse Standard, a large crowd assembled and naturally gathered around Jumbo. The old fellow did not like their proximity and filling his trunk from a mud puddle deliberately scattered the dirty water over his annoyers. He had plenty of room after that.

Samuel Lamson, aged thirty-five, a resident of Sodus, was killed by the cars on the Lake Shore road near Wolcott Thursday night. A basket containing a bottle of balsam marked "S. D. Lanson, Sodus," and also a bottle of whiskey, walker met him near the station about half an hour before train time. He was drunk and said he was going to Rose.

Lightning struck a tree in Onondaga Valley near Syracuse, last Wednesday, as Jane Schultorff and Mr. Noland were passing under it in a wagon. She was holding an umbrella and received the spent force of the bolt, being thrown out of the hind end of the wagon, while Mr. Noland's ear and hair were burned and one of the horses knocked down. The flesh of the lady was peeled of in streaks down one cheek and on her chin. They were stunned but not seriously hurt and soon recovered.

Adams, Jefferson county, has a man named Weaver who concocted one of the most cruel and brutal schemes to rid himself of his wife ever coming to our notice. He arranged with his adopted brother named Budlong to intercept him and wife when out riding on a lonely country road, in the guise of a tramp, and demand either money or life, and in the midst of the scrimmage Mrs. Weaver was to be shot by Budlong, and if possible, killed. Weaver appeared at the appointed time with his poor, innocent wife, but Budlong's courage failed him, consequently Weaver and his wife drove happily home. Budlong was approached by the wicked husband and another agreement similar to the first entered into. Budlong kept his promise this time, met them and demanded money, shot Mrs. Weaver in the back, only making a flesh wound. Mrs. Weaver says after she was hit that Weaver did not pay any attention to her, and would not even go after the doctor when they arrived in Adams. She recognized Budlong as her assailant and he was arrested and made a confession, substantially as the above. The husband has been arrested and is in jail at Adams and will have his examination to-day.

GOV. CORNELL has made a tacit admission to the New York Times that he inspired the article appearing in the Albany Evening Journal accusing Mr. Conkling of attempting to influence him in his official action regarding the Pacific Mail Steamship Bill, which was to relieve the company of a city tax of $100,000, and the Elevated Railroad Bill, the purpose of which was to exempt the company from the payment of all assessed tax of more than $[illegible]. The exposure [illegible] in political circles [illegible] largely interested in [illegible] it was natural to suppose he employed as counsel Mr. Conkling whom he supposed would be able to arrive at an understanding with the Governor without any trouble. The Governor repelled his advances and requests, passing the bills from his hands [illegible] the Governor of trickery in running a "blind pool," fleecing him and all who confided in the Governor's honesty. A "blind pool" is a combination of parties taking certain interests in a transaction and leaving the purchases and sales in connection with the transaction entirely to the party who gets the pool up and in whom they all repose confidence.

Brief News Items [illegible] Condensed [illegible]

—The grand lodge of Good Templars of the state of New York will hold its convention of 1883 in Syracuse.

—A boy died in Carthage last week from the effects of a bee sting. He was stung on the hand, and soon the whole arm was swollen.

—The house of Rev. Dr. Shaw of Rochester was ransacked by burglars Friday night. The family is off to the Adirondacks and the amount stolen is not known.

—At the next presidential election two hundred and six votes will be a majority of those in the electoral college. At the last election one hundred and eighty-five votes were a majority.

—Dr. Reyburn has filed a claim for professional services against the Garfield estate for $9,000. It is understood that Hamilton and Agnew will soon file claims for $15,000 each.

—Only five of the U. S. senators are of foreign birth—Jones of Florida, Fair of Nevada and Sewell of New Jersey, were born in Ireland; Beck of Kentucky, in Scotland, and Jones of Nevada in England.

—The United States boasts one physician to every 600 inhabitants, a ratio far beyond that of any civilized country. Canada has only 1 to 1,300, Great Britain 1 to 1,672 and Germany 1 to 3,000 inhabitants.

—Coup's circus after making a brave stand against adverse circumstances has finally gone to pieces in Detroit. Attachments amounting to $25,000 and representing the claims of the employes and others have been put on it here, and the whole concern is now in the hands of the sheriff.

—Arthur Robinson was terribly bitten Saturday by Whiteside Hill's trotting stallion "Duroc," at Greenwich, N. Y. "Duroc" caught Robinson by the leg, lifted him from the floor and shook him. The stallion was clubbed over his head and neck, but did not loosen his grip for several moments.

—Thomas Smith a prominent mulatto of New Orleans was buried Monday. Nine widows survive him; seven attended his funeral, and four rode in the funeral procession to the grave, and after the interment returned to the house where they engaged in a free fight regarding the disposition of his property.

—The President was born in Vermont, Secretary of the Treasury Folger in Massachusetts, Secretary of State Frelinghuysen in New Jersey, Secretary of Interior Teller, in New York, Secretary of War Lincoln in Illinois, Secretary of the Navy Chandler in New Hampshire, Attorney General Brewster in Pennsylvania and Postmaster General Howe in Maine.

—The residents of Cleveland county, S. C., held an indignation meeting Saturday to take steps to compel the emissaries of the Mormons, who have been endeavoring to make converts, to leave. Resolutions were adopted calling on them to depart before the indignation of the people became uncontrolled. An address calling on the people to unite in driving out the Mormons is being prepared.

—Kansas has many shrewd lawyers and [illegible] this anecdote of one of them: The law requires that a person must be 21 years old before he can pre-empt land. When one comes in to ask if he can evade this law and have his boys who lack some years of being 21 "prove up" some land, the attorney smiles serenely and says: "Of course, certainly: it is the easiest thing in the world." And when the time comes to make out the papers the attorney marks with a piece of chalk on the floor, "21 years old." He places the affiant on the floor standing on these words and has him swear that he is over "21 years old"

Republican Caucuses.

Saturday the republicans held a caucus in Nichols Hall and the following delegates were elected. Everything was harmonious and no indication of the serious division of a year ago was visible:

County—Arvin Rice, C. M. Lee, H. Hulett, F. W. Squires, W H Blakeman, S N Dada, Cornelius Murphy, E M Baldwin, L D Babcock, J S Palmer, Esquire Rowlee.

District—Geo M Case, H C Howe, E W Kellogg, Fred Bennett, Amos Baldwin, Jeff. Bailey, H S Gardner, H E Nichols, Morgan Van Buren, Fred Vant.

Assembly—J W Pratt, W G Gage, L H Drake, Alex Bradford, G D Ball, P F Conger, N H Gilbert, J H Merton, Almon Beardsley, J D Lasher.

The county delegates are instructed to vote for Hugh B Rorke of Fulton for county clerk; the district delegates to vote for Hon Geo M Case for congress and the assembly delegates are uninstructed but are supposed to be friendly to the candidacy of Mr. John C. Wells of Granby.

Granby sends the following gentlemen to the various conventions:

County—H C Gardner, J G Reynolds, Liberty Arnold, Smith Stranahan, Chas Dexter, George North, Dan S Shattuck, William Stewart.

District—H H Merriam, J J Fort, W S Taft, A H Betts, T R Wright, O J Jennings.

Assembly—S B Mead, James Wilcox, Wash Lamson, Alvin Smith, J C Wells, Timothy Salmon.

They are instructed the same as the Volney delegates with the exception of the assembly who are instructed to vote for Mr. John C. Wells.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

[illegible]

UTICA, Aug. 28.—[illegible] of [illegible] a single [illegible] The market was dull, salesmen [illegible] in the decline to the [illegible] and several going away without disposing of any cheese. The number who cling to the belief that the drought and decreased make must increase the demand and the price, by lessening the supply, is large. These prove that the faith is in them by shipping no cheese, or limited amounts. For a large part of the product sent on commission the ruling price was refused, salesmen preferring to take the chances for better figures. Buyers on the other hand, say that, taking guidance by experience, the markets abroad and in New York are determined not to overload with warm weather cheese; that they have lost money on it in other years and will take no more than they can see clear outlet for. In the transactions to-day two lots, 203 boxes, went on private terms. One half of these are small cheese. The bulk of the transactions were at a single price, 45 lots, 4,203 boxes going at 10½c, the ruling as it is the only price given. The consignments were made up of twelve lots, aggregating 1,740 boxes. Last year, corresponding date 2036 boxes were sold at 11c to 11¾c, and 1115 boxes were consigned; in 1880, 10,648 boxes at 12c to 12¼c.; in in 1879 prices were 4½c to 5¾c.

BUTTER—Seventeen packages dairy butter brought 28¼ c.

LITTLE FALLS, Aug. 28—We have had another dull day and light sales. Salesmen would not listen to offers made and seem as confident as they were a week ago that they will get better prices soon. Many refused 10¾c, and a considerable number said they would not take 11c. The production is so much less than last year, when prices at this time were 11¼ and 11½c., that factorymen feel sure that the market must improve. If the July cheese were all closed out better rates would doubtless rule, and many of our factorymen claim their July stock is so fine that this discrimination should not be made. In our list we name several lots at private trade, and it is doubtless a fact that some of this was cheese taken for the home trade at about 11c. Following is a list of transactions:

Lots.	Boxes.	Price
21	1157	10½ cents
2	85	10⅝ "
14	858	10¾ "
7	522	commis.
9	996	p. t.
52	3621
Farm dairies	731
Total	4352

FARM DAIRIES.—There were 731 boxes farm cheese sold at 10¼ and 10¾c, mostly at the latter price, and one small lot reached 11c.

BUTTER—Butter has again advanced in price, 63 packages sold, prices of farm dairy being 26 to 29, with the bulk at 29c; creamery sold at 30c.

FULTON.

Twenty factories were represented with 2,560 cheese. The market is very dull. 10c was offered. There was no cheese sold. A few factories went on commission.

Miss Franc Decker has returned home after spending a pleasant week among the Thousand Islands and a trip down the river to Montreal.

The people of this school district held a picnic in Mr. A. Dominick's orchard Friday. The school met at the church at 11 a. m., and marched in order to the grounds. There was a large number present and after dinner the people were entertained with music, singing and the reading of their school paper "The West Granby Spy." The day was fine and the exercises were instructive and amusing. The teacher Miss Addie Miller spared no pains to make the occasion commendable. The scholars and young ladies gave excellent renderings. The untiring vigilance of the ladies who did the honors of the table are entitled to a large share of praise.

The Humbolt (Iowa) Kosmos of Aug. 23, has the following to say of three gentlemen well known in Fulton, Messrs. D. A. Ray, Prof. Frank E. Adams and Mr. Mitchell of South Hannibal. They are honorable and reliable business men and THE TIMES takes pleasure in recommending them to the citizens of their new western home:

"The well known firm of Wilder & McMillan is about to dissolve and retire from the business circles of Humbolt. An inventory of stock will soon be made, following which the goods and good will of the firm are to be transferred to Messrs Ray, Adams & Mitchell, newcomers from Fulton, N. Y. They are gentlemen of means and enterprise, and will enter largely into the egg business, buying and packing all that can be procured. They will keep their stock of general merchandise replete in all departments and bid fair to take a high place in the business and social circles of Humbolt, to which the Kosmos extends them a hearty welcome."

FARMING IN VOLNEY.

A Visit to the Farm of L. B. Babcock—What He Raises and the Wealth he Realizes.

Accepting an invitation to ride with Supervisor J. C. Wells, one of Granby's Stalwart politicians and practical agriculturists as well, we quickly drove some three miles east of Fulton, to the farm of L. B. Babcock, lying on the road running from Volney Centre to Phoenix. The long list of first premiums awarded this clever tiller of the soil at home and surrounding fairs, each successive year, had given your correspondent a curiosity to see for himself how the thing was done, and learn from Mr. Babcock the secret of his success, to tell others how they can turn their lands into mines of wealth. As we approached the neat looking, two story farm house, situated on an eminence overlooking the entire farm, surrounded by convenient and commodious barns and out-houses, there was felt at once an air of thrift and comfort. Our coming was warmly welcomed, and after the usual salutations with this pleasant family, we were shown over the farm and made acquainted with some of the ways the proprietor manages to grow such fine crops. The farm contains 125 acres. Fifty acres including the home are kept mainly for pasture, and contains a large and fine orchard. East of the road lying in one field are 75 acres, with each half gently sloping toward a lower center level, and every part of it easily scanned from the front piazza. Of this the larger portion is fine meadow land, yielding on an average two tons of hay per acre, which is fed out on the land to help enrich it. Of the balance, seven acres are planted to corn, which, notwithstanding the drouth, will be an average crop. Six acres of White Russian oats yielding 300 bushels, brought 75 cents per bushel for seed. An acre or so of potatoes, a hundred bushels of early ones had been sold for $100. Last year one acre yielded 275 bushels. Two acres of onions, same size crop last year as this, netted $1,000, and the growth now is fully equal to the last. 25,000 cabbage plants were set. They are healthy and promise well. Same last year yielded $1,000. There are three acres of tobacco; leaves all perfect and kept so by constant "worming." One acre last year brought $265, with a better price in prospect this year. A patch of early red beets and sweet turnips marketed for $100. A larger amount of roots and wurtzels are growing for feed. A specialty is berries. Between eight and nine thousand quarts of strawberries from two acres were sold. The finest quality, the Sharpless, 19 filling a quart measure, brought 30 cents in Philadelphia by the crate, the entire crop averaging 12¼ cents. Six hundred quarts of black caps brought 13 cents. The whole netted over $1,000. Apples this year will be only about one-third of a crop. He expects to sell but $100 worth.

His dairy last year of 25 cows averaged some $30 each from cheese checks alone, the early butter brought $100, and the veals another $100, in all something less than $1,000. Nearly one ton of pork, fine Berkshires, brought $170. A number of head of cattle $300 more, with much other small products which paid for all groceries used. Everything looks promising, and shows careful tending and judicious management. But little help is hired in gathering the fruit and larger crops. We inquired what he fed the soil, which is of a rich, black loam —easily tilled and gravel on the hill sides. The best fertilizer, he answered, came from his stables. This he gave to the tobacco and garden crops. For the onions he buys a number of hundred bushels of wood ashes, this killing the bugs and insects and feeding the roots. For general use he buys the farmers' fertilizer, manufactured in Syracuse, and he spoke of it in terms of praise. This cannot, he said, be used on the tobacco plants as it absorbs the disagreeable odor. Mr. Babcock is a large patron of all our near-by county fairs, and annually carries away $100 in premiums. He strives to raise the best of everything and when he markets it he has it in the best possible shape. He carefully sorts his tobacco, apples and such goods and they invariably run uniformly, and these alone give him a better price and ready market. He told your correspondent that he had long ago learned that "it was the early bird which caught the worm." "G."

THE DIPLOMA OF THE SCHOOL OF DECEPTION.

It is absolutely necessary that some energetic action be taken on the part of well-meaning and deserving Clothing Dealers to protect the public against those dealers who make it a study to deceive. We have received several communications from leading merchants towards the formation of an association. Such a consummation has our warmest wishes for success, and we are ready to use our best endeavors to promote so worthy a cause, but we fear a personal effort would not result in that success so devotedly hoped for. Our motives might be misconstrued, thus our efforts thwarfed. We consider it our duty, however, to lead and never to follow.

At a special term of the Supreme Court held in Syracuse last week, Justice Vann granted the defense in the Morse-Smith suit for slander permission to make a supplementary answer. It is rumored that Mr. Smith will try and prove the charges Mrs. Morse alleges in her complaint he makes against her character.

The friends and pupils of Madame Rudolphsen in Fulton will read with regret that she will visit this place no more as musical instructor. She will open the season in Syracuse September 18 and will be pleased to receive Fulton pupils there. For the past four years Madame Rudolphsen has made weekly visits to Fulton and the impetus she has given to musical circles is visible on all sides. She is an accomplished and refined lady as well as musical instructor and her permanent departure is sincerely regretted in both social and musical circles.

Case Medal Prize.

The prize given by Hon. Geo. M. Case, to the pupils in Fulton Union School passing the best written examination in the studies of the pre-academic A Senior year and awarded at the close of the winter term to Master Alfred E. LaPorte has been received from the engraver and presented to the young man. It is of gold, as large and thicker than a copper cent. On one side in circular form is engraved "Case Medal Prize" and in the center is the name of the young man to whom it was awarded: "Alfred E. LaPorte." On the obverse side in circular form is "Fulton Union School—Senior" in the center being a handsomely executed monogram "1882." It is valued at about $40 and is handsome.

Awarding prizes is an incentive to honest, earnest study and Mr. Case has aroused the dormant faculties of many who are anxious to emulate young LaPorte's example and be the possessor of a mark of well earned distinction.

Those offering prizes for 1883 are Hon. Willard Johnson for the best oration by a lady or gentleman of the graduating class; Mrs. Dr. G. V. Emens for the best collection of the flora of Fulton and vicinity; Dr. I. C. Curtis for the best written examination in chemistry upon the completion of the prescribed course and Hon. Geo. M. Case the same as last year.

The Presbyterian church lot on First street has been sold to Messrs Moyer & Clark of Baldwinsville, who will erect a commodious two story brick block. Mr Moyer is one of the firm of Betts, McKiernan & Co., dealers in wagons, buggies and agricultural implements. Their business has increased to such an extent that the firm are forced to seek more commodious quarters.

H. H. Gridley, of the firm of Emeny & Gridley, general jobbers and woodworkers, is a born mechanic. He has arranged a common surface planer so that lumber of any thickness or length may be smoothed as perfect as a clapboard. This firm are prepared to do any kind of jobbing, building, model-making or planing that is required by any one. They have a contract from an Oswego firm to manufacture one thousand patent clothes frames.

Several families living in the vicinity of the Ross foundry have been in the habit of helping themselves to the coal belonging to the works and making themselves generally at home about the premises, picking up boards, old iron, etc. One family has been brought before Police Justice Piper and acknowledged their mistake and upon Mr. Ross' interference discharged with a reprimand and payment of costs. This lawlessness will be stopped at any expense and if you would avoid trouble don't steal coal, wood or iron from Mr. Ross.

FOUL WORK SUSPECTED.

The Sudden Death of Mrs. Cora B. Haven at Dentons Corners—What a Coroner's Inquest Revealed.

Last Wednesday Mrs. Cora B. Haven died suddenly at the residence of her parents at Dentons Corners. Dr. W. H. Loomis of Palermo was summoned and pronounced it a case of heart disease. She was the youngest daughter of James and Nancy Baker and wife of Wiltsie Haven, whose parents live in Fulton.

Dr. Loomis favored a post mortem but the husband and parents entered a strong protest. Sunday, Coroner Hall ordered a post mortem, which was held at 11 a. m., by Drs. Daniel Pardee and W. H. Loomis, just the hour named for the funeral, and the congregation were kept waiting in the church until nearly two o'clock.

The post mortem revealed the presence of certain irregularities. A jury was summoned and an inquest held by Coroner Hall in Fulton, Monday. The evidence adduced would tend to confirm a rumor that she died while undergoing an operation. The jurymen were D. H. Trimble, foreman, Nelson Cross, Wilber Sherman, Wm. Lansing, Fitch Lansing, L. B. Lamb, Wm Cusick, Jas. Tooley and C. E. Davis, all of Palermo.

After listening to the testimony of Drs Pardee, Loomis and Mrs. Kate Belchamber, the following verdict was rendered:

That the deceased came to her death from an attempt to produce an abortion in the presence of Mrs. Kate Belchamber, with or without her assistance.

A Big Sunflower.

Brownsville, Texas, boasts a sunflower measuring two feet around and over seven inches across. We wish that Oscar Wilde could be induced to go down there and sit under it, as Jonah did under the gourd, and not be in any hurry to come back. [Syracuse Herald.

Oscar need not journey to the Lone Star State to emulate Jonah's example. Mrs. F. M. McIntyre of this village has a sunflower that relegates the Brownsville bud into obscurity. It is forty and one-half inches in circumference, and thirteen inches across. It stands seven feet high, and is five inches in circumference at its base. Come on Oscar; beneath it you will find ample room to shade your serpentine form, and also a few of your la-de-dah admirers.

Speeding Local Flyers.

Quite a turnout on the fair ground Saturday, there was, to witness the speed of a few of our local steppers. The first called was a colt race for four-year-olds, H. Hulett, of Fulton, and Wm. Miller of Phœnix entering. Mr. Hulett's "Kittie H." winning in two straight heats. The three minute race started with horses owned by F. M. Wilson, O. J. Jennings, Wm. Miller of Phœnix, and Richard Walpole Oswego, Mr Wilson's horse winning in two straight heats. The 2:40 race was hotly contested by horses entered by M. E. Cornell, S. S. Cook R. A. Leonard and Mr. Pratt of Oswego. Mr. Cornell's horse took three out of four heats and darkness intervening the sport was closed. The races were closely contested and were of a friendly character, no purses being offered or money exchanging hands.

Fulton Union School.

The Fall Term of Fulton Union School begins next Monday. To those who desire a thorough course of instruction in the common and higher branches will find that this school offers superior inducements. There is no relaxation of work on the Congregational church in Oswego Falls. Cut stone for the foundation is being quarried from the Oswego Falls brown stone quarries.

This evening in Nichols hall, the church of Immaculate Conception, will have a festival. This will be made one of the grandest affairs of the season, and an attendance will ensure a good time. Admission to the hall ten cents. There will be music and other interesting events to help pass the time.

The Spiritualists and Free Thinkers of the western division of Oswego county held their annual meeting on the fair ground, at Oswego Falls, Sunday. In the morning the attendance was not large, owing to the damp condition of the ground from the previous night's rain. The afternoon was pleasant and some five or six hundred people listened to an address by Mrs. Anna Hinman, of Winsted, Conn. She was engaged to address the society in 1883.

Friday afternoon Mr. Carlon Church gave a party to about forty lads and lasses on his beautiful grounds at the corner of Oneida and Sixth street in honor of his little daughters Lelia and Gracie. They enjoyed their visit about the grounds and were particularly pleased with sights in the trout pond. A bountiful repast was spread under a circle of evergreens at the conclusion of which the youngsters moved homeward. They enjoyed themselves hugely.

The County Judgeship.

"THE TIMES must have had a pointer last week to strike the nail so squarely on the head," remarked a smiling stalwart to a representative of this paper last evening.

"What do you mean?" we asked.

"Why, regarding Henry Howe and the County Judgeship. Did you notice in the papers he was the leading spirit in Oswego to-day in the district convention. Nutting will be nominated for congress and resign; Henry goes to the state convention and will vote for Cornell, first, last and all the time and the governor will return the compliment by appointing him to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Nutting's resignation. Don't you see? THE TIMES said he would get there!"

We told him we heard something drop to-day. He moved off muttering about the wondrous change one short year had wrought.

PAPER MILL BURNED.

The Victoria Mill Sustains a Heavy Loss—Twenty Employees Thrown Out of Work—To be Rebuilt.

Shortly after one o'clock Saturday afternoon smoke was seen issuing from the boiler house of the Victoria paper mill, and before water could be applied to extinguish a small blaze the whole mill appeared to be on fire, volumes of dense, black smoke pouring out of doors and windows. Tanbark and shavings are used for fuel, and the theory is that a spark from the furnace communicated with them and the fire worked its way unnoticed to the roof and stock room.

The fire alarm sounded and was promptly answered. Streams were turned on the mill from all the neighboring manufactories, and after two hours of hard work the flames were subdued, the upper portion of the building being badly scorched, the machinery wet and rusty, $3,000 worth of paper ready for shipment destroyed, and the large stock of raw material in the stock-room rendered practically worthless for the manufacture of fine paper.

The loss is easily $10,000, with an insurance of $6,000 in the following companies: Royal Ins. Co. of Liverpool, $1,500; Hartford Ins. Co., $1,500; Home Ins. Co., $1,500, and Fire Association of Phila., $1,500.

The Victoria Mill is owned and operated by Forrest G. Weeks of Skaneateles and E. R. Redhead of Fulton, and was put in operation two years ago last April. They were manufacturing a fine quality of paper, the demand for it was large, the business growing and one of the recognized industries of Fulton. Mr. Redhead signifies his intention of rebuilding and resuming business as soon as the losses are adjusted. About twenty hands are temporarily thrown out of employment. The pulp mill was uninjured and is running as usual.

Republican District Convention.

The republicans of the first district held their convention in Oswego yesterday. H. C. Howe of Volney nominated George B. Sloan of Oswego for chairman and he was elected.

The Hon. George M. Case offered the following resolution:

It is declared as the sense of this convention that the Hon. N. W. Nutting be the republican candidate for member of congress from this congressional district, and that he be permitted to name five delegates to represent the first assembly district of Oswego county in the congressional convention to be hereafter called, with power of substitution in the delegation.

The resolution was loudly applauded and unanimously adopted, and subsequently the following names were handed in as Judge Nutting's selection for delegates: Thomas S. Mott, John C. Churchill, Schuyler Rhodes, S. T. Kingston, Maxon Lewis.

C. B. Benson, in order, as he said, to expedite business and with a view of carrying out the recommendations of the committees, offered a resolution that the following named gentlemen be delegates to the state convention: Thomas Kingsford, P. W. Cullinan, T. B. White, H. C. Howe, J. J. Lamoree, D. F. Acker.

G. M. Case moved an amendment that a committee of one from each town and ward be appointed to present names of delegates for the convention. D D Metcalf opposed the resolution and favored the amendment, saying that while he had no objection to the men named, he thought time should be taken for deliberation and consultation.

Mr. Benson replied that he thought the gentlemen named would be satisfactory. The amendment was lost and Mr. Benson's resolution was then unanimously adopted. A resolution instructing the state delegates to vote for Cornell was not put owing to a previous motion to adjourn having been entertained.

OBITUARY.

Frankie, an infant son of Joseph and Amanda Marshall, died Saturday evening of cholera infantum. Funeral was held Monday attended by Rev. A. M. Roe.

Lilly, wife of Manford Potter, and daughter of Mr. Geo. White, died at the residence of her father a short distance east of Fulton, Saturday evening, of consumption. She was 29 years of age. Funeral was held from house Monday, Rev. A. M. Roe officiating.

Charles E. VanValkenburgh, a former resident of Fulton, son of the late Lawrence VanValkenburgh, died in Auburn last Thursday of consumption aged 33 years. His body was brought to Fulton Saturday and interred in Mt Adnah cemetery. A widow and three children survive him. Mr. VanValkenburgh spent his boyhood days in Fulton, where he has many friends who will learn with regret of his death. He was a brother of Mrs. Geo. Terry.

Nancy, widow of the late Beekman Fuller died at her residence on First street yesterday afternoon. Mrs Fuller has been an invalid for some time, and her condition for many days has been such as to cause her friends considerable alarm. She was a lady quite well known and was a sister of Mrs. H. Harris of lower Oswego Falls and Mr. Wm. Hetherington of Fulton. Funeral will be held at house to-morrow at 3 p. m.

The Syracuse Journal has the following obituary notice of a lady who had many friends and a few relatives in Fulton:

"Mrs. Frances L., wife of Charles P. Herrick, died suddenly at the family residence yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock Five months ago Mrs. Herrick suffered from a paralytic shock, and yesterday morning while at the breakfast table, the second shock prostrated her, resulting in her death. The funeral will be held at the family residence, No. 130 East Fayette st., Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock."

ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough, prompt measures of relief should be taken. Consumption is scrofulous disease of the lungs; therefore use the great anti-scrofulous or blood-purifier and strength-restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to Cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections it has no equal. Sold by druggists. For Dr. Pierce's treatise on consumption send two stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, [illegible]

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass. says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past. I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

MR. OSCAR CRAIGG [illegible] BY A PREMATURE BLAST IN THE ROSENDALE CEMENT QUARRY—DESTRUCTION OF AN EYE—ITS SUBSEQUENT REMOVAL BY SURGICAL OPERATION.

Mr. Oscar Craigg was foreman in a cement quarry at Rosendale, Ulster Co, N. Y. By an explosion in the quarry one day he lost an eye—lost it totally. Under the impression that the matter was less serious the local physician told Mr. Craigg that his eye was not lost wholly, but could be saved by treatment. The experiment was tried and failed. Worse remained behind, for he was in danger of losing the other through sympathetic inflammation. In this strait he consulted Dr. David Kennedy of Roundout, N Y, who told him the injured eye must be taken out to save the other. To this Mr Craigg demurred, and went home in doubt. His local physician said: "Go to New York." To New York the patient went, and one of the most eminent oculists in the country having looked at the cause, said: "You have lost one eye entirely; go back and do what you can to save the other." Briefly Mr Kennedy removed the ruined eye and treated Mr Craigg with "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" to build up his system, and the result was successful.

Dr Kennedy's great success as a surgeon is due to the use of "Favorite Remedy" in the after treatment.

Are you troubled with Dyspepsia, liver complaint, constivation or derangement of the bladder add kidney? then use Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy." It will not disappoint you. Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, for sale by all druggists. 14t4

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞ If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S

RESTAURANT.

—:o:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Do a Kind Act When You Can.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
And [illegible]
He'd fix no grand titles on any,
Except the proud title of man;
Then let your heart favor the many,
And do a kind act when you can.

We are children of one common mother;
We are fashioned of one common mould;
The poor man is as surely your brother
As the man who has millions of gold.
Then treat all alike the deserving—
The Saviour himself used this plan—
Whether served by your neighbor or serving
Always do a kind act when you can.

The poor have their trials and troubles,
And even the rich have their cares
A good deed by either ennobles,
And the product humanity shares.
The world would be better and purer
If the demon of pride we could ban ;
And brotherhood's bond would be surer—
So do a kind act when you can.

THE BEST PROOF OF MERIT is uniform success and on this basis Warner's Safe Kidney & Liver Cure is without doubt one of the greatest remedies in the land.

Ear-rings and Eyesight.

A great deal has been written on the subject of "boring the ears for the sake of the eyes," says the London Lancet. It is always easy to find excuses for any practice which ministers to vanity. That the counter irritation set up by boring the ear and wearing a ring may, during the two weeks following the operation, have some effect on the eyes, supposing these organs to be the seat of any low form of inflammation, is just possible; but that permanent good should be done by wearing rings in the ears after they have ceased to irritate is inconceivable. The test for motive in the recourse to this device would, therefore, be willingness on the part of the applicant for this form of "treatment" to allow the healing process to be delayed, say, by wearing a rough ring dipped in some irritating application—in fact, so prepared as to act like a seton. This, indeed, might do good, but in such a case probably recourse to a few blisters behind the ears would be better. It is nonsense to suppose the wearing of earrings can be of any service to the eyes unless they irritate, the process by which the result attributed to them is obtained is circuitous, and from a surgical point of view awkward in the extreme.

SMALL COMFORT.

When you are continually coughing night and day, annoying everybody around you, and hoping it will go away of its own accord, you are running a dangerous risk—better use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, an unfailing remedy in all such cases.

Struck by Lightning.

Lightning struck a tree in front of Brinckley's school-house in Sumpter county, Georgia, and four children fell to the floor unconscious. All recovered.

Lightning cut the crown completely out of the hat of Anthony Dodson, of Kirkville, Missouri, leaving nothing but the brim about his head. It killed Anthony.

Henry Browning, a harvest hand in St Louis county, Missouri, was killed by lightning while he was binding a sheaf. His dead body kept its position for some minutes, with the hand on the sheaf.

Seven mules were standing along the line of a barbed wire fence at Norbourne, Missouri, hiding in the scrub to be out of the rain. Lighining struck the fence and was carried along by the wire, and made a loop circuit of every mule, killing them all.

At Monticello, Florida, as the rain commenced, Mrs. Jacob Reichart opened her window to close the shutters, when a a lightning bolt took her life so suddenly that she lay across the window sill with her fingers still clutching the button, and her clothing in a blaze.

Andrew Miller, of Derby Station, Indiana, has been struck twice by lightning, once when, as a boy, he was at work in a field near his father's house and again in a recent storm, when he was hoeing corn in the same field, and, as near as he can tell, about the same place.

Trouble on the bread basket.—A man who had for supper lobster salad and milk, awakened at night in excruciating pain. His wife quietly gave him a dose of Cobb's Little Podophyllin Pills, and he was instantly relieved. For sale by R. E. Phillips. 15t5

The Sarcastic Girl.

The sarcastic girl is, in the language of the negro elocutionist and orator, growing "more prevalent" every day. She is a trifle more insufferable than her giggling, gushing, romance loving sister, whom, however, she always contemplates with pitying contempt, not entirely free from undisguised scorn.

She has not the ability to distinguish between prudence and satire, as it is an easy task to convince her that ill bred rudeness of speech is the perfection of irony, and that to say spiteful and unpleasant things to everybody she meets is sure to win her a reputation of being sarcastic.

She eagerly cultivates her fancied talent, never allowing an opportunity to exercise it pass unimproved, and she generally succeeds in making herself heartily disliked by those who are unfortunate enough to be numbered among her acquaintances.

The family think her brilliant when everyone else pronounces her insulting. The habit of being "sarcastic" grows upon her until, by the time her fond parents conceive her to be a prodigy, society avoids her as a pest. As she grows older she becomes dissatisfied with her loneliness.

Then, too, she hears whispers that she has been pronounced "hateful" by the people who once told her she was brilliant.

If she marries, her husband soon tires of her company, and in common with the rest of the world, avoids her as much as he can, and seems to envy those who are more [illegible] in this respect. [illegible] makes her more spiteful and disagreeable. Her children [illegible]

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

95 per Cent.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

Setting a Boy's Broken Neck in Connecticut.

Perhaps the most wonderful surgical operation ever performed in Southington was that which saved the life of the little son of Mr. Orlando Whitney of Darien, whose neck was dislocated by the upsetting of a carriage. The operation was performed by Drs. Russell of New Haven and Osborne of Southington, and was one which required great skill and delicate manipulating.

The little one was obliged to lie in a plaster of paris cast of his whole body, from its neck to below the knee joints. It was the only thing that could have saved his life; a movement to the right or left would have caused instant death. Dr. Osborne, we believe, has had charge of the case since the setting, and under his care the child is progressing favorably. [Southington Phœnix.

Candor That Pays.

The colored voters are beginning to understand poitics as well if not better than most of white voters. One of the candidates for an office at the municipal election in Austin, not long since, relied on the fidelity of an old family servant to help him out among the colored voters. The candidate was beaten. After the election he was told that his colored political friends had voted against him. He did not believe it, but, meeting him one day, the ex-candidate said :

"I'll give you a dollar, Jim, to tell me who you voted for"

"I voted agin you, boss.

"Well, here is a dollar for your candor."

"Look heah, boss, ef you am gwine ter pay for de candor, I mount as well own up. I voted agin you free different times.—Free dollars moah, if you please, boss. [Texas Siftings.

An Ingenious Blind Man.

The instances where blind persons have made mechanical contrivances of value and usefulness are not few. A case in point is that of Morrison Heady, of Kentucky, who is as blind as a bat and deaf as a post, yet he is a marvel of mechanical dexterity, of inventive genious and quick cogitation. Among his inventions is a leather glove with the letters of the alphabet painted on it. You can talk to him as fast as you can touch those letters with the end of your finger. Another of his inventions is a mechanical writing machine, with which he can write and others can transcribe. The machine pricks its way along the paper, and he can read his own writing by the sense of touch. Others can use the machine to write out for him anything not procurable in blind type, and he can then read it with his fingers and indirectly have access to the literary gems which would otherwise be a sealed book to him.

Men.

We find the following in an exchange: "The great want of age is men. Men who are not for sale, men who are honest; sound from centre to circumference; true to the heart's core; men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others. Men whose conscience are steady as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who can tell the truth and look the devil or the world in the eye; men that neither flag nor flinch; men that have courage without shouting; men in whom the currents of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong. Men who do not cry or cause their voices to be heard on the streets, but who will not fail nor be discouraged till judgement be set in the earth; men who know their message and tell it; men who know their places and fill them; men who will not lie; men who are not too lazy to work or too proud to be poor, men willing to eat what they have earned and wear what they have paid for."

Summer.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Queen of the year with thy bannered processions,
Dawns strong with diamonds and blazing with gold.
Noons when the purple trails far o'er the mountains,
Eves when the crimson lies fold upon fold,
Nights when the silver moon smiles upon the ocean,
Days when the earth is the bride of the sun
Queen of the year, O, thy radiant summer,
How shall we reckon the spoils thou hast won!

Rich are thy roses in passionate languor,
Singing their hearts out and kissing the breeze;
Royal thy lillies that wait for their lovers—
Chaste as white vestals and stately are these;
Glad are thy harvests that laugh on the hill tops,
Burden the meadows till joyously shorn;
Sweet are thy winds as they ripple and rustle
Through the long ranks of the green ribboned corn.

Tumbles thy surf in its mirth on the shingle,
Over the beach pour thy tides at the full,
Slip the dark waters o'er inlet and cavern,
Glide the white sails and the strong rowers pull
Everywhere silence and shadow and rest—
Queen of the year, thou hast everything in thy keeping
Waking and sleeping are both in thy breast,

List from the orchard the song of the robin,
Haunting the dusk with his story of truth;
Look how the oriole flashes in splendor,
Hark to the dove with his soft cooing ruth;
Music and fragrance are thine, fairest summer
Yet it is not for thy wealth or thy grace,
Dearest we prize thee when we dream of thy beauty,
Veiling our eyes from the sight of thy face.

Rare is thy touching, O potent enchanter,
Lo! at the fall of thy gentle caress,
Days that are faded return to delight us,
Tones that are echoes our memories bless;
Only a waft from a hay mooded meadow,
Only a snatch from a waltz o Lang Syne.
Years roll away; we are young; we are happy,
Summer, sweet sovereign, our heart's love is thine.

The Richmond (Va.) State writes: Ex-Mayor J. A. Gentry, Manchester, this State, was cured of rheumatism by St Jacobs Oil.

Hanged Three Times.

"A great many people have a mistaken idea that the sensation attendant upon hanging are very unpleasant," remarked Dr. Marable to a representative of this paper, "but on the contrary, it is extremely pleasant. I have it from a man who was hanged three times. Of course, those whose necks are broken never knew what hurt them; but it is of the others I speak. The practical surgeon knows this fact. Drowning has long been regarded as an extremely agreeable method of shuffling off this mortal coil, and there is no doubt that strangulation by the other method—a hemp rope—produces like results. You remember the great Nashville sensation in which Ned Buntline figured—no, I reckon not either for that was way back in the forties—forty-six I believe. Buntline, the sensational writer, you know, whose real name is Judson, or some such name, had a row with a prominent man named Porterfield, about the latter's wife. Porterfield shot at Judson three times, and was about to fire again when Jackson said: "If you do that again I'll put a bullet through your head." Porterfield paid no attention to his remark, but fired the fourth time, the last bullet, like the others, going wide of the mark. Judson raised his elbow to a level with his face, and resting his pistol upon it, took good aim and fired. The ball penetrated Porterfield's brain and he fell dead to the ground. Then somebody found Porterfield's brother put a pistol in his hand and told him to avenge the murder. He shot at Judson twenty times while the latter was running up the capitol steps, and missed every shot. The mob finally caught Judson and resolved to hang him. Taking him to a house close by, which was in process of construction, they threw a rope over one of the rafters and strung him up. Thrice he was strung up in succession and cut down under the impression that he was dead. His leg was broken by the last fall, and he was unconscious. The mob left him for dead, and kind friends took him and succeeded in restoring life. I saw him afterward at Louisville, Ky., sometime in 1849, and had a long talk with him about the affair. He told me that the few moments he hung each time were the most deliriously delightful of his whole life. Beautiful lights danced before his eyes, of all hues and shades many of them like those produced by chemical burning of watch-springs. The most gorgeous panoramas passed in review before him, each more entrancingly beautiful and distinct than the last. Exquisite landscapes, snow-capped mountains, green-clad valleys and spouting springs of sparkling water filled him with ecstacy. His whole soul was enthralled with rapture by the beauties which lay spread out before his gaze. So wrapped up was he in contemplating these scenes that he hated the moment the rope was severed and the sweet delusion dispelled. The pain came afterward, when his throat swelled from the efforts of the rope upon it, and he was unable to swallow. [Memphis Ledger.

NOT TO BE FOOLED.

Mr. Smith in the Metropolis—He Takes His Opportunity.

Mr. Josiah Smith, aged fifty-five, was born and brought up in the town of Smithville, Connecticut, where his father was born and brought up before him. Neither circumstances nor inclination had ever carried Mr. Smith far from his native village, and his mental horizon was bounded by the town limits. For pig-headed obstinacy and self-ceit the man whose knowledge of the world is gained in own backyard has few rivals. Mr. Josiah Smith was a bright and shining example of his class. It was his proud boast that nobody could fool him. To be sure nobody in Smithville ever tried or wanted to. Living apart from the temptation and turmoil of the busy world his acumen had never been submitted to the sharp test of experience, and so for fifty-five years he had been able to nurse the comfortable belief that he was smarter than his fellow mortals. "They can't fool me," Mr. Smith was accustomed to say with considerable unction, followed by applauding assent at the grocery where he traded. Mr. Josiah Smith was a farmer, and like other farmers who have city cousins in New York, two years ago he received one summer a visit from his city relatives. They stayed on the farm a few weeks, displayed their ignorance of such fundamental principles as milking and mowing, enjoyed the fresh air and the novel experience, didn't fool him and went away leaving a cordial invitation for him to come and see them in New York. Mr. Josiah Smith went this summer. He spent the intervening two years in getting posted. He read an old guide book and a cheap novel called "Life in New York" but most of all he read the city columns in the Tribune. Of all the tricks and dodges that which most impressed Mr. Smith, and that which he regarded with the utmost infinite contempt, was that species of confidence game, whereby the operator, recognizing the victim lures him into a den to see him cash a lottery ticket and leaves him penniless. Mr. Smith when he thought of this little contrivance to trap the unwary, waxed eloquent over the fools that will be so easily snared, and ended by asserting again that they couldn't fool him. Early this spring Mr. Smith started for the metropolis. No trunk, trunks were sometimes lost; he carried his wardrobe in an old fashioned satchel shaped like an inverted bellows, with a brass lock of generous size, and two large leather handles. Then, with a linen duster on his back, one handle on his carpet bag and another on his watch and rigid determination in his face, he seated himself in the cars. He resisted the blandishments of the train boy who fired at him the customary round of peanuts, literature and mixed candies. He resisted the determination to turn over the illustrated paper which the boy laid on the seat and look at the inside, fearing that such an act might give the boy a right to demand the price of the paper. When they stopped ten minutes for refreshments he took from the gripsack three hard boiled eggs and four slices of bread, and ate them in a wary and cautious manner; he changed cars under protest, and finally rolled into the Grand Central depot past the tall station where the train dispatcher sends out over the network of rails, east, south, north and west the trains with their weight of humanity, always surging in and out from the great metropolis, until the train stopped at the other end of the huge station. Now among the city cousins who had visited Mr. Josiah Smith was young John of New York, and to young John was deputed the courteous task of meeting and greeting Josiah at the depot. And there John was; but two years had altered young John, both as to his clothes and his physique. It takes a decade to noticeably alter the cut of trousers in a small country village, but the world moves faster in the city, and young John's trousers had grown very small indeed; he wore toothpick shoes, and another hat from the tile of two years ago, and moreover he was cultivating a slight mustache.

Cousin Josiah didn't know him, but he knew cousin Josiah to every stitch of his raiment. But young John had a pleasant and gamey way about him, and so instead of calling out, "Hullo, cousin Josiah!" he slipped airily forward, and lifting his hat, said, "This is Mr. Josiah Smith, I believe?" He wanted to make an impression; he did. The old man mindful of the confidence game, felt that this was his opportunity; with the battle cry of the New Englander, "By Gosh!" he swung aloft the mighty carpet bag and exclaiming "You can't fool me!" he brought it down on the head of young John. A quarto bible, a pair of heavy shoes, a hair brush and other bric-a-brac bound in leather and cloth, and supplemented by a brass lock makes no mean weapon. Young John dropped like a bullock. There was a crowd and some confusion, but when John had been mopped into consciousness, he explained matters. However, young John is not quite so airy as he was, and Josiah had not been heard to say during the entire summer that "they can't fool him." It is believed that this little tale is not without its moral, the extraction and application of which is left to the reader.

FREEING THE CANALS.

Showing That to Taxpayers in the Western Part of the State the Abolition of Canal Tolls is Desirable.

(Henry T. Fish, in Justice.)

Many people think that by freeing the canals and taxing themselves to support the same will be a hardship and innure only to the benefit of boatmen and the elevator owners. This is really a mistaken idea, as I will demonstrate to them.

The assessed valuation of the state this year is $2,681,257,606. Now let me illustrate the financial effect—the freeing of the canals and resorting to direct tax to uphold them—will have. Suppose the canal department requires $1,500,000 per annum—under ring management it cost from five to six and a half millions per annum, they using all the tolls and $1,500,000 embodied in the supply bill every year.

Let us take a farm, at the west end of the state, whose assessed valuation is $10,900. On a careful and minute calculation of the actual surplus of said farm, the annual toll from Buffalo to Troy thereon is $38.54; now free the canal and tax this farm its share of $5.59, and it gains by free canal and direct tax $33.29. On a $5,000 farm it would gain $16.47. Take a $10,000 Rochester farm, the gain would be $2257; take a $5,000 do. do. the gain will be $11.28. Take a $10,000 farm from Syracuse, the farm gains $12.22; a $5,000 do. do. gains $6.11. A $10,000 fram from Canton gains $13.78; a $5,000 do. do. gains $6.86. A $10,000 farm from Utica gains $6.02; a $5,000 do. do. gains $3.01.

What is applicable and true as shown above is true and applicable to every county through which the canal runs, in proportion to amount of surplus produce and the distance carried.

Now let us see to raise $1,500,000, what it would cost:

On the assessed valuation of $250, cost $14; on $500, cost .28; on $1,000, cost .14, on $500, cost 28; on $1,000, cost .56; on $1,500, cost .84; on $5,000, cost $2.80; on $10,000, cost $5.59; on $50,000, cost $27.96; on $100,000, cost $55.92.

Thus, it will be seen, the tax would be a mere bagatelle—really a most insignificant sum. The toll on a boat load of 8,000 bushels of wheat from Buffalo to Troy is $82.80; by the abolition of toll freights are reduced at once, the amount of the toll taken off at least one cent per bushel, and the railroads must reduce in a corresponding ratio, and the outlying counties will receive more than an equivalent for the tax in lower freights and getting more money for their surplus production than they otherwise would.

Every taxpayer is statesmen enough to discover that the less freight he pays the more profit he makes on his productions. Tolls mean high freights; free canals low freights. It should be borne in mind that by freeing the canals a large army of officers are dispensed with, reducing the running expenses nearly $75,000 per annum—to retain and augment tonnage these times of competing routes in this and other states we must quicken transit and reduce freights.

The Erie canal, since its construction, has cleared over every expense nearly $50,000,000, and the whole state and people thereof have been the recipients of enormous benefits—saying nothing about other states.

Merchants, farmers, manufacturers and mechanics, we call upon you to rally to the support of your thoroughfare, and to vote to free them for your own benefit and the benefit of coming generations. The public good demands their freedom from tolls, and the good faith and honor of the state demands its improvement and protection; its prowess, its prestige, its commercial supremacy must forever be preserved and maintained.

The Helplessness of Women.

"Back, I say?"

The silvered foam of the sea was splashing in rythmic cadence on the white sands of the beach, while here and there a fleck of wavering light from the signal buoy on Sardine Shoals—that dreadful spot beneath whose treacherous waves so many goodly ships freighted with precions burdens from far Cathay and Muskegon had disappeared forever—brought into bold relief against the western sky Girofle McClosky's off foot as she stood by Bertram Perkin's side that soft June evening.

"You do not love me," said the girl, speaking slowly, "or you would not speak so cruelly. On this beautiful night when the hills are suffused with amber haze, through which the stars glow and throb in silent splendor, we should think of naught but love—pure, passionless love, that will bind our hearts together in a chain whose every link shall be a kiss, whose every fold a sweet caress.

For an instant the man did not reply. Then the girl stretched out to him her bare white arms that glistened like marble in the growing dusk, but he heeded them not.

"Will you not speak to me, sweetheart?" said she, an infinite pathos in these words.

No answer came. Again the outstretched arms pleaded tenderly and with [illegible] accents, "I cannot look."

"Why not?" asked Bertram.

"Because," was the reply, in tear-stained tones, "my polonaise is too awfully tight."

Language of the Face.

Round eyed persons see much in the senses, but think less. Narrow eyed persons, on the other hand, see less, but think and feel more intensely. It will be observed that the eyes of children are open and round. Their whole life is to receive impressions. It is only when childhood is maturing toward manhood and womanhood that thought comes, if it comes at all. But what is is that most leads to reflection? Experience. Our errors, our shortcomings, our failures—these teach us to think before we act, to consider each step, to weigh each motive. When, therefore, the upper eyelid—for it is that which has the greatest amount of mobility—droops over the eye, it indicates not merely reflection but somthing painful to reflect about. Here the length or drooping of the upper eyelid betokens confession and penitence.

The drooping of half the eyelids from the outer angle to the center indicates the disposition to confess to seniors, to a 'father confessor," or to the Supreme Being. The drooping of half the eyelids from the inner angle to the center indicates the disposition to repent and "do works meet for repentance." Closely allied to these sights are those of prayerfulness and humility. The former is indicated by the muscle which turns the eye directly downward, as represented in the pictures of the Madonna. Prayerfulness is usually large in connection with repentance, the reason is, that between the faculties of humility and penitence there is the same close connection as there is between confession and prayer. One who habitually has more prayer than humility has the eye turned somewhat upward so that part of the iris is a little covered by the upper eyelid, and so as to leave a slight space between the iris and the lower lid. The reverse is true of one who has more humility than prayer.

The faculty of truth—that is, the love of it—as indicated by the muscle which surrounds the eye, causing folds and wrinkles. Justice is indicated by the muscle which causes perpendicular wrinkles between the eyebrows. Fullness and wrinkles undnr the eye, for which some persons are remarkable, indicate the love of mathematical accuracy; and wrinkles curving upward from the outer angle of the eye and eyebrow indicate the probity or personal truthfullness. There are three degrees of the faculty of justice. The first is a kind of exactness or strict honesty in small money matters which some people would call closeness, and is indicated by a singular perpendicular wrinkle or line between the eyebrows. The second is the disposition to require justice in others, and is indicated by two perpendicular lines or wrinkles, one on each side of the center—a very common sign. The third degree is consciousness, or the disposition to apply the rule of justice to one's self, and is indicated by three or more wrinkles or lines, especially noticeable, extending above the eyebrow, when the muscle is in action. The love of command is indicated by one or more short transverse wrinkles across the root of the nose, exactly between the eyes. It may be seen in great military commanders, in masters and teachers, and in those generally who are fond of exercising authorities. In those who are wanting in the power of command, and have no desire for responsibility, this sign is also absent. The faculty of command frequently acts with that part of justice which reprimands, or requires others to do right, and both together produce the frowning and lowering brow which is so terrible to evil doers, or to those who love to be approved rather than condemned.

Further, persons will not be required to fill out a blank, as at present for an order payable to the bearer at the money order office designated by the applicant. The new notes are to be handsomely engraved, and in appearance will not be unlike bank notes.

NEXT Monday Maine will elect a governor and four congressmen. There are five tickets in the field. Republican, Democrat, Greenback fusion ticket, straight Greenback, Prohibition and Independent Republican. The Democrat Greenback is the strongest. The vote of Maine for President in 1880 was: Garfield, 74,039; Hancock, 69,453; Weaver, 4,408; Dow, 93. For Governor in the same year the vote was: Davis, 73,544; Plaisted, 73,713; Plaisted, the present incumbent is the Democrat Greenback fusion candidate.

EDITON DANA of the Sun does not under estimate his position. Replying to a suggestion that the New York democrats might nominate him for governor he says: The difficulty with this proposition is that Mr. Dana already holds the office that is not compatible with being governor of New York, the office, namely, of editor of the Sun. The latter post is infinitely more attractive in power, independence, usefulness, and the constant pleasure and satisfaction of its exercise. It would be the wildest folly to resign it for an inferior function. We make governors here.

VICTORIA CLAFLIN WOODHULL announces herself as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States to be voted for at the next Presidential election. She feels that she is called upon to guide the destinies of this country and is already receiving an earnest support from some of the leading brains in the United States. A convention has been called to meet in London, England. Mrs Woodhull's candidacy is creating considerable activity among the advocates of female suffrage, one or two local nominating conventions in Iowa recommending her for the Presidency. A woman for president would be novel and certainly as useful as some men we have had.

A STEAM catamaran to be used as a tug on the canals, is being constructed in Tarrytown. If it is successful its inventor will claim the reward offered by the State for a steam canal boat that will not wash or otherwise injure the canal. The boat is 53 feet long, and its extreme beam 15 feet 10 inches. The mode of propulsion is what is claimed to be a new idea, and it has never been tried before. The boat is to be propelled by means of an endless chain, on which will be fastened buckets or paddles, and the whole will revolve around two drums, each three feet in diameter and nine feet apart. The chain is expected to make 100 revolutions per minute. The machinery is to be run by a 50 horse power engine. The vessel is about 18 tons burden, and will draw two feet of water.

Oswego Falls Collectorship.

Considerable has been said regarding the collection of taxes by me in Oswego Falls. Many refused to pay, for various reasons, and counsel advised me not to make a levy unless the Board of Trustees gave me a bond of indemnity, as my election was said by some to be invalid. This the Board refused to do and I refused to collect. Out of a levy of $[illegible]157.35 I collected and paid to the village $1,503.63, more than two-thirds of the village tax, and more than any previous collector of the village ever collected in the same length of time. I moved from Oswego Falls into the village of Fulton; the Board declared the office vacant; I was summond to meet them, did so, and everything was satisfactory and correct.
WARNER C. WHEELER.

The following has been handed me for publication:

To Whom It May Concern:

We, the undersigned Board of Trustees, do hereby testify that Warner C. Wheeler, whose office as collector of the village of Oswego Falls has been made vacant by removal from Oswego Falls to Fulton, has paid over in full all taxes received by him, and that the accounts balance, and that the report as to him being a defaulter is false, and that we wish to exonerate him from all such blame.

JESSE HOYT'S WILL.

The Bulk of a Large Property Distributed Among the Members of his Family.

We learn from the New York Sun that the will of Jesse Hoyt, one of the proprietors of the Genesee Mills, Fulton, has been admitted to probate. It was executed on June 26, 1882, but a short time prior to his death.

After providing for his funeral expenses and for the payment of $50,000 to his confidential clerk, James W. Jackson, the testator directs his executor to take $1,250,000 from his estate, and hold it in trust for the widow, Helen Maria Hoyt, during her life. She is given the power to direct what disposition shall be made of $750,000 of that sum after her death. The remaining part of it, $500,000 and the $750,000 if the widow dies intestate, is to be divided after her death among the sons and daughters of the testator's brothers, Alfred M. Hoyt, Reuben Hoyt and James H. Hoyt.

The testator bequeaths $100,000 to his sister, Mary Hoyt; $200,000 to his brother, Samuel N. Hoyt; $100,000 to his brother, Alfred M. Hoyt and $100,000 to his wife; $25,000 to Sarah E. Hoyt, widow of his brother, James H. Hoyt, and $25,000 to her daughter, Mary Nesbitt Hoyt; $600,000 to his brother, Alfred M. Hoyt to be divided equally among his six children; and $400,000 to his brother, Reuben Hoyt, to be divided among his four children.

He also gives to Jesse Hoyt, jr. and Frank R. Hoyt, sons of his brother, and Reuben Hoyt, one quarter of his share in the business under the copartnership between himself and Joseph M. Hazeltine and Edward Annan. He then directs his executors to convey to East Saginaw, Mich., several lots of land in that city, to be used for a public park. He expresses a wish that a public library should be built upon a part of this land, and bequeaths $100,000 toward the erection and the maintenance of the library. The rest of his estate is to be divided into five equal parts and distributed equally among his sister, Mary Hoyt his brothers Samuel N. Hoyt, Alfred M. Hoyt and Reuben Hoyt, and the daughter of his deceased brother, James H. Hoyt.

Wm. McCartney, 88 Lloyd street, Buffalo, N. Y. fell and sprained his ankle. His employer, H. Anderson, 94 Main street applied some Thomas Eclectric Oil, and he says that a few applications enabled him to go to work as usual.

Fred Grant's Fisticuffs at West Point.

Fred Grant was, during his four years course at West Point, continually in hot water on account of his pugilistic tendencies. He was a great favorite with the cadets, not because he was a president's son, for at West Point being a great man's son rather wars against a cadet's popularity, but because he was good natured, lively and accommodating. His fights with plebs were legion. The very first day he entered camp he had a fight with a fellow pleb, who made a remark derogatory to young Grant's father. It happened in this wise: On a Fourth of July, the plebs were watching from the doors of their tents the evolutions of the cadet corps, when Grant's tent mate made a remark to the effect that George Washington was the greatest general that ever lived. Grant said: "I think he was the greatest man who ever lived, but not so much a general as my father." "Pooh! Pooh!" retorted the tent mate. "There is no more comparison between your father and George Washington than there is between a plucked hen and the American eagle." At this Grant struck him and one of the hottest fights of that summer's camp occurred then and there. An officer appearing on the scene the affair was a draw. This was but the beginning of young Grant's pugilistic career. He was thrashed beautifully once during his pleb camp for refusing to carry a bucket of water for a first class man, and, after a three years course had transformed him into a first class man, he, in turn, thrashed a pleb for refusing to perform a like service.

Recollections of War by a Fultonian—The Whiz of Bullets—A Happy Meeting.

To the Editor Fulton Times:

Speaking of the war brings up many recollections connected with that period. I recollect one little incident which occurred a few days before the final collapse of the Rebellion. The morning of the 5th of April, 1865, the cavalry brigade to which I belonged made a dash on Lee's wagon train, near Amelia Court House, Va. After riding about three hours, through vales and over hills, most of which was covered with oak timber, we came out upon a high hill which overlooked a valley about two hundred rods wide, through which ran a stream. From our elevated position we could see the long line of wagons, with their dingy canvas covers, across the ravine, on a road which ran parallel to the one we were on. Everybody was excited and eager to make a dash for the train. We soon found a cross road not much wider than a bridle path, which we followed in a circuitous way down the hill, across the creek, and then deployed out right and left for the train. The first wagon we met was a battery of five new Armstrong guns, well manned but not well handled. These were vehicles which we were used to, but were not expecting to meet at that particular time; but everyone was excited, and without any formal command from the General in charge, we rushed up and before they had time to fire a gun. What little cavalry escort the train had "dusted out" upon our approach, and we had full swing of about two miles of the train. Some of the wagons were marked "C. S. A.," and some "U. S." some marked "Gen. R. E. Lee," and some with the names of other noted generals of the Confederate army. Finally, after finishing our task of disabling the train, we fell back, and it soon became evident that "Fitz" Lee, with his cavalry, was after us. We had some wounded whom we were getting back, and after falling back four or five miles we made a stand to check them. While the ambulances were working back, we formed a line in a field, and soon the bullets began to sing about our ears. I was on the right of the colors, being one of the color guard, with the rank of Company Q. M. Sergeant. In less than five minutes after the firing began my horse was shot, the ball entering his forehead. I "latched" on to what few worldly effects I possessed and reported to the Major in command. He told me to get out of that locality as soon as I could, as the command would soon fall back. As I was making my way from the field, dodging the sound of bullets, I heard

CAPTURED THE BATTERY

MY NAME CALLED,

and upon looking, I saw a comrade lying on the ground, who belonged to the same company I did. "Chan., help me out of this; I am wounded and can't walk," said he, as his eyes met mine in entreaty. In less time than it takes me to tell it, I got three other dismounted lads to help me, and we picked him up and carried him about half a mile, when we came to a farm house, where we found an old fashioned buggy with a ragged leather dashboard. We soon had him into it, and found a harness with no holdback, and hailed a mounted man going to the rear who "chipped in" the use of his horse, and we soon started with our precious freight. When going down hill we would hang on to the "hind end" of the buggy to keep it off the horse's heels. Back about three miles we came to a church, which was being UTILIZED AS A HOSPITAL.

They soon loaded the wounded into ambulances and went back to the main army. I saw my friend the next morning as he lay in the hospital tent in a grove of sassafras bushes, which had sprung up in a worn out field. He was hit, as near as I can recollect, in the right side, between the lower rib and the hip bone, the ball passing out near the back bone. On the morning of the 6th I joined my regiment, after borrowing another horse, and he went to some hospital up in "God's country." I helped him in his time of extremity, and never gave it a thought that I had done anything remarkable. I had the same as I would want to be helped in like circumstances. I did not see him when the war was over. Finally I left Fulton and sought a home in the west, and lost all track of him.

HELPED A FRIEND

A HAPPY MEETING.

During the spring of '78 I was east; I found out where he lived and called at the house, an old lady came to the door in answer to my knock. I asked her if Eugene VanBuren was at home.

"No," she replied, "he is over in town," (Fulton.) "Is there any business you wish to see him about?"

"No, I had no business with him, but he was an army comrade of mine whom I had not seen for about twelve years. I was on a visit from the west, and thought I would hunt him up and have a bit of a visit with him."

"What is your name?" she asked, as she handed me a chair.

I told her my name, and I shall never forget her excited manner as she said:

"What! Are you the one that helped my boy off the battle field when he was wounded; helped my boy when he needed help; helped him back out of danger?"

I tell you if ever I received a heartfelt welcome in my life, it was from that aged mother, whose boy I had helped. I presume I had not thought of the fight, and him being wounded and my helping him, for years, until she "sprung" it on me at that time. The next day, as I was going over the bridge which leads into Fulton, I saw him coming, and before we had got to within five rods of each other our hands began to reach out for a good square "shake"—the first since I left him in the tent behind the sassafras bushes of the [illegible] the bridge with the [illegible] river surging and seething its way be[illegible]

An Austin teacher was calling the roll. Just as he called out "Bob Smith," Bob pushed open the door, out of breath, and answered, "Here, sir." "Robert, next time you must not answer to your name unless you are here. "Yes, sir; I'll try not to." [Texas Siftings.

Which gives us pain to bring before the public, but as we aim to render all the assistance in our power to every individual, for their good against those human sharks, we publicly call attention to it, in hopes this imposition may cease and the palpable injustice be forever crushed. Parties having purchased clothing through the influence of their so-called friends, frequently complain that they have been cheated,—by way of comparison worse than highway robbery—and exhibit rags to us as a proof of their assertion. This we barely credit at first, but investigation generally satisfies us it is a fact and we can find no words to fully express our disgust for the man, whoever he may be, who, under the pretense of being a particular friend of the poor boy, the hard-working mechanic, laborer, farmer, or the poor widow, takes him or her in want of garments to the dealer in clothing who has no reputation, or conscience, nothing but trash, and who exacts an enormously big profit from the purchaser, because he agreed to pay big commission for every customer roped in.

Summer has flown.

No. 2 school opened Monday with a large attendance.

Mrs. S. S. Striker of Utica is visiting friends in Fulton.

Mr. Milo Lawrence of Boston, Mass. is home for a few days.

Mrs. Frank S. Bayrs and daughter of Brooklyn are guests of J. C. Highriter.

A. S.—Any lawyer will advise you. Divorces are granted for one cause only in this State.

Mr. Chas. M. Roe, of Worcester, Mass., is in Fulton where he will remain a couple of weeks.

For a generous supply of vegetables from the garden of Mr. H. W. Smith THE TIMES returns thanks.

Osborn Bros. have leased the Ross saw mill for one year. All orders for lumber will be promptly attended to.

James Stevens is building a fine residence on First street, Oswego Falls, about midway between the upper and lower bridges.

Mrs. M. Hogan, who has resided in California, for the past year has returned to Fulton. She resides with her son Mr. Patrick Hogan.

Sylvanus Perry was walking across a lot in Oswego Falls last week and found a shining nugget that several people who profess to be experts call gold. It resembles copper ore and was found in a pile of dirt taken from a well.

A pleasant gathering assembled on the grounds of Mr. Russell Carter in Granby Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Perine of Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. James Barrett of Cazenovia and several guests from Fulton, including Rev. J. S. Riggs and wife were among the party.

Dr. I. C. Curtis has re-arranged the interior of his dental parlors and has a separate department for filling and also for extracting. The entire suite is newly papered and painted and withal presents an inviting appearance. All the modern appliances for filling, extracting and making teeth are used.

Friday evening A. N. Taylor's Mirth Makers will appear at Nichols Hall. This is a new company and they introduce many new and pleasing features. The "Parlor Picnic" is the leading piece and its rendition is spoken highly of by the press of the country. Tickets for sale at Nichols' jewelry store.

THE TIMES acknowledges the receipt of a pamphlet containing an account of the celebration in July last, of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the First Congregational church of Oswego. It is a valuable addition to the history of the society. It contains the historical discourse of the pastor, Rev. J. A. Biddle; a poem by Geo. C. Bragdon, historical notes and a full list of the present officers of the church and Sunday school.

The Oswego Express has the following regarding a young man well-known in Fulton and whose movements in life are being closely watched by many:

"John Anderson, the first colord graduate of the State Normal school, has accepted a position as assistant teacher in a school for the education of colored children in Philadelphia. Mr. Anderson graduated with the highest honors at the last term of the school in this city, and the best wishes of many friends go with him to his new field of labor. He is modest, bright, intelligent, and as he is persevering he will win success.

Dr. T. Dwight Stowe, a former resident of Fulton, has issued a circular to the citizens of Fall River, Mass., protesting against compulsory vaccination. The doctor has lost none of his old time force or logic. He heads his address:

Human Rights Measured by the Law of Nature, or Man's Necessities, are Suprema and Sacred. Civil Government is Burdensome, Useless, and Entitled Neither to Respect or Support, when it violates the Law of Nature. Such Government is a FRAUD and Ought to be Overthrown.

Vaccination a Fallacy. Compulsory Vaccination an Unjustifiable and Despotic Exercise of State Power; an Infringement of the Natural and Chartered Rights of the individual, Not to be Respected, but to be Resisted and Repealed.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to return thanks to Taylor Bros. & Co. and the Fire Department for prompt and valuable assistance rendered at the recent fire and feel justified in making individual mention of the very appreciable services rendered by Messrs. Peter Stevenson and Henry Schenck.

[illegible] Cows.—[illegible] Arrested for the Crime.

David Wells a prosperous farmer in South Hannibal, had a lawsuit with one Sidney Morse, [illegible] Morse was beaten and [illegible] to "get even."

Saturday night six cows out of a herd of thirty-three belonging to Wells died. They were in the stable, fastened in stanchions and the theory is that Morse entered the stable in the night and mixed Paris green in the feed. Walter Saunders, a veterinary surgeon of Hannibal was summoned.

He first examined some bran and middlings left in the manger from which the cows had eaten, and found a liberal quantity of Paris green. He then took the stomachs of two or three of the dead cows and submitted the contents to a rigorous analysis. In them more Paris green was found.

Mr. Wells was out of town. A warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Merritt Miller, of South Hannibal and executed by Henry Berry of the same place. Morse was arraigned, plead not guilty and was remanded to the custody of the officer for futher examination.

At 9 a. m., he appeared for examination before the Justice issuing the warrant, with Wm. Stephens of Fulton, as counsel, N. B. Brower appearing for the prosecution.

Sandford Wells, son of David, testified to having found Paris green in the mangers.

Gustavus Gardner, son of man Morse worked for, testified to having found Paris green on Morse's coat (coat offered in evidence).

S. D. Gardner, for whom Morse worked, testified to having seen Morse come in house at 3 o'clock Saturday morning with lantern.

Walter Saunders testified to making post mortem, and finding Paris green in stomach of several of the cows. Examination adjourned until to-morrow at 1 o'clock p. m.

One more cow has died, making seven in all. One more taken sick this morning.

William Pool and Mr. A. Hanna of Williams' drug store are subpoenaed to be present at to-morrows examination. Mr. Hanna recollects selling Morse one pound of Paris green on August 27. Morse puts in a general denial of everything charged.

Sidney Morse is 65 years of age, a dissipated and cranky character and those best acquainted with him say he is a malicious, vindictive being.

There is considerable inquiry as to the punishment or penalty in this case if proven guilty:

By special statute any person who shall expose or administer poison to any horse, sheep or cattle, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by three years imprisonment in the State Prison or one years imprisonment in the county jail and $250 fine.

Anti-Monopoly Meeting.

A meeting of the Anti-Monopoly League was held last evening with Mr. E. D. Chapman in the chair. Mr. A. Hanna was elected permanent chairman and Dr. W. L. Woodbury secretary. A constitution and by-laws were adopted. Messrs J. W. Pratt and A. Hanna were unanimously elected delegates to the State Convention to meet Sept. 12, at Saratoga.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this league deems it impracticable to make a separate nomination but will support such candidates only as will give good evidence of their friendship to our principles. Adjourned

Mary E. Montague has been granted a divorce from Levi Montague.

Cassius W. Newton has been granted a divorce from Aurora Newton.

At a special term of the Supreme court held in Oswego, Wednesday, Georgiana L. Livingston was granted a divorce from John G. Livingston. The parties live in Fulton.

Marriages.

William Nelson and Miss Frances Chubb of Fulton, were married in Phoenix, Aug. 24, by E. Cathcart, Esq.

Miss Dora A. Smiddy was married Saturday morning at Zion church by Rev. E. Moyses to Mr. James R. Howie of Frederickton, N. B. They left the same day for New York and will sail to-morrow for Europe on the "Republic." A tour of the continent will be made when they will return to Frederickton. The best wishes of a multitude of Fulton friends accompany the happy couple.

Deaths.

We learn by the Scranton (Pa.) Republican of August 30, of the death of Cyrus Nettleton, an infant son of Mr. A. C. Nettleton, formerly of this village.

Mrs. Susan Kenyon, wife of the late Gen. R. C. Kenyon, died at Wadsworth, Ohio, last Saturday, where she had gone with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Healy, on a visit. She had been a resident of Fulton about twenty years. She was sister to Mrs. L. S. Worden of this village. Her health had been failing for the past year or two. Her funeral was held last Monday, and her remains will be deposited in Ohio by the side of a former husband who died some thirty years since. Mrs. Kenyon leaves no children, her property will go to her relatives. She was an examplary member of the Presbyterian church. She had been absent from Fulton about three months. Her age was 71 years.

On Sunday Sept 3, 1882, at three o'clock, p. m. after a short but painful illness, Mrs. Maria C. Conger, wife of P. F. Conger breather her last. The immediate cause of her death was an acute affection of the brain whose fatal march the keenest skill was powerless to combat. Her age was 54. Her health has been feeble for a year or two and an extended trip up the lakes this summer and through the west was taken in the hope of restoring some of her wonted strength. Mrs. Conger was a lady of culture and ability, unselfish and untiring in deeds of benevolence and a devoted wife and mother. In deeds of charity she was foremost. Among her large circle of acquaintances her untimely death conveys a feeling of sadness.

She was a daughter of the late Oliver Breed of Volney. Her mother, aged 87, and a husband, son and two daughters survive her. Miss Inez, the eldest, is in Paris, France. Funeral will be held to-day at 4 p. m. from the family residence on First street, Rev. E. Moyses of Zion church officiating.

Business Changes.

Michael Conly will occupy the building vacated by Peter Damien on Second street as a billiard parlor and restaurant.

Peter Damien has closed out his confectionery shop on Second street and moved into J. J. Stephens' building on Cayuga Street, in the rear of LaLonde's barber shop.

John Benjamin was in Fulton last week looking over the ground with a view to establishing himself in the photograph business in the rooms once occupied by J. Ford Morris, in the Kenyon block, First street. Mr. Benjamin once resided in Fulton.

Mr. L. T. Miller has purchased James Morrow's interest in the grocery store of Morrow & Whitaker. The firm will now be composed of Miller & Whitaker. They are gentlemen of large experience in their line of business and will carry on a first-class family grocery.

Geo. L. Smith has sold his stock of groceries to George A. Berzee, of Mindon, N. Y., a young man of considerable experience in the grocery line and one who comes to Fulton highly recommended. He has lived in Fulton for some time and is a son-in-law of Jerome Rector. Mr. Berzee proposes to deal only in the best of goods and invites an inspection of his stock.

Political Talk.

Democratic District convention in Oswego to-morrow.

J. Clark Cooley of Oswego is a democrat candidate for county clerk.

DeWitt C. Littlejohn was speaker of the assembly in 1855, '59, '60 and 61.

The republican county convention is called to meet at Mexico Wednesday September 27.

The democratic county convention has been called to meet on Tuesday, September 25, at Mexico.

The Oswego Palladium says Wm. J. Pentelow of Volney is a democratic candidate for county clerk.

Hon Byron Helm was renominated for Member of Assembly in the Second District yesterday.

Willard Johnson is said to be the coming man in the democratic party for the assembly nomination.

Hon. Geo. M. Case tells the Oswego Express he is for Hon. D. C. Littlejohn for Member of Assembly "first, last and all the time."

The democrats of Granby have instructed their delegates to the county convention to vote for Francis M. Baker of Fulton for county clerk.

The Town Board met Monday and designated polling places for the ensuing election. The polling place of No. 2 will be in the room under the postoffice instead of at D. T. Morfa's.

The carrying of the second assembly district of Oswego county by Judge Nutting in Pulaski yesterday afternoon insures him the republican nomination for member of congress. There are three assembly districts in the congressional district—two in Oswego and one Madison. Mr Nutting has now ten of the fifteen delegates chosen to the congressional convention. The delegates from the second district to the congressional convention are Hon Wm H Baker. James Wood, H D Nutting, Wm Gilbert, George F Shafty.

"Volney farmers begin to realize the Midland railroad was a wise investment after all," remarked one of the leading agriculturalists yesterday, "and again if it was not for the Midland road the Oswego Falls factories would undoubtedly shut down; the expense in bringing the raw material and shipping their goods would be so great without competition they would seek a location where competing lines exist—and by the way, their business is exclusively transacted with the Midland. When D. C. Littlejohn advised the town of Volney to bond the town for $300,000 to aid in the construction of the Midland; we did it and were sorry, blamed him; but to-day his clear sighted business judgment juts out greatly to his credit." In reply to a question whether he thought Mr. Littlejohn would receive the nomination for Member of Assembly he replied: "Most assuredly he will."

AN EDITOR WITH A DISEASED BRAIN.

Is The Patriot Editor A Crank?—A Tribute to His Nauseating Temper—A Sneaking Job Fully Exposed.

Saturday evening's Oswego Times pays the following tribute to the editor of the Fulton Patriot:

"A person possessed of the temper of the editor of the Fulton Patriot would be justified in committing suicide. We would not be afflicted as he is, for the wealth of the Indies. Could he be made suddenly conscious of his many disagreeable qualities, we are certain he would drop dead in his tracks from pure chagrin—or at any rate ought to.

Here is another. The Wolcott News says: Let the Fulton Patriot mail its papers to its regular subscribers and not send marked copies of its paper to Tom, Dick and Harry in Wolcott.

It seems the editor of the Patriot flooded Wolcott with his paper containing his lying abuse about Professor Simpson, marking the piece to be sure his diabolical invention would not escape the reader, hoping thereby to cause a feeling against Professor Simpson in the Board of Education which would eventually result in his discharge or at least make his residence there unpleasant.

One of the Board of Education happened to know the editor of the Patriot and it took him about two minutes to explain his principle, character, venomous and cowardly way of trying to injure a man in his business. It is certainly the most despicable plot ever concocted and the Wolcott News deserves unlimited credit for its fearlessness in making a full expose.

It pains THE TIMES to refer to the matter, but a sense of duty to its readers renders it imperative. It is a grave crime and only a desperate man devoid of principle would essay to do it. Professor Simpson is now Principal of the Academic Department of the State Normal School at Brockport, N. Y. at an annual salary of fourteen hundred dollars.

WHO WILL DO IT?

A farm of 52 acres in North Victory to exchange for village property in Fulton. Enquire of

F. D. VANWAGENEN JR,
No. 10 First Street.

Walked into the Canal and Drowned.

Yesterday morning at four o'clock a body was discovered floating in lock No 9, known as the state house lock, this village. It was taken from the water and about seven o'clock recognized as a farm hand employed by Valkert Van Buren at Battle Island. Darrow was in town Saturday and was arrested for being intoxicated. He paid a fine and was released. He was last seen about 8 p. m., Saturday and it is supposed that he walked into the canal while unconscious. Coroner Hall and a jury viewed the body and adjourned the inquest until Friday evening. On his body was found a watch and some money, the proceeds of property sold by him the day previous, in Hannibal.

He was married and leaves a widow and three children illy provided for. He is spoken of as a hard working, good hearted man, though a slave to strong drink. Undertaker Cole took charge of the remains and in the afternoon they were removed to Hannibal for burial.

Bold Men Foiled.

A man giving his name as George Watson presented at the First National bank, Oswego. Thursday, a check for $1,870, which had been raised from a check given by Penfield, Lyon & Co. for $37. The bank had warning, and took the man into custody. Friday he was examined and held on the charge of raising a check and put in jail to await the action of the grand jury. The same day and at the same time another party presented the check of W. J. Austin, raised from $22.63 to 1,260.05, at the Second National bank. The bank offered him a New York draft, which he declined and left. He is still at large. The promptness of the police and the wide-awake bank officers prevented the loss of considerable money.

Clarence Hewes and Fred Taylor captured a pickerel Saturday while trolling that measured three feet eight inches in length and weighed sixteen pounds. The largest pike taken this season was by Mr. Hewes and T. A. Thayer weighing eight pounds. The pickerel was sent to Mr. Peck in Syracuse, where the spoon was purchased.

FOR SALE—A desirable house and lot on Hannibal street, lower Oswego Falls. Good water and good garden. For particulars enquire at THE TIMES office.

What Our Exchanges Have to say—Various Topics Discussed.

Courtney came and conquered but he didn't saw. [Buffalo Courier.

We send Jews home because they cannot work, and Chinamen because they can, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. This is a great country.

A man by the name of Webster, in Hillsdale, Cattarragus county, was detected in watering his milk by the cheese man's finding minnows in it. Webster was a member of the Methodist church. He used water enough in his milk to identify him as a Baptist. [Attica News.

That blasphemous infidel, Bob Ingersoll, imagines he can influence the trial of the star-route thieves by offering to bet from $100 to $1000 that they will not be convicted. A lawyer who goes around offering to wager on the finding of a petit jury must have a high opinion of his profession. [Buffalo News.

One hundred and twenty petitions for divorce were granted at one term of the supreme court of Rhode Island. That is a startling list, but the curious fact about it is that in ninety-eight cases the complaint was entered by the wife against the husband. Why it is that wives are more anxious to get away from their husbands than husbands are to leave their wives it would be hard to tell, since it would appear as tho' the hardship of the separation would fall mainly on the latter. [Newport News.

After about ten years of almost entire absence from political life, Hon. D. C. Littlejohn, one of the ablest politicians Oswego county has produced—probably the ablest—has a prospect of returning to the Assembly, where he has spent a number of years, holding the Speakership five terms. Mr. Littlejohn went into the Liberal-Republican movement as a revolt against regnant political corruption. If the party that harshly banished him should recall him to its service, it will show sagacity. [Syracuse Standard.

The impression of Governor Cornell's strength as a candidate is confirmed by the reports which our correspondents send us from widely separated corners of the State. From the counties of Warren, Essex and Clinton, in the north, and from Otsego, the reports agree among the farmers that the Governor is warmly approved and would command a full vote. This class do not worry themselves excessively in regard to the fine distinction which the Conkling Gould faction would like to enforce that the national Administration is entitled to support. SAD ACCIDENT.

MR. OSCAR CRAIGG BLOWN UP BY A PREMATURE BLAST IN THE ROSENDALE CEMENT QUARRY—DESTRUCTION OF AN EYE—ITS SUBSEQUENT REMOVAL BY SURGICAL OPERATION.

Mr. Oscar Craigg was foreman in a cement quarry at Rosendale, Ulster Co., N. Y. By an explosion in the quarry one day he lost an eye—lost it totally. Under the impression that the matter was less serious the local physician told Mr. Craigg that his eye was not lost wholly, but could be saved by treatment. The experiment was tried and failed. Worse remained behind, for he was in danger of losing the other through sympathetic inflammation. In this strait he consulted Dr. David Kennedy of Roundout, N Y, who told him the injured eye must be taken out to save the other. To this Mr Craigg demurred, and went home in doubt. His local physician said: "Go to New York." To New York the patient went, and one of the most eminent oculists in the country having looked at the cause, said: "You have lost one eye entirely; go back and do what you can to save the other." Briefly Mr Kennedy removed the ruined eye and treated Mr Craigg with "Kennedy's Favorite Remedy" to build up his system, and the result was successful.

Dr Kennedy's great success as a surgeon is due to the use of "Favorite Remedy" in the after treatment.

Are you troubled with Dyspepsia, liver complaint, constivation or derangement of the bladder add kidney? then use Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy." It will not disappoint you. Dr Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, for sale by all druggists. 1414

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞ If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

VAN VALKENBURG'S RESTAURANT.

—:O:—

A Model Restaurant and Billiard Room Charley have you been to look at Van's place, on the corner of First and Oneida Streets since he has remodeled and enlarged it? His Restaurant! Yes, was the reply, and it certainly is one of the best appointed and most attractive places ever opened in our village. Such is the fact. This ever popular place has been thoroughly Repainted and Remodeled so that it is now more pleasant and attractive than ever before. The partitions have been removed, the Rooms made Larger so that any that may wish to go to a First-Class Restaurant can do so now and can go into a private entrance to lunch alone, separate and alone. He has also a Billiard & Pool Room attached, entirely separate from Bar or Lunch Room. The Tables are of Babcock's best make, handsomely gotten up and have the Celebrated Magic Double Action Cushion which are so popular with all lovers of Billiard and Pool. All that money can do to make Van's place more popular than ever has been done. Only the best of everything is kept. Call and look at his bill of fare and know for yourselves the Lunch Van gets up and you will be surprised to learn that he keeps on hand everything in the shape of Lunch that could be got at Delmonicos. He is prepared to get up Lunch for Picnicing and Fishing Parties on the shortest notice in Elegant Style and at very reasonable rates. Now I will give you a small list of his lunches that he gets up: Oysters, in every style; Clams, Chowder, Sardines, Lobsters, Crabs, Salmon, Mackerel, Anchovy, Chicken, Boiled Ham, Pig Feet Stew, Pork and Beans, Sandwiches of all kinds, Pies and Cheese, Tea and Coffee and other things and all very cheap. Early Autumn.

Of seasons this the [illegible]
The earth, the teeming earth is ripe!
From regal heights of mountain glade
The inmost depth of sunny shade,
The pulsating echoes fly
With rapt repetings of this cry,
Yes, ripe, in full fruition, stand
The numerous plains, the meadow land;
This, yellow with its latter grain;
That, shadowed by the russet train
Of fair Pomona's fragrant robe,
Where rustling step full harvests bode,
Outlined in blue and palest gold,
The distant hills soft mists enfold;
A gentle wind just breaks the grass,
To let its whispers reach a mass
Of maroons and purple bloom
Propendent o'er a lowly tomb.
Some few cicadas try to sing
Their summer notes; the crickets ring
Their tiny cymbals far and wide;
While gaudy moth flies flount in pride,
Where homely spiders weaving glide,
And field mice covertly abide
The river flows with broader swirls;
A brooklet glints and blithely purls
Amidst its dykes of stones and moss;
And, here and there, leaves crinkled toss—
Forerunners of the latter fall
Which must precede gray winter's pall,
Yet still the dreary season far
In future lies, and can not mar
The peaceful scene of hearty life,
Whereof all nature seems so rife.
It leaps, this life, on maiden cheeks,
[Which deeper blush] and its course leaps
Through every muscle of her youth,
Whose ready hand strips from their booth,
The juicy clusters of the grape,
Which coiling tendrils closely drape.
It beats, it throbs, ah, yes, is told,
In joyous flow, the young and old,
In measures full, yes bounteously,
In sooth, it seemeth good to be!
It, but to feel the wholesome flood
Of quickened thought and freshened blood
Which issues from the brain and heart,
And to each wish we would zest impart,
Yielding the soul a cheerful faith
That love and joy are not a wraith!

For the Ladies.

Ficelle shades and hues are fashionable.

Copper red is pronounced an elegant red shade.

The close English turban hat will remain in style during autumn.

New colors show many faded tapestry shades, and these shades are labelled old.

The new osier bonnet is trimmed with peaches, bunches of grapes and other fruits.

Small birds are imported in great quantities for trimming bonnets and round hats.

Printed figures on plain batiste are used for morning fichus and squares for the neck.

Fashion authorities say that the close turban should be worn quite back on the head instead of low down on the forehead.

The newest trimming ribbons are the ottoman reps of thick, yet soft quality, in widths varying from two inches to five or six.

The osier bonnet is the caprice of the moment at the watering places. It resembles a brown wicker basket placed almost inverted on the head.

The Russian pelisse is a long, close, plain garment shaped like a tight redingote. It is made of dark cashmere, camel's hair or diagonal wool goods.

New and low priced pocket handkerchiefs have a wide hem, on which are printed detached colored flowers, daisies, pansies, artemiases, and these match the neckerchiefs.

Demi-season bonnets and round hats are made with the brim of dark straw and the crown entirely of velvet of the same shade as the straw, and put on almost as smoothly as if they were moulded there.

New York milliners have imported bonnets designed especially for the intermediate season of autumn, which in this country lasts so long that summer bonnets lose their freshness when the weather is still too warm for heavy winter bonnets to be comfortable.

Senator Hill's Faith.

The following extract from a letter of a daughter of Senator Hill, received by a friend only a few days ago, shows not only the preparations for death made by that distinguished statesman, but expresses very beautifully the comfort that comes in the hour of death from Christian faith:

My father is growing more feeble every day. He is so willing to go and suffers so much that it would seem wrong and unloving to wish life prolonged. He writes to us his words but I fear he will not be able much longer to do this. His faith is sublime, as if dying grace was given him. One of his thoughts just written, of a spiritual life, is: "If a grain of corn will die and then rise again in so much beauty, why may not I die and then rise again in infinite beauty and life? How is the last a greater mystery than the first? And if inasmuch as I exceed the grain of corn in this life, why may I not exceed it in the new life? How can we limit the power of Him who made the grain of corn to live again in such newness of life?"

He wrote the other day: "I am making all my arrangements to go to a new country. I am confident of a home in Heaven. I never had more faith. I believe that God is a living God and that Christ came into the world to save sinners. I believe my affliction has changed my heart and that it has worked out my purification. I believe that He will save me."

THE INCONSISTANCY OF MAN.

Scheming, diverse, and manifold advertisements of worthless goods will never attract profitable customers, only meritorious articles such as Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases are recognized and sought after by the people. Real worth always receives its just merit. A man may profit for a while by imposing upon the public, but it is only a question of time when he will reach the end of his rope. Man has never dared to doubt the efficacy of this great vegetable Ointment. [illegible]

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

What An Old Man Noticed.

I have noticed that all the men are honest when well watched.

I have noticed that purses will hold pennies as well as pounds.

I have noticed that in order to be a reasonable creature, it is necessary at times to be downright mad.

I have noticed that some men are so honest that necessity compels them to be dishonest in the end.

I have noticed that silks, broadcloths and jewels are often bought with other people's money.

I have noticed that whatever is right with a few exceptions—the left leg, the left eye and the left side of a plum pudding.

I have noticed that the prayer of a selfish man is, "Forgive us our debts," while he makes everybody that owes him pay to the utmost farthing.

I have noticed that he who thinks every man a rogue is very certain to see one when he shaves himself, and he ought, in mercy to his neighbor, to surrender the rascal to justice.

I have noticed that money is the fool's wisdom, the knave's reputation, the poor man's desire, the covetous man's ambition and the idol of us all.

A Considerate Burglar.

The most considerate burglar ever heard of has just placed Mrs. Merrill, of Falmouth, Me., under lasting obligations. She was alone in her house, and in the middle of the night was awakened by the sound of footsteps on the stairs. She jumped out of bed, hastened to the door and asked who was there, when the following amusing colloquy began: "Now, don't you be afraid. We don't want to hurt you, and won't harm a hair of your head. But we want $10, and you have got to give it to us. "But I haven't any money in the house." "Well give us $5 then." "I tell you I haven't any money at all." "Oh come, now, you must have a dollar. Give us that and we will go away." "No, I havn't a cent." "Well, I suppose we'll have to go without it. Now, don't be scared; we don't mean to hurt you, and are going away directly. Do you want us to leave this light burning or shall we blow it out?" "You may leave it burning, please." And the burglar went down stairs, rejoined his confederate, and they leisurely departed through a window, carrying with them several articles of silver and jewelry which they had collected while the lady of the house slept.

Saratoga is more than usually infested with brides and grooms this season. Of course a discerning person can tell them by one glance at the soles of their shoes; although that is a figurative expression, it is not a bad rule for finding out brides and grooms everywhere, as they always wear new shoes. They are usually inoffensive and find their chief delight in wearing their new clothes and looking at themselves in the glass.

It Never Pays.

It never pays to fret and growl
When fortune seems our foe;
The better bred will look ahead
And strike the braver blow.
Your luck is work,
And those who shirk
Should not lament their doom,
But yield the play,
And clear the way,
That better men have room.

It never pays to wreck the health
In drudging after gain,
And he is sold who thinks that gold
Is cheapest bought with pain.
An humble lot,
A cozy cot,
Having tempted even kings
For stations high
That wealth will buy,
Not of contentment brings.

It never pays! A blunt refrain
Well worthy of a song,
For age and youth must learn the truth
That nothing pays that's wrong.
The good and pure
Alone are sure
To bring prolonged success,
While what is right
In Heaven's sight
Is always sure to bless.

A CHINAMAN'S BURIAL.

How Wong Tung Was Laid at Rest in a Christian Cemetery.

A little group of Chinamen stood around an open coffin in the establishment of Undertaker James Naughton, in Mott street, on Friday morning, says the New York Herald of a recent date, and gazed at the features of its tenant, Wong Tung, a young Mongolian, who died of consumption on Thursday. Wong Tung was a stranger to most of the company, and was one of the recent arrivals from California, yet the members of the little Chinese colony in Mott street, with a spirit of charity which might bring a blush to the cheeks of the so-called Christians who hoot at them in the streets, had subscribed money enough to give their dead countryman a handsome coffin and a decent burial. After the solemn-visaged group had surveyed the remains for a few moments in silence they removed the clothing from the dead Mongol and incased him in a new blue "sue," pantaloons and Chinese shoes, and put upon his head a finely spun hair cap. A package of rice and fruits was deposited in the coffin. One of the party took a wooden comb and holding it over the coffin broke it in two, letting the pieces fall upon the body. At the same time he hurriedly uttered a Chinese prayer and turned his back to the corpse as though frightened at what he had done. A pack of cards used in the Chinese game of "hi ki" was placed upon the shoulder of the dead man and the highest card in the pack was drawn out and thrown upon his breast—a signal of triumph. At noon the coffin was placed in a hearse and conveyed to No. 19 Mott street, where two carriage loads of Chinamen fell into line and an express wagon containing the clothes of the dead man and a box of Chinese prayer papers brought up the rear. A Chinaman sat on the seat with the driver of the hearse, and as the funeral procession started away he began to throw slips of paper to the right and left. This is done according to the Chinese superstition that the devil, having his attention attracted stops to pick up the papers and cannot overtake the hearse. There were enough fragments of paper flying in the air to keep his satanic majesty quite busy, although the passing spectators were astonished at the sight. The remains were taken to a plot in the Evergreens cemetery, which was recently purchased by a rich Chinaman residing in Newburg and presented to the Chinese club. The coffin was lowered into the grave and the mourners scattered rice and fragments of chicken alongside of it. When the grave was closed up the clothing of the dead man was placed on the mound and burned. Handfuls of [illegible] paper slips each one bearing a prayer in Chinese characters, were thrown into the flames, while some of the mourners held lighted "Joss" sticks in their hands and muttered incantations in their native tongue. It was a remarkable sight, this group of heathens charitably burying their dead brother in a [illegible] cemetery and breathing prayers to Lord Buddha with the marble cross of Christendom uprearing itself upon all sides. No tears were shed, but the faces of the mourners were sufficient proof of their earnestness. Finally the flame burned low and the "Joss" sticks were planted in the mound. The party then placed a board inscribed with Chinese hieroglyphics at the head of the grave in lieu of a headstone and retired, leaving a heap of smoking ashes and a dozen burning "Joss" sticks as testimony that whatever faults Wong Tung might have had he lived faithful [illegible]

TRIP ON DEATH'S RAILWAY

Taken by Engineer Creelman Just Prior to His Death.

The death of Engineer Creelman of the New York Central railroad, which was caused by an accident at Syracuse, the other day, was the occasion of profound regret on the part of many people outside of the fraternity of railroad men and by them it was deplored with the most poignant grief. Ever faithful to his trust, he was regarded by the company as a most competent servant, and by the public he was held in high esteem. The facts render the singular circumstances of his death, which have become a general topic of conversation among railroad men, but have not before been published, of peculiar interest to all. As is well known, it was not at first supposed he would die, but after the amputation of his foot he sank rapidly, and expired at 5:30 o'clock, in the city hospital, at Syracuse, on Monday morning two weeks ago. He was faithfully watched by his nephew, Mr. Con. Oliver, who is also an engineer on the Central, and was most devoted to his uncle. Some hours before the suffering engineer's death, he was taken with a delirium and with his mind upon his work he in imagination again stepped on the front board of his engine and made his regular trips from Syracuse to Buffalo. His mind was very active throughout the entire trip, and he showed most thorough knowlege of the line from the beginning to the end of the entire trip. As the time approached for every crossing and curve he rang the bell and attended to whatever should be done at such places, and at every station where the train should stop, he blew the whistle and put on the brakes. Nothing escaped in his mind's eye; he saw the passengers getting on and off the train, and remarked in several instances upon the unusually large or small number of passengers from the stations along the line. The appearance of the country, as he saw it in his delirium, was also the subject of his talk. At Lyons he took water and food, and at Rochester remarked that he was a minute or two ahead of his schedule. The circumstance caused him to ask Mr. Oliver what time it was by his watch, and when that gentleman—his voice trembling with emotion—told him, he was surprised at the great difference of the two. During the whole of his last wanderings he knew that Oliver was with him, and talking to him as if he were "firing" the engine. Shortly after he supposed he had left the city he said he thought he was not moving. "Con," he cried, "there is no wind on my face, and we seem to be at a standstill; I am lying down and in pain. Why is this?" But in a moment even this slight indication of returning consciousness disappeared, and he resumed his trip. When approaching Buffalo, and at the crossing of the Buffalo & Philadelphia road, he started suddenly—"Con, they signal danger!" he exclaimed, and reached his hand out in an effort to put on the air brakes. This he seemed to accomplish successfully and brought the train to a standstill.

"It is all right now, the train is safe and the trip is over," he said.

A moment later he turned on his side and breathed his last.

FELL DOWN.

Mr. Albert Anderson, York Street, Buffalo, fell down stairs and severly bruised his knee. A few applications of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil entirely cured him.

Men.

We find the following in an exchange: "The great want of the age is men. Men who are not for sale, men who are honest, sound from center to circumference; true to the heart's core; men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others. Men whose consciences are steady as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who can tell the truth and look the devil or the world in the eye; men that neither flag nor flinch; men that have courage without shouting; men in whom the currents of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong. Men who do not cry or cause their voices to be heard on the streets, but who will not fail or be discouraged till judgment be set in the earth; men who know their message and tell it; men who know their places and fill them; men who will not lie; men who are not too lazy to work or too proud to be poor; men willing to eat what they have earned and wear what they have paid for."

[illegible] what you [illegible] to do and then don't do it, is a political proverb. The Peerless Worm Specific and worms in children are sworn enemies. Hill learned that all the worms asked was to be let alone and so sends his Specific for them hammer and tongs, and he drives them out too. Only 25 and 50 cents. For sale by R. E. Phillips.

A Free Circus in Nassau Street.

Ten square feet of the pavement in Nassau street, near Ann, became suddenly bewitched early yesterday afternoon. The first indications of the change were noticed when a farmer, driving a sleepy sorrel horse, drove over it. In the twinkling of an eye the old mare began a double-shuffle on the cobble stones. The farmer rubbed his eyes and gazed with astonishment at the remarkable evolutions of his hitherto peaceful beast.

"I've druv that 'ere mare nigh onto ten years, and I swan I never knowed her to act that way afore," he remarked to a bystander upon the sidewalk.

Next came a big truck loaded with paper. No sooner had the horses stepped upon the magic spot than they dropped upon their knees and delivered several kicks towards the driver's nose.

"What in the divil has got hold of um?" shouted the man, as he applied his whip.

By this time a crowd of spectators had gathered around the bewitched place. Three policemen got their heads together and held a consultation.

"What kin we do?" inquired the spokesman.

"Put a barrel over it," replied one.

"Spake to the captain and have it arrested," said the other.

A newsboy rushed down the street, and, beckoning to a comrade, cried out:

"There's ghosts up there, Jimmie!"

In the meantime, a pedlar of tinware, with a ten-dollar skeleton of a horse, drove through the crowd. At the moment he entered the charmed circle, his quadruped gave a snort, and with ears erect and tail pointing toward the north star, dashed down the street at a 2:40 gait. Roars of laughter followed the terror-stricken peddlar as he grasped the reins with one hand and with the other endeavored to hold down his dancing stock in trade.

Nassau street never contained such a free circus. Bankers, lawyers, clerks and bootblacks laughed till the tears ran down their cheeks. At length somebody suggested that there might be a break in the Edison electric light wires, which, contained in iron pipes, run through this street. Word was at once sent to the branch office in Pearl street, and the current being shut off, all the strange qualities of the mysterious spot immediately disappeared. The disappointed audience soon melted away, and the business of the street was again resumed. Workmen discovered last evening that the cap at the end of the pipe leading into a building had slipped down and established a connection with the earth. In this way the electricity was allowed to escape.

TIME TRIES ALL.

So it does, and in cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, kidney and liver complaints, biliousness, etc., Burdock Blood bitters have been proved by many a trial to be a reliable cure. Price $1.00.

For The Ladies.

Ficelle lace strings are new on autumn hats.

Brocaded velvets with satin grounds are again shown.

Chenille-figured wool goods, introduced last year, are again imported.

Those who aim to be in the height of fashion use larger fans than ever.

Repped wool goods, so popular ten or twelve years ago, are seen among the importations.

Anything about the neck which has the faintest semblance of looking fussy should be avoided.

Soutache embroidery is the simple narrow braid formerly used in what is known as braiding patterns.

Bangle bracelets and rings are still in high favor. These slender bracelets are seen in both gold and silver.

Young girls wear bouquets of flowers on one side of the waist, or a light wreath mingled with lace around the neck.

Lace jabots, made in larger proportions than of old, are a pretty finish to any dress, making a simple toilette, at once elegant and ladylike.

Jet is still seen, and in fine diamond effects. It is rubber mounted, and much affected by blondes and those who are in half-mourning.

Early importations of autumn goods are made up of cloth and cashmere costumes wrought with what is known as soutache embroidery.

The tailor-cut jacket in black, ornamented with gimp cord and buttons, can be worn with skirts of any material and color for walking.

Sailor collars continue to be as much of a favorite as ever for little girls, and nothing could be prettier, where the Mother Hubbard colar is not used.

A late fancy is the wearing by a young lady who has a flower name, the flower from which her name is taken, the flower being a piece of jewelry.

Amazon cloths and cashmeres will probably retain the favor given them last year, and become the standard woolen fabrics. So says the Bazar.

The favorite earring is the large golden hoop, after the style seen in old pictures of Italian women painted centuries ago. It is both plain and carved.

Many of the new cheviots have mottled surfaces, while others have a distinct shade for the ground with fine specks of color strewn about in what is known as "pepper-and-salt" pattern.

WHY WE HAVE SO FEW GOOD RIDERS.

It has frequently been the subject of remark [illegible] good jockeys. [illegible]

How Progression Progresses.

The daily papers, telephone and electric light on the Laramie plains, where erst the ghastly emigrant stretches himself in the glad sunlight with the roof of his head pulled off and a bouquet of Indian arrows in the pit of his stomach, are marks of the onward march of Western civilization that we cannot ignore. Where Big Steve and those other gory humorists were hung against the evening sky, the busy grocery clerk wraps up the sardine and the picnic pickle for the tourist. Near where the outlaw band waved their feet across the horizon as they endeavored to get more air, and where their wild gymnastics shut out the moonlight as they struggled to kick some pieces out of the milky way, commerce now fills the air with its low hum and the effete Eastern clerk charges up one pair of elastic suspenders and two pairs of red flannel undershirts to the Eastern snob who came out here to obliterate the hostile tribe of the Cockeyed Pie Biters of the Laramie plains.

The pioneer canal on its way across the valley turns up the bones of Old Moaning Colic, the Sioux brave, and the pale face who lives in East Laramie, while making his asparagus bed and doing other chamber work, spades up the vertebra of Buckskin Pete, the Holy Terror of the Wild, Wild West.

It is queer that all this should consume so few years, and it seems odd that where once, a short time ago, the fearless pioneer rode down the street and shot out the lights in the billiard halls just as the players were going to saw off and go home, the street-car will soon glide its silvery glade, and the slim young man with the plaque hat and the sunbeam cane, and the garden-hose pantaloons, and the shoes with pointed toes will walk over your sore feet and fall into your lap, and crush your plug hat just the same as he does in Chicago or New York.

Here, in Laramie, progress is visible everywhere. We have had one embezzlement this summer, and juries are on the market just as they are in the East.

People from the Atlantic seaboard can come here and default just as they would at home without being lynched. The vigilance committee has disbanded, and now if you come here you will find water works and white vests, and telegraphic news and a good hotel.

We are proud of all this, and we have a right to be. We found the impulsive and at times irritable red man here, and we planted schoolhouses and churches in his stead. We just changed our names and came West, to lead a different life and make civilization get right up on its hind legs and howl. Nature gave us a fertile soil, dotted with arrowheads, moss-agates, old buffalo skulls and other tropical verdure. All it needs is irrigation and patience. Our mineral industries, too, are coming to the front, and our mining stock, if properly irrigated, will also show wonderful results.

Progress is the proper thing after all, and the more we see of it the more we like it. [Boomerang.

AN ENTIRE SUCCESS.

It has been proved by the most reliable testimony that Thomas' Eclectric Oil is an entire success in curing the most inveterate cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back, and wounds of every description.

A Gradual Fall.

A colored man was leading a tame fox around the market by a chain, yesterday, in the endeavor to find a purchaser, and a gentleman finally asked:

"What is the animal good for anyway?"

"Jist as good as an elephant," was the reply. "He's good fur people to look at."

"What do you ask for him?"

"Fifty dollars."

"Fifty dollars! Why, who ever heard of such a price!"

The man was moving away when the fox owner called to him:

"Doan' you want him?"

"No, sir!"

"Wall, doan git skeared 'cause I said fifty dollars. I sot dat figure so as to gin ye a chance to beat me down to ten shillings, an' den if you hung on I was gwine to drap to seventy-five cents an' frow in de chain." [Free Press.

ROSWELL P. FLOWER, a democratic gubernatorial candidate, now a member of congress, is accused of drawing pay as representative for months before taking the oath of office. Poor political furniture indeed.

FIVE hundred mules were purchased in St. Louis last week by the English government to be used in the Egyptian war. American guns and American mules! If Arabi and his followers cannot be vanquished with powder and shot make a charge with a platoon of lively mules—reversed.

THERE is a man in Auburn, "a prominent republican" he is called, who threatens in the event of Folger's success at Saratoga, to let out certain facts in regard to his first election as judge, which have never been published. There seems to be a never failing supply of dirty linen in reserve.

GUITEAU again. Philadelphia experts have made a microscopical analysis of Guiteau's brain and come to the conclusion "that there is no reason for changing the opinion we originally expressed, that Guiteau was an abnormal character, and justly suffered his penalty of the law for the high crime which he committed.

HENRY WARD BEECHER answers the question, "Is it wrong to dance?" as follows: "It is wicked," he says, "when it is wicked, and it is not wicked when it is not wicked. In itself it has no more immoral character than walking, wrestling and rowing. Bad company, untimely hours, evil dances, may make the exercise evil; good company, wholesome hours, and home influences may make it a very great benefit."

THE great star route trials have at last been brought to a close and a verdict of guilty brought in against two of the minor characters in the conspiracy Miner and Rerdell. The Dorseys and Brady go free. There is almost positive evidence that some members of the jury were approached and influenced. It is but another illustration of the impossibility of securing justice when money is plentifully used. Motion for a new trial in the case of Miner and Rerdell has been filed. The government intimates a desire to re-open the case.

THE prohibitionists will hold their state convention at Rochester Sept. 20. All persons, irrespective of sex, who believe in separate party action as the most feasible an practical means by which the legal prohibition of the liquor traffic may be secured and maintained, are politically eligible delegates, and upon presentation of credentials, so certifying, issued by county or town conventions or committee, by local temperance societies, temples, orders, divisions, W. C. T. unions, or any church society, will be admitted to a voice and vote in the convention.

AN interesting discussion between the Penn Yan Express and the Albany Evening Journal calls renewed attention to the fact that after his election as a member of Congress, which occurred in November, 1881, when he was chosen to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Senator Lapham, the Hon. James W. Wadsworth continued to serve as Comptroller of New York until Dec. 1, 1881, when he resigned. For his services as Comptroller he received the proper salary of the office; but when he went to Washington to take his place as a member of the House, the Sergeant-at-arms also paid him the salary of a Representative from August, when the vacancy began, up to the time when Mr. Wadsworth really became a member. This back pay, being for four months, amounted to about $1,700; and Mr. Wadsworth took it and put it into his pocket just as though he had really earned it. Mr. Wadsworth's friends justify his act by saying the money was appropriated for the Representative and as he was elected, though performing no service, he was legally and honestly entitled to draw it. It was certainly a dishonest act and the Wadsworth boom for governor will be seriously affected by it.

W. C. T. U. in Oswego.

At Thursday's session of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in Oswego Mrs. Dr. Foster, of Ontario county, read a report on juvenile work. There are 225 juvenile unions in the state, of which reports were received from 97. These societies have 12,000 members, 8,000 of which are pledged to total abstinence. Five thousand new members were received during the year. In the afternoon a memorial service was held. Twenty-two members died during the year. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Mary T. Burt, of Brooklyn; corresponding secretary, Mrs E. H. Griffiths, of Fairport; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Gardinier, of Oswego; treasurer, Mrs. E. M. J. Decker, of Victor; executive committee, Mrs. Dr. Hibbard, of Clifton Springs, Mrs Dr. F. D. Hall, of [illegible], Mrs. Mary E. Hart of Brooklyn. The next convention will be held at Yonkers, in September, 1883.

Wm. A. Sweet of Syracuse announces himself as an independent candidate for Congressman from the twenty-fifth district. Hon. Frank Hiscock will receive the regular republican nomination. If elected this will make Mr. Hiscock's fourth term.

In Oswego, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. McCready quarreled. He choked her and pounded her on the head with a motto frame in which was enclosed the sentiment "What is Home Without a Mother." The motto was wrecked during their fight.

The Phœnix Register says the committee for renting privileges at the fair of the Phœnix Union Agricultural Society have leased the privilege for refreshments to gentlemen of Syracuse for $326 for the four days, September 26, 27, 28 and 29.

Last Friday, Edith, a three year old daughter of Elijah C. Spencer, a boatman of Pennelville, fell from the deck of the boat while being towed down the North river and was drowned. The body was recovered and brought to Pennelville and buried.

The Lakeside Press says Rev. G. W. Wood had a lively experience on Thursday night of last week. Just previous to retiring for the night, he took a lighted kerosene house lamp into the barn to see that his horse was all right. Placing it on the floor to do something, he had taken but a step or two away when the lamp exploded, the burning oil scattering in all directions, setting fire to the loose hay, etc., in several places. He took off his coat and smothered the blaze.

Strong drink recently has numbered among its victims in this city a little girl 4 years of age, who, an illegitimate child and her mother dead, lived with her grandmother, a Mrs. Lyons. Mrs. Lyons and a Mary Moriarty, whose face is familiar at the police court, being too drunk to leave the house Wednesday afternoon, sent this child to a grocery in the neighborhood to procure a pint of whiskey. As she did not return, the worthies who had sent her began to bestir themselves after dark, and the little unfortunate was at last found among the weeds along the track of the Chenango railroad, dead drunk. She was taken home and attended by Dr. Fry, but his efforts were useless. She did not recover from her drunken stupor and after lingering nearly a day, died.

The Halstead will case is a topic of conversation in Lysander that outreaches anything else in point of interest. An old man named Halstead died leaving nearly $100,000 to the town to be used for school purposes and teaching the young idea how to shoot intellectually. Relatives have protested and seek to break the will. The executor and decedent's former business agent, R. L. Smith, claims that the provisions of the will should be carried out. Mr. Smith is virtually possessor of the large estate, and has been for several years. The relatives are anxious that Smith be placed in a position where a public accounting may be forced. We heard a few weeks ago that the entire voting population of Lysander had petitioned the executor to relinquish the town's claims to any of the money as contained in the provisions of the will and urging Mr. Smith to discontinue the suit. Figures don't appear to scare Smith but Smith's figuring is scaring the relatives.

Democratic Convention.

The first district Democratic convention to elect delegates to the State and Congressional conventions was held at Mansard hall, Thursday afternoon. Dr. E. H. Boyd was chosen chairman. Simeon Holroyd and W. H. Wales were elected secretaries.

On motion a committee of one from each town and ward was appointed to nominate three delegates to the State convention and three alternates. The committee reported as follows:

State delegates—Delos DeWolf, Oswego; Felix M. Rice, Granby; John H. Cavanaugh, Fulton.

—Chicago has introduced a new use for the telephone, namely, to take oaths. The Journal of that city states that one morning this week it was necessary to have the water works crib keeper certify to his pay roll for August, but as he was at the crib and could not get ashore, he was rung up by telephone, bidden take off his hat and hold up his right hand. He replied that he had done so, and then the usual oath was administered. The notary stated that he could recognize the voice and the law officials are of the opinion that this is a legal oath.

—The September moon fulls on the 27th at 12:26 a. m. It is the beautiful harvest moon and possesses special claims to distinction. The moon rises several consecutive nights with only a comparatively small interval between the successive risings. The short autumnal days seem thus to be prolonged by the floods of silvery moonlight that makes the night beautiful as day. The phenomenon is as easily explained as the axial rotation of the earth. But in the older times, when man was nearer to nature, the harvest moon was considered a direct interposition of Providence to assist the husbandman in gathering in the harvest.

West Granby.

Mrs Mary Dan has gone to North Bay for a few days to visit her parents.... Misses Carrie Kelsey, Addie Summerville, Emma and Belle Baker are spending a few weeks vacation away from home....Dr. Andrews has completed his tobacco barn and enclosed his windmill frame and B. Wybron and L. Colwell have given them a coat of paint. They are an ornament to the place.... The Dr. has a large piece of tobacco nearly ready to cut, as have also William and Eugene Summerville....Mr. Elijah Chapman is repairing his barn preparatory to receiving his crop of tobacco...... The M. E. society of this place have a new carpet which brightens the room wonderfully giving a welcome to all who enter ...Mr. M. Dominick has one of the finest horse barns in the country nearly completed. It is of modern architectural beauty, and is very convenient. He has also been making repairs on his tobacco barn and other buildings. Mr. C. S. Chandler of Granby Centre is doing the work. He is also giving his buildings a good coating of paint, the work done by C. H. Wolcott of Fulton. His field of eight acres of tobacco is nearly ready for harvesting and looks very promising. It is like penetrating a miniature swamp to walk through it, on account of its large growth....There is a good chance to buy tobacco in this vicinity.

Comfort for the Bald Headed.

The London Lancet, eminent medical authority, comforts the baldheaded men when it says: Abundant hair is not a sign of bodily or mental strength, the story of Sampson having given rise to the notion that hairy men are strong physically, while the fact is that the Chinese who are the most enduring of all races, are nearly bald; and as to the supposition that long and thick hair is a sign and token of intellectuality, all antiquity, all mad houses and all common observation are against it. The easily wheedled Esau was hairy. The mighty Cæsar was bald. Long haired men are generally weak and fanatical, and men with scant hair are the philosophers and soldiers and statement of the world.

UTICA, Sept 11—[illegible] accepted [illegible] better [illegible] son why [illegible] make was [illegible] to-day [illegible] in some cases. Cows have lately been turned into the aftermath, and are temporarily doing better than they were ten days ago. Most of the factories are third off from the flush, and occasionally there is one that is off fully one-half. So far as the quality is concerned, it is claimed to be all that could be desired.

Transactions for the day include 91 boxes at 10⅝c, 209 at 10¾c, 5370, at 11c. 154 at 11⅛c and 1009 boxes at private terms. Half of the last were small cheese for home trade. Sales 6827; commissions 1509 boxes; total 8327.

LITTLE FALLS, Sept. 11—All sorts of wild rumors were afloat as to the prices paid, it being stated with a good deal of force that as high as 11⅛c and 12c has been paid in several cases. But after a thoro' canvass and being shown proof of the falsity of some of the rumors, we feel confident that no cheese sold here to-day at more than 11⅛c. This was regarded by most buyers as an extreme and unwarranted price for which there was not the least reason in paying; 11c was regarded by them as all the market would legitimately bear and they stated they would pay no more. But there were others who did considerable sparring and finally forced prices to 11⅛c. White cheese had the preference. Very few July cheese remain unsold and to-days sales are principally of the August made. The transactions are:

The most candid young man in Austin is Nicodemus Murphy. He called at the office of a wealthy citizen, and came right out and said:

"I want to marry your daughter. I can't live without her."

"Are you acquainted with my daughter?"

"Not in the least."

How then do you know that you can't live without her?"

"Well, I heard you were going to give her lots of money when she married, and my personal expenses are so heavy I can't live without her—or some other woman who has got money to support a husband." [Texas Siftings

Which gives us pain to bring before the public, but as we aim to render all the assistance in our power to every individual, for their good against those human sharks, we publicly call attention to it, in hopes this imposition may cease and the palpable injustice be forever crushed. Parties having purchased clothing through the influence of their so-called friends, frequently complain that they have been cheated,—by way of comparison worse than highway robbery—and exhibit rags to us as a proof of their assertion. This we barely credit at first, but investigation generally satisfies us it is a fact and we can find no words to fully express our disgust for the man, whoever he may be, who, under the pretense of being a particular friend of the poor boy, the hard-working mechanic, laborer, farmer, or the poor widow, takes him or her in want of garments to the dealer in clothing who has no reputation, or conscience, nothing but trash, and who exacts an enormously big profit from the purchaser, because he agreed to pay big commission for every customer roped in.

OSWEGO FALLS FAIR.

Fifteenth Annual [illegible] Preparations [illegible] of 1882 [illegible]

The fifteenth annual fair of the Oswego Falls Agricultural Society will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday Sept. 19, 20 and 21 on the society's grounds in Oswego Falls. From an obscure country fair the society has grown until to-day it stands second to none in prominence and general repute for the standard quality of exhibits and liberality in offering premiums. Not only agriculture but mechanical ingenuity is a permanent feature of the exhibits and all sorts of productions of man are encouraged by a recognition from the society at once substantial and prized by the winners as special marks of distinction. The stock show will be up to the usual standard and in one or two departments surpassing it. The facilities for properly caring for stock are the best, the sheds and pens being securely built while shade and water is bountiful on all sides. Stables for horses that compete for prizes in trials of speed are numerous and fitted especially for their use.

The mammoth agricultural and mechanical halls are in first class order and large as they are will be taxed to the utmost to accommodate the many who desire to attend and make a display of their wares. The list of articles for which premiums are offered is varied and comprehensive and no feature will go unnoticed.

The managers have wisely concluded not to pay a fabulous sum for some special attraction to induce people to visit the fair but continue in the same manner that brought success to them, and to give an honest and elevating exhibition devoid as much as possible of all pretence and deception. Intelligent people appreciate the sentiment and applaud it by taking an earnest hold in adding to exhibits and attractiveness.

Tuesday there will be a trial of speed for a premium of $50.00 for horses that have never beaten 3:10. Wednesday the premiums will be $100; $50 for horses that have never beaten 2:40 and $50 for colts four years old and under. Thursday the premiums will be $210, sweepstakes, free for all.

Half fare on all the railroads leading into Fulton during the fair is announced. The officers of the society are laboring with might and main and if the Fifteenth Annual Exhibition of the Oswego Falls Agricultural Society is not a booming success the fault cannot be charged to any apathy on their part.

The committee on renting privileges at the Oswego Falls fair have leased the privilege for refreshments (warm meals) to Joseph Ringland of Oswego and the Baptist society of Fulton. The privilege for the sale of cigars, confectionery, lemonade, whips, fruit, etc. etc., are being let to any who pay the required license.

Post D. F. Schenck, Fulton G. A. R. received an invitation from Post Joe Gould of Phoenix to be present at a camp fire and social hop the 27th inst. Posts Lilly and Root of Syracuse have also been invited and plans are being matured for a grand time. Post Schenck will undoubtedly send a delegation.

Warner Martin an employee in the factory dye house was standing on the truck turning the factory team around yesterday. The team started suddenly, Mr. Martin lost his balance and fell to the ground, the wheels passing over and severely injuring him. His foot, hip and head were badly bruised though no bones were broken. Dr. Wells of Oswego Falls attended him.

The street commissioner of Oswego Falls finds himself unable to collect the poll tax. Several refuse to pay him. They say he is not a legal officer as the Board of Trustees appointing him were not legally elected. The illegality of their election is said to arise from the fact that the election was held in Howe's Hall, when it was advertised, according to law, to be held in the rooms occupied at that time by Justice Parker. On the day of election the rooms were occupied by a new tenant and the inspectors of election selected Howe's hall. A mere technicality.

A trip out to Wm. E. Taylor's farm, three miles east of Fulton on the Gilberts Mills road, which contains 52 acres will repay a drive this beautiful weather. Mr. Taylor purchased it something over a year ago and the attention it has received is what attracts the eyes of strangers to it. The broad acres of corn and potatoes indicate a rich yield and the minor crops are thrifty. The fields are well watered and thoroughly fenced. Peter Kline, who resides upon and tills the farm gives evidence of his fitness in the condition of house, barn and land, everything being clean tidy and partaking of an air of solid comfort.

Wanted—Four intelligent men, not afraid to talk, to sell books during the fair. To the right men liberal pay will be given. Call at this office.

Farm and Stock For Sale.

A farm of fifty acres, twenty of which is suitable for a cranberry marsh, the balance good land. Good buildings and thrifty orchard. Plenty of water. Also one good yoke of working cattle and one sow with seven pigs for sale.

A good house and lot in Fulton or Oswego Falls taken in exchange, the balance on time. Enquire of

J. C. Harrington.

Rev. Father James Green of Cleveland, N. Y., is in town.

Chas Murray died in Oswego Falls Saturday. Funeral was held Sunday.

Jesse Morrell and Chas. M. Roe are camping south of Fulton near Ox creek.

John Rafferty made Fulton a visit Wednesday. He is employed in Syracuse.

An infant child of George and Belle Milligan of Oswego Falls died Sunday night.

The frost of Friday night appears to have been general throughout Oswego county.

The Mirth Makers failed to reach Fulton last Friday as advertised. Why, is not known.

For Sale—Several hundred cabbage, very cheap. Enquire of C. C. Davis, at Hart Bros. Pottery.

S. W. Browster of Hannibal, a prominent citizen and business man, died in that village last evening.

Dr. U. H. Brown, Oculist, Syracuse, is in town to-day on a professional visit in consultation with Dr. W. L. Woodbury.

Rev. J. S. Biggs will deliver a sermon in Nichols hall Sunday evening at 7:30. Subject: "An evil that needs attention." The public are cordially invited.

The coroner's jury in the case of Geo. Darrow, whose body was found in the canal last Tuesday, met Friday evening, and rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

During the fair a check room department will be kept in the Baptist eating room. Take along your shawls, baskets and bundles. They will take care of them for you while you are viewing the sights.

The opening of the bids to build the new Congregational church at Oswego Falls occurred Thursday. The bids ranged from $16,000 to $9,165. The three lowest bids were: G. J. Emeny, Fulton, $10,575, Mr. Van Clerk, Cortland $9,485 Merrick & Wells Syracuse at $9.165. After the awarding of the contract to Merrick & Wells there was a slight alteration in the plans which increase their price to $10,115.

A smart Aleck named Robert Seeber walked into the Palladium office in Oswego on Friday and wrote a death notice of himself, ~~told the book keeper it~~ referred to his cousin, and in the paper it went. His presence on the street after the Palladium had heralded the news to the four corners of Oswego created considerable merriment. It was a silly freak and Seeber deserved doubly the censure the tolerant Palladium gave him.

People who have seen Jeff Bailey wearing a blue hat dotted with oblong, oblique and spider legged black marks, have wondered what in the world it was. It is a stylish and æsthetic head covering called the "castile soap" hat. It is colored by taking beaver, crushing or coiling it up in the hand, tying it and throwing it into the dying vat. When taken out and opened, the creased parts have taken color. It is afterwards treated to a bath of chemicals to make the color fast, and then finished. Leave your orders with Jeff. for a "castile soap" tile.

Major Albert Taylor aged seventy-four years died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. H. L. Taylor this morning. Upon going to his room to arouse him he was found dead. Mr. Taylor has been a sufferer from paralysis since June 1879, since which time he has been practically helpless. He was subject to sinking spells and in one of these the spark of life departed.

Albert Taylor has figured prominently in the history of Fulton and was a man of ability and peculiarly gifted in many directions. He was for two terms postmaster of Fulton under the administrations of Pierce and Buchanan from 1854 to 1860 inclusive. He was one of the first of our citizens to respond to the call for troops and went to the war of the rebellion as Captain of Co. "H" 24th N. Y. S. V., the first regiment leaving Oswego county and in more than one instance was the subject of honorable mention. He re-enlisted and at the close of his soldier life held the rank of major. Mr. Taylor came from Canada to Fulton in 1839. His wife dying, he married a lady named Fayette for his second wife. By the second marriage a large and intelligent family was reared, nearly all of whom are well known in this vicinity. Time for funeral not announced.

The Salem (Mass) Register mentions: Mr. J. S. Le Favour, artist, surprisingly benefitted by St Jacobs Oil. Rheumatism twenty years.

ICE CREAM.

Hereafter ice cream will be 50 cents per quart instead of 40. The continued high price of the ingredients renders this step necessary. First class cream at all times by the dish, quart or gallon.

Nathans & Co's. Circus.

Nathans & Co's Circus and Menagerie arrived in New Paltz at about 3 o'clock a. m., on Sunday last. The wagons and tent paraphernalia were immediately removed to the ground selected for the purpose of giving an exhibition on the day following, Monday. At an early hour on that day people began to flock in the village and by 10 a. m., when the parade was made, a large crowd witnessed it. In the afternoon and evening exhibitions were given, which gave the best of satisfaction—in fact it was the best circus performance witnessed here for years. And the men connected in any manner with the company were gentlemanly in their behavior, no cursing or boisterous noise. In fact on Sunday no one could realize from the quietness which prevailed that a large force of circus men were in our midst.

[New Paltz Times.

Mr. I. Finch and wife of Alabama are making a visit in Fulton after an absence of ten years.

Mrs. Susan M., wife of John Ould, died in Oswego yesterday. Funeral will be held to-morrow at the house at 3 p. m. Relatives and friends in Fulton will attend the funeral.

Mr. John C. Harrington of Granby Centre offers for sale in this issue of The Times an excellent farm. He will take in exchange a good house in Fulton or Oswego Falls. Read it.

A gentleman, who knows, says Capt. Orville J. Jennings, now canal superintendent, was the first man to enlist in Oswego county after President Lincoln's call for troops in 1860.

We desire to tender our sympathy to Hon. J. C. Wells, of Granby. It is too bad of his professed friends to induce him to become a candidate for member of assembly and then to circulate a petition through the town inducing all his friends and neighbors to sign it asking Hon. D. C. Littlejohn to be a candidate.

[Oswego Express.

Sidney Morse, arrested for poisoning David Wells' cows, was held by Justice Miller of Hannibal to await the action of the grand jury and in default of $1000 bail was placed in jail at Oswego. At the examination Mr. A. Hanna positively identified Morse as a person purchasing one pound of Paris green in William's drug store Aug. 26. Morse strenuously denies all charges.

We are in receipt of several papers from Martin Crahan now one of the leading business men of Gunnison city, Colorado. Mr. Crahan first entered Gunnison about two years ago, is yet a young man, took off his coat and went to work. His first business venture was purchasing a half interest in a quarry which has yielded a handsome income. In connection with his quarry enterprise he is engaged in building and furnishing builders' supplies. Industry, honesty and pluck never go unrewarded. Mr. Crahan is a son of Patrick Crahan of Oswego Falls and a nephew of Marcus, John and Bryan Crahan, well known citizens.

Alice M. Barry, daughter of John A. Barry, editor of the Oswego Palladium, died in Fultonville, N. Y., Friday afternoon, of typhoid fever. Miss Barry was visiting in that village when afflicted, and the case was by no means considered fatal until within a few hours of her death. Her mother was at her bedside, Mr. Barry having been summoned, reaching Baldwinsville when the sad news of her death was communicated to him. Her remains were brought to Oswego and the funeral held Sunday at 4 o'clock from the family residence.

Miss Barry was eighteen years of age, a young lady of rare natural ability, and a thorough master of the Delsartian system of elocution, making her debut July 13 in the Academy of Music, assisted by Remenyi, before one of the most critical and intelligent audiences ever appearing in Oswego. She possessed grand qualities of mind and heart and her early death is sorely lamented. Her parents and family have the earnest sympathy of this community in their great bereavement.

Mrs. A. E. Cooper has taken the agency in Fulton for Summerville's Steam Dye Works, Oswego, and orders left with her will be promptly attended to. All work intrusted to this firm warranted to give satisfaction. 18t4

[illegible] —At the Mercy of the Flames.

At [illegible] a fire broke out in [illegible] shop Sandy Creek, and with the aid of a high wind and wooden buildings with no fire apparatus in town, it was by almost superhuman efforts on the part of the entire population that the flames were subdued and the town saved from ruin. The Sandy Creek house, one dwelling, three stores, including S. R. Fell & Son's photograph gallery, Allen's country produce store, and four barns were burned before the progress of the flames could be stayed. By almost superhuman efforts the Union block was saved. The fire was fought with pails and the women did noble work. Had it not been for them it is hard to say where the destruction would have stopped.

The losses, which we copy from the Oswego Palladium, will foot up between $25,000 and $30,000, on which there is an insurance of about $12,000; J. R. Allen, loss $1,500; insured for $700; J. B. [illegible]; no insurance; Ude[illegible], loss $690; no insurance; E. L. [illegible], building and stock, loss $8,700; [illegible] $6,000 on stock in Continental; Frank Brown, loss $150; no insurance; [illegible] Jones, loss on building, $2,000; insured for $700; stock uninsured but saved in damaged condition; insurance on tools, $150; Mrs H. M. Stevens, loss on building, $1,500; insured for $1,000 in the New York Fire Insurance company; E. Williams, stock valued at $4,500, partially destroyed; insured for $2,000 in the Home, of New York; W. J. Tell & Son, loss, $1000; no insurance; E. D. Remington loss on hotel and barn, $9,000; insured for $3,000 in North American and Lancashire: R. A. Babcock's loss on hotel furniture and fixtures, $2,700; insurance, $2,000; in the Germany of Pittsburg; Darwin Cole loss $700; no insurance; Salisbury and Bulkley $800; H. North, $200; J. S. Robbins, $1,000; S. R. King, $500; M. A. Tucker, $100; C. W. Colony, $200; J. R. Allen, $500; J. Newton, $150. The eight last named occupied stores in the Union block and their estimated loss was caused by damage to goods in moving.

The editor of the Oswego Falls Observer is going to publish a daily during the fair. It will necessitate an enormous amount of extra labor and his endeavor should find a response from all visitors to the amount at least of purchasing a paper each day. It will be an excellent medium for business men to employ if they wish the public to become familiar with their wares.

In addition to the prizes offered by the Fair Society for the 2nd class bicycle race, Mr. A. E. Nettleton has donated an order for a pair of Bicycling Shoes, style and size at option of the winner, and Mr. W. J. Watson has presented an elegant Toilet Set. In addition to these prizes the Bicycle Club will offer an elegant prize, making five prizes to be competed for in this race.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors :—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

An Interesting [illegible]

Case [illegible]

[illegible]

Statement of Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Greene County, New York.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining and permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended Favorite Remedy to others whom I knew to whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and I assure the public that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy' as I did."

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO., Burlington, Vt.

Reminiscences of Washington.

"You say," I remarked to the old negro who drove the hack, "that you were Gen. Washington's body servant?"

"Dat's so! Dat's just so, massa. I done waited on Washington sence he was so high—no bigger'n a small chile."

"You know the story then, about the cherry tree and the hatchet?"

"Know it? Why I was dar on de spot. I see Massa Gawge climb de tree after de cherries, an' I seen him fling de boys who was stonin' him. I done chase dem boys off de place myself."

"Do you remember his appearance as a man? What he looked like?"

"Yes, indeed. He was a kinder short, chunky man, sorter fat an' hearty lookin'. He had chin whiskers an' mustache an' spectacles. Mos' generally wore a high hat; but I seed him in a fur hat wid ear warmers."

"You were not with him, of course, when he crossed the Delaware—when he went across the Delaware river?"

"Wid him? Yes, sir, I was right dar. I wasn't more'n two feet off'n him as he druv across the bridge in his buggy! Dat's a fac'. I walked long side de off hind wheel of dat buggy all de way."

"You saw him then when he fought the British at Trenton?"

"Sho's your bo'n I did! "I held Massa Gawge's coat an' hat while he fought the British at that wery place. Massa Gawge clinched him an' den rasseled; at first he frew Massa Gawge and Massa Gawge flung him, and set on him and done hammered him till he cried 'nuff! Massa Gawge won dat fight; I seed him wid my own eyes! An I cum home wid him in de kyars!"

"You weren't with him though when he shot the apple off a boy's head?"

"Who wan't wid him? I wan't. I was de only pusson dar 'ceptin' a white man. I loaded Massa Gawge's revolver an' handed it to him, and picked up de apple an' eat it as soon as he knocked it off. Nobody can't tell dis here old niggah nuffin bout dat circumstance."

"You knew all the general's relations, too, I suppose? Martin Luther, Peter the Hermit and the rest?"

"Knowed um all. Many an' many's de time I done waited on de table when Massa Gawge had um to dinner. I remember dem two gemmens jest as well as if I'd seen dem yesterday. Yes, sah; an' I druv 'em out often!"

"I've frequently seen pictures f Washington in which he is represented sitting on a white horse. Did he really ride upon a white horse or don't you recall the color of the horse?"

"Why bress your soul! 'Call de color of de hoss—'call de coler ob it? Do you see dis yer nigh hoss dat I'm drivin' now, right yer? Well, dat's de werry hoss Massa Gawge used ter ride. He lef it to me in his will."

Just then we reached the station, and I dismounted from the hack and paid Washington's body servant for his services. No doubt a longer conversation with him would have revealed other new and startling facts relating to the father of his country. [Max Adeler.

⁂"Unbidden guests are often welcomest when they are gone." Diseases are an unbidden guest which Kidney-Wort almost invariably "shows the door." Here is a case in point. "Mother has recovered," wrote an Illinois girl to her eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney Wort she got a box and it completely cured her, so that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved west. Since she has got well every one about here is taking it."

The little cucumber is getting in his fine work early and often this season, and his right hand men, the doctors and the druggists, say he is not half so green as he looks.

Oscar Wilde thought polo at Newport something no family should be without, but he did not like the color of the mustangs. They are to be newly painted a light, æsthetic yellow.

A Witness with Ears.

In an assault and battery case before a Wayne county justice the other day, the prosecution introduced a blind man, who had to be led to the witness box. "Is this a legal trial or a farce?" demanded the lawyer for the defence, as he sprang up. "This is a legal trial," replied the other lawyer. "And you want a blind man sworn to tell what he saw, do you?" "I don't claim that I saw the fight," replied the witness as he turned around. "Then what do you know about it?" "Well, sir, I'm going on the stand to swear to what I heard. I've been blind and lame and had corns and boils for the last fourteen years, but when I hear the splinters fly from a rail fence I don't want any eyes to tell me whether the plaintiff hit the top rail with his head or feet. I heard the 'kerchug' of the blow, and when the plaintiff came down and hollered, 'Oh, lands, but I'm a licked man!' I know by the way he hung to his words that he'd lost half of his front teeth. I'm ready, your honor."

Laughed Out of a Duel.

Wit can be put to no better use than turning threatened tragedy into comedy. John Thatcher, a member of the United States congress in its early days, was was once challenged to a duel by an angry opponent in debate, and refused to accept. When the bearer of the challenge asked him if he chose to be branded as a "coward." "Yes, sir," said he promptly; "I was always a coward, and he knew it, or he wouldn't have challenged me."

The general laughter when he reply got out of course spoiled the duel, and it completely cured the fighting man's wrath, too.

It is said of Judge Dooly, of Georgia, he laughed himself out of duels with an audacious wit that compelled even the admiration of his enemies. You remember, he said, when they threatened that if he didn't fight his name would fill the columns of a newspaper, that he would rather fill ten newspapers than one coffin. Once he went on the field with a man who had St. Vitus' dance. His opponent was standing at his post, his whole frame was jerking nervously from his malady. Dooly, in the soberest manner, left his post, and, cutting a forked stick, stuck it in the ground in front of his opponent.

"What does this mean?" asked his opponent.

"Why," says Dooly, "I want you to rest your pistol in that fork, so that you can steady your aim. If you shoot at me with that hand shaking so you'll pepper me full of holes the first fire!"

There was a laugh all round, and the duel was put off without delay.

"What is the appearance of a ghost?" asked an Austin female Sunday school teacher of Johnny Fizzletop.

"It is red like your brother's nose," answered the little cherub.

"Johnny, you must not use such language; it is horrible," said the teacher.

"Maybe it is painted white like your cheeks," remarked Johnny pensively.

"Johnny, I shall be compelled to dismiss you, if you use such language again. You ignorant little wretch, don't you know the appearance of a ghost is invisible." [Texas Siftings.

THE INCONSISTANCY OF MAN.

Scheming, diverse, and manifold advertisements of worthless goods will never attract profitable customers, only meritorious articles such as Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases are recognized and sought after by the people. Real worth always receives its just merit. A man may profit for a while by imposing upon the public, but it is only a question of time when he will reach the end of his rope. Man has never dared to doubt the efficacy of this great vegetable Ointment. 16w4

In no city in Texas do the clocks and watches vary as much as they do in Austin. The town time differs from the time at the jewelry stores, while railroad time seems to regulate itself.

Yesterday afternoon a gentleman with a gripsack in his hand remarked on hearing the town clock strike three:

"Merciful Moses! it is a quarter past four and now the four o'clock train that I was to go off on left three quarters of an hour ago." [Texas Siftings.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

Important Telephone Decision.

The most important event that has occured lately in connection with the telephone is the recent decision in the United States court, which takes away the claim of priority of patent from the National Bell Company and gives it to a Pennsylvania inventor named Reese who was backed in his suit by heavy capitalists. Reese, as it was shown on the trial, invented the first telephone long before the Bell telephone was patented. He was a poor man laboring at day's work, and offered to give any one a half interest in the invention to patent it, but his neighbors, who had talked through it, thought it was only a nice toy, with no money in it, and nothing was ever done with it until lately. After Bell and others had secured patents, capitalists took hold of Reese's claim and made application for a patent. Of course the Bell monopoly, with its capital of millions, opposed the new claimant, but he was backed by plenty of money, and the courts have decided in favor of the original inventor.

The decision destroys the Bell monopoly, whether it establishes a new one or not. The Bell company charge fourteen dollars a year rental for the use of every telephone in Middletown, and refuse to sell one out and out. It will be compelled to pay tribute to the original patentee or buy up the patent.

A new company with a big capital has been organized to telephone New York state, and the work of erecting exchanges will begin immediately. The first cities to be favored are Binghampton and Elmira. This we have from authority. The company proposes going on and covering the entire state with telephone lines, and will put the price low enough to bring it into general use.

A Petroleum Romance.

A fellow New Yorker pointed out to me this morning a citizen of Pittsburg who was at one time a salesman in a retail grocery there at a salary of $500 a year. When the petroleum excitement became rampant, he went to Titusville without any money, and after a few weeks he fell in with a prosperous speculator and "struck oil," making $400,000 to $500,000 in a year. He increased the sum to $1,500,000, and was urged by his friends to retire from the oil region with the wages of his luck. This he refused to do, and before another twelvemonth he had lost it all but a few thousand dollars. Then he returned to Pittsburg and went to work in a legitimate way. But the fever of speculation attacked him once more and he betook himself a second time to Oil Creek. After various shifts and adventures fortune revisited him, and he was able to count his million. Trying to double this—he had fixed his figure at $2,000,000—he was again financially wrecked. This time he was so poor that he stayed among the wells, and was forced to become a day laborer. New opportunities opened to him and a third time he got very rich. Reckless speculation once more brought him low, and he left for California, hoping to improve his prospects there. The fascination of petroleum drew him back. He made a fourth fortune and lost it; and finally a fifth with the same result.

Within a few months the fickle goddess has smiled for the sixth time, and he has invested all his money in government bonds—well nigh $1,700,000—and forsworn speculation. He sold all his oil before the recent tumble in prices, and says he has learned wisdom by experience. Having more than he will ever spend, he ought to be contented financially, and will no more risks, but I doubt if he will. The $2,000,000 he had fixed upon he has not yet reached, and he will be different from most speculators if he can resist the old greed. His wife who is here with four children—two grown up girls and two boys on the eve of manhood—was the counsellor that induced him to buy governments. He himself [illegible]

The Rosary of My Years.

BY FATHER RYAN.

Some reckon their age by years,
Some measure their life by art—
But some tell their days by the flow of their tears,
And their life by the moans of their heart.

The dials of earth may show
The length, not the depth of their years;
Few or many they come—few or many they go—
But our time is best measured by tears.

Ah! not by the silver gray
That creeps through the sunny hair,
And not the scenes that we pass on our way—
And not by the furrows the fingers of care

On forehead and face have made:
Not so do we count our years;
Not by the sun of the earth—but the shade
Of our souls—and the fall of our tears.

For the young are ofttimes old,
Though their brows be bright and fair;
While their blood beats warm, their heart lies cold,
O'er them the spring time but winter is there—

And the old are ofttimes young,
When their hair is thin and white;
And they sing in age as in youth they sung,
And they laugh for their cross is light.

But bead by bead I tell
The rosary of my years;
From a cross to a cross they lead—'tis well!
And they're blest with a blessing of tears.

Better a day of strife
Than a century of sleep;
Give me instead of a long stream of life
The tempests and tears of the deep.

A thousand joys may foam
On the billows of all the years;
But never a foam brings the brave bark home—
It reaches the haven through tears.

THE SILVER RING.

BY MOZART.

There stood in Berkshire, far out upon a quiet country road, a little inn, which the wood sign swinging above the door declared to be known as the "Magpie's Nest."

It had been thus named because of the number of magpies in the neighborhood. And straight before the door stood an oak tree a century old, among whose uppermost branches, year in and year out, always hung a magpie's nest, to which the country people believed the same old magpie returned year after year.

No very elegant entertainment was offered at the Magpie's Nest for either man or beast; but its patrons thought the ale good; and then it was served to them by the most charming rosy-cheeked bar maid, who wore a cap with bright ribbons, and had a waist that could have been spanned by two hands—a well behaved little maid also, who resented too much freedom by a box on the ear, and was known by the rector of the parish church to have been the best girl in his Sunday school.

So though she was a poor orphan and had only her little meed of wages, Betty might have married many a stout farmer. However she refused them all, and kept on with her duties at the Magpie's Nest until the son of her master coming home from India, where he had served as a soldier for several years, fell in love with her and offered her his hand and heart. Betty did not prove unkind. The innkeeping father was willing enough to secure his handy Betty for a permanent assistant, and amid the chattering of the magpies, Betty and John exchanged their vows under the nest hung oak-tree one bright afternoon; and John put upon her finger a thick silver ring, which he had obtained abroad, perhaps by purchase, perhaps by gift, perhaps as soldiers obtain things in time of war.

It was not a costly gift—to our eyes it would not be a beautiful one—but Betty valued it highly. She kept it polished to perfection, and wore it with great pride on high days and holidays; but though she loved John and looked forward to her wedding day with joy, she would not alter the bright, coquettish manner that always belonged to her. She joked with the farmers, flung them back repartee for repartee, and even gave them those bright glances which John the soldier thought should only be given to him. So John grew jealous and being a moody sort of a man, said nothing about it.

It never entered Betty's mind that the manner which had once enchanted John should now offend him; and she herself grew angry with her lover for his scowls and sulkiness.

Therefore when a young Frenchman from Marseilles, black eyed, black haired and polite in his manners, as Frenchman usually are, chanced in the course of his business to stop at the Magpie's Nest she thought he would be a fine example for surly John Leaf, and was amiable to him to a degree that might have made a less jealous man angry. Then indeed John Leaf spoke out and Betty discovered the secret of his ill [illegible]

[illegible] dress, her fringed shawl, her blue ribboned cap, her Sunday shoes and her silver ring, and having given the latter an extra polish, laid them where they would meet her eyes the first thing in the morning.

John Leaf, sulking in the room under the garret eaves, had no thought of this. Those slow natures do not forget and forgive in a hurry any more than they do anything else.

The morning sun shining against the inn's wall, aroused Betty with its first rays. She rubbed her eyes, opened them, put her little feet out upon the floor, knelt down and said her simple prayer, and then flew to the glass. It was only a crooked thing with a flaw in it, and a rough oaken frame, but sufficient to make her happy. She braided her hair, put on her cap, buttoned her dress, tied about her throat the gay neck ribbon, laced her shoes geometrically, and then looked for her ring. It was gone!

She knew the very spot upon the red heart shaped pin cushion into which she had thrust the needle over which the silver ring had been hung. There stuck the needle still. It was below the window sill on a little table; it could not have rolled out; but it was not in the room. She took out her dress, her shawl, her bed clothes. She swept the floor. It was gone. That was the end of it.

Betty sat down and wept bitterly. All she country people of the day were superstitious. The ring had disappeared in a most mysterious way, for her door was bolted, and her window high from the ground, and she firmly believed the loss portended some great evil.

Meantime at the bar of the inn a little scene was going on. The Frenchman had asked for a glass of ale; and John who was always tapster on Sunday mornings, had drawn it for him, when, as their hands almost met in the act, he saw upon the little finger of his customer a thick silver ring, the very counterpart of that he had given to his Betty.

"You've a pretty ring, Monseer," he said, with a sort of catching of his breath. "May I ask where you got it?"

"Ah, yes, certainly," replied the Frenchman. "One does not boast, but a pretty girl gave me that. Yes, and a kiss, also."

John turned as pale as any florid face could turn. He made no answer, but marched straight out of the tap room into Betty's kitchen.

She stood near the door in her holiday dress, with her white cotton gloves on. The magpies were chattering overhead, and afar the church bells were ringing.

"You are going to church with me John," she asked softly with a smile.

"That depends," said John Leaf.

Then he walked straight up to her, and looked full into her honest eyes.

"You don't look like a cheat," he said: "but who knows a woman? Take off your gloves," Betty."

She obeyed.

"Where's your ring?" he asked.

Betty burst into tears. "It's lost, John," she said. "I can find it nowhere."

"You haven't looked on Monseer's finger, then," said John.

"You poor fool, to give it to him, and think I shouldn't know it!"

"Oh, I'll swear I never did," sobbed Betty. "I give your ring to any one else! Why John—"

But he pushed her from him with his rough hand, and would hear no words from her; and the next day he left the inn, and enlisted once more and was sent away again to India. And Betty left the inn also, and took service with a farmer's wife close by; and whatever the magpies chattered about it was no more of the lovemaking that they had heard when John and Betty sat together beneath the old oak tree.

Five years went by. At last John received a letter from England, telling him that his father was dead, and had left all his little posessions to his only son.

John Leaf's fighting days were over, in any case, and he was on the invalid list for life. He had fought as desperate men do; had been commended and promoted and had some medals and ribbons to show and boast of as compensation for a wooden leg. So he went home again and settled down as proprietor of the Magpie's Nest and was a sort of hero among the neighbors; but he was very lonely; men do not quite forget in five years. He could still see Betty's buxom form flitting about the kitchen in imagination; and when the magpies chattered in their nests he sat with her still under the oak branches. Then he grew wroth with the magpies, who seemed to mock him, and ordered the pot boy to tear the nest down.

In vain the lad pleaded for the birds. In vain he declared that even if the new nests went, the old one in the topmost branches should be left "for luck."

"If the old magpies that built it find it is gone, they'll peck some one's eyes out in the night," said the boy. "It's been known to have been done often."

But John Leaf, the soldier, had cast away all his country superstitions.

"I'll have those magpies chattering about my ears no more," he said. "Up and leave not a nest of them all. Some of the noisy rascals will take possession of that old nest if it is left hanging."

So the boy obeyed. He planted a ladder against the tree, and then swung out upon the branches. There was a griev[illegible] day old [illegible]

"It is better than that," said the lad "it is a silver ring."

"Let me see it," said John Leaf, and he snatched it from his hand.

It was the ring with which he had plighted his troth to Betty under the oak; and he knew now that the magpies had stolen it, and that the Frenchman only wore one that resembled it.

The first thing that John did was to call himself hard names: "A jealous fool! "a suspicious brute!" and Heaven knows what else. Then he melted, and all by himself in the wood beyond the house, vowed to find Betty, if she still lived on earth.

Where he went, of whom he inquired, matters not. But one day when the sun was setting in the west he opened a little cottage gate to which he had been directed and saw at her knitting under a vine covered porch, his Betty, not changed one single bit. And she? She looked at him and didn't know him with his thin, sallow face and wooden leg.

"What may you be wanting sir?" she asked, and he answered "Betty!"

And she cried out "Why, mercy, it's John Leaf!"

Then he sat down on a bench close by her side.

"You know I never had many words to spend on anything, Betty," he said. I'll come to the point at once. I know now that you were true and no cheat, and that you never gave my ring to Monseer. I found it—or my lad did, for I'm not very good at climbing now—in the old magpie's nest in the oak top."

"So the magpies stole it, eh?" said Betty. "Well they are strange birds, I have heard they've taken spoons before now."

'And so, Betty, if you'll overlook the past and let bygones be bygones I'll be a happy man."

"I owe you no grudge," said Betty; "and bygones are bygones, John Leaf."

"But you'll let things be as they were, Betty said John; "you'll be my sweetheart again?"

She laughed.

"Don't you know." she said, "why, look there."

Through the gate came a foreign looking man, with gold rings in his ears and silver ring upon his finger, who led by the hand a toddling child.

"Why, it's monseer," said John.

"You see, I went to him to see how he came by the ring, and he proved it was none of mine. It has a name and a date on it that mine never had. And he was kind to me and you had been so cruel. And so we have been married three years—eh Louis, and this is our boy."

"I had better go home I think," said John Leaf. "One is always punished for being a fool. But this is your ring. Will you have it, Betty?"

"Pray keep it for your sweetheart. You'll find one soon no doubt."

But John Leaf never found one again and the silver ring found in the old magpie's nest was buried with him when he died.

The occupant of an office on Grand River avenue sat at his desk as a mild faced stranger entered, passed the time of day, and asked:

"Would you let me sit at your desk and use your pen?"

"Certainly."

"Can I use a sheet of your paper!" continued the man as he seated himself.

"Oh, yes."

"Thanks. You may hang my hat up if you will. I can never sit for any length of time with my hat on."

His hat was given a place on the rack, and for ten minutes he was busy writing. As he finished he asked for an envelope, and when he had sealed it he said:

"Pradon the liberty, but can you spare me a stamp?"

He was given one, and after he had licked it on, he weighed the letter in his hand and remarked:

"I'm afraid that's too heavy for three cents. Perhaps you'd better put another stamp on."

A second stamp was handed him, and then he observed:

"I'll leave the letter for you to mail as you go down."

"Very well."

"And as it is an important missive, allow me to suggest that if you should go to the postoffice on purpose to mail it, I would take it as a great favor for your kindness. Please reach me my hat, and as I suffer a great deal from the sun I will borrow your umbrella until I pass this way again!"

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c. should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer. 17w2

WHY WE HAVE SO FEW GOOD RIDERS.

It has frequently been the subject of [illegible]

Whistling Women.

The [illegible] that progressive spirit which a full and free knowlege of science is apt to inspire, declares that, viewed from a medical standpoint, whistling, if indulged in by the female sex would add to the average of longevity. The mere act of using the lungs in such a gentle and stimulating fashion would cause a general growth in depth and fullness of chest. Woman hitherto have been taught that it is unladylike to whistle; young girls, envious or emulous of their brothers, beginning to whistle some air from "Patience" or the more antiquated Italian operas, have been checked by ther grandmothers with that couplet—

"Whistling girls and crowing hens Always come to some bad end."

a couplet bad in rhyme, halting in meter, and now proved to be untrue scientifically and inculcative of false physiology. The result of such a reform in our notions has two aspects—one pleasant and delightful the other hideous to contemplate. Of course no one could object to any habit that would add to the health, happiness or comfort of the fair sex. If whistling would increase by the fifteenth of a second the average lengths of the lives of our mothers and wives, all sensible men would say of course, "whistle to your heart's content."

Being entirely vegetable, no particular care is requsred while using DrPierc's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." They operate without disturbance is the constitution, diet, or occupation. For sick headache, constipation, impure blood, dizziness, sour eructations from the stomach, bad taste in mouth, billous attacks' pain in region of kidney, internal fever, bloated feeling about stomach, rush of blood to head, take Dr. Pierce's "pellets." A Judge Who Took Pay For His Time.

A young man came into Justice Carey's court room in Carson City, Nevada, with the rim of his hat drawn down over his eyes, and remarked:

"Do you know me?"

"I think," remarked the court meekly "that you're the chap I sentenced for stealing about a year ago."

"That's the hairpin I am," replied the other, "and there's twenty dollars for my fine."

"But you served your term in jail," said the judge. "and owe no fine."

"That's right old boy, but I am about to commit an assault and battery, and I guess I'll settle now. You're the man I propose to lick."

"Oh, that's it," replied the court, pocketing the coin; "then you can start in and we'll call it square."

The young man advanced to the judge and let out his left.

The judge ducked his head, and rising up, lifted the intruder in the eye with a right hander, and sent him over against the wall. In a moment the court was climbing all over the man, and in three minutes his face was hardly recognizable. The man begged the court to let up, which he finally did. As the man was about to go out, Carey went after him with:

"See here young man, I don't think the fighting you did ought to be assessed more than $2.50—here's $17.50 change. I ain't charging you anything for the fighting, but just for my time. Next time I wont charge you a cent."

The rough took the change and the next train for Virginia City.

It seems to satisfy a family want, and I wonder how we ever got along without Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cured me of nervous prostration, and I have used it since for all kinds of complaints in our family.—Mrs. Jines, Albany. 15tf

THE GREAT APPETIZER, TONIC, AND COUGH CURE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND All Diseases OF THE THROAT, CHEST AND LUNGS.

The BALSAM of TOLU has always been one of the most important weapons wielded by the Medical Faculty against the encroachments of the above Diseases, but it has never been so advantageously compounded as in LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK and RYE. Its soothing BALSAMIC properties affords a diffusive stimulant, appetizer and tonic, to build up the system after the cough has been relieved.

GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., Jan. 26th, 1880, says: "TOLU, ROCK and RYE is an agreeable Remedy in Pectoral complaints and is classed as a Medicinal preparation under the U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped, may be sold by DRUGGISTS, GROCERS, and other persons, without special tax," or license.

CAUTION! Don't be deceived by dealers who try to palm off Rock and Rye for LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK AND RYE—which is the only MEDICATED article made—the genuine has their name on the Proprietary Stamp on each bottle.

Put up in Quart Size Bottles. Price $1.00.

Mrs. Garfield has bought a $50,000 residence in Cleveland. What a beautiful act it would have been if instead of spending $50,000 on a house, Mrs. Garfield had bought one for $10,000 and donated $40,000 towards a home for the poor. She is worth $800,000, and could well afford it. [Elmira Tidings.

The anti-monopolists held their convention in Saratoga last Thursday, and adjourned without making any nominations. The average condition of potatoes throughout the country as shown by the reports received at the department of agriculture has fallen to 90 against 101 in August. The prospect is now favorable for a crop not less than 150,000,000 bushels. The decline has been the heaviest in New England and New York.

This is the terse definition Hon. Alexander Stephens gives to the term "Bourbon." A monument was unveiled at Batavia, N. Y., on Wednesday in honor of Capt. Wm. Morgan, who caused the anti-masonic furor in 1826. The monument was erected by the National Christian Association. The German militiamen of New Orleans were reviewed by Jefferson Davis Thursday. The New Orleans Picayune says that this is the first time that Mr. Davis has ever made an appearance in any public capacity in connection with a military force since the close of the civil war. He manifested the utmost interest in the exercises, and his bearing was as lofty and dignified in in reviewing a battalion of militia as when he was looking down en the armies of the confederacy marching past.

A Boston special says Samuel J. Tilden is a physical and mental wreck and that he is detained against his wish at at his country residence near Yonkers. The Yonkers Gazette says the report is untrue that Mr. Tilden was shown the report and that the venerable gentleman smiled as though he enjoyed the joke. His health has been extraordinarily good during the last two weeks, and his general health is better now than it has been in seven years. Mr. Tilden takes two carriage rides every day with a long walk between them, and frequently enjoys the pleasure of a horse-back ride over the beautiful drives surrounding his residence.

The Texas Rangers are said to have done more to suppress lawlessness, capture criminals and prevent Mexican and Indian raids on the frontier than any other agency. They are employed and paid by the state government. Nearly all are young men. They are enlisted for a year, and are required to provide themselves with a horse, saddle and bridle, a repeating Winchester rifle and a navy revolver. The state furnishes rations, and pays $30 a month to each private. They wear no uniform. Each man dresses as his taste or the condition of his finances may dictate; but they all wear broad-brimmed sombreros. Considering their small number, less than 200, they have rendered remarkable service. They are brave, reckless, hardy fellows, swear with great proficiency and shoot unerringly.

The Mexico Fair [illegible] Panic—The Terrible Wind and Rain of Thursday [illegible] Damage Reported.

The county fair came to a sudden and unpleasant ending Thursday afternoon. Inky clouds preceded by a furious gale betokened rain but no one dreamed of the unprecedented storm in [illegible]. The Oswego Palladium says the [illegible] proper was preceded by a shower which drove all the people into the houses, sheds and tents, where they were packed like sardines in a box. When the tornado, for such it seemed to be, struck the grounds, the rain fell in sheets and the air looked as if a dense fog had settled on the grounds.

The fury of the wind was frightful and appalled the stoutest men. There was no time to shut the door of floral hall and the other buildings, and the water was blown clear through them from one end to the other, so that the heads and shoulders of the people inside were almost as wet as if they had been outside.

The terror and confusion outside the buildings were indescribable. Women's shrieks and the cries of terror of stricken children could be heard above the roar of the elements and men's faces were blanched with fear. In one of the buildings a big fellow shouted the roof was falling. A man who stood near him seized himby the throat and threatened to choke the life out of him if he uttered another word. As the storm struck, a horse, led by a boy rushed into one of the buildings and created a panic. Outside, carriages were lifted bodily by the wind and overturned and the air was filled with flying boards, hats, umbrellas, cloaks and exhibits. All the tents except the one used by the Universalist society for a dining hall, were blown away and the contents were scattered and wet.

Gilbert Cole of Pulaski was badly hurt by the falling of the framework of Aird's tent. A boy in the tent was also badly cut by a harrow and may lose one eye. Dr. Manwarren and his wife were thrown from a buggy and the doctor was bruised. Mrs. Henry Myres was thrown from a buggy and hurt. A man who was driving H. C. Rider's horse was thrown out and hurt.

Minkler, who was hurt by the liberty pole, and Delong, who was struck by the cupalo of the agricultural building were the most seriously hurt, and the result of their injuries is not apparent at present. The worst of the storm only lasted three or four minutes, and when it was over the grounds were flooded. The greatest wonder is that a panic with loss of life did not take place.

All the exhibits were more or less damaged by water. R. Gordon's goods were damaged over $200; T. Kingsford nearly the same amount; C. M. Barnes about $25; Whipple & Gass about $25; Aird $200. There were numerous other losses.

Modern wonders.

A most remardable story comes from Ovid, Michigan. The veracious report says great excitement prevails over the predicament of the man who, disgusted with the rain, which was rotting the wheat, seized a large butcher knife, and rushing into the field, said he wished he could catch God and cut his throat for sending so much rain. No sooner had he uttered these words than he stood rooted to the spot, from which he has not since moved. Two doctors from Flint tried to rescue him, but they were frightened away by the thunder and lightning. The people of the community round about are all praying for his delivery, but as yet without avail.

An extraordinary sensation has been caused in Athlone, Ireland. On Sunday evening, while a large congregation were at worship in a Franciscan church, and just as the priest had concluded his sermon, a brilliant light shone from the roof immediately above the figure of the Virgin Mary. Showers of stars descended on the head of the figure, the eyes opened and rolled from side to side, the hands moved and the figure assumed the attitude of blessing the congregation, after which it resumed its former appearance. Those who saw the sight moved from their seats in different parts of the church and pushed to the altar. A scene of the greatest excitement ensued. The religious services were suspended, but the church remained crowded till a late hour of the night. Even then the church was with great difficulty cleared. The thoroughfare near the church has since become impassible. Much credence is attached to the accounts of the "wonder," as numbers of persons who witnessed it gave the same version of what took place.

The War Ended.

Gen. Wolseley attacked the Egyptians at Tel-el-Kebir Wednesday morning and routed them, capturing forty guns and 3,000 prisoners, while General Macpherson kept up the pursuit and captured Zagazig. Two thousand Egyptians were killed at Tel-el-Kebir, where the British lost 200, including many officers. The Egyptian army is dispersed.

The British troops on Thursday entered Cairo. The Egyptian commanders near Alexandria have made offers of surrender, and it is reported that Arabi Bey has been arrested. A deputation from Cairo visited the khedive yesterday and assured him of the fidelity of the inhabitants. The British loss in the battle of Tel-el-Kebir is 9 officers and 45 men. The war is practically ended and Arabi a prisoner of war. British troops are embarking for England.

[illegible] Office [illegible]

It requires about [illegible] experience for a [illegible] how to make himself very [illegible] the pension department [illegible] ington, and during that time he is obliged also to hinder the regular clerks by requests for explanations. There will not, therefore, for some time, be any great result apparent from the large number of new clerks lately employed. Commissioner Dudley's annual report of the operations of the pension bureau for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1882, is now being prepared for transmission to the secretary of the interior. The following statistics, taken from the official figures, embrace the principal points of interest: During the fiscal year ended June 30, 40,939 original claims for pensions, and 34,148 claims for increase of pension were filed, making the total number of claims 75,081. There were allowed during the year 27,664 original applications; 10,281 for increase of pensions received favorable action. The total number of claims rejected, including the claims for increase of pensions, was 21,295, making the total disposed of 59,190. There remain pending 269,678 original applications for increase of pensions. These figures, however, do not include 75,968 claims which are on the reject files of the office.

The total amount paid for pensions during the year, including the cost of disbursement, was $54,236,280.54. The total number of pensioners on the roll is 285,697, a gain over the previous year of 16,867. The total amount paid by the government for pensions from 1791 to 1861 was $81,480,455.50. The total amount paid from 1861 to June 30, 1882, was $560,641,324.75. Out of this amount, and since 1871, $25,234,232.85 has been paid to the survivors of the war of 1812, and to the widows of those who served during that war. Deducting this latter amount, and estimating that which may have been paid to the pensioners on account of the wars prior to 1861 and 1865, about $530,000,000 have been disbursed on account of pensions. In the distribution of pensioners now on the roll they are classified as follows: Invalids, 175,499; widows, minors and dependent relatives, 78,403; survivors of the war of 1812, 7,134; widows, 24,661.

A Shrewd Detective.

The following anecdote is told of the late Detective Callanan of Philadelphia; One day there was great consternation in Drexel's banking-house over the discovery that a whole page of checks, signed in blank, was missing. Those in the hands of expert rogues, were worth a million. Callanan was sent for in a hurry. Every clerk had a theory. Callanan glanced around, climbed upon a stool, critically examined the top of the screen on the counter and stepped down. "Nobody ever reached over there. The dust is undisturbed," he said. He searched among the papers, checks, etc., but but could not find the missing sheet. "Where do you throw your waste-paper?" The spot was shown in the ash-heap. Callanan, after a minute's probing with a cane, turned up a a greenish-looking paper, which he examined and discovered to be the anxiously-looked-for slip. Any waste-paper gatherer could have picked it up in the interval between Saturday and Monday, when it had lain out of doors. The elder Drexel, when he was handed the sheet, rewarded the detective with $50, which was the quickest earned money he had ever received.

Twin Comets.

Prof. E. E. Barnard, of Nashville, Tenn on the 14th inst. discovered a new comet located near the star Lambda, in the constellation of the Twins. His discovery was announced by telegraph to Mr. H. H. Warner, at the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y., and almost at the same moment Prof. Lewis Swift, Director of the Warner Observatory, received intelligence that a large naked eye comet had been discovered in Rio Janeiro. South America. Prof. Barnard is the first person the present year to receive the Warner prize of $200. The fact that these two comets came into view at the same time is exceedingly significant.

A Book Worth Reading.

Mr. Wm. A. Wilkins, editor of the Whitehall (N. Y.) Times, has written a novel which Fords, Howard & Hulbert will soon publish. It is entitled "The Cleverdale Mystery; or The Machine and Its Wheels," and is largely an attempt to lay bare the hidden things of very "practical" American politics. The machine of which it discourses and around which its characters are grouped is the familiar political machine. Some of the bosses and sub-bosses introduced are understood to have been more than suggested by certain "statesmen" of the period. In addition to its politics the book contains a generous quantity of love. Many of its scenes are laid on or about lake George.

Dr. Pierces "Favorite Prescription"

always becomes the favorite remedy of those who try it. It is a specific for all female "weaknesses" and derangements, bringing strength io the limbs and back, and color to the face. Of all druggists.

North American.

The North American Review for October opens with an article on the coming Revolution in England, by H. M. Hyndman, the English Radical Leader, giving an instructive account of the agitation now going an among the English working classes for a reconstruction of the whole politico-social fabric of that country. O. B. Frothingham writes of "The Objectionable in Literature," and endeavors to point out the literature which is per se corrupting, and that which is simply coarse. Dr. Henry Schliemann tells the interesting story of one year's "discoveries at Troy." Senator John I. Mitchell, of Pennsylvania, treats of the rise and progress of the "Political Bosses." Prof. Geo. L. Vose, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, contributes an article of exceptional value on "Safety in Railroad Travel;" and Prof. Charles S. Sargent of Harvard College Arboretum, contributes an instructive essay on "The Protection of Forests." The review is sold by booksellers and newsdealers generally.

THE "GARDEN OF THE WEST."

To The Farmers of New York.

I give you a cordial invitation to come and see this "Garden of the West," Northeast Missouri. You that are weary with farms of exhausted vitality and you that have families of boys growing up whom you wish to establish upon farms larger, better and cheaper than are within reach in the old States, come and see this country in its prime, aglow with green and golden harvests. Northeast Missouri embraces a territory 160 miles square, noted for its fertility, delightful climate, fine markets, beautiful landscapes, and varied productions. It is in direct connection by trunk R. R. lines, with Chicago, Buffalo and New York. Perfect order and political freedom prevail. Forty thousand New Yorkers already reside in Missouri. Here I have for sale a great number of farms, in size, quality, price, etc, to suit buyers. Full descriptive lists sent free to any address. Prices from $10 to $100 per acre. A sample farm, medium price: That of Mr. A. J. Dearing, near Palmyra, (Marion Co.) 346 acres, all fenced, fine upland prairie and timber; perfectly healthful, (no malaria) 225 acres in cultivation, 85 timber, 175 choice clover and timothy meadow, a small residence, spring of abundant sparkling, pure water, fine limestone quarry; an excellent farm for wheat; corn, oats, grasses, fruits (to perfection) all kinds; admirably adapted to stock raising—cattle, mules and sheep; rental last year $925; in a community thoroughly refined and intelligent; good schools; churches, post office, within two miles. Price $30 per acre, part cash and remainder at long time at lowest current rate of interest. Railway fare of purchaser to Palmyra and return will allowed as part of cash payment. Title guaranteed perfect. Send for a full descriptive catalogue of all farms, free. Also money securely loaned upon best real estate, and desirable investments made for eastern parties. Titles perfect, abstracts furnished.

Address HOMER H. WINCHELL, real estate agent, Palmyra, Missouri

Refers by permission to His Excellency, Thos. T. Crittenden, governor of Missouri; Hon M. K. McGrath, Secretary of State, Jefferson City, Mo.; Hon. F M Cockrell, and Hon G G Vest, United States Senators from Mo., and to the attorneys, banks and business men of Northeast Missouri.

THREE DAYS' EXPERIENCE

"I can remember," says Hon. Wm. Cody, commonly called "Buffalo Bill," when I received a suit of clothes for a bad debt. It was a bad debt and I came to consider it a bad suit of clothes. It was a thin suit, but the former owner of the suit said it was better than it looked, all wool and fit like the paper on the wall. I kept it on my back just three days, and during that time might have been taken for a cross between an old hair trunk and a hoopskirt. I cannot describe the suffering I endured while wearing it. I broke through the back door and exposed my underclothing, and caught a deadly cold in consequence, was refused lodging in a hotel and taken for a tramp by an intimate friend. We want to keep you posted so you may avoid such dangers. We sell the best

MEN'S BOYS' and CHILDREN'S

sold in this city. We have the proof of the pudding on our counters and on the backs of thousands of people of Syracuse and vicinity, small and large, young and old, who will gladly testify to the superiority of our garments. You need not take our word for it, but we are ready at any moment to refund money if purchases are not satisfactory.

TO BE HELD OVER.

The Fair will be held over until Friday and the time for the bicycle race will be announced on the ground to-day.

FIRST DAY.

To-day (Wednesday) will be considered the first day.

THE ENTRIES.

The entries are large and should the remaining days be pleasant one of the grandest exhibitions will be witnessed ever held by the society.

In Fulton the storm was severe. A large plate glass in front of the "Bee Hive" was broken, and windows in many parts of the village were broken by the hail.

A Dastardly Crime.

Thursday night about 10 o'clock the barn and contents belonging to Mr John Spafford situated about half a mile south of Bethel Corners, Cayuga Co., was destroyed by fire, the work no doubt of an incendiary. The facts as detailed to us are as follows:

About 10 o'clock Mr. Spafford discovered a light in his barn, a horse and buggy standing near and a man just coming out of the barn. He ran toward the barn and between the man and horse and buggy to prevent the man making his escape with the team. The man finding he could not reach the team without being captured, turned and effected his escape across lots although closely pursued by Mr. Spafford for a short distance. The team was secured, but the fire had made such headway with the wind blowing a gale that it was impossible to save but little of the contents. From the contents of the buggy it was discovered that the rig was the property of Thaddeus Case, a well to-do farmer residing about four miles south of Cato village. As soon as these facts were learned, a new pursuit was made and at Cato a warrant was procured and placed in the hands of a constable for Case's arrest. About three o'clock in the morning they arrived at Case's house and found their man in bed. He was arrested and taken to Cato where an examination will take place. [Hannibal News.

It is said Case is a man of violent temper and fired Spafford's barn because he hired his farm hand away from him.

Benjamin Wells an old resident of Granby died at his home in that town Saturday, aged 76 years. He was a brother of Erastus and Frederick Wells of this town. Funeral was held from his late residence Monday. Rev Phelps of Granby Centre officiating. His remains were interred in the cemetery at Granby Centre.

New Rooms to be Opened.

Early in October, Miss Anna Carter of Fulton, will open new Decorative Art rooms on South Salina street, over Ginty's store on the second floor in rear. They are being fitted up expressly for Miss Carter, and will be admirably adapted for such purposes. One of the leading specialties of the opening will be an exhibition of a number of Chester Loomis's best pictures, which a great many people want to see. Miss Carter conducted the rooms in the Syracuse Savings Bank building last year with much ability and success. She will spend the next two weeks in New York amid the art rooms and art exhibits. Six cows were run into and killed on the D. L. & W. road at Welch's crossing, near South Granby by Monday evening's north bound train. They were the property of Elmer Fisher of South Granby and Patrick Cane of Lamsons. The cows had broken out of their pasture and wandered on the track.

While Dr. Daniel Pardee was attending Wm. Hancock of lower Oswego Falls Monday his horse took upon himself to run home, and speeded at a terrific gait down the hill and over the bridge, colliding with another buggy damaging it slightly. The doctor's carriage was broken badly, but the horse escaped unhurt.

The will of Mrs. R. C. Kenyon has been admitted to probate. The entire property, situated on and near the corner of Third and Buffalo streets, valued at about $5,000 was bequeathed to Mrs. Race nee Frank R. Kenyon, Rochester, who is to have three fifths, Mrs. Maria T. Healy of Medina, N. Y., a sister of deceased, one fifth and Miss Julia Yates of Ohio, nephew of deceased, and daughter of Mrs. Healy, one-fifth.

Nathans & Co's Circus.

Our constables found no occasion to arrest any person connected with Nathans & Co's. circus on Monday. Only a few of our own citizens were drunk and disorderly. This does not sound well for a temperance town, but it is a fact nevertheless. [New Paltz Times.

Nathans & Co's, New Consolidated Circus, Menagerie and Museum pitched its tents on the Coliseum grounds yesterday, for a weeks sojourn among the patrons of first-class arenic exhibitions in this city. The management exhibited no small degree of courage to open in this city the second week of the season, with a new company, and before the cold weather has hardly left us; but the attendance of 7000 at the two performances yesterday fully justified their expectation that the people will patronize a good show, even early in the season. [Boston Daily Globe.

The Salem (Mass) Register mentions: Mr. J. S. Le Favour, artist, surprisingly benefitted by St. Jacobs Oil. Rheumatism twenty years.

☞ New five cent music at Bristol's.

JAMES BRYANT.

The [illegible] September 26th, and lasts four days. Captain Paul Boynton, who was to have been one of the attractions, has been obliged to give up his engagement on account of a severe fit of sickness. In looking around for some attraction to fill his place the society have had the good fortune to secure the famous lady horse back riders, Miss Lizzie Pianco, Miss Myrtie Peek, "the little Michigan girl," and Madam Marantette. They will give exhibitions of their skill in long distance races through the fair, and will draw better than Boynton.

Juvenile Comic Opera.

The Boston Juvenile Comic Opera Company and Young Ladies Brass Band of twenty-five artists will give two of their delightful entertainments in Nichols Hall to-night and to-morrow night. The Lowville News says: "The Boston Juvenile Opera Company presented "Patience" before a good audience last evening, at Ruscoe Hall. The company has been carefully selected and possesses the requisite talent for properly presenting Patience, Olivette, and other popular operas, and has gained a high degree of perfection.

NEIGHBORING NEWS

Onondaga county fair, Syracuse, Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6.

The Oswego town fair will be held Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

Joseph Jones has been appointed Postmaster at Constantia Center.

Geo. Geddes of Syracuse will deliver the annual address at the Phœnix fair.

An item has appeared in several papers saying that Wright's hotel at Mexico Point had burned Monday evening, the 11th inst. It is a mistake.

The Wolcott News says the Texas cattle tick has got as far north as Port Byron. A gentleman of that village found several on one of his cows last week. There were no indications of sickness.

Mrs. Orville Bell, of this village, performed one of the most remarkable day's labor, that ever fell to the lot of a human being. She prepared a bride for the marriage altar, a child for its burial, and dressed for the first time a new born infant. Such an event seldom happens to a single individual in a single day. [Canastota News.

Sandy Creek proposes to arise from her ashes in a grand and substantial manner. The News says on the morning after the fire the subject of rebuilding was under consideration, and we take pride in saying that already our wide-awake and enterprising citizens have plans made for new brick blocks that will be an ornament and improvement to the village.

It has been discovered that the brown stone used in building the Methodist church of Cazenovia, Madison county, is softened by rain and is discoloring the brick. It is just ten years since the corner stone was laid, and it is predicted that at the end of another decade not a brown stone will be left in the structure. The stone was quarried from a soft vein, and was cut the wrong way of the grain.

Look out for a man who goes about the country seeking to repair sewing machines which are slightly out of order. He takes the machine, and, besides making the repairs, cleans it, and, works over it until $10 or $15 worth of work has been done. Then he presents his bill, and if it is not paid, threatens to take the machinery apart. He is not employed by any company, and is a swindler. In order to avoid being cheated, the only safe way is to deal with responsible individuals of your own community.

L. Byron Chapman, formerly cashier of DeLano's banking house, Canastota, is in the Madison county jail at Morrisville in default of $5,000 bail for robbing the bank of $8,596. He was discharged last December and an expert called to examine his books. He is arrested upon complaint of his bondsmen who went security for the faithful performance of his trust to the amount of $15,000. Chapman's father is postmaster at Canastota and he is otherwise very respectably connected. Wine and fast women are accused of wrecking him.

[illegible] in Auburn. [illegible] Jim [illegible] Moore, a former resident of Fulton, was the victim of a most distressing accident in Auburn last Saturday. He was employed in [illegible] shop [illegible] pouring Babbit metal [illegible] brackets to hold them in place in connection with a cylinder. The Auburnian says the clay which they use was not what it should have been and left a dampness about the shaft. When the metal struck the shaft it flew up into his face, burned it badly and filled both of his eyes, the right of which is thought to be destroyed. Dr. Hamlin says there is great danger that the patient may lose his eyes entirely. He picked out from one eye a piece of metal as large as his thumb nail, and two smaller pieces from the other. The corona is discolored by the metal which entered his eyes hot and stayed till it cooled. His forehead also, and his eyelids and left ear are burned quite badly. None of these burns extend very deep and there is a possibility that he may recover from the effects of the accident; but it is only possibility, the probability being that he will never see again. The extent of his injuries cannot be learned at present but to say the least they are very serious.

"Jim" Moore was for several years a resident of Fulton and was alternately employed in the [illegible] shops and Mr. Dilts'. He removed from Fulton to Auburn last spring. He is a married man. It is hoped the unfortunate man will not be deprived of his eyesight.

Pleasing Event.

Thursday, Sept. 14, 1882, Mr. Frank M. Richardson and Miss Ada Wybron were united in marriage at the residence of Mr. Geo. Clark in Oswego Falls. There were many guests present and it was a very pleasing affair. In the evening a reception was held at Mr. Richardson's residence in Fulton. Among the wedding souvenirs we noticed the following:

Mr. L. Richardson, set silver knives; Mrs L. Richardson, table spread and napkins; Miss Frankie Wybron, beautiful feather fan; Miss Eva Wybron, silver butter dish and spoon holder; Miss Alma Richardson, elegant stand and spread; Mr. Geo. D. Richardson, Musical clock; Mrs R. F. Wells, pair of damask towels; Miss Kate Wybron, set silver knives; Mr. Albert Wybron, set silver forks; Miss Ellen E. Hagan, silver pickle castor; Mr. Walter Ayles, Shakespeare's works; Mr. Geo. M. Holden, beautiful bed spread; Mrs. Fannie Wybron, silver pickle castor; Mrs Wm. Wybron, set silver tea spoons; Mrs Geo Clark, silver creamer; Master Frankie E. Clark, fruit dish; Miss Gertie E. Clark, Celery dish; Miss Ella Cornell, beautiful picture; Miss Emma Guile, set silver nut picks; Mr and Mrs Jessie Wright, silver castor; Misses Emily Smith, and Allie Saunderson, magnolia tea set and tray; Mr. Wm. McIntosh, glass water pitcher; Mrs T. Bailey, china cup and saucer; Mrs George Chapman, silver sugar bowl and spoon; Miss Ella Goman one doz goblets; Mrs Wybron, shawl and several more beautiful and substantial presents were made.

Death of Richard Schroeppel.

On Thursday evening there died in the State Lunatic Asylum, at Utica, Richard Schroeppel, formerly a resident of Syracuse, but for many years a citizen of Utica. Mr. Schroeppel belonged to one of the best families of central New York and the family name is perpetuated in the town of Schroeppel which adjoins the town of Volney. George C. Schroeppel, grandfather of the deceased, in 1797, purchased in company with two partners 525,000 acres of land in the northern central portion of the State and at Schroeppel Corners built a mansion of wood in the old substantial Dutch style. The old house still exists and is filled with curiosities of the long ago, and has been visited by many Fulton people. Richard Schroeppel was always eccentric. He never married and his pursuits were unlike those of other men. For many years he has occupied the third and fourth stories of a block in Bagg's square at Utica. He was a lawyer, but for a number of years has been a stranger to his profession and has lived in the greatest seclusion among the books of an unusually fine library. He saw no visitors. His inherited fortune was ample and allowed him to follow his tastes to any length he chose. His first symptoms of insanity were noticed six weeks ago while on board a railroad train en route from Utica to Syracuse. Schroeppel was the owner of a large amount of land at Hinmanville.

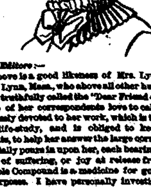
A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]



Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of [illegible] been restored to perfect health by the [illegible] Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by [illegible] with stamp for reply, at her home [illegible].

For Kidney [illegible] this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

An Int[illegible] Case C[illegible]

Statement of Mr. [illegible] of Catskill, Greene County, [illegible]

"For many years I [illegible] a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed [illegible] most noted doctors [illegible] and permanent relief, [illegible] time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife [illegible] me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended Favorite Remedy to others whom I knew to whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and I assure the public that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy' as I did."

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

Dealing in Bogus Eyes.

"I think nobody would be so deceitful as to steal a six dollar eye."

The speaker was a well dressed matron who had visited the office of a manufacturer of "artificial human eyes" in Bleecker street to inquire what had become of an eye which had been ordered for her singled-eyed daughter and paid for in advance. The eye was discovered securely packed away in a little box, and the lady took the treasure away. The office presented a neat, business like appearance. Over the mantlepiece the sign was conspicuously displayed:

"A deposit required on all eyes ordered."

"I don't want an eye myself, to-day," observed the reporter to the dapper young man in charge, "but I have a few friends who have just come in from Deadwood and want eyes. Think you can straighten them out?"

"Did they bring any dust home?"

"Loaded down. Money no object."

A pleasant smile flitted across the young man's face at this cheering information,

"We can match your friends with eyes of any size or tint at prices ranging from six to fifteen dollars."

"Are your eyes ready made?"

"We have a stock of 2000 on hand, but the sound eye can be matched more perfectly when we take the order. They are made of the finest glass. Get the right fit and there is no more trouble in putting in or taking out the eye than arranging your hat on your head."

"How long will the eye last?"

"With careful treatment it should last six months or longer, but the material is fragile, and unless handled very carefully it is liable to break. The secretions from the lids and lachrymal gland act upon the enamel and in time destroy the smoothness of its surface. The roughness thus created gives rise to inflammation. It is advisable to remove the artificial eye before retiring for the night, and to wipe it carefully Cleanliness does as much good to the artificial as to the natural eye."

"Are your patrons principally men or women?"

"Both patronize this house; but I should say there are fewer women than men."

"Any prominent people?"

"A great many; but it wouldn't do to mention any names. When a man wears one of our eyes it is the perfect image of his own, and none but his most intimate friends know that it is artificial. You will understand, then, that professional honor requires that we should keep the names of our customers a secret."

"We imoprt the finest French and German eyes; the former are more perfect and more expensive. We sell on an average about six eyes a week. We do no business in the domestic article. The weekly sales of imported eyes in this city amount to about eighteen, the average cost being ten dollars. We can match any complexion or color and if you ever need a glass eye come in; I will mirror nature so perfect you can almost see with it." [N. Y. Star.

"THE COMMODORE."

Jos. L. Foote, the Commodore, Elgin, Ill., says Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured him of sciataca with one application, thoroughly applied. It also cured him of a severe cold and cough. He makes it a very valuable remedy, and will never be without it.

"What a methodical fellow you are, Brown," said Filkins, who had stepped into Brown's office during the latter's absence. "Why, what do you mean?" asked Brown, who had just entered. "Mean?" echoed Filkins; "to think you should lock all your drawers up when you are only going out for five minutes. 'Tisn't likely anybody would meddle with your papers." "Of course not," replied Brown; "but how did you find out they were locked?"

Lewis House Livery & Boarding Stable

I would announce to the people of Fulton and vicinity that I have taken possession of the Lewis House livery, and shall keep it first class in every respect. I cordially invite those in need of anything in my line to give me a call. [illegible]

Quite a [illegible] a drunken tramp [illegible] wants to ride a horse, and [illegible] threw the drunkard out [illegible] seeming indignation [illegible] were no policemen around to [illegible] order. A German policeman, who [illegible] standing by, and who knew that [illegible] then belonged to the circus, felt [illegible] sent at having the police abused, so [illegible] took the alleged drunken man, and [illegible] withstanding the circus people tried to explain the circumstances, he was hustled off to the lock-up, and the act was left out. After the show the proprietor went to the jail and got the performer out, and abused the policeman a little for being so officious. The policeman said: "Vell, a choke is a choke, but when a man say vere is de bolice, and vy don't dey arrest dat drunk man, den de Marquette bolice is in dot vicinity, and don't you forget it, Mr. Circus, I bed you."

The Boston Globe brings this item, Chas. S. Strickland, Esq., this city, was cured of rheumatism by St. Jacobs Oil.

Honest Men Wanted.

The great want in politics just now seems to be honest men. The money of corporations lavishly expended in backing their candidates has made it so expensive to run for office that a poor man can scarcely afford to accept a nomination. Corporations always support the men who are the most servicable to them and this is usually a man of easy virtue. The result is that the honest and intelligent element in the political race is so weighed that it seldom comes to the front, and the whole standard of our political morality is thus lowered, for a man who is venal in one respect is usually so in others. It is this class of legislators who are responsible for building up a system of laws during the last five years, which are largely in the interest of a privileged class and against the mass of the people,

It therefore behooves the people everywhere to see that honest men only are selected for public office. Ability is a secondary consideration. Farmers, laborers and business men are too ready to give their support to some brilliant talker who belongs to the professions, instead of sending their own kind to legislate for them. [Justice.

Martin VanBuren.

Probably no character in our history is so hard to analyze as that of Martin VanBuren. The secret of his power seems to have died with him. He was not renowned as an orator, and yet must have possessed great power as an advocate. He is not usually credited with having devised any great public measures, yet, during the most important epoch of his party's history, every measure to which it owed success, not only required his approval, but showed his shaping or modifying touch. He was not eminent in debate, but was always a leader of his party in legislation. He is said to have been personally calm, selfpoised and unconfiding. He heard everyone's opinion, but took no one's advice. He was accounted shrewd and cunning, but never was accused of personal treachery. He was cautious to the very verge of timidity and at the same time, confident to the very verge of rashness. He never exulted over history nor whimpered at defeat. He had few personal friends, but an amazing popular following. In theory he was the broadest of Democrats; in practice the most exclusive of aristocrats. None of his associates seems to have regarded him with affection, and few of his opponents looked upon him with animosity. Perhaps no political life in our history shows so few mistakes. In no single instance did he fail to make the best of the occasion, viewing it from his own standpoint; unless it were the last and greatest of his life—the opportunity to lead the movement that eventually transformed the nation. He seems to have had all men's regard, but to have given none his trust. By his opponents he was called cunning; by his followers sagacious. More justly than almost any other politician he may be said to have achieved his own successes. Living, he was the envy of all who would succeed; dead, he has been the model of unnumbered failures. Few statesmen would cover his fame; fewer still do not envy his success. He is the Sphinx of our history—the hidden hand in many great events—a man in whom the elements were so deftly mixed that no friend knew his heart and no enemy ever came within his guard.

COLOURLESS AND COLD.—A young girl deeply regretted that she was so colourless and cold. Her face was too white, and her hands and feet felt as though the blood did not circulate. After one bottle of Hop Bitters had been taken she was the rosiest and healthiest girl in the town, with a vivacity and cheerfulness of mind gratifying to her friends. 17w2

EXCITING SCENE in MID-OCEAN

Men Overboard in a Monsoon, with Sharks About.

(Manchester Courier.)

A correspondent who was a passenger by the steamship Dacca, which left Madras for London on the 1st ult., sends from Aden an interesting account of an exciting scene which he witnessed during a storm in the Indian ocean. The vessel encountered the monsoon a few days after leaving Colombo, and had a rough time of it until the 17th ult., when the gale became so violent that canvas had to be taken in, awnings furled, and things made as snug as possible. The correspondent describes what followed: "I came on deck at 6 a. m.; it was

BLOWING FIERCELY,

and the spray coming up over the shoots. * * * There were three of us on deck when the bell struck—a Miss, a Mr. and myself. We were holding on to our chairs, which were firmly lashed to the inner cabin skylights, under the lee of the ladies' saloon. Part of the crew were working hard to get the starboard lifeboat in-board, when a bigger roll to the wind-ward warned us of what was coming. "Hold on!" some one shouted. We held on. The chairs rushed forward on their lashings. The deck stood upright. In came the sea, over the gunwale, over the taffrail, up to our waists, lifted the lifeboat out of its shackles, carried it overboard, smashing away stanchions and davits, and out to sea. Then came the horrid cry of

'MAN OVERBOARD!'

The helm was put down, the engine reversed, and back we went on a search—all the more so as sharks had been seen around the ship earlier in the morning. The boat was presently seen some 200 yards off, keel uppermost. Soon after two women were observed clinging on to it. Then came an exciting two hours, during which we steamed after the boat, which was drifting rapidly toward the east. But turning a ship like the Dacca is a very slow business, and as she hung in the wind's eye a jib was hoisted to bring her round. By the time this was done the boat, with its pitiful looking crew, was away two miles and more to leeward, and we were rolling and unmanageable. At last the captain decided to lower a boat, and the order was given 'stand by the boat,' and soon after 'lower.' 'Who is going in her?' he shouted. The first officer, Mr. Ingram,

SPRANG OVER THE SIDE,

caught hold of the davit ropes and slipped down, but just as he got near her, a great roll of the ship lifted him clear of the boat 20 feet in the air. As he came down again the boat had drifted forward, and he was plunged down in the boiling sea for five or six seconds. Up he came again as the ship heeled over, still hanging on, and missed by an ace having his skull smashed against the small boat's side. It was really a terrible sight, and we shuddered as we looked on, the boat all the while being lashed up and down by the violence of the waves. But at last his opportunity came, and he dropped into the stern. At once he was followed by the boatswain, two firemen, and two European sailors, the native crew hanging shamefully back. One of the passengers, a young English officer, Lieut. Wolff, of the Seventh Fusiliers, a son of Sir Drummond Wolff volunteered at once. But the officer in charge would not accept

A PASSENGER'S SERVICES

while men of the crew could be got. At last the boat shoved off, and the oars were got out, and in a terrible sea they set out for the missing boat. Directed by the motions of a man aloft, they got alongside her, and took the man aboard. Then began a hard row back. We lost sight of it again and again, wondering how she could live in such a sea. But still she held on, and got at last under our lee. By the help of a case of oil scattered over the waves they were comparatively stilled, a ladder was let down, and when the last man stepped on board such a cheer greeted him as told him what we thought of his pluck and that of the gallant fellows with him. Capt. Burkitt was perfectly cool the whole time, and managed his ship with great skill. When the first officer got a change of clothes, and came down to the cabin, he received all kinds of congratulations, and his health was drunk in bumpers of champagne. On Sunday morning we got under the lee of Cape Guardafui, and so ended our brush with the southwest monsoon."

The Old Maid's Soliloquy.

BY HATTIE J. SUTTON.

I have just rounded by forty-fifth year.
They all call me "old maid" with a smile or a sneer.
They say I am cross and ugly and old,
That my hand is hard and my heart is cold;
So cracked is my voice, so sour is my face,
So sharp is my tongue, it is "quite a disgrace,"
My neck is so long, so wrinkled and dry,
'Twould easily break, but as easily tie.

I am "crazy to marry"—'tis on every tongue,
Been whispered and whistled and hinted and sung;
I would "take the first offer" and "jump at the chance,"
Without giving the prospects as much as a glance,
Though I notice the ones who most loudly proclaim
My aim is to marry, are themselves in the game,
Their whole conversation seems mainly to be
Composed of four pronouns, 'I, she, he and me,'

But I pass. There's young Jones—they say it is truth.
I'm "trying to catch him"—the frost-bitten youth!
I'm not over wise, but I know better to-day
Than to seek an alliance 'twixt December and May.
There's Manley, the millionaire, tottering with age,
And middle-aged Newton, just now all the rage,
And Baker and Banker and Bangs and the rest,
I've "failed" to marry each one while "trying my best."

How my thoughts turn from all to a sweet "long ago,"
A few fleeting months stretching 'tween snow and snow,
When one walked by my side who filled all hours with bliss,
Whom I loved and loved only from that hour to this.
I had both wit and beauty could boast quite a train
Of youthful admirers who followed me then,
And I yielded my heart, and accepted the prize
Of one that seemed perfect—almost—in my eyes.

Ah me, how we loved! and sweet was the dream
That, of all earthly fetters, my love was supreme
To lure him and hold him away from the wrong;
Yes, sweet was the dream, but it faded ere long;
For I found not his love, not my love, not my tears
Could vanquish the wine-cup, his master for years;
And I bravely resolved on one heart-breaking day
That in two paths—divergent—our destinies lay.

So we two said "good-by" for this life here below.
But I don't forget; on the heart is no snow,
And when I compare him with all other men,
They seem plumless, [illegible] just the same now as then.
One timid friend avowed herself fairly afraid
To face all the odium cast on the old maid,
And having found, lost, the only love of her life,
Allowed the "next best" man to call her his wife.

But oh! when I look on her unhappy face,
I'm glad I had courage to brave the disgrace.
Whatever the objection to a single life can be,
It is heaven to married misery I plainly can see.
There are unions whose love is the key-note to bliss,
But as fate unrelentingly denieth me this,
Wedded cares, Wedded strife, at her feet I have laid,
And rejoice in the sombriquet, "happy old maid."
Don't say I am wretched, don't call me unblessed;
Independence is pleasure, there's freedom in rest.
Unhappily mated I ye know this is true,
Life gives me such blessings as it cannot bring you

OVER THE MEADOW.

"That boy is perfectly infatuated with the little witch over there in the red cottage."

"And have you just opened your eyes to that fact?" asked the white haired woman, looking up from her work.

John Lisle, retired merchant and richest land owner in Rockton, did not immediately reply, but kept on drumming on the window pane, as he gazed off across the stretch of low, level lying meadow, through whose tall grasses a manly form was threading its way.

"Mother," finally said he, turning toward the other, "I wonder what our boy can possibly see in that girl to admire?"

"Eh?" responded Mrs. Lyle.

"What is there about her that is attractive?" he asked.

"She is very pretty," replied the other.

"No more than a dozen other women of his acquaintance."

"She is full of life, has a firm loving nature, and—"

"Well, what other attraction does she possess?" impatiently asked Mr. Lisle.

"She possesses the attractions of [illegible] [illegible] backed up by a good [illegible] [illegible]," returned the wife and mother.

"Humph! a poor showing, I think. Confound—. But no matter the boy's a fool!"

And John Lisle went out of the room, to find consolation in ordering the men who were [illegible] a ditch to continue in such an [illegible] location.

All the long dreary winter through, handsome Dick Lisle had been cooped up in college. His heart had [illegible] his father's estate. He [illegible] to himself the [illegible]

[illegible] finally, has been for a year or three. [illegible]

[illegible] green and [illegible] Dick was left to continue his love romance in unembarrassed rapture.

Just over the meadow a bright little flower garden blooms, and a neat, red cottage stood, easily shaded by wide spreading maples. There is a special attraction clinging to such a modest, unrestrained rural home. Dick thought so [illegible] not by the right or power of royal gift or rich endowment of fortune, but by the beauty which God and nature bestow in place of royalty and wealth.

Beatrice Brown, or Trixy, as she is called, was a lovely little darling when she trotted to school but a few years ago. She is beautiful now, as she sits by Dick's side under the maples, listening to his recitals of college fun and duty.

Dick had met many fair women during his 23 years of life. He has loved many women—as some men will—and now he both respects and admires, as well as loves, this beautiful girl whose eyes have never gazed upon city life, whose ears have never listened to a single opera in the the brilliant lighted theatre.

The days pass on and Dick takes his way every afternoon across the meadow. His rich old father follows him with angry eyes and in his heart vows to give the boy a lecture, upon the eve of the latter's return to college.

A week prior to that event Dick came to his mother, as she is seated upon a veranda overlooking the lovely garden.

He tells her something which sends the blood to her face in a warm tide, and then receding, leaves the face pale and pain stricken.

"Dick! Dick! how could you? Your father—"

"Mother, something tells me that all will be right in the end. He does not know her true, sweet nature. Some day he will, and then it will be all right. Don't worry, little mother."

"Oh, my dear boy, I sincerely trust so; but suppose it should be otherwise," said the mother.

"Then ——" faltered he.

"What then?" asked the mother painfully.

"The world is wide, dear mother. I can find a niche for myself and her," bravely exclaimed the young fellow, gazing off across the meadows, where the slanting sun's rays fell upon the little red cottage.

"But what would my poor heart do?" cried the mother.

"Mother don't. I know it will be all right in the end. Father will learn my darling's goodness; I feel it here," and he laid his hand on his heart.

The eve of Dick's departure arrived. His father was in the library awaiting his son's return from "over the meadow."

"At this very moment I suppose the two love sick things are kissing one another, and swearing undying affection. I'll put a stop to the whole business," mused the old gentleman.

A half hour passed and the door was opened and the culprit entered. His face was yet aglow with joy, his eyes were still bright with the light of bliss.

He takes a seat near his father, and waits for the latter to speak.

"In the morning you return, Richard?"

"Yes, father," demurely said Dick. He knew for what this interview had been called and he was determined to be calm.

"Do you leave behind you any tender attachment, my boy?"

"Eh?"

"Do you go back to your books heart free?" coolly asked Mr. Lisle, as he carefully searched the other's features with absorbing eyes.

"Well—that is I"—hesitated Dick casting his eyes down.

"Don't get confused, my lad; it's a bad sign and a half confession. Tell me frankly are you engaged to the girl over the meadow?" and the old gentleman hitched his thumb over his shoulder in the direction named.

"I—that is to say——"

"There, there, you have answered my question. What do you intend to do about it?"

Dick did not reply.

"You say nothing my boy. What does it mean? What—oh, Dick, Dick, I hope you are not a base scoundrel to betray—"

"Stop father," exclaimed Dick, springing to his feet, "that girl is the sweetest and best woman man ever gazed upon. Could I betray her? Am I not your son?"

"Bless you Dick! I feel you are my son, and I [illegible] you are a true [illegible]. One thing more."

"Well, I listen."

"Promise me that you will never look upon Trixy Brown's face again.

"A strange wish, father."

"I have other attainments for you my boy. Beside, there were other women, fair, beautiful, more [illegible]."

"Of that we will not speak," interrupted Dick.

"Some other time then, my son; but you do [illegible]"

"Well, [illegible], have it, I"—Dick thought a minute—"I promise never to look upon the face of Trixy [illegible] [illegible] will be cured of this foolish fancy when you come back from your books again," [illegible] his son's hand and [illegible].

In the morning Dick went back to [illegible]

[illegible] well enough, [illegible] sending the accident to Dick, for he says it will only break up the boy's studies.

A [illegible] across the meadows one morning, and walks to the front door of the mansion.

"Can I see Mrs. Lisle?"

"[illegible]" [illegible] ed the servant [illegible] in the hall.

"Trixy Brown, please."

"Sit down, Miss Brown," said the servant. She went to Miss Lisle's room, where the lady was taking a short rest.

"Miss Trixy Brown wishes to see you."

"What! Now there will be——. Tell Miss Brown to step up here," falteringly said the lady.

The door opened and Trixy stepped into the beautifully furnished room.

"Child, sit down here by me. Now what can I do for you my dear?"

"Can I help you in any way, Mrs.—Mrs. Lisle? Mother sent me to ask," shyly said Trixy. "Why, my little dear, what could you do?"

"Mother said that people with broken bones were fretful, that they grow tired quite easily. She said I might offer to please and comfort Mr. Lisle."

"But in what way my dear?"

"I can read to him, sing to him, and can smooth his pillow. Perhaps the change might be agreeable," uttered the girl.

"Little one it shall be as you wish. But first let me warn you; yours will, I fear be a thankless task, for Mr. Lisle is quite hard to please."

"Oh, may I try, I would dearly like to help you!"

The kind old lady drew the pretty girl to her breast and kissed her brow. I wonder did Trixy guess that the old lady knew all?"

The old gentleman is sleeping. Mrs. Lisle has just left the sick room, and Trixy is seated by the bedside.

She is watching the soft sunshine as it flutters upon the carpet, sifted through the tree branches.

She is thinking of Dick, her Dick far away now, with his books, and wondering if he is thinking of her.

She turns her face toward the bed—two sharp eyes met her gaze. The old man is awake and has been gazing at her, she don't know how long.

"Who are you?"

"Please sir, I am—am—"

"Well, who?" not unkindly uttered Mr. Lisle.

"I'm Trixy," softly uttered the fair one, blushing shyly.

"[illegible] over the meadow?"

"Yes, sir; do you wish me to go now?" asked she rising.

"No, sit down again. I am fretful I guess, and I know it is tiresome work for my wife to wait on me and take up with my—well you see sick folks are not always patient."

"Yes sir, I think so."

"What do you know of sick folks, little one?" asked the old man.

"Mother was sick, very sick once and I nursed her. But she was very patient, sir."

"Well, I am an old man; you know old people's bones do not knit rapidly. Will you stay here and help my wife take care of me till I can get around?"

The very thing Trixy desired. She had intended to tender her assistance to him; and he had invited her.

"Oh, I should like it very much, I assure you.'

"But your mother?"

"I can go over nights and return in the morning," said Trixy.

"I can't spare you. Your mother must come here nights. There, say no more about it. The arrangement is settled."

How Trixy's bright face cheered the old man's hours of cares and pain. How her soft voice filled his heart with peace and eased his troubles away, as she read and sung to him.

"Mother," said he one morning, as he was seated in the library with his limb resting upon a chair, "I am about well now, and—and I'm just the least bit sorry."

"Sorry! what an idea. Why?" returned the old lady.

"The little girl, Trixy, will be needed no longer when I can keep myself."

"Oh, that's it!"

"Yes, do you know I wish I could keep her here always."

"But it would not do," said his wife, watching him furtively the while.

"Why not?"

"Dick, you know."

"Yes, Dick used to go over the meadow; I remember. Mother, when will the boy come home again?"

"Let me see—why he will be here next Wednesday."

No more was said upon the subject. Wednesday arrived and Dick [illegible]

"Dick I want to say something to you," said his father, as the young fellow helped his father to the couch.

"Very well, I am all ears."

"Did you meet any prettier girl than Trixy while you were away?"

"No."

"Do you still hold to your promise not to look upon the face of Trixy Brown again?" asked his father.

Fashion Notes.

Repped silk skirts are imported ready made.

There is very little change in tailor made cloth suits.

The new shade of royal cardinal promises to be a leading color this fall.

The cadet jacket will be worn by very young ladies and misses in their teens.

Cuffs are narrow and turned upward, and sometimes have a puffed or pleated scarf drapery.

Short dresses will be worn almost universally. For ceremonious occasions the train skirt is preferred.

The long coat known as the rendingote will be again favored this fall; the collar and cuffs are made of plush.

Paniers that promise to be very stylish have lengthwise pleats instead of crosswise folds and wrinkles, yet are very bouffant.

The Prince Albert frock coat worn by gentleman on dress occasions is copied almost literally for an outside garment for ladies' cloth suits.

A jabot made of pale silk satin merveilleux and tastily adorned with genuine lace, either Valenciennes or point, gives a charming finish to a dinner costume.

There is a French fashion, that promises to be popular, of wearing a jacket of cloth nearly covered with soutache embroidery, with a plain skirt of cheviot or other wool.

Old buckles, which have long been lying unnoticed, are again brought to light. They are seen in every shape and kind, and are used for fastening the drapery on dresses, or for waistbands worn with blouse or basque waists.

Dress skirts are much trimmed with box pleats. A skirt made of box pleats that are pulled out so make the puff, falling over a stiff narrow box-pleated balayeuse, is a favorite style for trimming the skirt around the bottom.

Imported cloth suits brought from [illegible] those made here in emulation of the simpler English styles. Soutache embroidery is the trimming for some French cloth costumes while others are combined with velvet or plush.

For receptions are combination dresses of the new striped Ottoman reps with velvet, or else of velvet with the Indian silks of soft yet rich quality, with brocaded figures that cover the surface entirely. Old green with dull red is the combination most often seen in these.

Jersey woven into shape and the elastic-ribbed cloths known as Jersey cloths are [illegible] the Bazar, more largely imported than at any previous season since they were introduced. The preference for English styles, and the coming of Mrs. Langtry, merchants believe will popularize all Jersey fashions, and it is declared that silk Jersey cloth, in ivory white, crevette, and sky blue will be used for the corsage of evening dresses of velvet, Ottoman repped silks and satins.

BEDS OF DOWN FEEL HARD.

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then harken ye peevish sufferers! Apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to your aching joints and muscles. Rely upon it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

Ways of Hotel Beats.

"There are a hundred different tricks to beat hotels, and maybe more," said a detective. "Did you ever hear of the trunk trick? No it's a combination trick, and can be played by as high as eight dead-beats. They come generally on a 'bus, an may have come from another city on some other scaly business, completely destinct from beating hotels out of board and lodging, or they may have been living in the city for some time. One beat will have a large heavy Sartoga trunk, ladened with bricks. A gentleman with a big trunk will never be presented his bill before it is due. Neither will the other seven beats, for they have large handsome valises.

"At the end of a week when the bill is presented, they tell the clerks they are leaving that evening, and will settle the bill before they go. The time comes for the gentleman with the trunk to take his departure. He walks to the cashier's desk, pays his bill, has his trunk piled on a hack and goes. The gentlemen with the valises disappear without paying. Their rooms are searched, and, behold, their valises are also gone. The hotel men think it very mysterious, and don't realize that the eight men are leagued together, and that the seven va- [illegible]

The Old Maid's Soliloquy.

BY MATTIE J. SUTTON.

I have just rounded by forty-fifth year.
They all call me "old maid" with a smile or a sneer.
They say I am cross and ugly and old,
That my hand is hard and my heart is cold;
So cracked is my voice, so sour is my face,
So sharp is my tongue, it is "quite a disgrace,"
My neck is so long, so wrinkled and dry,
'Twould easily break, but as easily tie.

I am "crazy to marry"—'tis on every tongue,
Been whispered and whistled and hooted and sung;
I would "take the first offer" and "jump at the chance,"
Without giving the prospects as much as a glance,
Though I notice the ones who most loudly proclaim
My aim is to marry, are themselves in the game,
Their whole conversation seems mainly to be
Composed of four pronouns, "I, she, he and me."

But I pass. There's young Jones—they say it is truth,
I'm "trying to catch him"—the frost-bitten youth!
I'm not over wise, but I know better to-day
Than to seek an alliance 'twixt December and May.
There's Manley, the millionaire, tottering with age,
And middle-aged Newton, just now all the rage,
And Baker and Banker and Bangs and the rest,
I've "failed" to marry each one while "trying my best."

How my thoughts turn from all to a sweet "long ago,"
A few fleeting months stretching 'tween ended and "now,"
When one walked by my side who filled all hours with bliss,
Whom I loved and loved only from that hour to this.
I had both wit and beauty could boast quite a train
Of youthful admirers who followed me then,
And I yielded my heart, and accepted the prize
Of one that seemed perfect—almost—in my eyes.

Ah me, how we loved! and sweet was the dream
That, of all earthly fetters, my love was supreme
To lure him and hold him away from the wrong;
Yes, sweet was the dream, but it faded ere long;
For I found not his love, not my love, not my tears
Could vanquish the wine-cup, his master for years;
And I bravely resolved on one heart-breaking day
That in two paths—divergent—our destinies lay.

So we two said "good-by" for this life here below,
But I don't forget; on the heart is no snow,
And when I compare him with all other men,
They seem plainly [illegible] the same how as then.
One timid friend avowed herself fairly afraid
To face all the odium cast on the old maid,
And having found, lost, the only love of her life,
Allowed the "next best" man to call her his wife.

But oh! when I look on her unhappy face,
I'm glad I had courage to brave the disgrace,
Whatever the objection to a single life can be,
It is heaven to married misery I plainly can see.
There are unions whose love is the key-note to bliss,
But as fate unrelentingly denieth me this,
Wedded cares, Wedded strife, at her feet I have laid,
And rejoice in the soubriquet, "happy old maid."
Don't say I am wretched, don't call me unblessed;
Independence is pleasure, there's freedom in rest.
Unhappily mated I ye know this is true.
Life gives me such blessings as it cannot bring you

OVER THE MEADOW.

"That boy is perfectly infatuated with the little witch over there in the red cottage."

"And have you just opened your eyes to that fact?" asked the white haired woman, looking up from her work.

John Lisle, retired merchant and richest land owner in Rockton, did not immediately reply, but kept on drumming on the window pane, as he gazed off across the stretch of low, level lying meadow, through whose tall grasses a [illegible] forth was threading its way.

"Mother," finally said he, turning toward the other, "I wonder what our boy can possibly see in that girl to admire?"

"Eh?" responded Mrs. Lyle.

"What is there about her that is attractive?" he asked.

"She is very pretty," replied the other.

"No more than a dozen other women of his acquaintance."

"She is full of life, has a firm loving nature, and—"

"Well, what other attraction does she possess?" impatiently asked Mr. Lisle.

[illegible] the attractions of [illegible] by [illegible] turned the wife and mother.

"Humph! a poor showing, I think. Confound—. But no matter the boy's a fool!"

And John Lisle went out of the room, to find consolation in ordering the men who were [illegible] to [illegible] in such [illegible]

All the long dreary winter through, [illegible] had been cooped [illegible]

[illegible] not by the right of power or royal gift or rich endowment of fortune, but by the beauty which God and nature bestow in place of royalty and wealth.

Beatrice Brown, or Trixy, as she is called, was a lovely little darling when she trotted to school but a few years ago. She is beautiful now, as she sits by Dick's side under the maples, listening to his recitals of college fun and duty.

Dick had met many fair women during his 23 years of life. He has loved many women—as some men will—and now he both respects and admires, as well as loves, this beautiful girl whose eyes have never gazed upon city life, whose ears have never listened to a single opera in the the brilliant lighted theatre.

The days pass on and Dick takes his way every afternoon across the meadow. His rich old father follows him with angry eyes and in his heart vows to give the boy a lecture, upon the eve of the latter's return to college.

A week prior to that event Dick came to his mother, as she is seated upon a veranda overlooking the lovely garden.

He tells her something which sends the blood to her face in a warm tide, and then receding, leaves the face pale and pain stricken.

"Dick! Dick! how could you? Your father—"

"Mother, something tells me that all will be right in the end. He does not know her true, sweet nature. Some day he will, and then it will be all right. Don't worry, little mother."

"Oh, my dear boy, I sincerely trust so; but suppose it should be otherwise," said the mother.

"Then ——" faltered he.

"What then?" asked the mother painfully.

"The world is wide, dear mother. I can find a niche for myself and her," bravely exclaimed the young fellow, gazing off across the meadows, where the slanting sun's rays fell upon the little red cottage.

"But what would my poor heart do?" cried the mother.

"Mother don't. I know it will be all right in the end. Father will learn my darling's goodness. I feel it here," and he laid his hand on his heart.

The eve of Dick's departure arrived. His father was in the library awaiting his son's return from "over the meadow."

"At this very moment I suppose the two love sick things are kissing one another, and swearing undying affection. I'll put a stop to the whole business," mused the old gentleman.

A half hour passed and the door was opened and the culprit entered. His face was yet aglow with joy, his eyes were still bright with the light of bliss.

He takes a seat near his father, and waits for the latter to speak.

"In the morning you return, Richard?"

"Yes, father," demurely said Dick. He knew for what this interview had been called and he was determined to be calm.

"Do you leave behind you any tender attachment, my boy?"

"Eh?"

"Do you go back to your books heart free?" coolly asked Mr. Lisle, as he carefully searched the other's features with absorbing eyes.

"Well—that is I"—hesitated Dick casting his eyes down.

"Don't get confused, my lad; it's a bad sign and a half confession. Tell me frankly are you engaged to the girl over the meadow?" and the old gentleman jerked his thumb over his shoulder in the direction named.

"I—that is to say——"

"There, there, you have answered my question, what do you intend to do about it?"

Dick did not reply.

"You say nothing my boy. What does it mean? What—oh, Dick, Dick, I hope you are not a base scoundrel to betray—"

"Stop father," exclaimed Dick, springing to his feet, "that girl is the sweetest and best woman man ever gazed upon. Could I betray her? Am I not your son?"

"Bless you Dick, I feel you are [illegible] son, and I [illegible] are [illegible] one thing more."

"Well, I listen."

"Promise me that you will never look upon Trixy Brown's face again."

"A strange wish, father."

"I have other attainments for you my boy. Beside, there are other women, fair, beautiful [illegible]"

"Of that we will not speak," interrupted Dick.

"Some other time then, my son; but you do [illegible]"

"[illegible] have it, I"—Dick thought a minute—"I promise [illegible] look upon the face of Trixy [illegible]

[illegible] one morning and walks to the front door of the mansion.

"Can I see Mrs. Lisle?"

[illegible] in the hall.

"Trixy Brown, please."

"Sit down, Miss Brown," said the servant. She went to Miss Lisle's room, where the lady was taking a short rest.

"Miss Trixy Brown wishes to see you."

"What! Now there will be——. Tell Miss Brown to step up here," falteringly said the lady.

The door opened and Trixy stepped into the beautifully furnished room.

"Child, sit down here by me. Now what can I do for you my dear?"

"Can I help you in any way, Mrs.—Mrs. Lisle. Mother sent me to ask," shyly said Trixy. "Why, my little dear, what could you do?"

"Mother said that people with broken bones were fretful, that they grow tired quite easily. She said I might offer to please and comfort Mr. Lisle."

"But in what way my dear?"

"I can read to him, sing to him, and can smooth his pillow. Perhaps the change might be agreeable," uttered the girl.

"Little one it shall be as you wish. But first let me warn you; yours will, I fear be a thankless task, for Mr. Lisle is quite hard to please."

"Oh, may I try, I would dearly like to help you?"

The kind old lady drew the pretty girl to her breast and kissed her brow. I wonder did Trixy guess that the old lady knew all?

The old gentleman is sleeping. Mrs. Lisle has just left the sick room, and Trixy is seated by the bedside.

She is watching the soft sunshine as it flutters upon the carpet, sifted through the tree branches.

She is thinking of Dick, her Dick far away now, with his books, and wondering if he is thinking of her.

She turns her face toward the bed—two sharp eyes met her gaze. The old man is awake and has been gazing at her, she don't know how long.

"Who are you?"

"Please sir, I am—am—"

"Well, who?" not unkindly uttered Mr. Lisle.

"I'm Trixy," softly uttered the fair one, blushing shyly.

[illegible]

"Yes, sir; do you wish me to go now?" asked she rising.

"No, sit down again. I am frotful I guess, and I know it is tiresome work for my wife to wait on me and take up with my—well you see sick folks are not always patient."

"Yes sir, I think so."

"What do you know of sick folks, little one?" asked the old man.

"Mother was sick, very sick once and I nursed her. But she was very patient, sir."

"Well, I am an old man; you know old people's bones do not knit rapidly. Will you stay here and help my wife take care of me till I can get around?"

The very thing Trixy desired. She had intended to tender her assistance to him; and he had invited her.

"Oh, I should like it very much, I assure you."

"But your mother?"

"I can go over nights and return in the morning," said Trixy.

"I can't spare you. Your mother must come here nights. There, say no more about it. The arrangement is settled."

How Trixy's bright face cheered the old man's hours of cares and pain. How her soft voice filled his heart with peace and eased his troubles away, as she read and sung to him.

"Mother," said he one morning, as he was seated in the library with his limb resting upon a chair, "I am about well now, and—and I'm just the least bit sorry."

"Sorry! what an idea. Why?" returned the old lady.

"The little girl, Trixy, will be needed no longer when I can keep myself."

"Oh, that's it!"

"Yes, do you know I wish I could keep her here always."

"But it would not do," said his wife, watching him furtively the while.

"Why not?"

"Dick, you know."

"Yes, Dick used to go over the meadow. I remember. Mother, when will the boy come home again?"

"Let me see—why he will be here next Wednesday."

No more was said upon the subject [illegible] day arrived and [illegible]

"Dick I want to say something to you," said his father, as the young fellow helped his father to the couch.

"Very well, I am all ears."

"Did you meet any prettier girl than Trixy while you were away?"

"No."

"Do you still hold to your promise not to look upon the face of Trixy Brown again?" asked his father.

Fashion Notes.

Repped silk skirts are imported ready made.

There is very little change in tailor made cloth suits.

The new shade of royal cardinal promises to be a leading color this fall.

The cadet jacket will be worn by very young ladies and misses in their teens.

Cuffs are narrow and turned upward, and sometimes have a puffed or pleated scarf drapery.

Short dresses will be worn almost universally. For ceremonious occasions the train skirt is preferred.

The long coat known as the redingote will be again favored this fall; the collar and cuffs are made of plush.

Paniers that promise to be very stylish have lengthwise pleats instead of crosswise folds and wrinkles, yet are very bouffant.

The Prince Albert frock coat worn by gentlemen on dress occasions is copied almost literally for an outside garment for ladies' cloth suits.

A jabot made of pale silk satin merveilleux and tastily adorned with genuine lace, either Valenciennes or point, gives a charming finish to a dinner costume.

There is a French fashion, that promises to be popular, of wearing a jacket of cloth nearly covered with soutache embroidery, with a plain skirt of cheviot or other wool.

Old buckles, which have long been lying unnoticed, are again brought to light. They are seen in every shape and kind, and are used for fastening the drapery on dresses, or for waistbands worn with blouse or basque waists.

Dress skirts are much trimmed with box pleats, [illegible] box pleats shaded, puffed, [illegible] falling over a [illegible] balayeuse, is a favorite [illegible] trimming the skirt around the bottom.

Imported cloth suits brought from [illegible] those made here in emulation of the simpler English styles. Soutache embroidery is the trimming for some French cloth costumes, while others are combined with velvet or plush.

For receptions are combination dresses of the new striped Ottoman reps with velvet, or else of velvet with the Indian silks of soft yet rich quality, with brocaded figures that cover the surface entirely [illegible] with dull red is the combination most often seen in these.

Jersey woven into shape and the elastic-ribbed cloths known as Jersey cloths are seen at the Bazar, more largely imported than at any previous season since they were introduced. With the preference for English styles, and the coming of Mrs. Langtry, merchants believe will popularize all Jersey fashions, and it is declared that silk Jersey cloth, in ivory white, cravette, and sky blue will be used for the corsage of evening dresses of velvet, Ottoman repped silks and satins.

BEDS OF DOWN FEEL HARD.

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then harken ye peevish sufferers! Apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to your aching joints and muscles. Rely upon it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

Ways of Hotel Beats.

"There are a hundred different tricks to beat hotels, and maybe more," said a detective. "Did you ever hear of the trunk trick? No it's a combination trick, and can be played by as high as eight dead-beats. They come generally on a 'bus, an may have come from another city on some other scaly business, completely destinct from beating hotels out of board and lodging, or they may have been living in the city for some time. One beat will have a large-sized Sartoga trunk, loaded with bricks. A gentleman with a big trunk will never be presented his bill before it is due. Neither will the other seven beats, for they [illegible] handsome valises.

"At the end of a week when the bill is presented, they tell the clerks they are leaving that evening, and will settle the bill before they go. The time comes for the gentleman with the trunk to take his departure. He walks to the cashier's desk, pays his bill, has his trunk piled on a hack and goes. The gentlemen with the valises disappear without paying. Their rooms are searched, and, behold, their valises are also gone. The hotel man thinks it very mysterious, and [illegible] [illegible]

The Old Maid's Soliloquy.

BY MATTIE J. SUTTON.

I have just rounded by forty-fifth year.
They all call me "old maid" with a smile or a sneer.
They say I am cross and ugly and old,
That my hand is hard and my heart is cold;
So cracked is my voice, so sour is my face,
So sharp is my tongue, it is "quite a disgrace,"
My neck is so long, so wrinkled and dry,
'Twould easily break, but as easily tie.

I am "crazy to marry"—'tis on every tongue,
Been whispered and whistled and hooted and sung;
I would "take the first offer" and "jump at the chance,"
Without giving the prospects as much as a glance,
Though I notice the ones who most loudly proclaim
My aim is to marry, are themselves in the game,
Their whole conversation seems mainly to be
Composed of four pronouns, "I, she, he and me,"

But I pass. There's young Jones—they say it is truth.
I'm "trying to catch him"—the frost-bitten youth!
I'm not over wise, but I know better to-day
Than to seek an alliance 'twixt December and May
There's Manley, the millionaire, tottering with age,
And middle-aged Newton, just now all the rage,
And Baker and Banker and Bangs and the rest,
I've "failed" to marry each one while "trying my best."

How my thoughts turn from all to a sweet "long ago,"
A few fleeting months stretching 'tween snow and snow,
When one walked by my side who filled all hours with bliss,
Whom I loved and loved only from that hour to this.
I had both wit and beauty could boast quite a train
Of youthful admirers who followed me then,
And I yielded my heart, and accepted the prize
Of one that seemed perfect—almost—in my eyes.

Ah me, how we loved! and sweet was the dream
That, of all earthly fetters, my love was supreme
To lure him and hold him away from the wrong;
Yes, sweet was the dream but it faded ere long;
For I found not his love, not my love, not my tears
Could vanquish the wine-cup, his master for years;
And I bravely resolved on one heart-breaking day
That in two paths—divergent—our destinies lay.

So we two said "good-by" for this life here below.
But I don't forget; on the heart is no snow,
And when I compare him with all other men,
They seem pigmies, he giant, just the same now as then.
One timid friend avowed herself fairly afraid
To face all the odium cast on the old maid,
And having found, lost, the only love of her life,
Allowed the "next best" man to call her his wife.

But oh! when I look on her unhappy face,
I'm glad I had courage to brave the disgrace.
Whatever the objection to a single life can be,
It is heaven to married misery I plainly can see.
There are unions whose love is the key-note to bliss,
But as fate unrelentingly denieth me this,
Wedded cares, Wedded strife, at her feet I have laid,
And rejoice in the soubriquet, "happy old maid."
Don't say I am wretched, don't call me unblessed;
Independence is pleasure, there's freedom in rest.
Unhappily mated I ye know this is true,
Life gives me such blessings as it cannot bring you

OVER THE MEADOW.

"That boy is perfectly infatuated with the little witch over there in the red cottage."

"And have you just opened your eyes to that fact?" asked the white haired woman, looking up from her work.

John Lisle, retired merchant and richest land owner in Rockton, did not immediately reply, but kept on drumming on the window pane, as he gazed off across the stretch of low, level lying meadow, through whose tall grasses a manly form was threading its way.

"Mother," finally said he, turning toward the other, "I wonder what our boy can possibly see in that girl to admire?"

"Eh?" responded Mrs. Lyle.

"What is there about her that is attractive?" he asked.

"She is very pretty," replied the other.

"No more than a dozen other women of his acquaintance."

"She is full of life, has a firm loving nature, and—"

"Well, what other attraction does she possess?" impatiently asked Mr. Lisle.

"She possesses the attraction of straitened circumstances, backed up by a good name and plenty of beauty," returned the wife and mother.

"Humph! a poor showing, I think. Confound—. But no matter the boy's a fool!"

And John Lisle went out of the room, to find consolation in ordering the men who were digging a drain to continue in such and such a location.

All the long dreary winter through, handsome Dick Lisle had been cooped up in college. His heart had yearned more times than one for the snow bound forests adjoining his father's estate. He had pictured to himself the jolly times he would have when the spell of college walls and dry, dusty studies shall be cast aside,

He is home finally, has been for a period of two or three. His mother had invited some young city friends to spend a few weeks at the fine place, and all done with a motherly forethought for her dear handsome Dick's especial comfort and pleasure.

The gay city friends were, to tell the truth, very much shocked when a bevy of them, one bright afternoon, came upon Dick [illegible] a mossy bank, and looking with glances more loving and friendly up at the face of the wood nymph.

Shortly after the accident the city [illegible] green and pastures new; consequently Dick was left to continue his love romance in unembarrassed rapture.

Just over the meadow a bright little flower garden bloomed, and a neat red cottage stood, cozily shaded by wide spreading maples. There is a special attraction clinging to such a modest, unrestrained rural home. Dick thought so, indeed he knew so, and—

Some women were born to [illegible], not by the right or power of royal gift or rich endowment of fortune, but by the beauty which God and nature bestow in place of royalty and wealth.

Beatrice Brown, or Trixy, as she is called, was a lovely little darling when she trotted to school but a few years ago. She is beautiful now, as she sits by Dick's side under the maples, listening to his recitals of college fun and duty.

Dick had met many fair women during his 22 years of life. He has loved many women—as some men will—and now he both respects and admires, as well as loves, this beautiful girl whose eyes have never gazed upon city life, whose ears have never listened to a single opera in the the brilliant lighted theatre.

The days pass on and Dick takes his way every afternoon across the meadow. His rich old father follows him with angry eyes and in his heart vows to give the boy a lecture, upon the eve of the latter's return to college.

A week prior to that event Dick came to his mother, as she is seated upon a veranda overlooking the lovely garden.

He tells her something which sends the blood to her face in a warm tide, and then receding, leaves the face pale and pain stricken.

"Dick! Dick! how could you? Your father—"

"Mother, something tells me that all will be right in the end. He does not know her true, sweet nature. Some day he will, and then it will be all right. Don't worry, little mother."

"Oh, my dear boy, I sincerely trust so; but suppose it should be otherwise," said the mother.

"Then ——" faltered he.

"What then?" asked the mother painfully.

"The world is wide, dear mother. I can find a niche for myself and her," bravely exclaimed the young fellow, gazing off across the meadows, where the slanting sun's rays fell upon the little red cottage.

"But what would my poor heart do?" cried the mother.

"Mother don't. I know it will be all right in the end. Father will learn my darling's goodness; I feel it here;" and he laid his hand on his heart.

The eve of Dick's departure arrived. His father was in the library awaiting his son's return from "over the meadow."

"At this very moment I suppose the two love sick things are kissing one another, and swearing undying affection. I'll put a stop to the whole business," mused the old gentleman.

A half hour passed and the door was opened and the culprit entered. His face was yet aglow with joy, his eyes were still bright with the light of bliss.

He takes a seat near his father, and waits for the latter to speak.

"In the morning you return, Richard?"

"Yes, father," demurely said Dick. He knew for what this interview had been called and he was determined to be calm.

"Do you leave behind you any tender attachment, my boy?"

"Eh?"

"Do you go back to your books heart free?" coolly asked Mr. Lisle, as he carefully searched the others features with absorbing eyes.

"Well—that is I"—hesitated Dick casting his eyes down.

"Don't get confused, my lad; it's a bad sign and a half confession. Tell me frankly are you engaged to the girl over the meadow?" and the old gentleman hitched his thumb over his shoulder in the direction named.

"I—that is to say——"

"There, there, you have answered my question. what do you intend to do about it?"

Dick did not reply.

"You say nothing my boy. What does it mean? What—oh, Dick, Dick, I hope you are not a base scoundrel to betray—"

"Stop father," exclaimed Dick, springing to his feet, "that girl is the sweetest and best woman man ever gazed upon. Could I betray her? Am I not your son?"

"Bless you Dick! I feel you are my son, and I know you are a true fellow. One thing more."

"Well, I listen."

"Promise me that you will never look upon Trixy Brown's face again."

"A strange wish, father."

"I have other attainments for you my boy. Beside, there were other women, fair, beautiful, more worthy—"

"Of that we will not speak," interrupted Dick.

"Some other time then, my son; but you do not promise."

"Well, since you must have it, I"—Dick thought a minute—"I promise never to look upon the face of Trixy Brown again."

"Bless you Dick! I knew that you will be cured of this foolish fancy when you come back from your books again," rapturously grasping his son's hand and shaking it warmly.

In the morning Dick went back to college, and the two old people were lonely without the merry laugh and bright face of their boy.

A month passed, and one of the farm hands came running to Mrs. Lisle and told her that his master had been thrown from his horse. The door is pushed open and two of the men enter bearing between them the form of the [illegible]

A broken limb is the most serious of Mr. Lisle's injuries. He is fretful for days and nights and the patient wife is well nigh worn out. He will not let her send word of the accident to Dick, for he says it will only break up the boy's studies.

A form comes across the meadows one morning, and walks to the front door of the mansion.

"Can I see Mrs. Lisle?"

"Step in. Whom shall I say it is?" asked the servant as she ushered the visitor in the hall.

"Trixy Brown, please."

"Sit down, Miss Brown," said the servant. She went to Miss Lisle's room, where the lady was taking a short rest.

"Miss Trixy Brown wishes to see you."

"What! Now there will be——. Tell Miss Brown to step up here," falteringly said the lady.

The door opened and Trixy stepped into the beautifully furnished room.

"Child, sit down here by me. Now what can I do for you my dear?"

"Can I help you in any way, Mrs.—Mrs. Lisle? Mother sent me to ask," shyly said Trixy. "Why, my little dear, what could you do?"

"Mother said that people with broken bones were fretful, that they grew tired quite easily. She said I might offer to please and comfort Mr. Lisle."

"But in what way my dear?"

"I can read to him, sing to him, and can smooth his pillow. Perhaps the change might be agreeable," uttered the girl.

"Little one it shall be as you wish. But first let me warn you; yours will, I fear be a thankless task, for Mr. Lisle is quite hard to please."

"Oh, may I try, I would dearly like to help you!"

The kind old lady drew the pretty girl to her breast and kissed her brow. I wonder did Trixy guess that the old lady knew all?"

The old gentleman is sleeping. Mrs. Lisle has just left the sick room, and Trixy is seated by the bedside.

She is watching the soft sunshine as it flutters upon the carpet, sifted through the tree branches.

She is thinking of Dick, her Dick far away now, with his books, and wondering if he is thinking of her.

She turns her face toward the bed—two sharp eyes met her gaze. The old man is awake and has been gazing at her, she don't know how long.

"Who are you?"

"Please sir, I am—am—"

"Well, who?" not unkindly uttered Mr. Lisle.

"I'm Trixy," softly uttered the fair one, blushing shyly.

"You live just over the meadow?"

"Yes, sir; do you wish me to go now?" asked she rising.

"No, sit down again. I am fretful I guess, and I know it is tiresome work for my wife to wait on me and take up with my—well you see sick folks are not always patient."

"Yes sir, I think so."

"What do you know of sick folks, little one?" asked the old man.

"Mother was sick, very sick once and I nursed her. But she was very patient, sir."

"Well, I am an old man; you know old people's bones do not knit rapidly. Will you stay here and help my wife take care of me till I can get around?"

The very thing Trixy desired. She had intended to tender her assistance to him; and he had invited her.

"Oh, I should like it very much, I assure you.'

"But your mother?"

"I can go over nights and return in the morning," said Trixy.

"I can't spare you. Your mother must come here nights. There, say no more about it. The arrangement is settled."

How Trixy's bright face cheered the old man's hours of cares and pain. How her soft voice filled his heart with peace and eased his troubles away, as she read and sung to him.

"Mother," said he one morning, as he was seated in the library with his limb resting upon a chair, "I am about well now, and—and I'm just the least bit sorry."

"Sorry! what an idea. Why?" returned the old lady.

"The little girl, Trixy, will be needed no longer when I can keep myself."

"Oh, that's it!"

"Yes, do you know I wish I could keep her here always."

"But it would not do," said his wife, watching him furtively the while.

"Why not?"

"Dick, you know."

"Yes, Dick used to go over the meadow, I remember. Mother, when will the boy come home again?"

"Let me see—why he will be here next Wednesday."

No more was said upon the subject. Wednesday arrived and Dick also.

"Dick I want to say something to you," said his father, as the young fellow helped his father to the couch.

"Very well, I am all ears."

"Did you meet any prettier girl than Trixy while you were away?"

"No."

"Do you still hold to your promise not to look upon the face of Trixy Brown again?" asked his father.

"I do."

"I'm sorry, my boy—I'm sorry."

"Why?" asked Dick.

"Because I have learned that she is a jewel. I would like to have her sweet face near me; her dear presence would bring a charm to the house. But, oh—well, if it cannot be, I suppose it cannot."

"I cannot bring Trixy Brown to your home father. When I promised not to look upon the face of Trixy again—Trixy Brown Lisle [illegible] hour past; the door opened, and Dick with Trixy upon his arm came in. [illegible] Dick's mother.

"Trixy, [illegible] look upon Trixy Brown's face again. When I left for school she was Trixy Lisle."

"And you—did you know?" asked the astonished man of his wife,

"Forgive me John—I knew all."

Fashion Notes.

Repped silk skirts are imported ready made.

There is very little change in tailor-made cloth suits.

The new shade of royal cardinal promises to be a leading color this fall.

The cadet jacket will be worn by very young ladies and misses in their teens.

Cuffs are narrow and turned upward, and sometimes have a puffed or pleated scarf drapery.

Short dresses will be worn almost universally. For ceremonious occasions the train skirt is preferred.

The long coat known as the rendingote will be again favored this fall; the collar and cuffs are made of plush.

Paniers that promise to be very stylish have lengthwise pleats instead of crosswise folds and wrinkles, yet are very bouffant.

The Prince Albert frock coat worn by gentleman on dress occasions is copied almost literally for an outside garment for ladies' cloth suits.

A jabot made of pale silk satin merveilleux and tastily adorned with genuine lace, either Valenciennes or point, gives a charming finish to a dinner costume.

There is a French fashion, that promises to be popular, of wearing a jacket of cloth nearly covered with soutache embroidery, with a plain skirt of cheviot or other wool.

Old buckles, which have long been lying unnoticed, are again brought to light. They are seen in every shape and kind, and are used for fastening the drapery on dresses, or for waistbands worn with blouse or basque waists.

Dress skirts are much trimmed with box pleats. A puff made of box pleats that are pulled out to make the puff, falling over a stiff narrow box-pleated balayeuse, is a favorite style for trimming the skirt around the bottom.

Imported cloth suits brought from Paris are more gay and elaborate than those made here, in emulation of the simpler English styles. Soutache embroidery is the trimming for some French cloth costumes while others are combined with velvet or plush.

For receptions are combination dresses of the new striped Ottoman reps with velvet, or else of velvet with the Indian silks of soft yet rich quality, with brocaded figures that cover the surface entirely. Old green with dull red is the combination most often seen in these.

Jersey woven into shape and the elastic-ribbed cloths known as Jersey cloths are, says the Bazar, more largely imported than at any previous season since they were introduced. The preference for English styles, and the coming of Mrs. Langtry, merchants believe will popularize all Jersey fashions, and it is declared that silk Jersey cloth, in ivory white, crevette, and sky blue will be used for the corsage of evening dresses of velvet, Ottoman repped silks and satins.

BEDS OF DOWN FEEL HARD.

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then harken ye peevish sufferers! Apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to your aching joints and muscles. Rely upon it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

Ways of Hotel Beats.

"There are a hundred different tricks to beat hotels, and maybe more," said a detective. "Did you ever hear of the trunk trick? No it's a combination trick, and can be played by as high as eight dead-beats. They come generally on a 'bus, an may have come from another city on some other scaly business, completely destinct from beating hotels out of board and lodging, or they may have been living in the city for some time. One beat will have a large heavy Sartoga trunk, ladened with bricks. A gentleman with a big trunk will never be presented his bill before it is due. Neither will the other seven beats, for they have large handsome valises.

"At the end of a week when the bill is presented, they tell the clerks they are leaving that evening, and will settle the bill before they go. The time comes for the gentleman with the trunk to take his departure. He walks to the cashier's desk, pays his bill, has his trunk piled on a hack and goes. The gentlemen with the valises disappear without paying. Their rooms are searched, and, behold, their valises are also gone. The hotel men think it very mysterious, and don't realize that the eight men are leagued together, and that the seven valises are packed in the big trunk in place of the bricks. So long as the valise men hold themselves aloft from the trunk man there is no reason why the trick may not be played a number of times at the same hotel, and the proprietors fooled before their very eyes each time."

Said Mrs. Gallagher: "I think it is wrong to make these sofa [illegible] so shiny, that and dazzling. They don't trouble me, but I've observed that my husband can never look at one without wishing [illegible]

THE GREAT APPETIZER TONIC, AND COUGH CURE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND All Diseases OF THE THROAT, CHEST AND LUNGS.

The BALSAM of TOLU has always been one of the most important weapons wielded by the Medical Faculty against the encroachments of the above Diseases, but it has never been so advantageously compounded as in LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK and RYE. Its soothing BALSAMIC properties afford a diffusive stimulant, appetizer and tonic, to build up the system after the cough has been relieved.

GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., Jan. 25th, 1880, says: "TOLU, ROCK and RYE is an agreeable Remedy in Pectoral complaints and is classed as a Medicinal preparation under the U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped, may be sold by DRUGGISTS, GROCERS, and other persons, without special tax," or license.

CAUTION! Don't be deceived by dealers who try to palm off Rock and Rye for LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK and RYE—which is the only MEDICATED article made—the genuine has their name on the Proprietary Stamp on each bottle.

THE FULTON TIMES

Wednesday, Sept. 27, 1882.

THE republican state committeeman is Alexander M. Holmes of Morrisville and the democratic William A. Poucher of Oswego.

THE nominee for Chief Jodge of the Court of Appeals on the Republican, Democrat and Prohibition tickets reside in Syracuse.

No reader of THE TIMES should fail to give the Republican and Democratic platforms a careful and thoughtful reading.

The Democrats of Massachusetts have nominated Benjamin F. Butler for governor. He is the nominee of the greenback party also.

FOUR brothers named Barnett, in Tennessee, are the champion berry pickers of the season. They have lately married four sisters named Berry.

CHARLES J. FOLGER, the republican candidate for governor is a resident of Geneva, N. Y., and is at present a member of President Arthur's cabinet, being Secretary of the Treasury.

IF you want to know what the two great parties think of the proposed amendment to the constitution making the canals free read their platforms published in another column.

THE Utica Herald seems to be drifting away from its partisan mooring into more independent waters. It is dissatisfied with the nomination of Judge Folger and favors the calling of an independent republican state convention.

HALFBREEDS make no secret of their dissatisfaction of the nomination of Judge Folger for Governor. It is simply the triumph of Roscoe Conkling and stalwartism they say and refuse to support the ticket. An Independent Republican ticket is suggested.

THE startling statement that the star-route thieves stole four millions of dollars from the government was made by Attorney-General Brewster at the meeting of the State Bar Association in Albany last week. No wonder the rascals could afford to pay high prices for jurors.

GROVER CLEVELAND, democratic nominee for governor, is the present mayor of Buffalo, 48 years of age, a lawyer and a bachelor. He is a man of superior executive ability and his administration of Buffalo's city affairs has been conducted unexceptionally satisfactory to its inhabitants.

HON. JOHN G. BIGELOW of Washington appeared before Judge Alfred Cleveland Coxe in the United States court in Buffalo Thursday afternoon and presented a petition asking for a writ of habeas corpes in the case of Sergt. Mason who is imprisoned for shooting at Guiteau. It was granted and the case will probably be heard in Utica next week.

THE differences existing in the democratic party in New York city were satisfactorily adjusted at Syracuse last week and each faction allowed representation in the convention. The unanimity the democracy displays looks as though past jangles were to be laid aside and a solid front to be arrayed against their political enemies in the present contest.

THE Buffalo Express a halfbreed Reublican paper places Grover Cleveland's name at the head of its columns and will labor for his election. It repudiates Folger and stalwartism and is of the opinion Folger's nomination was the result of fraud and chicane. The Express asks! "How far does party obligation go? Does it bind an honest man to accept the results of fraud."

FRIDAY morning an accident occurred in the tunnel at eighty-sixth street, New York city by which twelve passengers were killed and a great many wounded. An engine with a broken driving wheel was standing in the tunnel when another train came dashing along. New York papers say the accident was the result of gross mismanagement. The coroner held a telegraph operator and brakeman for neglect of duty bail being placed at $8,000. The frequency and fatality of accidents create a wish that those through whose neglect they are caused may be severely punished.

Vitalization.

All Diseases and Deformities cured by removing the cause. Dr. J. A. Barringer, the Physician and Surgeon, will be at the Lewis House, Fulton, Monday, Oct. 2d and remain the rest of the month. The doctor has practiced many years in Lyons, Weedsport, Wolcott, Seneca Falls Cortland, Norwich, and neighboring towns, and refers to the thousands cured of every known disease and deformity. He will examine all free, and will treat no one except a cure is certain. The doctor cures by Vitilization, an entirely new method, discovered by him. All diseases are easily cured by his treatment. The doctor cures Consumption, Catarrh, Asthma, Club Feet, Scrofula, Bright's Disease, Spinal Disease, Crooked Limbs, Tumors, Female Diseases, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Blindness, Deafness, rheumatism Fever Sores, Neuralgia Fits. Call for a list of hundreds of wonderful cures—all made in this vicinity. None who are afflicted should give up hope, as the treatment cures where everything else has failed. Physicians and scientific men are invited to examine the doctor's treatment.

CURES.

Mrs Caroline Waldo, Seneca Falls, N. Y., paralysis; Fred Funke, Pembroke, N. Y., consumption; Grant Smith, Clyde, N. Y., club foot; Miss Delia Hoffman, Moravia, N. Y., catarrh; Ezra Grinnell, Port Gibson, N. Y., spinal disease; Mrs. Isaac Huyck, South Byron, N. Y., fever sore; Henry Fowles, Elba, N. Y.; hare lip; Mrs. James Fisk, Clyde, N. Y., blindness; Mrs. M. M. Rosbrook, Sherburn Four Corners, N. Y., paralysis; G. B. Neal, North Pitcher, N. Y., club foot. And hundreds of others afflicted with every known disease and deformity. 18

WHICH WILL YOU HAVE?

The Two Great Parties Present Their Compliments to the Voters of the Empire State—Promises and Platforms. Every Voter Should Read.

The Democracy of New York, in Convention assembled, declare:

First—That, whereas, the country is again subjected by republican maladministration to the evils and abuses which afflicted it in 1874, we reaffirm the principles of our platform of that year, under which the republican party was driven from power, and the government of the state brought back for a time to the practice of economy and honesty.

Second—We arraign the republican majority in congress for its culpable failure to reduce the amount of taxation to a sum sufficient only for the legitimate requirements of government under an honest and frugal administration, and we favor such tariff and fiscal reforms as shall relieve an overtaxed people from all unnecessary burdens, and prevent the accumulation of a fund to be lavished in profligate legislation and in the support of a horde of useless and idle placemen. In particular we proclaim our condemnation of the river and harbor bill, in which by the multiplication and mutual support of obnoxious provisions an infamous measure purchased its passage through congress in disregard of the limitations of the constitution and to the depravation of the public morals.

Third—In the nomination of the secretary of the treasury for governor of New York, by which, in effect, a candidate for the chief magistracy of the state was appointed by the president, we see a fresh and impressive proof of the dangerous power of public patronage; and urged by this alarming spectacle we protest against federal intervention in state elections, and repeat our demand of 1881 for a reform and purification of the civil service. And we are further admonished by recent experience of republican corruption of the necessity of forbidding by penal enactment the levying of blackmail from dependent officeholders, to promote the interests of a party which finds no support in the intelligent and independent convictions of the people

Fourth—We hold the present republican administration responsible for unredressed outrages on our foreign born fellow-citizens; and we demand from them when abroad the protection to which they are entitled in return for their voluntary allegiance, and which the honor of the American government requires shall be extended to them.

Fifth—We charge that in this state, the republican party has lowered the standard of the public service by its local administration and by the representatives it has sent to the houses of congress that it has made the state legislature the instrument of the lobby to rob the public and enrich corporations, and has refused to its governor the renomination which was due him by custom, because he dared to use his vetopower to thwart such purposes in disregard of those who sought to control him by the influence of political and moneyed power.

Sixth—We demand the restoration of the New York state national guard to the efficiency of which it has been deprived, and which made it the representative of the soldierly spirit of the people.

Seventh—In order to restore our merchant marine to its former prosperity, we demand immediate provision and amendment of the laws relating to shipping and the carriage of ocean freights.

Eighth—We favor the adoption by the next legislature of the resolution of 1882, providing an amendment to the constitution for the local self government of cities.

Ninth—Primary elections, openly and honestly conducted, afford the surest means of securing the most suitable candidates for public office, thus best preserving a democratic form of government. We, therefore, favor the speedy passage of general laws providing against fraud and intimidation at such elections.

Tenth—The public welfare demands that the various questions relating to chartered monopolies and the methods of transportation should be met and decided, and we are in favor of the adoption of measures to restrict the growing power of such monopolies. They should be subjected to the strict supervision of the commission now provided by law. all unjust discriminations in the transportation of passengers and merchandise should be prohibited. The charges of corporations which have taken the property of private citizens for public use, should be limited to the cost of the service with a reasonable profit, instead of the mercenary exaction of "all the traffic will bear." The laws should be so revised that taxation may be reduced as far as possible, and that personal and corporate property may severally pay their fair proportion of taxes.

Eleventh—We approve the submission to the vote of the poeple, of the constitutional amendment in favor of free canals, and we have full confidence that they will dispose of it in such manner as to promote all the great interests of the state, agricultural, manufacturing and commercial.

Twelfth—We reaffirm the policy always maintained by the democratic party, that it is of the first importance that labor should be made free, healthful and secure of just remuneration; that convict labor should not come into competition with the industry of the law-abiding citizens; that the labor of children should be surrounded with such safeguards as their health, their right of education and their future as useful members of the community demand; that workshops whether large or small, should be under such sanitary control as will ensure the health and comfort of the employed, and will protect all against unwholesome labor and surroundings: that labor shall have the same right as capital to combine for its own protection, and that all legislation which cramps industry or which enables the powerful to oppress the weak should be repealed, and to promote the interests of labor we recommend the collection of statistics and information respecting improvements, the needs and the abuses of the various branches of industry.

Thirteenth—Whereas, the founders of the democratic party inculcated a frequent reoccurrence to fundamental principles the democracy of New York again avow their fidelity to those tenets of economy, simplicity and respect for the liberty of the individual which characteriized the administration of government in the primitive days of the republic.

The Republicans of New York in Convention assembled declare:

Resolved, That the republican party of New York has no new doctrine to present upon the questions which have heretofore occupied much of the public attention, such as honest money, pure elections, regulation of tariff in intoxicating liquors, protection of home industry, and necessity of restricting the power and influence of corporations. It is content to be judged by its past declarations and acts.

Resolved, That equitable taxation, reaching corporations as well as persons is approved as a correct system which should be perfected. The perfect results of recent legislation upon the subject fully justify the action of the republican party in its adoption.

Resolved, That monopolies oppressing the people and unfairly discriminating against local interests are wrong in principal and should not be tolerated.

Resolved, That the strongest legislation should be enacted to secure the purity and honesty of primary elections and all possible safeguards should be thrown about those sources of political action by the people.

Resolved, That the practice of appealing to the legislature to overrule the action of local [illegible] should be resorted to only in extreme cases.

Resolved, That changes in the fundamental law should not ordinarily be the subject of party action but they should when proposed, always be carefully scrutinized by the people who should signify their wishes in reference to them as generally as they do in their selection of their representatives. We therefore urge the people of the state without reference to party to examine with intelligent care the constitutional amendment submitted to them and give full expression at the polls to their judgement and wishes thereon.

Resolved, That while there are varying opinions on the sale of liquors we subscribe to the principle that propositions on that subject, like all other propositions for change in the fundamental law ought to be submitted to the popular vote.

Resolved, That the conduct of the democracy during this year anew and emphatically show their signal unworthness of public confidence. They signalize their return to power in the legislature by wantonly sacrificing public interests upon the altar of greedy, reckless partizanship. A party which could devote nearly two months to a quarrel of its factions for spoils but could give no time to the equalization of taxation and other questions vitally affecting the welfare of our people insults the intelligence of the electors of New York when it asks them to approve its flagrant abuse of legislative powers by handing over to it the executive branch of the state government.

Resolved, That the financial achievments of the republican administration are next in the importance to its work of the preservation of the nation itself as are attested by the rapid liquidation of the great public debt incurred to meet a national emergency and by the reduction of the rate of interest to the party to bring taxation within the lowest practical limits and by the strictest system in economy to reduce government expenses and the number of those employed in collection of revenue, thus relieving the people of all unnecessary burden.

Resolved, That the civil service should be placed upon a proper basis by adequate legislation so as to give facilities for the execution of the law upon statute book with competitive tests for admission to service so arranged as to secure necessary qualifications for the positions sought together with a fixed term for incumbents, removal from office during the term and appointment to be only for cause.

Resolved, That the recent law of congress designed to suppress polygamy which offends the moral sense of the nation and prevents administering justice through the usual instrumentalities of law, approves itself to the people and it should be supplemented by such laws as may be necessary to obtain the object in view.

Resolved, That the economy and efficiency of the present administration entitles the members to its highest praise. Gov. Cornell's fearless and firm exercise of the veto power, while it has naturally brought down upon him hostile criticisms has shown his determination to protect the interests of the state and people alike against individuals and corporations.

Resolved, That we tender to President Chester A. Arthur, our assurance of confidence in his administration and our approval of the wise, patriotic course pursued by him under the embarrassing circumstances of his accession to office. His courage in resisting the enactment of the river and harbor bill which was beyond the accepted rules of constitutional power, and which while authorizing many needed public improvements carried with it a large and wasteful appropriation for works of neither national or public good has secured for him the admiration even of his enemies.

Resolved, That hearty support is pledged the nominees of this convention whose records in public, distinguished abilities and special fitness commend them to the people's approval at the ballot box.

BEER AFFECTS THE KIDNEYS, and it may seriously interfere with the health unless promptly counteracted, and for this purpose Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has no equal.

Alas! that so many people look upon religion simply as a fire-escape.

BEWARE OF SWINDLERS.

We have exposed during the past year, many swindlers who advertise under the name of medicine, vile compounds which only increase human suffering. To all who need a pure medicine and blood purifier, we can honestly recommend Sulphur Bitters. [Editor Sun. 18w2

The entertainment given by the Boston Juvenile Comic Opera Co., in Nichols hall Wednesday and Thursday evenings were well patronized and deservingly too. The rendition of "Patience" and "Olivette" was satisfactory. They will return to Fulton in a few weeks.

⁂"Middle measures are often but middling measures." There are no "middlings" about Kidney-Wort. It is the most thoroughly refined "flower" of medicine. It knows no halfway measures, but radically uproots all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels. It overthrows piles, abolishes constipation and treats the system so gently and soothingly as to prove its true kinship to nature in both liquid and dry form.

KIDNEY-WORT

Embarrassed.

The Rev. Mr.—— was one of the most bashful men in the profession and was constantly getting into scrapes through his nervous mistakes. At one time he rose in his pulpit to give out the hymn, "This world is all a fleeting show," and after clearing his throat he struck a high pitch of voice and began solemnly:

"This world is all a floating shoe."

Everybody smiled except the deacons, and the minister was covered with confusion as he began again:

"This world is all a shouting flow."

This only made matters worse and the unhappy man cleared his throat with tremendous force and began once again:

"This world is all a floating she."

Then he slammed the hymn book down and wiping his clammy brow said:

"Brethren, for some reason I cannot read that hymn as it should be read; we will omit it and the choir will please sing the grand old lines beginning:

"Just as I am without one flea."

A BAPTIST MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE.

I am a baptist minister, and before I ever thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, forty years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas Eclectric Oil cured me. My wife and child had diphtheria, cured them, and if taken in time will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the oil falls over into the throat, and prabtice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowlege. It is the medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it for in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas Eclectric Oil. DR. E. F. CRANE, Corry, Pa.

A FORTUNE

may be made by hard work, but can neither be made nor enjoyed without health. To those leading sedentary lives Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a real friend. It stimulates the liver, purifies the blood, and is the best remedy for consumption, which is scrofulous disease of the lungs. By all druggists.

"John, what is that peculiar smell?" asked a man's wife as he was trying to steal in bed without waking her, about 2 a. m. "That is the incense we use in the lodge room, my dear; it exales—it exales—" "Yes, I know now," she interrupted; "I recognize the odor—XX ales."

Vast merit is inherent in St Jacobs Oil, and we heartily recommend it to our readers.

THE "GARDEN OF THE WEST."

To THE FARMERS OF NEW YORK.

I give you a cordial invitation to come and see this "Garden of the West," Northeast Missouri. You that are weary with farms of exhausted vitality and you that have families of boys growing up whom you wish to establish upon farms larger, better and cheaper than are within reach in the old States, come and see this country in its prime, aglow with green and golden harvests. Northeast Missouri embraces a territory 100 miles square, noted for its fertility, delightful climate; fine markets, beautiful landscapes, and varied productions. It is in direct connection by trunk R. R. lines, with Chicago, Buffalo and New York. Perfect order and political freedom prevail. Forty thousand New Yorkers already reside in Missouri. Here I have for sale a great number of farms, in size, quality, price, etc. to suit buyers. Full descriptive lists sent free to any address. Prices from $10 to $100 per acre. A sample farm, medium price: That of Mr. A. J. Dearing, near Palmyra, (Marion Co.) 346 acres, all fenced, fine upland prairie and timber; perfectly healthful, (no malaria) 295 acres in cultivation, 85 timber, 175 choice clover and timothy meadow, a small residence, spring of abundant sparkling, pure water, fine limestone quarry; an excellent farm for wheat, corn, oats, grasses, fruits (to perfection) all kinds; admirably adapted to stock raising—cattle, mules and sheep; rental last year $925; in a community thoroughly refined and intelligent; good schools; churches, post office, within two miles. Price $30 per acre, part cash and remainder at long time at lowest current rate of interest. Railway fare of purchaser to Palmyra and return will allowed as part of cash payment. Title guaranteed perfect. Send for a full descriptive catalogue of all farms, free. Also money securely loaned upon best real estate, and desirable investments made for Eastern parties. Titles perfect, abstracts furnished.

THREE DAYS' EXPERIENCE

"I can remember," says Hon. Wm. Cody, commonly called "Buffalo Bill," "when I received a suit of clothes for a bad debt. It was a bad debt and I came to consider it a bad suit of clothes. It was a thin suit, but the former owner of the suit said it was better than it looked, all wool and fit like the paper on the wall. I kept it on my back jmst three days, and during that time might have been taken for a cross between an old hair trunk and a hoopskirt. I cannot describe the suffering I endured while wearing it. I broke through the back door and exposed my underclothing, and caught a deadly cold in consequence, was refused lodging in a hotel and taken for a tramp by an intimate friend. We want to keep you posted so you may avoid such dangers. We sell the best

Further announcement will be made next week.

Death of Garfield.

Garfield Chapin, one of the famous Gilberts Mills Garfield & Arthur twins, died Sunday of cholera infantum. The little fellow was taken ill on the 17th inst. His funeral took place yesterday, it being just one year to the day and hour since the funeral obsequies of President Garfield were held in Cleveland, Ohio. These twins were remarkable for their similarity and have been visited by hundreds of people. A correspondent at Gilberts Mills informs us this morning that little Arthur is afflicted with the same disease Garfield died with and is rapidly failing.

Caught on the Fly.

It has been the object of someone's ambition during the summer to rob the till in Deputy Sheriff Hulett's grocery at the Upper Landing about twice every week. Traps were laid and schemes invented to catch the thief but all proved abortive. Suspected parties were watched and still the money would mysteriously disappear. Mr. Hulett began to get interested in the conundrum and made up his mind to solve it—and do it quick. He suspected Geo. Huntley, a twelve year old boy, as being the depredator and was not long in satisfying himself that he had caught his man.

Last Friday noon the clerk, Jas. Austin, locked up the store and went to dinner. Mr. Hulett secreted himself to await developments. As soon as Austin was out of sight young Huntley made his appearance. He went to the rear of the store, removed, his shoes and lowering a window in he went and helped himself to $4.38, and had just stepped out of the window when Mr. Hulett very pleasantly accosted him with "Good morning, young man." Huntley begged for his release and denied ever entering the store before. He finally changed his mind and admitted he had been in three times an accompanied Mr. Hulett to where he had $11.00 in silver buried. Nearly a hundred dollars has been stolen during the summer. Mr. Hulett has commenced no proceedings against the boy but has the matter under advisement.

Fiftieth Anniversary.

The fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Highriter was celebrated Friday evening at their residence on Erie street with a golden wedding. This worthy couple were married in Auburn, N. Y., September 28, 1832, by Dr. J. C. Rudd. They have resided in Fulton continuously for nearly forty-five years and have always been held in the highest esteem by their legion of acquaintances, not only as kind neighbors and dutiful citizens but as exemplary christian people.

It was a pleasant sight to see gathered about the entire family, consisting of Mrs. Emily C. Miller of New York, Moris C. Highriter, of Fulton, Mrs. Mary J. Hornibrook, Fulton, Mrs. Anna E. Eayrs, Brooklyn, Mrs. Addie M. Hammond Geddes, and John C. Highriter, jr Scranton, Pa., with a merry troop of grandchildren and other near relatives and lifelong friends. Many pleasing reminiscences were recalled and a most enjoyable time was the result of the anniversary.

They were the recipients of many valuable gifts and golden souvenirs. The Fulton amateur band was present and discoursed music. A rich collation was spread and heartily discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Highriter start out upon the second half of a century of married life none the less hopeful or cheerful than fifty years ago.

Comic Opera Company.

The Watertown Times has the following to say regarding Bennett & Moulton's Comic Opera Co., which are to appear in Fulton Saturday afternoon and evening:

The performances given in Washington hall by Bennett & Moulton's Comic Opera company were unusually good. In the afternoon a fair sized audience was thoroughly delighted with the Magic Slipper. In the evening they appeared to good advantage in the Chimes of Normandy. The music was finely rendered while the acting was faultless. Miss Annie Liebsch in the role of Serpolette displayed a voice of remarkable purity and power. Mamie Bruce as the Marquis, Flora Smith as Jean, and Ben Lodge as the Bailli were all excellent in their parts. The grand Novelty Olio after the Opera pleased tee audience greatly. The company is one that all should have seen.

Fred K. Jones.

Personal—Too close application to business, and incessant hard work in ware rooms for ten or more years past, has made it imperatively necessary that I should change my mode of business and be in the open air as much as possible. By advice of my physician I have resigned my position in Weber's, as head salesman and ware room superintendent; and also declined an unexpected and very fine proposition from the largest piano house in New York. At any rate in December, I shall therefore come to Fulton, my native place, and bring a large stock of piano fortes and cabinet organs which I can sell very low for cash, or on long time. I shall likewise resume my teachings and take a few advanced pupils who wish to become thorough masters of the piano forte or church organ. My wide reputation as a teacher of these instruments is a guarantee of correctness and success.

My stay in Fulton will be brief, but my goods will be fully guaranteed for ten years and I shall be able to satisfy any person that what business I do will be on an honest basis.

Yours Sincerely,
18t1 Fred K. Jones.

Notice—Those indebted to me will please call and settle. I wish to close up my business. Miss A. Saunderson.

Prof. Taylor the illusionist will give another entertainment in Nichols Hall this evening and also to-morrow evening. He is the cleverest magician that has visited Fulton in years and deserves good houses.

The Barnasky cheese factory sittuated in the village of Clay, burned last Wednesday morning, together with dwelling house and out buildings. There was about 12,000 pounds of cheese stored in the building which was also destroyed. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Mr. D. Ramsden arrived in New York Monday, on the Servia, and reached Fulton last evening. He was agreeably surprised in the night by a band of seranaders, composed of operatives of the woolen mills. During his nine weeks absence in England he has been quite busy but his friends here will be pleased to learn that his general health has been materially improved by the trip.

The display of millinery made by Mrs. A. Clark at the fair was superb. The quality of goods exhibited were first-class and their creation, arrangement of trimmings and general tone recommended themselves. Ladies whose taste leads them to select millinery goods of fashionable shape, agreeable in combination of color and trimming should give Mrs. Clark a call.

Nichols' hall last Wednesday and Thursday evenings was well filled by an appreciative audience to listen to the rendition of "Olivette" and "Patience" by the Boston Ideal Juvenile Comic Opera Co., under the management of Abbey and Peabody. It was the best entertainment ever given to the public by any Juvenile Troupe, and their return will be highly welcomed.

His Pastorate Terminated.

Rev. A. U. Hutchins, whose engagement recently terminated with the Universalist society, preached his first sermon in Fulton in July, 1879. He was then State missionary, and was empowered by the state convention of Universalists to visit weak and dormant parishes and labor for their restoration and prosperity as well as to organize new parishes when practicable. With the co-operation of this society he lessened the debt on the church property about fourteen hundred dollars, more than one half of the whole indebtedness.

The first pastor settled after the work of the state missionary was Rev. Benj. Brunning, who remained one year. The society was without a pastor until last October, when a unanimous call was given to Rev. A. U. Hutchins, who remained one year, his resignation taking effect last Sunday.

At the close of the last Sunday evening's services, just before the benediction was pronounced, the reverend gentleman made essentially the following very brief statement:

This service closes my year's engagement with this society; the trustees fully realize the situation and we have an arrangement which is mutual that my engagement shall terminate as already indicated. I expect to remain some months as a resident of your village, but will in no way hinder your efforts in securing my successor, but will in every reasonable effort assist you. I take this opportunity to express my thanks for any act of kindness to myself and family and wish you all prosperity and success.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

Philadelphia, Pa. (2) Mrs. A. M. D.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

An Interesting Story—A Hopeless Case Cured—A Good Reason for Happiness.

Statement of Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Greene County, New York.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining and permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended Favorite Remedy to others whom I knew to whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and I assure the public that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy' as I did."

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞ If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

THE INCONSISTANCY OF MAN.

Scheming, diverse, and manifold advertisements of worthless goods will never attract profitable customers, only meritorious articles such as Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases are recognized and sought after by the people. Real worth always receives its just merit. A man may profit for a while by imposing upon the public, but it is only a question of time when he will reach the end of his rope. Man has never dared to doubt the efficacy of this great vegetable Ointment. 16w4

RESCUED FROM DEATH

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass, says: In the fall of 1876 I was taken with bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar. A one time a report went around that I was dead. It gave up hope, but a friend told me of DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle, when to my surprise I began to feel better and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased Lungs will take DR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness.

A wicked boy got into a fight with his uncle and biting off his nose swallowed it. He was brought before the police court, his uncle appearing against him. "This is your nephew, is he?" asked the magistrate. "I am sorry to say he is." "I think I detect some resemblance," said the Judge. "Yes," replied the uncle mournfully, "he has my nose."

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c. should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer. 17w2

"Where are you going, anyhow?" asked an irate conductor on the Central Pacific the other day of a "beat" whom he had kicked off five or six times, but who always managed to get on again just as the train started. "Well," said the fellow quietly, "I'm going to Chicago, if my pants hold out.

Heard at a summer hotel: "I understand that the arrivals have been rather thin so far." "Slim; I should say so. Every mother's son of them have been these long, thin fellows who seem to be hollow all the way through, and they eat more than half a dozen fat men. I will be bankrupt if this thing keeps on."

It seems to satisfy a family want, and I wonder how we ever got along without Parker's Ginger Tonic. It cured me of nervous prostration, and I have used it since for all kinds of complaints in our family.—Mrs. Jines, Albany. 15tf

"Is that a tornado?" inquired a gentleman of a friend last evening, as they sat in the library smoking their after dinner cigar. "Well, not exactly," replied the host, as the roaring increased in fury; "That is only my wife speaking to the girl for not telling you to wipe your feet before you came into the parlor."

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

The Sweet Country Cousins.

How dear to the heart are the sweet country cousins,
When dog days of summer begin to draw near,
When bricks have grown hot and sunstrokes by dozens
Fill body with anguish and bosom with fear!
The green waving fields and the sweet smelling breezes,
The 'scaping from turmoil to quiet and calm,
The rich creamy milk which the ready hand seizes,
And e'en the brown cousins who live on the farm;
The plain country cousins, the unsullied cousins,
The sweet country cousins who live on the farm.

The sweet country cousins! oh, aren't they a treasure?
When all can be had without spending a dime
How pleasant to live on rich cream and ripe berries
Fresh golden hued butter and other light and warm,
Free use of the horses, the carts and the [illegible]
Of sweet country cousins who live on the farm!
The plain country cousins, the unsullied cousins,
The sweet country cousins who live on the farm.

How dear are the sweet country cousins in summer!
How fragrant the meadow, romatic the down!
But straightway your faces begin to grow glummer
At thoughts of their visit next winter to town.
The theatre, the concert, the lecture, the money
Expended in tickets! the thoughts give a qualm;
The sequel of summer is not quite so funny,
Why don't the sweet cousins remain on their farm?
The brown visaged cousins, the great awkward cousins,
The clodhopper cousins should stay on their farm

SCOTCH FUNERALS.

Curious Mortuary Customs in the Land of Cakes.

Everybody knows that there is no service at the grave in Scotland, although the clergyman under whom the deceased "sat" is often, indeed usually, present. The hats of those in attendance may be taken off the moment after they have lowered the coffin into the grave just for an instant, but even this is not always the case. This habit of dispensing with religious exercises had its origin, no doubt, in the Scotch horror of doing anything that might give a color to the charge of following the Roman Catholic fashion of praying for the dead. The reading of a chapter of the Bible and a short prayer in the house before the cortege sets out for the churchyard is the sole religious service, and the preliminaries to this are sometimes of a kind to raise the idea that care is taken to disconnect it from the peculiar circumstances of the occasion.

Twenty years ago I was at a funeral in the country at which the minister and his colleague of the church to which the deceased belonged attended. After the company had assembled some decanters of wine and a tray with cakes were brought in and set upon the table. The daughter of the deceased, herself a clergyman's wife, then suggested that the senior minister should "ask a blessing!" This request served as an excuse for a long prayer appropriate to the circumstances of the occasion which brought us together, and after it was over cake and and wine were handed round. Then a request was made that the junior clergyman should "return thanks," and he readily enough indulged in a prayer, in which he gathered up the fragments peculiar to the circumstances which his colleague had omitted, and that was the whole religious service—simply a grace before and after meat.

That terrible scourge, the cholera, which visited the country in 1832, gave a fatal blow to the bacchanalian orgies with which it had been the fashion to celebrate funerals in Port Glasgow. Men were willing enough to pay the last possible mark of respect to the dead, but naturally took every precaution to avoid exposing themselves to unnecessary risk. So, instead of meeting in the house, as had been the custom, they simply gathered in the street before the door and followed the hearse to the place of burial. The old Port Glasgow gentleman, who is my informant, would not enter into particulars about the proceedings prior to that date; but he made the significant remark that while the new fashion only involved the loss of a whole day.

When an invitation is being given verbally to a funeral in Scotland the person invited usually asks: "When do you lift?" meaning "at what hour is the funeral to take place?" The manner of conveying the coffin from the house to the place of interment, still followed in Eaglesham, a village in the south of Renfrewshire, abundantly explains this phrase. As can be well enough understood, hearses and coaches are institutions belonging to towns and cities, not to villages. In the latter the coffin is borne to the grave on three poles, which are passed under it, long enough to leave a sufficient portion for two men to grasp on either side. Of course it is impossible to place these "spokes" in position in the house, so a couple of stools are brought out to the street, the coffin is placed upon them, and when the cortege is ready to go the spokes are passed under, the coffin is "lifted" and the procession moves off.

Though Eaglesham is not ten miles distant from Glasgow, the old fashion of warning everybody to the funeral is still followed, and as the houses generally are small, the company often enough meets in the church. Even in the sacred edifice, after the performance of short religious exercises, a tray with glasses on it is occasionally brought in, and a supply of liquor served out to all who care to partake of it. In this village it is also the custom for the entire company to wait in the churchyard till the burial has been quite completed. Eaglesham in this respect presenting a favorable contrast to other places, where only one or two of the nearer relatives are left to see the sexton complete his work. The last shovelful of earth having been put in, the chief mourner gets up on a stone, and, taking off his hat, says, in a loud voice, "Gentlemen, I thank you for your company," which is the signal to disperse.

I feel persuaded that it is one of the "things not generally known" that "waking" the dead has been practiced [illegible] in vogue there. When a death occurs in Glen Urquhart, the [illegible] household are [illegible] with their dead till the day of the [illegible]. The [illegible] [illegible] are not provided by the relatives of the deceased, each attender bringing his own [illegible] supplied by the family in whose house the wake is held, and pretty freely dispensed. Such gatherings are favorite resorts of blushing lasses and strapping lads who are courting, and are often the scene of more laughter than tears.

The funerals in this locality present an imposing spectacle, often as many as a hundred men, decently clad in black broadcloth, winding in slow procession through the valley, in the rear of the bearers who carry the coffin. But here again we had an illustration of local variations of customs; for though it is the habit to invite all the male inhabitants of the district, the next door neighbors of the deceased would not go to the funeral without receiving a direct invitation; while over the hills, in the adjoining glen, no invitations are issued, but everybody is expected to attend. Of course, where drink is supplied at the wake it is not withheld at the burial, and besides the round served out the house there is another often at the churchyard. Enough drink and bread and cheese to supply a hundred men is no light weight, and where the cortege has to go a few miles to the place of interment it is usual to send a small pony-cart, bearing the refreshments, after the party. A jar of whisky invariably forms part of the contents of the cart, whatever may be the more solid portion of the refreshment provided. The people are Free Church to a man, but they are not teetotal, and it is nothing out of common, after the grave has been filled up, to see an old Free Church elder standing possibly on a flat tombstone, engaged in asking a blessing on the refreshment about to be partaken, with a bottle of whisky in one hand and a glass in the other.

EXTRAVAGANCE

is a crime; and ladies can not afford to do without Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" which by preserving and restoring health, preserves and restores the beauty which depends on health.

A Peripatetic Mourner.

"Have you got a little time to do a little figuring for me?" asked a seedy man leaning over the bookkeeper's desk. "Just a little figuring?"

"What is it!" demanded the bookkeeper impatiently.

"Put down 22,673," replied the seedy man humbly.

"Go on," said the bookkeeper.

"Got it down already? You are quick at figures. Now put down 7,621."

"Go ahead."

"Now make another column. Put down 624."

"Come, come! hurry up!"

"And 2,463. Put that under the 624."

"Well, what next?"

"Commence another column with 1,436, and add the whole business up."

"How's that?" demanded the bookkeeper. "Add on the separate columns and then add them together."

"Add 'em all at once, if you'd rather." replied the tramp with humility. "How much does it make?"

"It makes 35,817," replied the bookkeeper.

"Could you walk that number of miles?" asked the seedy man.

"I shouldn't like to try," rejoined the bookkeeper.

"If you saw a man who had got that far to walk before he could plant a stem on the grave of his poor old mother would you not lend him a quarter until he got back?"

The stony heart of the bookkeeper was not proof against this appeal, and the mourner went away happy.

NOTING THE EFFECTS.

R. Gibbs, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Hearing your Burdock Blood Bitters favorably spoken of, I was induced to watch their effects, and find that in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, your bitters have been signally marked with success. I have used them myself with best results, for torpidity of the liver; and in the case of a friend of mine suffering from dropsy, the effect was marvelous." Price $1,00.

The guests have dined and the host hands round a case of cigars. "I don't smoke myself," he says, "but you will find them good—my man steals more of them than of any other brand I ever had.

Boarding and Day School for Ladies and Gentlemen.

Next term of 13 weeks begins on Monday Sept. 5th. The branches taught will be those usually taught in a first class boarding school. There will be a corps of well qualified teachers so as to give the best instruction. Common and Higher English Bookkeeping, Classics, French, German and Music will form part of the course. Five day boarders at special rates.

☞ The school is designed for those wishing to make rapid progress in their classes. To this end the classes are small, so that each pupil may have individual attention. No student is required to wait on another but passes from one class to another as soon as qualified. Small schools, select in their character, are a great advantage to timid and backward pupils. The charges are low for the advantages offered. Boarders are received into the family of the Principal at moderate charges. Apply to [illegible] Youth to Forty.

[illegible] beyond bound,
[illegible] around,
[illegible] dangerous ground;
[illegible] stream and wild,
[illegible] wild,
[illegible] trusting child,
[illegible] on to forty.

[illegible] to sober tread—
[illegible] which foolish fancies fed,
[illegible] judgment, wiser head;
[illegible] to work from thoughtless play;
[illegible] greener thoughts from gay,
[illegible] to me along the way
I strode while reaching forty.

Through visions which had real seemed—
Through visions wilder than I dreamed;
Through shadows where the silver gleamed,
Through sunny places half o'ercast,
[illegible] shapes which flitted fast—
[illegible] brightness cannot always last,
And youth must merge into forty.

[illegible] let me count my treasures o'er;
[illegible] have I won or lost? Far more
[illegible] lost than gained. Such boundless store
[illegible] and hope I boasted, when [illegible] from a lad of ten
[illegible] where my vision broadened. Then [illegible] faith exceeded forty.

[illegible] have learned, and much unlearned—
[illegible] received, and more have spurned;
[illegible] might have been discerned
[illegible]—wandered by
[illegible] or averted eye;
[illegible] that the moments fly
[illegible] youth to forty.

[illegible] the summit of the race,
[illegible] move with slower pace;
[illegible] no breathing place;
[illegible] turn me as I will,
The [illegible] crowd and jostle still,
And I may hasten down the hill
[illegible] another forty.

I view the path I've wandered on,
Where forty years have come and gone,
[illegible] of faith and hope lies strewn
And pray they may prove finest gold;
The remnant of the faith I hold,
And [illegible] of hope I still infold,
At last another forty.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

Remarks From the Chair—Important Decisions &c.

"If I had a chance to lib my life over agin," said the President as a solemn hush fell upon the meeting, "I should chalk down sartin fings dat I should 'spect to come to pass, an' I should chalk down sartin odder fings dat I shouldn't reckon on unless a cyclone got loose and tore down de fences. I should look fur—

"De man who eats onions to stop all argy wid ebery man he meets gwine down de street.

"I should 'spect men who owed de most, an' war de leas' ablest to pay to wear de bes' clothes and have de moas' [illegible] when de circus comes along.

"I should 'spect my naybur to empty his ashes on de spot most convenient to [illegible] as to whether de spot was on my land or his.

"I should 'spect de broadcloth an' silk would be worn on de street by people who fill up on [illegible] at home.

"I should [illegible] of men who I did not lend to, an' be beat by [illegible] of sich as I favored.

[illegible]

"[illegible] about as much [illegible] so much [illegible] about [illegible] de [illegible] I should 'spect [illegible] run, and de [illegible] to go out, [illegible] to open whedder I was in [illegible] in de cabbage [illegible]

[illegible] I shouldn't look fur, [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] to [illegible] The election was then proceeded with and the following [illegible] were made happy for life: [illegible] Johnson, Lord Buck, [illegible] Hawks, Col. Henry Green, [illegible]

Under the head of "Communications," the Secretary announced an inquiry from the City clerk's office of Cincinnati, as to whether a person could be happy without riches.

"I hev no doubt dey kin—fur a short time," replied the President. "When de persimmon seasun fust opens, I reckon dat a cullud man who doan eben own de buckles on his suspenders, kin sit down 'long side of a tree an' just take as solid comfort fur twenty minutes as if he possessed six millyun dollars. As fur de remainder of de year, I spect de rich man am ahead."

"Do I understan' de Cha'r to advise de members of dis club to struggle for riches?" inquired the Rev. Obadiah Higginbottom as he carefully rose up.

"Not edzactly, sah, but just struggle hard 'nuff to have $100 in de house in case of sickness, and a $20 bill whar it could be found in case you played poker wid a man from Chicago and came out strapped."

A further communication from an eastern scientific society desired to know if the club agreed with the theory that that the world was gradually tipping up on a slant. The President called for a general expression of opinion, and Givendam Jones said he had given the matter considerable attention without being able to discover that there was any unnatural movement.

Samuel Shin had noticed a peculiar slant to his cellar stairs but whether caused by tilt of the earth or the need of repairs he was not prepared to say.

Pickles Smith had left a wheel barrow out of doors over night and it had moved a mile and a half before morning. He had at first ascribed to the tilt of the earth, but a policeman had subsequently made an arrest and sent the thief to the workhouse.

Several other members cited instances to show that they were undetermined in their opinions, and the Chair ordered the secretary to reply to the effect that if the world was on a tip the club had not observed it, or were in such harmony with the movement that they couldn't.

The committee on privileges reported in favor of a new by-law to reject all applicants found guilty of arguing Biblical questions, and pointed to the case of Whalebone Howker vs Prof. Dayball as evidence of what ill feeling could be engendered between old members by such arguments. After arguing for three quarters of an hour on the age of Judas Iscariot, Brother Howker had knocked the Professor senseless with a paving stone and been fined $10 at the police court. The report of the committee was adopted and the new law ordered to go into immediate effect.

The committee on harmony reported that it had thus far failed to bring about a reconciliation with the Shin [illegible] of Wheeling, Va., the said club having been accused of stealing the by-laws of the Lime Kiln Club. The secretary was instructed to open no further communications from the Shins.

The committee on judiciary reported in favor of a law to make the throwing of a bad egg at a public lecturer an offence punishable by one year's imprisonment, but the report was rejected by a vote 58 to 7, and the chairman of the committee got ten days leave of absence to bury his father.

In closing the meeting Brother Gardner [illegible] that after the [illegible] of October [illegible] in the hall [illegible] guilty of [illegible] of Andrew [illegible] to find the first [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Americans make the best soldiers and they form the majority of all we take. [illegible] of eighteen and twenty-two, educated, sound and strong, and anxious to do something and to get away from home without knowing just what they want to go at. The majority are country boys, mainly those who had already come to the city, but others come to the city on purpose, having read our posters, which I send to the postmasters and others to put up in the villages.

"Do not men enlist to get out of trouble?"

"Yes, we have had such cases. Two men in a batch that was sent down from Albany not long ago were escaped convicts. They got here one day and the officers who were after them came next day. One was a horse thief and the other robbed his employer's till. They were recognized and taken away. We have had many curious incidents here. One day a man from Jersey City came and enlisted. He said he had no family. Afterward a deputation of his friends came. They said he was a widower with a home and children. He had thrown up his place in the factory locked his children in a room and come over here. The deputation went on to Washington, and, with the aid of their representative in congress, secured his discharge. Another man enlisted and the next day deserted. He was recognized in the street and brought back. Later his wife came with several children and begged for his discharge. She succeeded in getting it. It turned out that he was cruel and brutal and was in the habit of beating her. Again a wealthy Brooklyn man, owner of a prosperous seaside hotel, came to see about getting his son into the army. The son was well educated and a fine looking young fellow of eighteen. The father said the boy wanted to be a soldier, and he, too, [illegible] was that [illegible] father's authority. [illegible] army was a good field in which to learn to respect authority, and the boy was enlisted. His father asked what he could give him, and I said underclothing. He got a number of good of suits. The boy will probably make a good soldier.

We send the recruits to Jefferson barracks, eleven miles south of St Louis, where they are drilled, taught to ride, and in every way trained for the service. They have to serve five years, and then they are paid $13 a month the first year $14 the second year, $15 the fourth year, and $16 the fifth year. If they re-enlist they get $18 a month. About half the whole number re-enlist. Bright young country fellows often do better in the army than they could at home. The chances of promotion are greater than you would suppose. The smart young men get to be non-commissioned officers and are well paid. A sergeant for instance gets $17 a month the first year, $18 the second, $19 the third, $20 the fourth, and $22 the fifth year. The promotions go even further. There were not cadet graduates enough from West Point last year to fill all the vacancies in the grade of Second Lieutenant occasioned by retirements by reason of age or disability, and fourteen non-commissioned officers were promoted to that rank. Then again a soldier manages to save money. He gets an allowance for clothing each year. Sixty-nine dollars the first year, and so on, the sums amounting in five years to $330. A [illegible] to save about [illegible] which is paid to him. Then there is a [illegible] 1874 [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] with a [illegible] Combinations of black and white [illegible] of it, while the [illegible] black [illegible]

Cloth costumes are [illegible] They [illegible] men's Business suits, are liked for [illegible] toilets, and are shown in both light and dark shades.

Red woolen goods are lavishly used for little people. Scarlet kilts, with dark blue blouses, scarlet gowns, with blue guimpe, or with scarlet, are frequently seen and are usually becoming.

Wraps of the latest fashion in Paris show suggestions of paniers; that is, they are often draped a little in the back or side back seams, and lace and galloon or revealed rushings trim them beautifully.

Scarlet is a favorite shade of color for combinations. A very pretty suit has a bright scarlet skirt, kilted over, which is worn with drapery and jacket of dark blue. A felt hat of dark blue, with scarlet feathers, accompanies this, and a scarlet silk parasol is carried.

A Paris promenade toilet for early autumn wear has the skirt in deep blue velvet, a plain design, with one frill of self goods disposed on the edge and faced at the top with satin of a golden hue. The basque has hip panniers, faced and shirred with satin. The sleeves are close-fitting, over which are drawn yellow kids.

FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., writes: "I never sold any medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction as Thomas' Eclectric Oil. In my own case it cured a badly ulcerated throat, and in threatened croup in my children it never failed to relieve."

Be of Good Cheer.

A man who acquires a habit of giving away to depression is on the road to ruin. When trouble comes upon him, instead of arousing his energies to combat it, he weakens and [illegible] dull and [illegible] ed, and he sinks in the slough of despair. And if anybody pulls him out by main force, and places him safe on solid ground, he stands there dejected and discouraged, and is pretty sure to waste the means of help that have been given him. How different it is with the man who takes a cheery view of life even at its worst, and faces every ill with unyielding pluck! He may be swept away by an overwhelming tide of misfortune, but he bravely struggles for the shore, and is ever ready to make the most of the help that may be given him. A cheerful, hopeful, courageous disposition is an invaluable trait of character, and should be assiduously cultivated.

SCIPIO, N. Y., Dec. 1, 1879.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of 6 of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, [illegible] whom have also been [illegible] by them.

From Youth to Forty.

With many a careless, joyous bound,
With many a weary treadmill round,
O'er smooth-spread turf or dangerous ground;
By many a limpid stream and rill,
By many a mountain torrent wild,
I, from a simple, trusting child,
Have wandered on to forty.

From feet that skipped to sober tread
From mind which foolish fancies fed,
To sounder judgment, wiser head;
The change to work from thoughtless play;
The change to graver thoughts from gay,
Which came to me along the way
I strode while reaching forty.

Through visions which had real seemed;
Through visions wilder than I dreamed;
Through shadows where the silver gleamed,
Through sunny places half o'ercast,
But eerie shapes which flitted fast—
For brightness cannot always last,
And youth must merge into forty.

Now let me count my treasures o'er;
What have I won or lost? Far more
Have lost than gained. Such boundless store
Of faith and hope I boasted, when
I wandered from a lad of ten
To where my vision broadened. Then
My faith exceeded forty.

Some that have learned, and much unlearned;
Some good received, and more have spurned;
And much that might have been discerned
I felt unheeded—wandered by
With careless or averted eye;
Forgetting that the moments fly
So fast from youth to forty.

I've reached the summit of the race,
And would move with slower pace;
But forty has no breathing place;
So, shift and turn me as I will,
The years will crowd and jostle still,
And I may hasten down the hill
To store another forty.

I view the path I've wandered on,
Where forty years have come and gone,
And much of faith and hope lies strewn
And pray they may prove finest gold;
The remnant of the faith I hold,
And shred of hope I still infold,
And last another forty.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

Remarks From the Chair—Important Decisions &c.

If I had a chance to lib my life over agin," said the President as a solemn hush fell upon the meeting, "I should chalk down sartin fings dat I should 'spect to come to pass, an' I should chalk down sartin odder fings dat I shouldn't reckon on onless a cyclone got loose and tore down de fences. I should look fur—

"De man who eats onions to stop all argy wid ebery man he meets gwine down de street.

"I should 'spect men who owe'd de mos, an' war de leas' ablest to pay to war de bes' clothes and have de mos' change when de circus comes along.

"I should 'spect my naybur to empty his ashes on de spot mos convenient to himself, widout any reference as to whedder de spot was on my land or his.

"I should 'spect de broadcloth an' silk would be worn on de street by people who fill up on cold taters at home.

"I should 'spect de enmity of men who I did not lend to, an' be beat by by nine outer ten of sich as I favored.

"I should 'spect to be looked upon as a fanatic by men belongin' to a different church from mine, an' to be abused and called a fool by men votin' de opposite political ticket.

"I should 'spect about as much bad wedder, about so much sickness, about so many pains and aches, an' hungry days an' lonely nights, an' knowin' de world as I know it now, I should 'spect de boats to run, and de trains to go out, and de stores to open whedder I was in bed wid de ager or ober in de cabbage lot in de bes' of health.

"As fur de fings I shouldn't look fur, dey is almost too numerous to menshun.

"I shouldn't look fur a laborin' man workin' fur ten shillin's a day to permit his whiskey to cost more than his flour.

"I shouldn't look fur a girl airnin' fo' dollars a week to dress like a banker's wife nor put on de agony of a princess.

"I shouldn't look fur my naybur to sweat drivin' cows outer my garden, any mo' dan he would expect me to bust my suspenders keepin' de boys away from his harvest apples.

"I shouldn't look fur my chillen to come up widout faults, nor my family to lib widout bein' hit by malice or wounded by gossip.

"I shouldn't look fur any more room in de street kyar dan I payed fur, nor a better suit of clothes dat de sarcumstances permitted.

"I shouldn't look for any man's word or promise to stand good unless he was sartin dat he would be de gainer by makin' em so. It am now time to proceed wid de business which has reinstated us togeder an' de triangle will be stricken in due form an' a collection will be taken up to defray de expenses of obsarvin' de transit of Venus from de no'thwest corner of de City Hall Market."

The treasurer passed the hat in the most agreeable manner, but the result, as it was returned to the desk, [illegible] the Glee Club sing in a ravishin' manner an' de bean box be galloped around."

Sir Isaac Walpole desired to ask, before proceeding further, if the President referred to him as the neighbor not expected to sweat his collar driving cows out of the president's garden? The President replied that nothing was further from his thoughts. Indeed he had known Sir Isaac to arise at midnight and drive cows out of a brick yard for fear of damage. They had lived neighbors for thirteen long years, and he was glad to remark that Mrs. Walpole never yet returned a tub with a hoop or a handle gone, and that Sir Isaac always had gilt edged butter and Java coffee to lend.

The election was then proceeded with and the following candidates were made happy for life: Yonka Jones, Clayger Johnson, Lord Buck, Mulberry Hawks, Col. Henry Green, Elder Cantiff, Judge Poplin and Elp-rap Powers.

Under the head of "communications," the Secretary announced an inquiry from the City clerk's office of Cincinnati, as to whether a person could be happy without riches.

"I hev no doubt dey kin—fur a short time," replied the President. "When de persimmon sezun fust opens, I reckon dat a culled man who doan eben own de buckles on his suspenders, kin sit down 'long side of a tree an' just take as solid comfort fur twenty minutes as if he possessed six millyun dollars. As fur de remainder of de year, I spect de rich man am ahead."

"Do I understan' de Cha'r to advise de members of dis club to struggle for riches?" inquired the Rev. Obadiah Higginbottom as he carefully rose up.

"Not edzactly, sah, but just struggle hard 'nuff to have $100 in de house in case of sickness, and a $20 bill whar it could be found in case you played poker wid a man from Chicago and came out strapped."

A further communication from an eastern scientific society desired to know if the club agreed with the theory that that the world was gradually tipping up on a slant. The President called for a general expression of opinion, and Giveadam Jones said he had given the matter considerable attention without being able to discover that there was any unnatural movement.

Samuel Shin had noticed a peculiar slant to his cellar stairs but whether caused by tilt of the earth or the need of repairs he was not prepared to say.

Pickles Smith had left a wheel barrow out of doors over night and it had moved a mile and a half before morning. He had at first ascribed to the tilt of the earth, but a policeman had subsequently made an arrest and sent the thief to the workhouse.

Several other members cited instances to show that they were undetermined in their opinions, and the Chair ordered the secretary to reply to the effect that if the world was on a tip the club had not observed it, or were in such harmony with the movement that they couldn't.

The committee on privileges reported in favor of a new by-law to reject all applicants found guilty of arguing Biblical questions, and pointed to the case of Whalebone Howker vs Prof. Dayball as evidence of what ill feeling could be engendered between old members by such arguments. After arguing for three quarters of an hour on the age of Judas Iscariot, Brother Howker had knocked the Professor senseless with a paving stone and been fined $10 at the police court. The report of the committee was adopted and the new law ordered to go into immediate effect.

The committee on harmony reported that it had thus far failed to bring about a reconciliation with the Shin club, of Wheeling, Va., the said club having been accused of stealing the by-laws of the Lime Kiln Club. The secretary was instructed to open no further communications from the Shins.

The committee on judiciary reported in favor of a law to make the throwing of a bad egg at a public lecturer an offence punishable by one year's imprisonment, but the report was rejected by a vote 38 to 7, and the chairman of the committee got ten days leave of absence to bury his father.

In closing the meeting Brother Gardner remarked that after the 1st of October no dogs would be allowed in the hall and that any member found guilty of spitting on the stove or throwing peach stones at the sacred bust of Andrew Jackson would be made to feel the first pangs of dyspepsia. The contents of the water pail was then thrown over the crowd of barbers and the meeting went home.

ARMY RECRUITS.

Something About the Men who Join the Regular Army—Methods of Recruiting.

A New York reporter entered a recruiting office in that city and introduced himself to the officer in charge, Captain E. J. Spaulding, of the Second Regiment of cavalry, to find out what sort of people become recruits.

"All sorts of people apply," said the captain, "but we are very particular whom we accept. A great many emigrants apply, but we prefer Americans, and do not accept any man unless he speaks English. We find that young Americans make the best soldiers and they form the majority of all we take. They are young fellows between the ages of eighteen and twenty-two, educated, sound and strong, and anxious to do something and to get away from home without knowing just what they want to go at. The majority are country boys, mainly those who had already come to the city, but others come to the city on purpose, having read our posters, which I send to the postmasters and others to put up in the villages.

"Do not men enlist to get out of trouble?"

"Yes, we have had such cases. Two men in a batch that was sent down from Albany not long ago were escaped convicts. They got here one day and the officers who were after them came next day. One was a horse thief and the other robbed his employer's till. They were recognized and taken away. We have had many curious incidents here. One day a man from Jersey City came and enlisted. He said he had no family. Afterward a deputation of his friends came. They said he was a widower with a home and children. He had thrown up his place in the factory locked his children in a room and come over here. The deputation went on to Washington, and, with the aid of their representative in congress, secured his discharge. Another man enlisted and the next day deserted. He was recognized in the street and brought back. Later his wife came with several children and begged for his discharge. She succeeded in getting it. It turned out that he was cruel and brutal and was in the habit of beating her. Again a wealthy Brooklyn man, owner of a prosperous seaside hotel, came to see about getting his son into the army. The son was well educated and a fine looking young fellow of eighteen. The father said the lad wanted to be a soldier, and he, too, desired it. He said the young man had no bad habits, the only trouble was that he did not respect his father's authority. I said the army was a good field in which to learn to respect authority, and the boy was enlisted. His father asked what he could give him, and I said underclothing. He got a number of good of suits. The boy will probably make a good soldier.

We send the recruits to Jefferson barracks, eleven miles south of St Louis, where they are drilled, taught to ride, and in every way trained for the service. They have to serve five years, and then they are paid $13 a month the first year, $14 the second year, $15 the fourth year, and $16 the fifth year. If they re-enlist they get $18 a month. About half the whole number re-enlist. Bright young country fellows often do better in the army than they could at home. The chances of promotion are greater than you would suppose. The smart young men get to be non-commissioned officers and are well paid. A sergeant for instance gets $17 a month the first year, $18 the second, $19 the third, $20 the fourth, and $22 the fifth year. The promotions go even further. There were not cadet graduates enough from West Point last year to fill all the vacancies in the grade of Second Lieutenant occasioned by retirements by reason of age or disability, and fourteen non-commissioned officers were promoted to that rank. Then again a soldier manages to save money. He gets an allowance for clothing each year. Sixty-nine dollars the first year and so on, the sums amounting in five years to $229. A shrewd man manages to save about $100 of that, and when he is discharged the sum is paid to him. Then there is a saving by system, introduced in 1874, by which a soldier is able to draw and redeposit his salary with the paymaster. It's becoming quite a feature in the under-service. The men save a great deal and four per cent is allowed while the money is on deposit."

The Captain added that the soldiers see opportunities in the west to invest their savings to the best advantage after they quit soldiering. They see fortunes made in land where land is very cheap. They can get a piece of land for $15 and their five years in the army counts as so much residence on the land, though they must actually live one year upon it before they can get their patent for it. They go into cattle raising and often do extremely well. The number of recruits is greatest when winter is coming on, or in times when there are strikes or laboring men are in need.

To join the army the requirements are that an applicant must have permission from his parents or guardian if he is under twenty-one. If he is twenty-one he must come voluntarily. He must be absolutely sober when he applies. He will be turned away if he has taken a drink and the odor of it on his breath is detected. He will not be allowed to have opportunity afterward to claim that he did not know what he was doing [illegible]

Fashion Notes.

Cuirass bodices and large round hats are announced.

Pure colored silk is worn [illegible] with a black ball trimming.

Shoulder capes of guipure lace are the most stylish black fabrics now worn.

Gold straw, gold braids, braid and cording trim many of the new imported bonnets.

The newest ribbons for trimming are velvet on one side and corded like Sicilienne on the other.

A silver horseshoe is fastened on the arm at the meeting of a long tan glove with a short sleeve.

Combinations of black and white are as popular as ever. Petticoats are made of it, while the upper portion of the costume may be black silk, cashmere, or [illegible].

Cloth costumes are increasing in favor. Tiny checks such as are seen in gentlemen's business suits, are liked for these toilets, and are shown in both light and dark shades.

Red woolen goods are lavishly used for little people. Scarlet kilts, with dark blue blouses, scarlet gowns, with blue guimps, or with scarlet, are frequently seen and are usually becoming.

Wraps of the latest fashion in Paris show suggestions of paniers; that is, they are often draped a little in the back or side back seams, and lace and galloon or revealed rushings trim them beautifully.

Scarlet is a favorite shade of color for combinations. A very pretty suit has a bright scarlet skirt, kilted over, which is worn with drapery and jacket of dark blue. A felt hat of dark blue, with scarlet feathers, accompanies this, and a scarlet silk parasol is carried.

A Paris promenade toilet for early autumn wear has the skirt in deep blue velvet, a plain design, with one frill of self goods disposed on the edge and faced at the top with satin of a golden hue. The basque has hip panniers, faced and shirred with satin. The sleeves are close-fitting, over which are drawn yellow kids.

FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., writes: "I never sold any medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction as Thomas' Eclectric Oil. In my own case it cured a badly ulcerated throat, and in threatened croup in my children it never failed to relieve."

Be of Good Cheer.

A man who acquires a habit of giving away to depression is on the road to ruin. When trouble comes upon him, instead of arousing his energies to combat it, he weakens and his faculties grow dull, and his judgment [illegible], and he sinks in the slough of despair. And if anybody pulls him out by main force, and places him safe on solid ground, he stands there dejected and discouraged, and is pretty sure to waste the means of help that have been given him. How different it is with the man who takes a cheery view of life even at its worst, and faces every ill with unyielding pluck! He may be swept away by an overwhelming tide of misfortune, but he bravely struggles for the shore, and is ever ready to make the most of the help that may be given him. A cheerful, hopeful, courageous disposition is an invaluable trait of character, and should be assiduously cultivated.

SCIPIO, N. Y., Dec. 1, 1879.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of 6 of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them.

REV. E. R. WARREN.

An old lady, hearing that John Bright contemplated visiting this country, hoped that he wouldn't bring his "disease" with him.

A POWERFUL CONTRAST.

When the soldiers of the dark ages were attacked with tetter, they could do nought but suffer. Medical science had not yet developed a cure. This labor of love and humane duty was left for Dr. Swayne, whose ointment for skin diseases is as infallible in its results as was the inspiring potency of Patrick Henry's memorable words: "Give me liberty or give me death." 30w4

A BAPTIST MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE.

I am a baptist minister, and before I ever thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, forty years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured me. My wife and child had diphtheria, cured them, and if taken in time will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing [illegible]

THE GREAT APPETIZER TONIC, AND COUGH CURE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, AND All Diseases OF THE THROAT, CHEST AND LUNGS.

The BALSAM of TOLU has always been one of the most important weapons wielded by the Medical Faculty against the encroachments of the above Diseases, but it has never been so advantageously compounded as in LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK and RYE. Its soothing Balsamic properties afford a diffusive stimulant, appetizer and tonic, to build up the system after the cough has been relieved.

GREEN B. RAUM, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., Jan. 8th, 1880, says: "TOLU, ROCK and RYE is an agreeable Remedy in Pectoral complaints and is classed as a Medicinal preparation under the U. S. Revised Statutes, and when so stamped, may be sold by DRUGGISTS, GROCERS, and other persons, without special tax, or license.

CAUTION! Don't be deceived by dealers who try to palm off Rock and Rye for LAWRENCE & MARTIN'S TOLU, ROCK and RYE—which is the only MEDICATED article made—the genuine has their name on the Proprietary Stamp on each bottle.

From Youth to Forty.

With many a careless, joyous bound,
With many a weary treadmill round,
O'er smooth-spread turf or dangerous ground;
By many a limpid stream and mild,
By many a mountain torrent wild,
I, from a simple, trusting child,
Have wandered on to forty.

From feet that skipped to sober tread—
From mind which foolish fancies fed,
To sounder judgment, wiser head;
The change to work from thoughtless play;
The change to graver thoughts from gay,
Which came to me along the way
I strode while reaching forty.

Through visions which had real seemed—
Through visions wilder than I dreamed;
Through shadows where the silver gleamed,
Through sunny places half o'ercast,
But eerie shapes which flitted fast—
For brightness cannot always last,
And youth must merge into forty.

Now let me count my treasures o'er;
What have I won or lost? Far more
Have lost than gained. Such boundless store
Of faith and hope I boasted, when
I wandered from a lad of ten
To where my vision broadened. Then
My faith exceeded forty.

Somewhat have learned, and much unlearned—
Some good received, and more have spurned;
And much that might have been discerned
I left unheeded—wandered by
With careless or averted eye;
Forgetting that the moments fly
So fast from youth to forty.

I've reached the summit of the race,
And would move with slower pace;
But forty has no breathing place;
So, shift and turn me as I will,
The years will crowd and jostle still,
And I may hasten down the hill
To shore another forty.

I view the path I've wandered on,
Where forty years have come and gone,
And much of faith and hope lies strewn
And pray they may prove finest gold;
The remnant of the faith I hold,
And shred of hope I still infold,
And last another forty.

THE LIME KILN CLUB.

Remarks From the Chair—Important Decisions &c.

If I had a chance to lib my life over agin," said the President as a solemn hush fell upon the meeting, "I should chalk down sartin fings dat I should 'spect to come to pass, an' I should chalk down sartin odder fings dat I shouldn't reckon on onless a cyclone got loose and tore down de fences. I should look fur—

"De man who eats onions to stop all argy wid ebery man he meets gwine down de street.

"I should 'spect men who owed de mos' an' war de leas' ablest to pay to w'ar de bes' clothes and have de mos' change when de circus comes along.

"I should 'spect my naybur to empty his ashes on de spot mos convenient to himself widout any reference as to whedder de spot was on my land or his.

"I should spect de broadcloth an' silk would be worn on de street by people who fill up on cold taters at home.

"I should 'spect de enmity of men who I did not lend to, an' be beat by by nine outer ten of sich as I favored.

"I should 'spect to be looked upon as a fanatic by men belongin' to a different church from mine, an' to be abused and called a fool by men votin' de opposite political ticket.

"I should 'spect about as much bad wedder, about so much sickness, about so many pains and aches, an' hungry days an' lonely nights, an' knowin' de world as I know it now, I should 'spect de boats to run, and de trains to go out, and de stores to open whedder I was in bed wid de ager or ober in de cabbage lot in de bes' of health.

"As fur de fings I shouldn't look fur, dey is almons too numerous to menshun.

"I shouldn't look fur a laborin' man workin' fur ten shillin's a day to permit his whiskey "to cost" more than his flour.

"I shouldn't look fur a girl airnin' fo' dollars a week to dress like a banker's daughter, [illegible] de agony of a princess. [illegible]

[illegible] de boys [illegible]

"I shouldn't look for my [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] for the Club now, but he expects to sweat his collar driving cows out of the president's garden? The President replied that nothing was further from his thoughts. Indeed he had known Sir Isaac to arise at midnight and drive cows out of a brick yard for fear of damage. They had lived neighbors for thirteen long years, and he was glad to remark that Mrs. Walpole never yet returned a tub with a hoop or a handle gone, and that Sir Isaac always had gilt edged butter and Java coffee to lend.

The election was then proceeded with and the following candidates were made happy for life: Yoube Jones, Ginger Johnson, Lord Buck, Mulberry Hawks, Col. Henry Green, Elder Caniff, Judge Poplin and Rip-rap Powers.

Under the head of "communications," the Secretary announced an inquiry from the City clerk's office of Cincinnatti, as to whether a person could be happy without riches.

"I hev no doubt dey kin—fur a short time," replied the President. "When de persimmon sezun fust opens, I reckon dat a cullud man who doan eben own de buckles on his suspenders, kin sit down 'long side of a tree an' just take as solid comfort fur twenty minutes as if he possessed six millyun dollars. As fur de remainder of de year, I spect de rich man am ahead."

"Do I understan' de Cha'r to advise de members of dis club to struggle for riches?" inquired the Rev. Obadiah Higginbottom as he carefully rose up.

"Not edzactly, sah, but just struggle hard 'nuff to have $100 in de house in case of sickness, and a $20 bill whar it could be found in case you played poker wid a man from Chicago and came out strapped."

A further communication from an eastern scientific society desired to know if the club agreed with the theory that that the world was gradually tipping up on a slant. The President called for a general expression of opinion, and Giveadam Jones said he had given the matter considerable attention without being able to discover that there was any unnatural movement.

Samuel Shin had noticed a peculiar slant to his cellar stairs but whether caused by tilt of the earth or the need of repairs he was not prepared to say.

Pickles Smith had left a wheel barrow out of doors over night and it had moved a mile and a half before morning. He had at first ascribed to the tilt of the earth, but a policeman had subsequently made an arrest and sent the thief to the workhouse.

Several other members cited instances to show that they were undetermined in their opinions, and the Chair ordered the secretary to reply to the effect that if the world was on a tip the club had not observed it, or were in such harmony with the movement that they couldn't.

The committee on privileges reported in favor of a new by-law to reject all applicants found guilty of arguing Biblical questions, and pointed to the case of Whalebone Howker vs Prof. Dayball as evidence of what ill feeling could be engendered between old members by such arguments. After arguing for three quarters of an hour on the age of Judas Iscariot, Brother Howker had knocked the Professor senseless with a paving stone and been fined $10 at the police court. The report of the committee was adopted and the new law ordered to go into immediate effect.

The committee on harmony reported that it had thus far failed to bring about a reconciliation with the Shin club, of Wheeling, Va., the said club having been accused of stealing the by-laws of the Lime Kiln Club. The secretary was instructed to open no further communications from the Shins.

The committee on judiciary reported in favor of a law to make the throwing of a bad egg at a public lecturer an offence punishable by one year's imprisonment, but the report was rejected by a vote 58 to 7, and the chairman of the committee got ten days leave of absence to bury his father.

In closing the meeting Brother Gardner remarked that after the 1st of October no dogs would be allowed in the hall and that any member found guilty of spitting on the stove or throwing peach stones at the sacred bust of Andrew Jackson would be made to feel the first pangs of dyspepia. The contents of the water pail was then thrown over the crowd of barbers and the meeting went home. [Detroit Free Press.

RECRUITS.

Something About the Men who Join the Regular Army—Methods of Recruiting.

A New York reporter entered a recruiting office in that city and introduced himself to the officer in charge, Captain E. J. Spaulding, of the Second Regiment of cavalry, to find out what sort of people become recruits.

"All sorts of people apply," said the captain, "but we are very particular whom we accept. A great many emigrants apply, but we prefer Americans, and do not accept any man unless he speaks English. We find that young Americans make the best soldiers and they form the majority of all we take. They are young fellows between the ages of eighteen and twenty-two, educated, sound and strong, and anxious to do something and to get away from home without knowing just what they want to go at. The majority are country boys, mainly those who had already come to the city, but others come to the city on purpose, having read our posters, which I send to the postmasters and others to put up in the villages.

"Do not men enlist to get out of trouble?"

"Yes, we have had such cases. Two men in a batch that was sent down from Albany not long ago were escaped convicts. They got here one day and the officers who were after them came next day. One was a horse thief and the other robbed his employer's till. They were recognized and taken away. We have had many curious incidents here. One day a man from Jersey City came and enlisted. He said he had no family. Afterward a deputation of his friends came. They said he was a widower with a home and children. He had thrown up his place in the factory locked his children in a room and come over here. The deputation went on to Washington, and, with the aid of their representative in congress, secured his discharge. Another man enlisted and the next day deserted. He was recognized in the street and brought back. Later his wife came with several children and begged for his discharge. She succeeded in getting it. It turned out that he was cruel and brutal and was in the habit of beating her. Again a wealthy Brooklyn man, owner of a prosperous seaside hotel, came to see about getting his son into the army. The son was well educated and a fine looking young fellow of eighteen. The father said the lad wanted to be a soldier, and he, too, desired it. He said the young man had no bad habits, the only trouble was that he did not respect his father's authority. I said the army was a good field in which to learn to respect authority, and the boy was enlisted. His father asked what he could give him, and I said underclothing. He got a number of good of suits. The boy will probably make a good soldier.

We send the recruits to Jefferson barracks, eleven miles south of St Louis, where they are drilled, taught to ride, and in every way trained for the service. They have to serve five years, and then they are paid $13 a month the first year $14 the second year, $15 the fourth year, and $16 the fifth year. If they re-enlist they get $18 a month. About half the whole number re-enlist. Bright young country fellows often do better in the army than they could at home. The chances of promotion are greater than you would suppose. The smart young men get to be non-commissioned officers and are well paid. A sergeant for instance gets $17 a month the first year, $18 the second, $19 the third, $20 the fourth, and $22 the fifth year. The promotions go even further. There were not cadet graduates enough from West Point last year to fill all toe vacancies in the grade of Second Lieutenant occasioned by retirements by reason of age or disability, and fourteen non-commissioned officers were promoted to that rank. Then again a soldier manages to save money. He gets an allowance for clothing each year. Sixty-nine dollars the first year and so on, the sums amounting in five years to $239. A shrewd man manages to save about $100 of that, and when he is discharged the sum is paid to him. Then there is a saving by system, introduced in 1874, by which a soldier is able to draw and redeposit his salary with the paymaster. It is becoming quite a feature in the under-service. The men save a great deal and four per cent is allowed while the money is on deposit."

The Captain added that the soldiers see opportunities [illegible] their savings to the best advantage [illegible] they quit soldiering. They are frequently made [illegible] land where land is very [illegible]

[illegible]

Small bonnets and large round hats are announced.

Rose colored [illegible] is worn, [illegible] shoulders with a black tulle costume.

Shoulder capes of guipure lace are the most stylish black fichus now worn.

Gold straw, gold beads, braid and cording trim many of the new imported bonnets.

The newest ribbons for trimming are velvet on one side and corded like Sicilienne on the other.

A silver horseshoe is fastened on the arm at the meeting of a long tan glove with a short sleeve.

Combinations of black and white are as popular as ever. Petticoats are made of it, while the upper portion of the costume may be black silk, cashmere, or nun's veiling.

Cloth costumes are increasing in favor. Tiny checks such as are seen in gentlemen's business suits, are liked for those toilets, and are shown in both light and dark shades.

Red woolen goods are lavishly used for little people. Scarlet kilts, with dark blue blouses, scarlet gowns, with blue guimps, or with scarlet, are frequently seen and are usually becoming.

Wraps of the latest fashion in Paris show suggestions of paniers; that is, they are often draped a little in the back or side back seams, and lace and galloon or revealed rushings trim them beautifully.

Scarlet is a favorite shade of color for combinations. A very pretty suit has a bright scarlet skirt, kilted over, which is worn with drapery and jacket of dark blue. A felt hat of dark blue, with scarlet feathers, accompanies this, and a scarlet silk parasol is carried.

A Paris promenade toilet for early autumn wear has the skirt in deep blue velvet, a plain design, with one frill of self goods disposed on the edge and faced at the top with satin of a golden hue. The basque has hip panniers, faced and shirred with satin. The sleeves are close-fitting, over which are drawn yellow kids.

FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., writes: "I never sold any medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction as Thomas' Eclectric Oil. In my own case it cured a badly ulcerated throat, and in threatened croup in my children it never failed to relieve."

Be of Good Cheer.

A man who acquires a habit of giving away to depression is on the road to ruin. When trouble comes upon him, instead of arousing his energies to combat it, he weakens and his faculties grow dull, and his judgment [illegible] ed, and he sinks in the slough of despair. And if anybody pulls him out by main force, and places him safe on solid ground, he stands there dejected and discouraged, and is pretty sure to waste the means of help that have been given him. How different it is with the man who takes a cheery view of life even at its worst, and faces every ill with unyielding pluck! He may be swept away by an overwhelming tide of misfortune, but he bravely struggles for the shore, and is ever ready to make the most of the help that may be given him. A cheerful, hopeful, courageous disposition is an invaluable trait of character, and should be assiduously cultivated.

SCIPIO, N. Y., Dec. 1, 1879.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of 6 of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them.

19w2 REV. E. R. WARREN.

An old lady, hearing that John Bright contemplated visiting this country, hoped that he wouldn't bring his "disease" with him.

A POWERFUL CONTRAST.

When the soldiers of the dark ages were attacked with tetter, they could do nought but suffer. Medical science had not yet developed a cure. This labor of love and humane duty was left for Dr. Swayne, whose ointment for skin diseases is as infallible in its results as was the inspiring potency of Patrick Henry's memorable words: "Give me liberty or give me death." 20w4

A fine thing to be President.

ONE of the most interesting insurance investigations ever heard of is now going on in St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. William Wackerle sued the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York for $4,000 insurance on her husband's life claiming he was killed on a railroad in Texas in 1872. The insurance company produced a man claiming to be Wackerle. A large amount of testimony was offered which was divided as to the identity of the man. Several witnesses who knew the woman's husband testified that the man produced was Wackerle. Among these was Wackerle's brother. The man claiming to be her husband took the stand Saturday and swore to incidents connected with their life, but on cross examination he could not tell how many children they had, where or when they were born, or how many of them were born, or how many were living or dead. He could not even tell the names of all of them. He failed to answer several questions satisfactorily, and it is believed he is an impostor. The case is undecided and excites a great amount of interest.

A BARTON HEPBURN, who received the nomination for congressman-at-large at the republican convention declines. His letter of declination is worth reading. It is addressed to John F. Smyth of the State Central Committee:

Having received no formal notice of my nomination for the office of congressman-at-large by the recent republican convention, I address this communication to you. It is quite apparent that owing to the unfortunate circumstances that have come to light since the adjournment of the convention, a very large portion of the republicans of the state are not disposed to accept its conclusions as the authoritative utterances of the party. Nothing should be left undone to secure the unity and harmony of the party, and I do not think it right to enter upon a canvass without an earnest effort in that direction. It seems to me that for the purpose of attaining such a result all questions should be submitted anew to the representatives of the party assembled for such a purpose; and in furtherance of that object, while fully appreciating the very high compliment paid me by the convention, and returning my sincere thanks for the same, I deem it my duty to acquaint you with my declination of said nomination.

Very respectfully yours,
A. P. HEPBURN.

WITH fear and trembling Judge Chas. J. Folger accepts the republican nomination for governor of the State. He snuffs public opinion afar off and in his letter of acceptance says:

"I have nought to say for myself. I make no plea for myself. If I am defeated, and it be disappointment, it will not be the first that has met me. If I am politically ruined, as is sympathisingly said to me, and it works sorrow, it will not be the first that has entered my soul and left its pangs there. Be the result what it may, I will not take the responsibility of breaking up the party and destroying the republicans of the state of New York. If it is to be defeated at the coming election it must be by the [illegible] of the republican voters. [illegible] go down bravely with the party [illegible] honored me and which I love, [illegible]

[illegible] Congressional [illegible] at Oswego [illegible] unanimously [illegible] County Judge Newton W. Nutting for Member of Congress on the first ballot.

Mr. Nutting was informed of his nomination and appeared before the convention and said:

"I have had ambitions, but never was ambitious to be a Member of Congress. A Member of Congress from a district like this should think well of his duties. The almost fairness has been exhibited between these counties in the election of members. I regret I am not better qualified to perform the duties. I am grateful for the honor. The Republican party is a party of principle, influence and character, made up from the best element of all other parties. It has preserved the country; it has met the issues of the country; it has been the party of progress; it has wiped out great evils. In 1860 we elected Abraham Lincoln—a great, a noble man, and he was the man for the occasion. He led us through our great tribulation and guided us to safety and peace. Slavery has been wiped out and has gone forever. It has grappled with other evils and conquered, and so long as it is true to itself it will succeed and give the country prosperity. We had a vast war debt. It has been vastly reduced. Now, gentlemen, in acceptance of this office I pledge myself to sustain the principles of the Republican party. I am the representative, if elected, of all the people of these two counties, and I ask you to see to it at the polls, that this nomination be ratified, and that you hold up my hands and encourage me in the exercise of my duties."

The Republican county committee for the ensuing year: C. R. Parkinson, chairman, Oswego; E. L. Huntington, Oswego; A. S. Gutherie, Hannibal; A. L. Sampson, Mexico; F. E. Mungor, Sandy Creek; Fred Bennett, Fulton; A. N. Beadle, Pulaski; N. S. Stowell, Orwell; G. M. Sweet, Phœnix.

BALM IN GILEAD.

There is a balm in Gilead to heal each gaping wound;
In Thomas' Eclectric Oil, the remedy is found.
For internal and outward use, you freely may apply it;
For all pain and inflammation you should not fail to try it.
It only costs a trifle, 'tis worth its weight in gold.
And by every dealer in the land this remedy is sold.

Real Estate Changes.

Following are the deeds recorded at the county clerk's office the past week of local import:

Nancy Marshall to George W. Bagley, land in Fulton. Sept 11, 1882, $250.

A BAPTIST MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE.

I am a baptist minister, and before I ever thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine but left a lucrative practice for my present profession, forty years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas Eclectric Oil cured me." I was also troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas Eclectric Oil cured me. My wife and child had diphtheria, cured them, and if taken in time will cure seven times out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowlege. It is the medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it for in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas Eclectric Oil. DR. E. F. CRANE, Corry, Pa.

Weedsport Chief—It is very queer that some people seem unable to comprehend that a newspaper is not responsible for the opinions or language of correspondents. Every newspaper prints many things that its editor does not approve. This is necessary and proper in order to give a fair reflection of current sentiment. Let people learn that the editor is responsible for nothing printed in his columns except matter which appears as editorial. If copied from other journals or written by correspondents, the editor is no more responsible for it than he is for the Koran. It may coincide with his views or it may not. The fact that it is printed in his paper is not to be taken as evidence either one way or the other.

A Tribute of Respect.

The remains of Major Albert Taylor, notice of whose death appeared in our columns two weeks ago, were laid at rest in Mt. Adnah cemetery by a detachment from Post Schenck, Grand Army of the Republic, who turned out to pay the last tribute to their old neighbor and former companion in arms.

Services were held at the residence of his son-in-law Mr. H. L. Taylor, conducted by Rev. Mr. Osborne, of the Free Methodist church of Oswego of which body deceased had been a communicant. The prayer by Rev. Mr. Riggs and remarks by Mr. Osborne were both simple, heart-felt and very affecting. Mr. N. H. Gilbert's quartett were in attendance and their selections were effectively rendered.

All the members of the family living near and his daughter, Mrs. D. E. Joselyn and family of Kansas, were in attendance. The casket was draped with the national flag and a sheaf of wheat and wreath of autumnal flowers rested upon it.

And thus another old and respected citizen—another of the Grand Army of the Republic was borne to his rest. It was meet that his former comrades should march beside his bier. And it is but just that the good he has done should be remembered and recorded to his honor. Upon the vast field of human action, in the great battle of life, the part we play, the deeds we do, "men little note nor long remember," when we ourselves have disappeared from the ranks.

But there was a time within the memory of many men when rebellion menaced the life of the Republic and her sons were called upon to defend her. Then when many hesitated—for the summons meant suffering, and slaughter, and death, brave and true men came to the front. Major Taylor was among them—among the very first to offer his services to his country. Be it ever remembered to his honor. Be it likewise remembered that he also brought, first and last, full three hundred men into the service and of the number no less than three were his own sons, one of whom sleeps among the unnamed and unknown upon the last bloody field of Manassas.

But there is that in deadly war, the shock of battle, the rush and roar and the riot of conflict, and worst of all, the scenes of wreck and suffering afterwards which either renders men in some sense callous, or it breaks down their endurance. It is a furnace in which some are tempered like steel and others broken. The young and elastic adapt themselves to the situation, the tender and those too old to change are shattered. After the fever has subsided, the excitement ended, the intoxication ceased, the stimulant been withdrawn, then comes the collapse of powers overstrained. So very many who came out of the war with life have been dying ever since by slow degrees. Major Taylor was one of these. Since he came out of the service he has never been quite the sturdy man he was before he entered it. Already in the autumn of life when he entered the service the chill of its winter was about him when he came out. The shadow of death fell upon him far in advance of the event, disability progressed to paralysis, and his mind passed by degrees into the twilight of total eclipse.

Yet only the day before his death at the command "Attention Battillion!" and the orders of the manual of arms, his face brightened into a smile and he seemed to listen as to a familiar sound heard dimly at a great distance.

That night he heard his name called by the Great Captain and Albert Taylor, the faithful citizen, the veteran soldier, was mustered out of service.

CHEESE MARKET.

UTICA, October 2, 1882—The market to-day has been a fine surprise, even to salesmen, who seldom get any thing on the upward turn which does surprise them. It was thought all thro' the early part of the afternoon that 11⅞c. would be the ruling price, but by six o'clock it became evident, from the numbers who had sold at 12c, that this was the figure fixed upon by purchasers. With the exception of a few cheese sold at 11⅞c the offerings were all Septembers. As a salesman happily remarked: "It's astonishing what a long month September is among the cheese makers." There is little to be said about the market except that it is a continual boom. Small cheese weighing from 33 to 50 pounds are coming to occupy quite a prominent place on the Utica market, and as they bring from ¼ to ½ cent above the rates for shipping cheese, their number is increased from year to year. From one-half to one-third of the sales reported to-day at 12¼ cents were of small cheese, altho' the highest price quoted is for some fine shipping cheese. Those quoted at private terms are partly full size and partly small cheese. Transactions for the day are as follows: 871 boxes, 10 lots at 11⅞c; 38 lots, 3634 boxes at 12c; 25 lots, 1620 boxes at 12¼c; 200 boxes at 12¾ cents, 9 lots, 1256 boxes at p. t—Sales 7581 boxes, commissions 1214 boxes, total 8795. Ruling price 12 cents. Transactions a year ago were 6649 boxes at 12½ to 13⅜c, the latter being the leading price. Two years ago prices were 12½ to 13½ c and three years ago 9¼ to 10¾c.

LITTLE FALLS, Oct. 2, 1882—The cheese sales are 11,000 boxes of factory make at 11¼ and 13 cents, and 300 boxes of farm dairy at 10½ and 13¼c. Butter—Sales are 100 packages at 28 and 30 cents.

Dr. Barringer is at the Lewis House. The Baldwinsville Gazette says:

"Dr. Barringer leaves for Fulton on Monday next, where he will remain during the month of October. The doctor has done an immense business in our place, making many wonderful cures. His patrons here can readily reach him at Fulton. He will return to Baldwinsville in a couple of months.

BOSTON THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening Leavitt's Gigantean Minstrels will give entertainments, offering the same programme on both occasions. All who love music and appreciate fun will want to be present at one or both. The organization has won the warmest appreciation of our amusement people, and is well worthy of it all.

[Boston Journal.

In the announcement in last week's TIMES regarding the return of Fred K. Jones to Fulton an error was made by us. We said he would not return to Fulton until December. Mr. Jones has already come among us and the latter part of this week a stock of musical instruments will be brought to Fulton. In next week's paper he will make his formal announcement as to location, future business etc.

A Class Formed.

Miss Isabelle Biggart has formed a class in the Union School and proves herself to be a master of the system she is giving instruction in. The class meets from 8 to 9:30 a. m., daily. The following testimonials are worth reading:

"To any parties desiring to secure the services of an excellent and thoroughly competent elocutionist, either to take position of teacher in some established school, or for a series of evening readings, we would highly recommend Miss Mabelle Biggart, of Fredonia, N. Y., who is well qualified to fill such a position in a well satisfied manner. Miss Biggart is a graduate of the National School of Oratory, of Philadelphia, and has many recommendations of a high order from those capable of judging. She has with a pleasing voice, clear enunciation and manner entirely natural and unaffected, and holds the closest attention of her audience. As Miss Biggart is also qualified to teach other branches, we would consider any school board fortunate in securing the benefit of her services."

[Teacher's Companion.

Mrs. J. W. Shoemaker, president of National School of Oratory says:

"I commend to your favor and consideration the bearer, Miss Mabelle Biggart. Miss Biggart has completed a course of instruction in this institution and gives evidence under continued study and practice of high success in her chosen profession. She unites a natural and attractive voice with versatility of style, and adapts herself to thought and occasion."

At Ney's news room may be found the Buffalo Express. The Express is a republican paper and bolts the nomination of Judge Folger for governor and is consequently in demand in Fulton.

Alonzo Howell of lower Oswego Falls purchased of Almon Bristol one of the finest Estey Parlor Organs ever brought to this section; it is valued at $400. The instrument was on exhibition at the fair.

C. P. Tucker & Son have on exhibition in front of their grocery thirteen potatoes that were grown in one hill that weigh seventeen pounds. They were grown upon the farm of Morris Scanlon in Granby and are of a variety known as the "Mammoth Pennsylvanians."

The comet can now be seen plainly in the east, between four and five o'clock in the morning. It is very brilliant and is large and handsome. The nucleus appears to be about three or four inches in diameter, while the tail appears to be fifty or sixty feet in length, and is curved like a sabre. The comet can be seen until a few minutes before the sun rises, and with the aid of a strong field glass it can be discerned just as the sun comes up over the horizon.

Mr. D. D. Eames, a well known farmer living near Ingell's Crossing was in Oswego Monday with a load of produce and was run away with. The Oswego Times says he was on the tow path on the East side near the Pardee malt house when his horse started to run, and Mr. Eames, who was in a high seated wagon, was dashed against the timbers of a low bridge and quite seriously injured. He was attended by Dr. Milne, who says he is quite badly injured and from the way he was doubled up under the bridge it is probable that his spine is injured. He was taken to his home on the afternoon Midland train.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

Statement of Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Greene County, New York.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining and permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended Favorite Remedy to others whom I knew to whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and I assure the public that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy' as I did."

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But, by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

Items from Texas Siftings.

"What is there remarkable about the flight of the Children of Israel from Egypt?" asked an Austin Sunday-school teacher of the biggest boy in the class.

"I have always thought it strange that the children of Israel did not take their parents along with them," remarked the boy pensively.

"How do you know that they did not take their parents with them?"

"The parents of Israel are never mentioned, only the children; and besides, it says when the children of Israel came to Sinai that it thundered, and they were very much frightened, and children are always scared at thunder when the old folks are not around."

Austin society has been thrown into a ferment of excitement by an incautious admission of Col. Lothario Howgate, one of the most influential citizens we have. He and Major Highflyer were coming home arm-in-arm late from an oyster supper. On approaching the residence of Col. Howgate, Col. Highflyer remarked:

"Your wife has closed the window, but she has got a light burning."

"Thatsh not the way she used to do before we wash married."

"How did she use to do before you were married?"

"She ushed to keep the window open, and put out the lights," replied Howgate, incoherently.

Highflyer told it as a good joke next day, but it had created intense excitement in fashionable circles.

The rapidity with which a Texas darkey can hide away a watermelon is wonderful, and the number of watermelons that he is able to absorb on the shortest notice, baffles the numeral system. Not long since, when watermelons were fashionable, an Austin gentleman bet a friend that a hired colored boy could eat a forty pound watermelon in four minutes. The boy was called and told the nature of the bet He asked permission to retire, which was granted. On his return, he announced his readiness to accomplish the eclipse of the melon in the given time.

"Why did you go away?"

"I went away, boss, jess to try ef I could make de trip. I'se been practicin' on two thirty-pound melons, and I kin put de forty-pound melon out'n sight wid a minute to spare," and he did it, but he was disappointed at not getting a steady contract for all day.

Almost every year some town is afflicted with the yellow fever. Not long since a fair was gotten up in Austin for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers at Brownsville. Everybody, regardless of social status, attended, and the consequence was that some ladies and gentlemen, who never afterwards recognized each other on the streets, became acquainted at the fair. Among others, Pinkeye Bill, who used to drive a street car, was introduced to the daughter of one of the most aristocratic families in Austin.

"I am glad it is the yellow fever they have got down in Brownsville," said Pinkeye Bill.

"Why are you glad the sufferers have got the yellow fever?" queried the young lady.

"Because if they had Asiatic cholera, I would not get into decent society but once every seventeen years."

Do a Kind Act When You Can.

No man can be ...
Though ...
He must ...
And pay for the work of his hands.
He'd fix no grand titles on any,
Except the grand title of man;
Then let your heart favor the many,
And do a kind act when you can.

We are children of one common mother;
We are fashioned of one common mould;
The poor man is as surely your brother
As the man who has millions of gold.
Then treat all alike the deserving—
The Saviour himself used this plan—
Whether served by your neighbor or serving
Always do a kind act when you can.

The poor have their trials and troubles,
And even the rich have their cares.
A good deed by either ennobles,
And the product humanity shares.
The world would be better and purer
If the demons of pride we could ban;
And the brotherhood's bond would be surer—
So do a kind act when you can.

Motive Power.

There is a man in Pittsburg, Pa., who thinks he has discovered perpetual motion, or if not that, something nearer to it than any one has ever achieved before. He is an iron manufacturer, it may be well to state, and dreams of the time when he can run his machinery without the cost of maintaining steam boilers and engines. He explained his plans to a reporter of the Commercial Gazette in the following strain: "I have discovered," he said, "no new power, but have simply conceived a method of harnessing the atmosphere. To carry out my idea I will build a mill of bricks. It will be circular in form, with double walls, and within these walls all the furnaces required will be built. Rising from the centre of the mill there will be a shaft strong enough to support a roof of the building, and that roof will furnish the power to operate the mill.

The roof will be made on the plan of a Venetian shutter. Of course it will be round, and the slats, each set at an angle will radiate from a hub, which in turn will be fastened to the shaft I have mentioned. The sides or rather outer edge of the roof will be a few inches above the top of the walls. The air rushing up through the building will turn the roof and with it the shaft, and the furnace in the walls will furnish a draft that will be enormous. I have figured it out and find that the machinery of an ordinary mill can be run and power to spare. You understand that all the machinery, rolls, hammers, squeezers and shears are geared to the bottom of the shaft. When the mill is not in operation the shaft is lowered until the roof rests on the walls, and that stops the motion. For ordinary stoppages the machinery can be detached from the shaft and it be allowed to continue revolving.

A LESSON IN EQUESTRINISM.

Horseback riding as an art and as a beneficial exercise is one of the most judicial habits that one could cultivate. While it affords the equestrian every opportunity for the cultivation of graceful posing, it comprising all the healthful elements of the most invigorating pleasures. Like all else in the world, however, if indulged in immoderately, the the results are extremely painful and oftimes dangerous. Galled limbs and piles that itch intently, particularly after getting warm into bed, are not frequently the outcome of excessive exercise in the saddle. In such cases, however, the evil can be thoroughly eradicated by applying Swayne's ointment, which, as a cure for piles—itching or otherwise, has no equal. 20t4

"Limited" Railroad Tickets.

A late decision of the Court of Appeals of New York is of considerable interest to travelers. A Mr. Auerbach, of New York, bought a coupon ticket to New York, the last coupon of which covered the distance between Buffalo and New York. The condition printed upon the ticket was, that the holder should use it on or before Sept. 26, 1877. It so happened that he made stops on the way, and on the afternoon of the 26th was at Rochester. He then took the Central & Hudson River Road for New York. Until midnight was fairly past the ticket was accepted and punched by the conductor, but before the morning of the 27th had fully dawned that official declared the ticket "spent," and from Hudson down to New York demanded fare in cash, Mr. Auerbach refused to pay, and the conductor, as conductors may when passengers without lawful excuse refuse to pay fare, put him of the train, to walk. He naturally sued for damages, claiming that if he began his journey before the end of the last day allowed him, he had the right to finish it, no matter though it might run into the day following. And the Court of Appeals sustained his claim.

A HEAVY SWELL.

Jacob H. Bloomer, of Virgille, N. Y., writes: "Your Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a very sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the Oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured."

... family ... One ... of the ... 'betto' ... whose place has been determined by usage to be near the head of the team. These fellows run like racers, and do away with the necessity of hitching-posts, and fastening gear; your "betto" is sure to be even with the team when the lines are slackened and the occupant ready to alight. It is seldom that a gentleman takes the lines when there are ladies in the vehicle. Generally the ladies drive without male companions, and many of them have developed considerable ability in handling the lines. The most inexpensive mode of locomotion for any one residing here is to join the jin-rikisha brigade. One of these comfortable establishments, with a gig-top attachment for protection against rain, can be purchased for about $35. A man can be hired for about $9 a month to be constantly on hand for propelling purposes, and he will travel about as far in a day as the average equine stock of the country. He requires no "betto" or grooming; take care of himself and the rikisha; comes in the morning and is at your command as long as needed. The jinrikisha is an indispensible affair wherever it is introduced, and there are many thousands of them in Japan.

WHAT THE DIRECTOR SAID.

A Boston reporter, while in the office of the New York and Boston Despatch Express Company, had a conversation with Mr. B. F. Larabee, one of the directors of the company, who gave the following personal experience: "a little over a year ago I was taken sick. I did not know what the trouble was, but I continued to grow worse, and my complaint baffled the skill of my doctors. At last my symptoms developed into that terrible complaint, Bright's disease, which has been pronounced incurable by all physicians. My sufferings at that time were unspeakable. I was bloated from head to foot, my heart pained me; my pulse was irregular, and I was unable to breathe except in short, convulsive gasps. While suffering thus I learned of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and although I had been given up to die by the prominent physicians of Boston, and they had told my friends I could not live a week, I resolved to try this remedy as a last resort. I am rejoiced to say it has effected a perfect cure in my case, and with many of my friends, who have been afflicted with kidney troubles, either of long standing or in their acute forms, and who, under my advice, have used this most wonderful remedy."

"Oh, dat! Vell! now I not sold any meat so. I all time weigh him; never measured meat, not yet. But I dinks 'bout three feet." (Here the spectators and his Honor and the jury smiled audibly.) "I know not shentlemens how is dis. I dell you all I can, so good as I know."

"Look here I want to know how long it was before the meat was taken away after it was put in the wagon?"

Season of mist and mellow fruitfulness!
Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun;
Conspiring with him how to load and bless
With fruit the vine that round the thatch-eaves run;
To bend with apples the moss cottage trees,
And fill all fruit with ripeness to the core;
To swell the gourd, and plump the hazel shells
With a sweet kernel, to set budding more,
And still more, later flowers for the bees,
Until they think warm days will never cease,
For summer has over-brimm'd their clammy cells.

Who has not seen thee oft amidst thy store?
Sometimes, whoever seeks abroad may find
Thee sitting careless on the granary floor,
Thy hair soft-lifted by the winnowing wind;
Or on a half-reaped furrow sound asleep,
Drowsed with the fume of poppies, while thy hook
Spares the next swath and all its twined flowers;
And sometimes like a gleaner thou dost keep
Steady thy laden head across a brook,
Or by a cider press, with patient look,
Thou watchest the last oozing, hours by hours.

Where are the songs of Spring? Ay, where are they?
Think not of them—thou hast thy music, too,
While barred clouds bloom the soft dying day,
And touch the stubble-plains with rosy hue;
Then a mournful cry the small gnats mourn
Among the river sallows, borne aloft,
Or sinking as the light wind lives or dies;
And full grown lambs loud bleat from hilly bourn:
Hedge crickets sing and now with treble soft,
The red breast whistles from a garden croft,
And gathering swallows twitter in the skies.

A Touching Incident.

When Mrs. Mary A. Livermore lectured at Albion, Mich., recently, at the close of the lecture, an elderly white haired woman approached her with the following inquiry:

"Do you remember writing a letter for John——, of the Twelfth Michigan Volunteers when he lay dying in the Everton hospital at Memphis, during the spring of 1863, and of completing the letter to his wife and mother after he had died?"

Mrs. Livermore replied that she had written so many letters during the war under similar circumstances that she could not recall any particular case.

The woman drew a note from her pocket, that had been worn into pieces in the folds of the note, which was then stitched together with fine sewing cotton.

"Do you remember this letter?" she asked.

Mrs. Livermore recognized her penmanship and admitted her authorship of the letter. The first four pages were written to his wife and mother at the dictation of the young soldier, who had been shot through the lungs, and was dying of his wound. Then she had completed the letter by the addition of three pages written by herself, beside the dead husband and son, in which she sought to comfort the lonely and bereaved relatives.

"I think my daughter-in-law and I would have died when we heard that John was dead, but for this letter," said the worn and weary woman. "It comforted us both; and by-and-by when we heard of other women similarly afflicted, we sent them the letter to read, till it was worn to pieces. Then we sewed the pieces together, and made copies of the letter which we sent to those of our acquaintances whom the war bereft.

"But Annie, my son's wife, never got over John's death. She kept about and worked and went to church, but the life had gone out of her. Eight years ago she died of gastric fever. One day, a little before her death she said: 'Mother, if you ever find Mrs. Livermore, or hear of her, I wish you would give her my wedding ring, which has never been off my finger since John put it there, and which will not be taken off till I am dead. Tell her to wear it for John's sake and mine, and tell her that this was my dying request.' I live eight miles from here," continued the woman, "and when I read in the papers that you was to lecture here tonight, I decided to drive over and give you the ring, if you will accept it."

Deeply affected by this touching narrative, not a particular of which she was able to recall, Mrs. Livermore extended her hand, and the widowed and childless woman put the ring on her [illegible] with a fervently entered benediction.—[Youth's Companion.

ARTHUR AT ALEXANDRIA BAY,

HE AND HIS GUIDE WRESTLING WITH THE FINNY TRIBE.

Eschewing Both Newspapers and Politics and Occupying Himself Chiefly in Eating, Fishing, and Being Photographed.

At breakfast last Saturday President Arthur talked about fishing. He spoke of his feat of catching a muscalonge, but not with especial pride, as he said that the method adopted here with a stout cord and two or three men at its end made it a feat of main strength rather than of skill. His eyes glistened as he spoke of Mr. Plumb's experiences in Hay Bay in Canada, but without intimating either a wish to go there or a regret at not being able to do so. He breakfasted on bass that he caught the day before. His scrumptuous colored valet is said to be authority for the statement that the Executive was displeased with Beecher's attack on Folger. If this is so, it is the first idea of the President's views or opinions that has leaked out in the hotel. He seems to be as far removed from news of what is going on throughout the land as he is from the news centres themselves. He has no callers of note and but few of any sort. He gets no daily papers, and an employee of the hotel tells me that although his mail, through which he is doubtless kept well informed, is quite heavy, he uses the telegram very little. When he is approached upon political topics he positively declines to say a word. His valet is quite out of his element, and says that the President must be in Boston on the 11th and will go by way of New York.

Although it was 11 o'clock when the President boarded the steamer Minnie, he succeeded in obtaining the best sport he has yet had. The wind had at last sheered from the north around to the southwest, and the guides directed Capt. Wescott to go to a comparatively neglected district off Grindstone Island, 11 miles from here. They were there in a little over an hour, and the President and Bill Comstock took their handsome carpet-lined skiff into one of the bays, into whose water the President, seated in the upper half of a cushioned armchair, flung his line first. He got a bite, and a very fine bass in the first five minutes. Very soon he caught another, and then Bill Comstock had a short run of luck. The two fished all about the neighborhood, and did their best work. Soon afterward the wind freshened, the sky became overcast, and the surface of the river was tumbled by little wavelets. The President and Comstock went to dinner on the island with a mess of twenty fish. The President had announced that he did not want any fish for dinner, and the guides, who knew that the morning sun had found the earth whitened by heavy frost, and that the ducks would begin to be plentiful, had resolved to give him a treat of broiled duck. One of the steamer hands succeeded in bagging a duck. They had brought three kinds of meat from the hotel.

The cove at the head of which the regular camping ground was located is as beautiful as a fairyland. A flat table of rock forms the bed of the tiny bay, and thick clumps of moss carpet the earth to the water's edge, beneath a picturesque grove of cedar, pine and birch. The fireplace between four little walls of boulders, the bed of wood ashes within it, the two slender poles, so placed that one end of each is in the moss, while the other is over the fireplace, and the rude frame for a table near by, indicated how often similar parties had been there in the past. The rivermen with their axes soon supplied formidable heaps of dry branches, chopped to fit the fireplace. As the blue smoke rose above the leafy roof they peeled the potatoes, cleaned and split the duck and the partridge they had brought, and set the table with its modicum of cheap dishes and glasses, canned fruit, bread, butter muskmelon, cream, claret, champagne, pie, cake, pickles and sauce. The potatatoes went into an iron kettle that had hung upon one of the wood cranes until its tin lid had danced. In a black tin pot coffee, mixed in a paste of raw eggs, was cooking, and in a fryingpan fresh pork was frying noisily and sending up a pungent odor that drove away the balsamic perfume of the woods.

It was upon this scene that the President came, and to which he was followed by the local photographer, McIntyre, who is as enterprising as an English cracksman. He says he is the only artist in the world who has ever gotten a camera within four feet of a live hen partridge, and caught a picture of her on her nest. He shows that, and some photographs of the nests of kingfishers and other birds, to obtain which he had to climb trees, although he is lame, and had to tie his instrument to one limb while he mounted another and arranged it. He has a camera yacht with which he pursues the President like a man after a consulship. The Chief magistrate submitted with the resignation of a man in the hands of a barber. He gave some fine sittings, and then hurried away to fish in the dusk. He caught only one or two [illegible] and had one or two aggravating [illegible]

Verbal Errors to be Guarded Against.

The following examples of the most common errors in the use of words are taken from "The Vocalist" by Mr. Alfred Ayres:

Accord for give; as "the information was accorded him."

Aggravate for irritate; aggravate is to make worse.

Allude to for refer or mention.

As for that; not as I know, for not that I know.

Avocation for vocation; a man's vocation is his business; avocations are things that occupy him incidentally.

Balance for rest or remainder.

Character for reputation; one may have a good reputation but a bad character, and the two words should never be confounded.

Dangerous when in danger; a sick man is most absurdly said to be dangerous, when it is only meant that the poor fellow is himself in danger—a very different thing.

Demean for debase, disgrace or humble. To demean one's self whether well or ill.

Dirt for earth or loam.

Donate for give.

Execute for hang, as applied to a criminal. It is the sentence, not the man that is executed.

Healthy, for wholesome, an onion plant may be healthy; but when you pick an onion there is no more unhealthiness to that although it may or may not be wholesome as an article of food.

Illy, for ill.

Inaugurate, for begin.

Kids, for kid gloves.

Learn, for teach.

Liable, for likely or apt.

Loan, for lend.

Pants, for pantaloons, or (better still) trousers.

Partake, for eat.

Plenty as an adjective, where plentiful is meant.

Real, for very; as "real nice," "real pretty."

Reside, for live; residence, for house.

Retire, for go to bed.

Seldom, or ever, for seldom, if ever, or seldom or never.

Some, for somewhat; "she is some better to-day."

Stop, for stay; "where are you stopping?" This is one of the vilest of witicisms.

Summons (the noun,) for summons (the verb.)

Those kind of apples for that kind.

Transpire, for occur.

Vulgar, for immodest or indecent.

Without, for unless.

Wouldn't Be Caught.

The editor of the Texas Siftings recently took a trip across the State, and to judge by the following incident he had a lively time:

"Stopping at a water-hole I dismounted," he says, "and handed the doctor a cup of water. In returning the cup he let it fall on the ground, starting my pony and causing him to run about fifty yards.

"As he stopped and began to graze I paid no attention to him, expecting, after attending to the demands of my thirsty throat, to walk up to him and mount.

"He let me walk to within five paces of his head. He had no objection to my walk. The fact is, and I regret to bear witness to it, he rather seemed to enjoy seeing me walk.

"Just as I was about to reach out to catch the bridle he walked off. Then I began to run. So did he. He evidently enjoyed this acceleration of speed on my part, even more than he had previously enjoyed my walking gait. He ran a short distance with his head down, apparently chuckling to himself at my discomfiture; then throwing his heels up in the air, he cantered around in a circle, neighing in a derisive manner.

"When I stopped he would stop, and wait until I almost caught up to him. He was always on the alert, however, and stood with his tail elevated ready to go off at the slightest increase of speed in my movements.

"What added to the interest of the entertainment was that when the vile mustang started, the coffee-pot and other loose articles of virtue attached to the saddle kept flopping around, increasing his hilarity and causing him to perform gratuitous antics that no one would have ever thought the brute capable of performing.

"The result was that from the moment he started to run he began shedding my portable property, loose articles first, then the contents of my saddle-bags one article at a time, leaving a train of tinware and notions to mark his erratic course.

"This necessitating following in his tracks, that I might pick up my scattered belongings. Here a tooth-brush and there a bar of soap; over yonder a towel hanging a withered cactus, and the coffee-pot with the handle broken [illegible] the lid gone, jammed along the thorny [illegible] further on my note-book in a puddle of water, and the photograph of somebody with golden hair [illegible]

At Set Of Sun.

If we sit down at set of sun
And count the things that we have done,
And counting find
One self denying act, one word,
That eased the heart of him who heard;
One glance most kind,
That fell like sunshine where it went—
Then we may count that day well spent.

But if through all the live-long day
We've eased no heart by yea or nay;
If through it all
We've done no thing that we could trace
That brought the sunshine to a face,
No act, most small,
That helped some soul, and nothing cost,
Then count that day as worse than lost.

"The wonder catholicon known as Mrs Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound has given the lady a world-wide reputation for doing good. It is like a living spring to the vital [illegible] blood purifier will do more to cleanse the channels of the circulation and purify the life of the body than all the sanitary devices of the Board of Health.

Fashion Notes.

English turban hats are all the rage this autumn. They are very handsome and stylish.

Black brocaded velvet and plush will be the favorite trimming and material to be used in combination with dresses of black silk this season.

Children's wraps for winter are still to be made in Mother Hubbard style, but the fulness will be held in block pleats rather than shirring, and the puff will be omitted from the shoulder.

New handkerchiefs are shown with colored borders, either mottled, dotted striped or in solid color. Ladies of conventive taste who always prefer a white handkerchiefs will find initial handkerchiefs at low prices in fine goods, owing to the popular preference for color.

Oriental lace continues to be the favorite lace of the hour. It is shown in raised patterns called pompadour lace and in flat designs. Immense quantities of this creamy embroidery not will be used on evening dresses this winter which will also be profusely ornamented with garniture of flowers.

Sailors hats will be worn this fall, trimmed with a ribbon as deep as the crown, drawn tightly around it, and then tied up with a bow at one side. A wreath of poppys or corn flowers, or a mixture of both, is frequently added with good effect. The dyed straws matched to the toilet, are easily found as they come in nearly every color in this jaunty shape.

Early importations in early dress fabrics show light, but beautifully woven and finished stuffs in plain colors, or in silk and wool in heather mixtures, often with lines of gold and silver croppinr out here and there with wonderfully artistic and brightening effect. These lighter goods very much resemble the more weighty tweeds and cheviots which, through the past year, have reached such a height of popularity.

Immense quantities of velvet have been imported in black and in stylish cloth colors, in garnet in six different shades, ranging from a dark wine color to a bright ruby color, in blue in six shades, ranging from navy blue to pale sky blue, and including electric blue, peacock blue and shades of sapphire. Myrtle green is a favorite color for velvet suits, and jaspar, the blue green shades of the jaspar stone, is another stylish color. Caster, seal brown, prune olive and royal purple are also fashionable shades. An excellent model for a velvet dress is made with a foundation or skirt of silk, covered with velvet half way up, and finished at the edge of the skirt by a ruffle of velvet faced with silk, shirred in the centre and caught in shells. The drapery is very simple, being quite high at the sides, and the coat basque is fitted with exquisite care and finished with handsome buttons of medium size for street wear, colored velvet suits will be fashionable. Some handsome dresses will be of short napped plush, which is now imported in exquisitely fine, close quality for solid costumes. An excellent quality of velvet with a linen back may be bought for $3.50 to $4.00 a yard in 24 inch goods, and in 20 inch goods at $6 a yard.

Along the Docks—[illegible]gy—The Salvation Army—Floating Bethel—Street Scenes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9, 1882.

[From an occasional correspondent]

South street is a long, irregular street extending from the Battery along the East River nearly to Grand street. This street is mostly given up to shipping naval stores and warehouses. I had occasion recently to traverse the whole street. While enroute I saw sights that might be be of interest to some of the Fulton folks:

South street on Sunday presents an altogether different appearance than on other days. Everything is comparatively quiet and most of the stores are closed. In the shadow of the great bridge I found a well dressed, white haired gentleman standing on a truck distributing coffee and sandwiches to an expectant crowd among whom were many debauched men and women. The wagon contained the coffee making apparatus, baskets of sandwiches, a small organ and an improvised pulpit. As soon as the inner man was satisfied, the good Samaritan proceeded to feed the spiritual being.

Further up the street the Germans were playing at foot ball, stopping only when a "cop" came in sight. At the first sectional dock a division of the Salvation Army were working among a motley crowd of urchins, sailors, tramps and stragglers. The captain was preaching from the top of a hogshead, while the privates drawn up in line, sang the songs, and by their martial appearance preserved good order. All along the wharf the dock rats and sailors were lounging and fishing; while in the slips the peaceful canaler is seen, dressed in his best.

A short distance from Peck Slip the floating Bethel is tied up. This snug Episcopal church is built in the characteristic style and the interior is finished in solid, comfortable and attractive manner. Services were held twice on Sunday and all assemble at the tolling of the bell. The sailors who attend this church are usually the better class and are as a rule Christians.

Above the Bethel, the street begins to show more life, for right here the saloons are more numerous and Sunday is always their biggest day. Around here you can see "tired" tramps and sailors stored away asleep in out of the way places. A policeman occasionally stirs one up and away he goes grumbling to find the soft side of some other plank. At the junction of South and Montgomery streets everything changes, for here it is as noisy as our great factory at Fulton. I had to pick my way along the street, for the sidewalks were crowded with dirty babys, half grown children, and slovenly women. Boys are flying kites in the middle of the street and yelling as only a New York boy can. Mostly all the people in this part are foreigners and they do not pay much attention to the Sabbath. Street fights here are a common occurrence and they often result seriously, as many of our daily papers will testify.

All the cross streets are more quiet than the avenues and after I crossed Ave "A" the people began to be more civilized. Sunday quiet is again restored and is maintained until I am lost in the whirl of Broadway. More anon, from

WANDERING JEW.

Cleveland's Acceptance.

Grover Cleveland's letter of acceptance was given to the press yesterday. It is so voluminous that we are able to produce only that portion of interest to people of this section, viz. corporations. militia and the canals:

CORPORATIONS.

The law lately passed for the purpose of adjusting the relations between the people and corporations should be executed in good faith with the honest design to effectuate its objects and with due regard for the interests involved. The laboring classes constitute the main part of our population. They should be protected in their efforts peaceably to assert their rights when endangered by aggregated capital and all statutes on this subject should recognize the care of the state for honest toil and be framed with a view to improving the condition of the workingmen.

THE MILITIA.

We have so lately had a demonstration of the value of our citizen soldiery in the time of peril that it seems to me that no argument is necessary to prove that it should be maintained in a state of efficiency so that its usefulness shall not be impaired.

CANALS.

Certain amendments to the constitution of our state involving the management of our canals are to be passed upon at the coming election. This subject affects divers interests, and, of course, gives rise to opposite opinions. It is in the hands of the sovereign people for final settlement and as the question is thus removed from State legislation, any statement of my opinion in regard to it at this time would, I think, be out of place. I am confident that the people will intelligently examine the merits of the subject and to determine where the preponderance of interest lies.

Talmage on Politics.

Sunday evening at his church in Brooklyn, Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage delivered a sermon on corruption in politics. He struck right and left and caused considerable excitement by his plain talk. Among other things he said:

"The condition of the state and national politics is appalling. I speak without allegiance to any political party. I have all the time kept myself purposely aloof from partizan organizations, that I might independently discuss every moral question pertaining to them. The political parties thirty years ago were slain because of their corruptions. But why should we go back when the blackest year of American politics was the year between October 1881 and October 1882? Look at the Yorktown celebration. To the great majority of public men it was a drunken carousal. The celebration was conducted by politicians, and they besmirched the occasion. I take it as an illustration of the degradation of American politics. Look at the Garfield funeral, a carousal reaching from Washington to Cleveland and back. At a time when the nation was sick with grief there were public men who guzzled and swilled and drank and caroused. The city of Cleveland, as beautiful and moral a city as we have, never before had so much drunkenness. I arraign this appalling indecency as a specimen of the degradation of American politics.

People ask me whether I am a republican or a democrat. I tell them one and all, 'Thank God I am neither!'

THE CHEESE MARKET.

[From the Utica Herald.]

UTICA, Oct. 9—A surprise of a different kind overtook the board of trade to-day, in the indifference of buyers and their decision to pay no more for cheese than they paid a week ago. Several salesmen took themselves off without selling, others will send forward only moderate shipments, so that the aggregate of to-day's transactions is by no means what it would be if prices had been higher. In fact, the market was dull throughout. The cheese sold to-day takes the make down to September 16 to 20. Most of our factories are off to the middle of the month or beyond, and the feeling is that "the backbone of September is broken," but there is still hope that the market will improve, although buyers claim that the home trade cares no more for September stock than for any other. The sales of the day are as follows: 4,920 boxes, 54 lots, at 12c.; ten lots, 685 boxes at 12¼c.; and 8 lots, 800 boxes, small cheese, at p. t. Sales, 6,255 boxes; commissions, 685; total. 7,040 boxes. Ruling price, 12c.

LITTLE FALLS—The goods offered to-day were September make almost without exception, and being of very fine quality, salesmen were reluctant to part with them. Many thought they should receive 12⅛c., and positively refused to sell unless they received it; as a consequence sales were light and the market ruled dull and tame. Some buyers who usually buy largely took small amounts. Cheese for the home trade as a rule commanded best rates, though considerable stock for shipment brought the highest prices quoted. Dairymen can not see why with the light production, better prices do not prevail. The average date to which factories in this section have sold, not including to-day's sales, is about September 8, certainly not later than the 10th. The transactions for the day are:

A PROFESSIONAL CONFESSION.

The Unusual Experience of a Prominent Man Made Public.

The following article from the Democrat and Chronicle, of Rochester, N. Y., is of so striking a nature, and emanates from so reliable a source, that it is herewith published entire. In addition to the valuable matter it contains, it will be found exceedingly interesting.

To the Editor of the Democrat and Chronicle:

SIR:—My motives for the publication of the most unusual statements which follow are, first gratitude for the fact that I have been saved from a most horrible death, and, secondly, a desire to warn all who read this statement some of the most deceptive influences by which they have ever been surrounded. It is a fact that to-day thousands of people are within a foot of the grave and they do not know it. To tell how I was caught away from just this position and to warn others against nearing it, are my objects in this communication.

On the first day of June 1881, I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for my death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words can never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous, any one would have told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease, I should have scoffed at the idea. I had weighed over two hundred pounds and hardly knew, in my own expeience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize that at times that they are unusally tired and cannot account for it. They feel dull and indefinite pains in various parts of the body and do not understand it. Or they are exceedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malady which had fastened itself upon me first began. Still I thought it was nothing; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Shortly after this I noticed a dull and at times a neuralgic pain in my head, but as it would come one day and be gone the next, I paid but little attention to it. However, my stomach was out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing at times great inconvenience. Yet I had no idea even as a physician, that these things meant any thing serious, or that a monstrous disease was becoming fixed upon me. Candidly, I thought I was suffering from Malaria and so I doctored myself accordingly. But I got no better. I next noticed a peculiar color and oder about the fluids I was passing—also that there were large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a presistent froth and scum appeared upon the surface, and a sediment settled in the bottom. And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indeed, seeing these symptoms continually, I finally became accustom to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that I had no pain in the affected organs or in their vicinity. Why I should have been so blind I cannot understand.

There is a terrible future for all physicial neglect, and impending danger always brings a person to his senses even though it may then be to late. I realized, at last, my critical condition and aroused myself to overcome it. And, Oh! how hard I tried! I consulted the best medical skill in the land. I visited all the prominent mineral springs in America, and traveled from Maine to California. Still I grew worse. No two agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irritation; another, nervous prostration; another, malaria; another, dyspepsia; another, heart disease; another, general debility; another, congestion of the base of the brain; and so on through a long list of common diseases, the symptoms of all of which I really had. In this way several years passed during all of which time I was steadily gaowing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The slight symytoms I at first experienced were delvoped into terrible and constant disorders—the little twigs of pain had grown to oaks of agony. My weight had been reduced from 207 to 130 pounds. My life was a torture to myself and friends. I could retain no food upon my stomach, and lived wholly by injections. I was a living mass of pain. My pulse was uncontrolable. In my agony I frequently fell upon the floor, convulsively clutched the carpet and prayed for death. Mophine had little or no effect in deadening the pain. For six days and nights I had the death-premonitory hiccoughs constantly. My urine was filled with tube casts and albumen. I was struggling with Bright's disease of the kidneys in its last stages.

While suffering thus I received a call from my pastor, the Rev Dr Foote, rector of St Paul's church, of this city. I felt that it was our last interview, but in the course of conversation he mentioned a remedy of which I had heard much but had never used. Dr Foote detailed to me the many remarkable cures which had come under his observation, by means of this remedy, and urged me to try it. As a practicing physician and a graduate of the schools, I cherished the predudjice both natural and common with all regular practioners, and derided the idea of any medicine outside the regular channels being the least beneficial. So solicitous, however, was Dr. Foote, that I finally promised I would waive my prejedice and try the remedy he so highly recommended. I began its use on the first day of June and took it according to directions. At first it sickened me; but this I thought was a good sign for me in my debilitated condition. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better as also did my wife and friends. My hiccoughs ceased and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before was my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity. I also determined that I would give a course of lectures in the Corinthian Academy of Music of this city, stating in full the symptoms and almost hopelessness of my disease and the remarkable means by which I have been saved. My improvement was constant from that time and in less than three months I had gained [illegible] pounds in flesh, became entirely free from pain and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I used.

Since my recovery I have thoroughly reinvestigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths developed are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately, and as a physician, that I believe that more than one-half the deaths which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive symptoms of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever in the kidneys or their vicinity,) but has the symptoms of nearly every other known complaint. Hundreds of people die daily, whose burials are authorized by a physician's certificate of "heart disease," "apoplexy," "paralysis" "spinal," "complaint," "rheumatism," "pneumonia," and other common complaints' when in reality it was Bright's disease of the kidneys. Few physicians, and fewer people, realize the extent of this disease or its dangerous and insidious nature. It steals into the system like a thief, manifests its presence by the commonest symptoms, and fastens itself upon the constitution before the victim is aware. It is nearly as hereditary as consumption, quite as common and fully as fatal. Entire families, inheriting it from their ancestors, have died, and yet none of the number knew or realized the mysterious power which was removing them. Instead of common symptoms it often shows none whatever, but brings death suddenly, and as such is usually supposed to be heart disease. As one who has suffered, and knows by bitter experience what he says, I implore every one who reads these words not to neglect the slightest symptoms of kidney difficulty. Certain anony and possible death will be the sure result of such neglect, and no one affeord to hazard such chances.

I am aware that such an unqualified statement as this, coming from me, known as I am throughout the entire land as a practitioner and lecturer, will arouse the surprise and possible animosity of the medical profession and astonish all with whom I am acquainted, but I make the foregoing statements based upon facts which I am prepared and truths which I can substantiate to the letter. The welfare of those who may possibly be suffers such as I was, is an ample inducement, for me to take the step I have, and if I can successfully warn others from the dangerous path in which I once walked, I am willing to endure all the professional and personal consequences. J. B. HENION, M. D.

Vitalization.

All Diseases and Deformities cured by removing the cause. Dr. J. A. Barringer, the Physician and Surgeon, will be at the Lewis House, Fulton, Monday, Oct. 2d and remain the rest of the month. The doctor has practiced many years in Lyons, Weedsport, Wolcott, Seneca Falls Cortland, Norwich, and neighboring towns, and refers to the thousands cured of every known disease and deformity. He will examine all free, and will treat no one except a cure is certain. The doctor cures by Vitilization, an entirely new method, discovered by him. All diseases are easily cured by his treatment. The doctor cures Consumption, Catarrh, Asthma, Club Feet, Scrofula, Bright's Disease, Spinal Disease, Crooked Limbs, Tumors, Female Diseases, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Blindness, Deafness, rheumatism Fever Sores, Neuralgia Fits. Call for a list of hundreds of wonderful cures—all made in this vicinity. None who are afflicted should give up hope, as the treatment cures where everything else has failed. Mrs. Willard Patterson has nearly recovered from her recent sickness. She is at the residence of her parents in Phoenix for a few days.

Married, at the residence of Joseph Moss in Volney, Oct. 5th, by Rev. George Foster, Joseph Calkins of Palermo and Mrs. Susanna H. Moss of Volney.

THE TIMES was the recipient Saturday of a bountiful supply of choice grapes of the Isabelle variety from uncle Norman Shepard. They were delicious and well ripened.

Next Monday, Oct. 16, will be the middle of the term at Falley Seminary. The school is doing nicely and those who wish to attend school will find this an excellent time to enter.

Canal freights are looking up a little. We trust boatmen will be fortunate enough to get two or three rousing freights before the canals close. It has not been a prosperous season for them.

Leavitt's Gigantean Minstrel Troupe played to a crowded house last Thursday evening. It was the poorest entertainment given here in many years. The banjo artists were the best features of the evening. The singing was bad.

"Sandy" Giroux stole noiselessly into THE TIMES office Monday and deposited a sample of the products of his garden. Concord and Rogers No. 9, two thrifty and palatable varieties of grapes, and a huge stalk of celery comprised the generous donation. "Sandy" is a successful agriculturist.

Men who advertise in their home papers are the men who do the business of the town, every time. You can pick up any newspaper, and in five minutes tell who the men are who do the buying and selling and keep alive the interests of the place. A newspaper invariably reflects the worth, enterprise and intelligence of the community in which it is published.

Rosenbloom's show windows presented a fine appearance Saturday evening and were the main attraction of the street. The fine exhibition and tasty arrangement of gents' furnishing goods caught the eye of every one. The huge stock in the window is only a sample of the immense variety to be found inside. The piles of overcoats, and other clothing that line their counters are worth inspection. Read their new advertisement.

Cards have been issued announcing the approaching nuptials of Mary E. Highriter to Edward F. Jacobs of Boston. The ceremony will be performed in the Baptist church in this village on Tuesday the 17th inst. by Rev. L. Golden. They will leave on the evening train the same day for Boston, which city will be their future home. The lady has a legion of friends who will regret her departure and the social and musical circles of Fulton will lose a valuable member.

Thursday afternoon Miss Dora C. Crosby was married at the residence of her grandfather Mr. Joel Crosby in Granby, to Mr. Frank Cable of Brainard, Minn., formerly a resident of Fulton. The ceremony was gracefully performed at 4 p. m. by Rev. J. S. Riggs of the Presbyterian church in the presence of a few of the relatives and near friends. The bride was tastefully arrayed in a wine colored silk. The parlors were profusely decorated and floral offerings were magnificent. The happy couple received many beautiful gifts, a check for a handsome sum being presented to the bride from her grandfather. Mr. and Mrs. Cable will take up their residence in Syracuse.

The immense proportions Hare's cider factory and fruit evaporater have assumed is unknown to a majority of the residents of this vicinity. The buildings are located under the brow of the huge sand hill at the junction of Seventh and Harrison streets. A new fruit evaporator is in operation and twelve women and girls are employed in paring and slicing. About ninety bushels of apples are prepared for the market each day and shipments are of frequent occurrence. In the cider mill everything is booming. A Schenck power cider press and grinder converts the apples into amber juice and long rows of clean barrels stand ready to receive it. A peep into the store room [illegible]

SENT HOME TO REFORM.

There's Many a Slip 'Twixt Cup and Lip—John Johnson's Bridal Trip.

Josephine Baldwin, aged 27, daughter of Calvin Baldwin of Volney, was to be married last Wednesday to a young man named Johnson of Albion, Michigan. Miss Baldwin was visiting a sister in that city a few years ago and became acquainted with him and as far as she knew he was a respectable and temperate gentleman. An animated correspondence has been in progress during the past four years and Wednesday last was fixed for the wedding at the residence of the lady.

Tuesday evening Johnson arrived in Fulton and proceeded to Rowlee's livery stable where a conveyance was employed to take him to Miss Baldwin's. He was a little boozy and when he arrived at the house of his affianced a scene ensued. While extending to him a loving welcome his condition was revealed and Miss Baldwin administered a stern rebuke and sorrowfully withdrew.

Mr. Baldwin took him and administered some fatherly advice. He remained there over night and in the morning was carried to the D. L. & W. depot and bid return to Michigan and reform. Miss Baldwin refused to wed him or even entertain him saying with a knowledge of the fact she would not wed herself to a man addicted to strong drink.

Thursday morning Miss Baldwin, accompanied by her mother left for Albion, Mich., where they will spend a few weeks with friends.

At the First District Greenback Assembly Convention, held in Fulton Saturday, Ovid V. Taft of Volney, was nominated for Member by acclamation; and the Second District Convention held at Central Square the same day nominated Dr. J. B. Todd.

A petition from many republican electors of Oswego and Volney was presented Hon. D. C. Littlejohn urging him to allow the use of his name for Member of Assembly from this district this fall. Mr. Littlejohn makes a reply that evidences with age he loses none of his far-sightedness. He closes as follows:

> If a majority of the delegates in the District convention about to convene, believing it to be the wish of the citizens of the district, shall tender me the nomination, I will accept, it being understood that I shall neither make personal effort or exert personal influence to secure such a result.
> If nominated and elected I shall serve my constituents with the same zeal and fidelity in the future as I am conscious of having done in the past.
> Very Respectfully Yours,

I. H. Brounstein of the old Yates clothing house was found by a reporter in his booth to the south of the central aisle of the main building. Being permitted to examine his stock, we found it composed of the best foreign and domestic goods, made up in the latest metropolitan styles. There is nothing gaudy about the display made by Mr Brounstein, but all the goods are of genuine texture, cut in the most approved style, and made up in the best manner. They are merely samples of the stock kept in the store. None of these are made up for this fair. Mr Brounstein has been [illegible] the city [illegible] A. C. [illegible]

George Jones is a young married man aged about eighteen. He has been in the employ of Jno. H. Case during the summer and became acquainted with that gentleman's manner of doing business. He left Mr. Case's employ about a month ago and on Friday evening, Sept. 29, appeared at the "Bee Hive" with a check on the Citizens' National bank for $125.00, containing Jno. H. Case's signature, saying that gentleman wished it cashed. Mr. Bennett said they would be unable to accommodate him, as the day following would be pay day and they were in need of the cash on hand to make change. Jones left and later returned, and this time encountered M. A. Stewart. Jones said Mr. Case must have the money; to give him what cash they could conveniently and the balance in a check. He was given $50.00 in cash and a check for $75.00. Another check for $75 was cashed at the mill of W G Gage & Co, the same day, Jno Case's name being forged as before. Jones also borrowed $10 of R E Phillips on Mr Case's credit. No concern was manifested by any of the above victimized gentlemen as they were not aware that Jones had left the employ of Mr Case. He also went to Oswego and induced Robert Gordon, jr to accompany him to the First National Bank to identify him and procured the cash on the $75 check given him at the "Bee Hive."

The first intimation that a forgery had been committed was when the "Bee Hive" presented the check at the Citizen's National Bank for payment. The teller, Mr Kellogg, had no sooner got it in his possession than he pronounced it a forgery. Jones' friends made good everything and destroyed the forged checks. He was heard from in Oswego, and his father went after him.

Young Jones returned home and is now in town. Out of consideration for his friends no legal proceedings have been or will be instituted.

Canal freights are looking up a little. We trust boatmen will be fortunate enough to get two or three rousing freights before the canals close. It has not been a prosperous season for them.

Leavitt's Gigantean Minstrel Troupe played to a crowded house last Thursday evening. It was the poorest entertainment given here in many years. The banjo artists were the best features of the evening. The singing was bad.

"Sandy" Giroux stole noiselessly into THE TIMES office Monday and deposited a sample of the products of his garden. Concord and Rogers No. 9, two thrifty and palatable varieties of grapes, and a huge stalk of celery comprised the generous donation. "Sandy" is a successful agriculturist.

Men who advertise in their home papers are the men who do the business of the town, every time. You can pick up any newspaper, and in five minutes tell who the men are who do the buying and selling and keep alive the interests of the place. A newspaper invariably reflects the worth, enterprise and intelligence of the community in which it is published.

Rosenbloom's show windows presented a fine appearance Saturday evening and were the main attraction of the street. The fine exhibition and tasty arrangement of gents' furnishing goods caught the eye of every one. The huge stock in the window is only a sample of the immense variety to be found inside. The piles of overcoats, and other clothing that line their counters are worth inspection. Read their new advertisement.

Cards have been issued announcing the approaching nuptials of Mary E. Highriter to Edward F. Jacobs of Boston. The ceremony will be performed in the Baptist church in this village on Tuesday the 17th inst. by Rev. L. Golden. They will leave on the evening train the same day for Boston, which city will be their future home. The lady has a legion of friends who will regret her departure and the social and musical circles of Fulton will lose a valuable member.

Thursday afternoon Miss Dora C. Crosby was married at the residence of her grandfather Mr. Joel Crosby in Granby, to Mr. Frank Cable of Brainard, Minn., formerly a resident of Fulton. The ceremony was gracefully performed at 4 p. m. by Rev. J. S. Riggs of the Presbyterian church in the presence of a few of the relatives and near friends. The bride was tastefully arrayed in a wine colored silk. The parlors were profusely decorated and floral offerings were magnificent. The happy couple received many beautiful gifts, a check for a handsome sum being presented to the bride from her grandfather. Mr. and Mrs. Cable will take up their residence in Syracuse.

The immense proportions Hare's cider factory and fruit evaporater have assumed is unknown to a majority of the residents of this vicinity. The buildings are located under the brow of the huge sand hill at the junction of Seventh and Harrison streets. A new fruit evaporator is in operation and twelve women and girls are employed in paring and slicing. About ninety bushels of apples are prepared for the market each day and shipments are of frequent occurrence. In the cider mill everything is booming. A Schenck power cider press and grinder converts the apples into amber juice and long rows of clean barrels stand ready to receive it. [illegible]

SENT HOME TO REFORM.

There's Many a Slip 'Twixt Cup and Lip—John Johnson's Bridal Trip.

Josephine Baldwin, aged 27, daughter of Calvin Baldwin of Volney, was to be married last Wednesday to a young man named Johnson of Albion, Michigan. Miss Baldwin was visiting a sister in that city a few years ago and became acquainted with him and as far as she knew he was a respectable and temperate gentleman. An animated correspondence has been in progress during the past four years and Wednesday last was fixed for the wedding at the residence of the lady.

Tuesday evening Johnson arrived in Fulton and proceeded to Rowlee's livery stable where a conveyance was employed to take him to Miss Baldwin's. He was a little boozy and when he arrived at the home of his affianced a scene ensued. While extending to him a loving welcome his condition was revealed and Miss Baldwin administered a stern rebuke and sorrowfully withdrew.

Mr. Baldwin took him and administered some fatherly advice. He remained there over night and in the morning was carried to the D. L. & W. depot and bid return to Michigan and reform. Miss Baldwin refused to wed him or even entertain him saying with a knowledge of the fact she would not wed herself to a man addicted to strong drink.

Thursday morning Miss Baldwin, accompanied by her mother left for Albion, Mich., where they will spend a few weeks with friends.

Charles N. Bulger was nominated for recorder by the Democrats in Oswego Monday.

A. B. Getty was renominated for recorder by the republicans in Oswego yesterday.

The democratic congressional convention will meet in Oneida next Tuesday and nominate a candidate for representative from this district.

At the First District Greenback Assembly Convention, held in Fulton Saturday, Ovid V. Taft of Volney, was nominated for Member by acclamation; and the Second District Convention held at Central Square the same day nominated Dr. J. B. Todd.

A petition from many republican electors of Oswego and Volney was presented Hon. D. C. Littlejohn urging him to allow the use of his name for Member of Assembly from this district this fall. Mr. Littlejohn makes a reply that evidences with age he loses none of his farsightedness. He closes as follows:

> If a majority of the delegates in the District convention about to convene, believing it to be the wish of the citizens of the district, shall tender me the nomination, I will accept, it being understood that I shall neither make personal effort or exert personal influence to secure such a result.
> If nominated and elected I shall serve my constituents with the same zeal and fidelity in the future as I am conscious of having done in the past.
>
> Very Respectfully Yours,
> D. C. LITTLEJOHN.

Invitations are being issued announcing the marriage of Miss Bertha Ney, daughter of Willis Ney, and Mr. Herbert B. Rose, a popular young man, and bookkeeper for Mr. A. Bristol. The ceremony will be performed at the residence of Willis Ney on Cayuga street, Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. A. U. Hutchins, of the Universalist church. The affair will be select the relatives and a few intimate friends receiving invitations. THE TIMES wishes them abundant prosperity and a long and pleasant life.

Credit Where Credit is Due.

I. H. Brounstein of the old Yates clothing house was found by a reporter in his booth to the south of the central aisle of the main building. Being permitted to examine his stock, we found it composed of the best foreign and domestic goods, made up in the latest metropolitan styles. There is nothing gaudy about the display made by Mr Brounstein, but all the goods are of genuine texture, cut in the most approved style, and made up in the best manner. They are merely samples of the stock kept in the store. None of them are made up for the fair. [illegible] A. C. [illegible]

George Jones is a young married man aged about eighteen. He had been in the employ of Jno. H. Case during the summer and became acquainted with that gentleman's manner of doing business. He left Mr. Case's employ about a month ago and on Friday evening, Sept. 29, appeared at the "Bee Hive" with a check on the Citizens' National bank for $125.00, containing Jno. H. Case's signature, saying that gentleman wished it cashed. Mr. Bennett said they would be unable to accommodate him, as the day following would be pay day and they were in need of the cash on hand to make change. Jones left and later returned, and this time encountered M. A. Stewart. Jones said Mr. Case must have the money; to give him what cash they could conveniently and the balance in a check. He was given $50.00 in cash and a check for $75.00. Another check for $75 was cashed at the mill of W G Gage & Co, the same day, Jno Case's name being forged as before. Jones also borrowed $10 of R E Phillips on Mr Case's credit. No concern was manifested by any of the above victimized gentlemen as they were not aware that Jones had left the employ of Mr Case. He also went to Oswego and induced Robert Gordon, jr to accompany him to the First National Bank to identify him and procured the cash on the $75 check given him at the "Bee Hive."

The first intimation that a forgery had been committed was when the "Bee Hive" presented the check at the Citizen's National Bank for payment. The teller, Mr Kellogg, had no sooner got it in his possession than he pronounced it a forgery. Jones' friends made good everything and destroyed the forged checks. He was heard from in Oswego, and his father went after him.

Young Jones returned home and is now in town. Out of consideration for his friends no legal proceedings have been or will be instituted.

An Interesting … Case …

Statement of Mr. Washington Monroe, of Catskill, Greene County, New York.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended Favorite Remedy to others whom I knew to whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and I assure the public that the 'Favorite Remedy' has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the 'Favorite Remedy' as I did."

A PIECE OF …

The Horse Reporter Entertains a Nice Girl, Who Boldly Visits the Sanctum.

"Do they edit in here?"

The several occupants of the room looked around and discovered a young lady standing in the doorway. She nodded slightly to the horse reporter, and that individual returned the salutation with a placid mile-and-a-half-over-eight-hurdles smile, whose grandeur of expanse would alone have made it noticeable.

"You are right this time madame," he said. "This is the exact spot where the seething brain of the trained journalist proceeds to bubble and the lances of thought that pierce with unerring aim the brazen helmets of wrong are ever held in couchant poise by strong arms ready to launch them forth at the slightest signal of danger."

"Papa doesn't know I am up here," said the vision of loveliness, "but mamma does. The very minute I told her that I was going to see an editor she said it was the best thing to do, but when I got right to the door I just thought I should die."

"You don't appear to be in danger of immediate dissolution," remarked the horse reporter.

"Oh, of course I don't mean exactly that," said the young lady, "but I was awfully nervous, you know—I always was that way—and when I was a little girl papa used to say that the only way to govern me was by kindness."

"Well, we'll be gentle with you," replied the personal friend of Rarus. "Would you like to read the Hawkinsville Clarion or the Cohoes Freeman?" pointing to a pile of exchanges.

"No, I don't care about it thank you," was the reply. "You editors must have a hard time managing all the people who come up here."

"There is a managing editor for that purpose," said the horse reporter.

"How nice! And do all these gentlemen edit?"

"Yes."

"I'm going to be married next week," said the young lady. "Ain't it funny?"

"Quite ludicrous, no doubt," was the reply.

"And I came up here," she continued, "to see if you would but a nice notice of the affair in the paper. Will you do it?"

"Certainly," said the horse reporter. "Would you like to have it referred to as 'another one of those delightful events in which the happiness of a trusting love finds glad fruition in wedded bliss,' or 'the marriage bells rang out merrily last evening, telling to the star-lit skies a joyful tale of love's final triumph?' Both those sentences are kept in type and you can have your choice."

"I rather think the last one best," said the young lady. "It's more tenderly beautiful. Don't you think so?"

"Yes," replied the horse reporter, "there is a sort of curfew-will-not-ring-to-night tinge to it that lays over the other one."

"Well, then, I will take that. And will an editor be around to write it up?"

"Certainly."

"I will send you a piece of the wedding cake," continued the young lady.

"Do," said the horse reporter. "There is a dog up my way that needs killing."

A Shark Caught by a Clam.

Among the discoveries recently made in the great Dead Sea of the West were some gigantic oyster shells more than six feet long, each pair of which once contained an animal that the average boy could not lift. To-day the only really large shell-fish is of the clam family. It is named tridaena gigas, a contemporary tells us, is found in the Pacific Ocean, the length of his life being 60 or 70 years. It grows embedded in the coral, and is fastened to the rocks by a cord called byssus, which is so tough that it can be cut only with an ax. The shells themselves are six feet long, each valve weighing more than 250 pounds, while the animal part often weighs thirty or forty pounds. When alive the tridenia lies with its great valves ajar, capturing any food that may pass within its scolloped edges. A shark was once caught in this way. Swimming along in search of food, he unwaridly passed in the door of the great clam's house, his tail rudely striking the animal. Like a flash the tremendous jaws snapped together seizing the man-eater as if he were in a vice, and rendering him utterly powerless. As the tide went down the shark's head appeared above the water, dashing about and churning the sea. The hubbub attracted the attention of some natives, who captured both shark and clam.

A Tough Man.

Frank James, the brother of Jesse, and almost his equal as a notorious outlaw, surrendered at Jefferson City, Saturday, to the governor of Missouri. When he surrendered he handed the governor his pistols, saying he was the only man except himself who had touched them for twenty years. Many prominent citizens were at the hotel when James was in custody Saturday seeking the "honor" of sha king hands with him. Various opinions are advanced to account for this act, some say that, deserted by his old companions, James was discouraged at the unequal fight and obtained the best possible terms of capitulation. Others think it was brought about by a policy in keeping with that by which the governor secured relief from the anxiety which Jesse James caused him. Still others are of the opinion that the popular sympathy with James has induced the governor to offer terms by which, after going through the forms of surrender, the surviving outlaw has become a law abiding citizen.

INCREASE AND DECREASE.

The census shows that the proportion of voters to the population is 1 to 5 74-100. The proportion of person troubled with kidney and liver disorders has been alarmingly increasing, but since that almost universal use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure these diseases are ripidly diminishing.

A Cow in Clover.

Quite a funny incident occurred at the barn of Cyrus Strong on Commercial avenue a short time ago. The barn is used by Mr. Bronson, the groceryman, for stabling his horse. Adjoining the barn is a yard, with a high fence around it, in which Mr. Strong keeps a fine, large Durham cow. The barn doors open out into the yard but are generally kept closed, in order to prevent the cow from entering the barn and monopolizing the horse stalls. On this afternoon Mr. Bronson's hired man had occasion to go to the barn, and forgot to close the doors leading to the cow yard. When it came time for milking the cow, she was nowhere to be found. The barn was searched and the city scoured, but all to no avail; the strayed or stolen animal kept out of sight. It was concluded that some one had entered the barn and stolen the cow, as nothing went to show that she had escaped. The fence was all right and there was no way for her to get out, only with the aid of some person or persons. The search was given up in despair, when a noise up-stairs in the barn attracted attention. Upon going up in the hay loft there lay the blooded giver of lacteal fluid, eating hay as contentedly as could be. She had entered the barn and climbed the stairs to the hay loft. Ropes were secured, and after some trouble the animal was landed on the first floor of the barn, safe and sound, with a very full stomach. [Binghamton Leader.

A close observer remarks that he has interrogated many hundred of the inmates of police stations, and found as a rule they answer "No," when asked "Have you a trade?" A trade does not necessarily shield men from crime, but it is one of the safeguards. Idleness begets crime; and but few men with good trades have enforced idleness upon their hands. As a rule, even rich men should teach their sons either a trade or a profession. Every man should have something to drop back upon in adversity. Men of sense and wisdom have sent their sons to the country to learn behind the plow the noble and honest business of a farmer. [Chicago Inter-Ocean.

CURE

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that

95 per Cent.

of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon the great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of impostors, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good. For Diabetes, ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO'S IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)

The Old Time Way.

BY GEORGE O. BEADON.

Behold the preacher!—hear his fervid tones
Proclaiming loud the terrors of the law
To yielding hearers, who with tears and groans
And whitened lips show forth their solemn awe;
Or yet another, who, didactic, blue,
Has foreordained the most of us to woe,
In spite of all that we can say and do,
In spite of all that we can think and know.

'Tis said, that worthy men would often preach
To seventeenthly in the hottest year,
While lynx-eyed deacons waraingly would reach
With sticks and things to make the drowsy hear.
Methinks the children of those good old days,
Who sat erect and calmly listened through,
There in the high-backed pews, as in a maize,
Born better seats in heaven than I or you.

The straight-laced preached and the straight-laced flock,
May have put Calvin in the place of God,
But great their faith, and firm as any rock,
In the grim theologic ground they trod,
They knew no railroad to the happy shore,
With palace cars and softly cushioned chairs,
But trudged old Christian's narrow footpath o'er,
Beset with demons, pits and snares.

What though they knew not all that we know well
And taught the strictest letter of the Word,
And dogmatized concerning sin and hell,
And made their hearers quake with what they heard?
Are our lives better? How does deacon Brown,
Of this fast age of changing faiths, compare
With ancient Deacon Smith whose Sunday frown,
Severe reproving fairly chilled the air?

Perhaps the latest modern railroad plan
For reaching heaven will not improve the chance
Of getting there at last with any man,
Or any grace of piety enhance;
Perhaps—but why pursue the puzzling theme,
When every nearest duty may be known,
And duties come in an unceasing stream,
And only present moments are our own?

However far, however near the place
For one and all, the way thereto is plain,
And, taking a supply of gospel grace,
Less of compelling law may prove a gain,
And may not some prophetic gaze descry
New shrines and temples there, where thought and deed
Unite the faithful in a closer tie,
Around a simpler but sufficient creed?

Old but Good.

"Father, who travels the road so late?"
"Hush, my child, 'tis the candidate;
Fit example of human woe—
Early he comes and late he goes.
He greets the women with courtly grace,
He kisses the baby's dirty face,
He calls to the fence the farmer at work,
He bores the merchant, he bores the clerk—
The blacksmith, while his anvil rings
He greets, and this is the song he sings.

"Howdy, howdy, howdy-do?
How is your wife, and how are you?
Ah! it fits my fist as no other can.
The horny hand of the working man."

UNCLE CARL'S HEIRESS.

"And you'll be careful of the money, Carl, and lay it in a warm nest?" said the old man—old Carl Van Webber, who, lying upon his death-bed, has just made his will in favor of his nephew and namesake. "You will not run riot with it I know. I've scraped and saved all my life for it. I never was extravagant. When I came to America a poor boy, fatherless and motherless, I had just $10, and I went to work with that capital. In the warm weather I made lemonade. I didn't make it too sour, nor put too much sugar in it either, and sold it at the corners, and in the winter I started a coffee stand, and I put by a little and a little, and a little more—and at last I had a shop with a counter, at which people sat and drunk tea or chocolate or coffee and ate cakes. And then a regular restaurant and after that a fine place—a very fine place indeed—and there I made my fortune. But I've always been saving, always. And you won't waste the poor old man's money, eh, Carl?"

"I hope you will recover, uncle," said Carl, from his heart; "but I thank you for meaning so well to me, and I will do my best."

"Yes, yes," said the old man, "but I can't recover, and we must talk now. You will take the money and do the best, and, Carl, this is what I have set my heart on—you will marry Eliza Patch? She's a fine girl, and I know what Patch will leave her. Not being pretty don't matter; an excellent economical person—well, a little older than you, but, bless us, what is that? Yes—you'll offer yourself to Eliza Patch and my word for it she'll not say no; and then"—

"Uncle Carl," said the young man, "don't mislead yourself. I cannot allow yourself to do it. It would not be fair or honest. I shall never offer myself to Miss Eliza Patch, for I do not love her."

"Romantic nonsense!" said the old man. "Love—bah!—I am an old bachelor myself, but I don't suppose that after the first year or two men ever are in love with their wives, and pretty women make as ugly old ones as the ugly girls. Patch is my very good friend. We've talked the matter over. You'll marry Eliza. I know—at least, I hope—you are not entangled anywhere?"

"I am not engaged as yet," said Carl, slowly; "and my vanity may mislead me into thinking I am liked; but I have offered attentions not to be misunderstood to a young lady whom I love very much, and shall offer myself to her."

"[illegible]" said the uncle sharply. [illegible]

"She is a governess, and earns enough to dress herself, no more."

"Carl," said the old man, I have made you my heir. I demand a little obedience. Leave this girl and offer yourself to Eliza."

"Uncle," replied the young man, "I have been obedient. Now I must refuse to obey. Love cannot be coerced, and, if it could, an honorable man could not lead a girl on to believe he loved her, and then cooly back out without giving her a chance to say no."

"I dislike to hear nonsense," said the old man. "Let those absurdities pass. You will marry Eliza Patch, or you will not. If you refuse, I shall alter my will. I shall leave you penniless, and, as the business will no longer be carried on, without a situation. Take your choice. Go away now; return to me in half an hour, and tell me what it is. You know I am a man of my word, Carl, and I talked the thing over with Patch; he expects it, and I'll put up with no nonsense. I've a little grand-niece somewhere. I'll leave it all to her—all, Carl—unless you marry Eliza."

Carl said nothing. He left the room, and sat alone in the parlor below, until his uncle's bell summoned him. He thought over his altered prospects the while, and looked matters bravely in the face.

Of course he could not marry Eliza Patch. Of course he would, whenever he could, marry his little sweetheart, if she would have him; but now it was possible he would have to wait a long time. Carl was not so young that it seemed so easy to wait, either. He was a man of eight-and-twenty.

The interview with his uncle was a brief one; but it was decisive. It ended by the lawyer being sent for, and the will altered.

"I must leave my money to one of my own blood," said the old man. "I've only one other relative. My sister Pauline married a Mr. Garth, and had one daughter. The daughter married and died, leaving a little girl. She's grown up now. I forgot her mother's married name, but you'll find it in some of those old letters. Everything to her! and make haste that I may sign it."

Old Carl Van Webber lived just long enough to put her name to the bottom of the great sheet of paper which made young Carl a poor man and enriched the unknown grandniece, and then passed away, his wrath quite unappeased, his dying hand withheld from that of his nephew.

The lawyer, knowing the story, privately thought Carl an idiot. He might at least, have forborne to contradict his uncle.

The funeral was over. All was done that could be done to show respect to the old man's memory. Carl, who had only fifty dollars in the world, bestirred himself to find a bookkeeper's place, and in a little while found one. The salary was small; but on consideration he decided it was enough for two, and one evening, walking with Letty West in the moon-lit park, he told her so.

"I hoped to be a rich man when I first knew and loved you, Letty," he said, "and perhaps I am not right to ask you to share a poor man's lot. If you dread it, say so, Letty."

But the little hands were clasped over his arm more closely, and in a few moments he knew that Letty dreaded nothing if he but loved her well.

The two were married, and when Carl Van Webber looked at his fair young wife there was no lingering thoughts of Eliza Patch, and the wealth they had lost, in his mind. There were no more luxuries for him, it is true. No riding and driving, no wines and costly cigars—none of the idling to which, as the rich uncle's heir he had been used. And there was hard work and close economy; but what did it matter? They were so happy.

But when a man earns only enough for the week's expenses week by week, he stands on the brink of a precipice. One day young Van Webber in hurrying across the upper floor of his place of business, slipped and fell through the hatchway. He was seriously injured, and a long confinement to his bed was certain. His employers behaved, liberally. They gave him a month's wages and promised him his post again when he recovered. But his illness was not over in a month, and doctors' bills are expensive things, and at last the time came when poverty stared the two married lovers in the face, and only the little needlework Letty could do beside her husband's bedside kept them from starvation.

"Ah, Carl" said the young wife one morning, as she brought the sick man the tea and dry toast, which were all she had to give him, "don't you wish you had forgotten poor me, and married Miss Eliza Patch? You would have been rich then. I have brought all this upon you."

"It is your share of the trouble that troubles me," said Carl. "Letty, love, don't you wish you had said "No?" But he knew she did not as she took his poor, thin hand and put it to her lips and kissed it. At that moment—

"Van Webber!" shouted a voice without.

"It's the postman, Carl," said Letty. "But who can have written us? I thought everyone had forgotten us."

She ran into the passage and came back with a large letter, sealed with red wax, in her hand.

"What can it be, dear?" she said. "It looks so strange, it frightens me!"

Then she opened it. As Carl looked at her he saw her turn first white and then red, and then the tears came into her eyes and she gave a cry and flew toward him.

"Carl, dear," I used to read fairy tales when I was a child. They were no stranger than this. Can you bear good news, dear? Our troubles are all over. I am the heiress, and whose do you [illegible] had an uncle who was rich, but I did not think he ever thought of me. And my mother died when I was a baby, Carl, so we never talked about him.

"But think they have been hunting for me all this while, in all sorts of places, and—and—Oh, do you understand, Carl? We are rich! It is just as well for you as if you had chosen Miss Patch."

It was stranger than a fairy tale, Carl indeed thought, when he found that his little Letty was indeed his Uncle Carl's heiress. His joy was unbounded, and he gave himself up to the impulse of the moment. It is true a shade crossed his features for a moment, to think he had been forgotten; but it passed away instantly.

Fashion Notes.

Woven Jerseys are introduced for small girls.

Scarlet jackets are worn in London on the promenade.

The Mother Hubbard cloak is still retained for children.

Colors will be used more as the season advances, for girls.

Flowers are banished from millinery, and feathers of every kind are to be worn.

New silver bracelets are made in exact imitation of the handcuffs worn by criminals.

Shrimp pink, strawberry red and electricity blue velvet bows are worn at the neck with linen collars.

Girls dresses will continue to be made in the quaint picturesque styles seen during the summer.

Arabi or Turkey red will be made into odd little jackets, to be worn by children one year old and upward.

The new plaid suits are made in plaited skirts, with the bias scarf paniers if the skirt is of straight goods, and straight if the skirt is bias.

Chenille is the most popular lining for silk cloaks and handsome brocaded wraps. Heavy fringes and long ruches of chenille are imported for this purpose.

Dark woolen dresses will be worn by girls two years of age and more, while white dresses are confined to smaller girls, and even these have some dark dresses in their outfits.

Black silk stockinet Jerseys are very stylishly worn with skirts of black velvet, and broad sash drapery to cover the joining over the hips made of moire or black surah, fringed on the ends.

The fancy for bright red will be carried out in the cashmere guimpe dresses, in cloth for pleated walking coats, in Mother Hubbard wraps, and, it is said, in gay velvet suits for boys and girls.

Velvet and felt are the materials settled upon for ladies' bonnets, and the importations continue to be made up of small bonnets for dress, medium large pokes for those to whom they are becoming, and very large round hands.

Toques, caps or turbans, made of velvet felt, will be worn with cloth dresses. The brims are covered with gathered velvet, and the crowns with the head, breast and tail feathers of a bird of colors kindred to that of the velvet.
